Hill's Evergreens in Mission Tubs

Ready for Delivery Now

Prices include tubs, F. O. B Dundee, Ill., where we ship by American Express and C. & N. W. R. R.

Measurements as given are the height of the tree from the top of the box to the top of the tree in its natural position. Where formal effect is desired nothing is more satisfactory than these specimens. They are unexcelled for veranda or lawns and very appropriate and effective for inside decoration.

All are long lived and will withstand frost and cold. Prices include careful crating to insure them from any injury during transit.

You Can't Afford, with the present times, to pay fancy prices, or get stock half ruined when it reaches you.

We will positively sell you roses for less money, and deliver them in better condition than usual. Not a speck of disease in foliage or flower, but good, clean, well grown roses can be had here at four, five or six cents each.

WHY PAY MORE?

Don't Be in a Hurry to place your order for grafted roses.

We are importing 250,000 Manetti from the best English growers, and will be in position to make some most interesting prices.

Ophelia, d'Arenberg, Sunburst, Shawyer, all the Killarneys, Ward, Maryland, etc.

Write us when you decide on your planting and let us quote you.

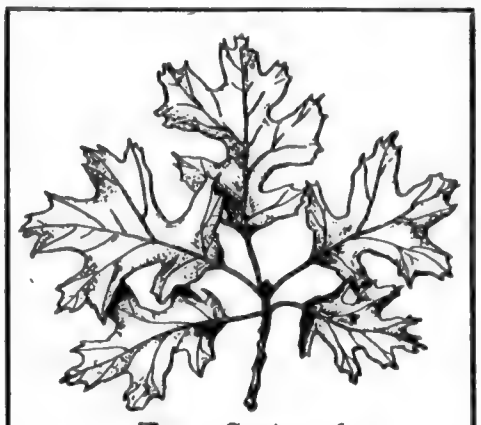
American Prepared Oak Sprays

Cherry Red—Golden Brown—Tan—Natural Green

Natural Preserved Everlasting

Lycopodium (Bouquet Green)



Something new that lends itself readily to the ingenuity of the up-to-date Florist for making Wreaths, Roping, Garlands, etc. It is a light green color and is unexcelled for Basket work as a substitute for Sea Moss.

AMERICAN Prepared Oak Sprays are the most popular material to be had. The Oak this year is more heavily foliaged than ever before, and we have also improved the colors.

AMERICAN Beech Sprays. Prepared in the same colors as the oak.

Magnolia Leaves. Full size cartons containing 1000 leaves. Red, Green, Brown and Purple. (Our Purple Mags. are making a hit with the florists.)

Parisian Ferns. For wreaths and designs.

Try a Carton of AMERICAN OAK SHRUBS

Wholesale Price List of

Christmas Evergreens

—FROM—

F. B. WOOLEY

152 Dock Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Leading Wholesale Evergreen Dealer in Philadelphia

The success, satisfaction and consequent demand for Christmas Greens of my pack has been so pronounced since I entered the field in a jobbing way several years ago, that I concluded to publish this advertisement for the information and assistance of the Leading Florists and Dealers, and it is submitted herewith primarily with the hope, of course, of securing your future business. A trial order will convince you.

HOLLY

For several years I had been buying my holly from dealers or packers in Delaware and Maryland. People cut and pack holly just before Christmas and bring it to the station to sell, and in order to get a car load at any one station, I was often compelled to buy from sometimes a dozen different people. Some of them cut it in short sprigs and have good, bright holly, while others cut long branches, poor holly and very few berries. This was very unsatisfactory to me, so a few years ago I decided to buy the trees as they stood in the woods, cut and pack it myself, or at least have my own men do so, and in this manner I cut only what suits me, and grade it to suit my trade. I have secured for this season some of the finest swamp holly trees there are to be found in the State of Delaware. I cut sixteen (16) car loads last season and it was impossible to fill my late orders satisfactorily. However, I did the best I could, and only had one party return a few cases as unsatisfactory. I expect to cut at least twenty-five (25) car loads this season. The weather has been favorable and there is plenty of good holly, and it is well berried. Kindly let me have your orders early. I will have it cut and packed as usual, in regular size cases, 2x2x4, and I positively guarantee it as represented in every particular. My first car will arrive in Philadelphia on Tuesday, December 1st, and the price same as before, on all orders received during November, $3.00 per case F. O. B. Philadelphia. I cannot guarantee the price on orders received after December 1st.

I will continue to pack, as I have done in the past, my GILT-EDGE BRAND. This holly is specially selected, short stemmed, dark green, and full of berries. Guaranteed extra fancy; price, $4.00 per case.

HOLLY WREATHS

I have my wreaths made of the brightest dark green holly possible to secure. They are wrapped with wire on 10-inch hoops, each wreath having 4 or five clusters of bright red holly berries firmly fastened on them. I use nothing but the holly berries in trimming, as they do not turn black and fall off like the dog berries that several makers use because they are a little cheaper. My hoops are strong and well made, so as to stand handling. I make three grades, priced according to weight and quality, $10.00, $12.50 and $15.00 per hundred. Cases contain 100, 125, 150 wreaths. Large cases, 200 and 250; but we can pack you any quantity you may want from one dozen to one thousand.

We sometimes have BOXWOOD WREATHS made the same as holly wreaths, and sell them from $10.00 to $12.50 per hundred.

MISTLETOE

Our mistletoe mostly comes from North and South Carolina and lower part of Virginia, and is well berried and pretty, and sells according to quality. We ship in hampers, barrels and cases. Price in hampers, $1.00 to $1.50 each; in bbls., from $4.00 to $5.00; and in cases, weighing about 100 pounds, $10.00 to $15.00 each. I will do my best for you in selecting and shipping any of the above packages.

LYCOPODIUM

The ground pine or Lycopodium sells by the pound or in the wreathing of 10 and 25-yard rolls. The Loose, 12½c per pound, and the Wreathing according to weight and quality, 6c to 10c per yard.

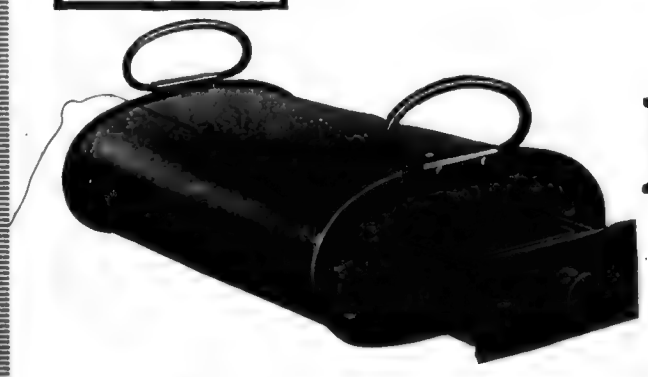
LAUREL WREATHING

My Laurel Wreathing comes from the Jersey swamps. The very dark swamp laurel is used and hand-made on heavy roping in 50 and 100-yard lengths. Price, 3c and 3½c per yard.

TISSUE WREATHING

Paper festooning or wreathing in 10-yard rolls. Red, white and green colors, 10c per roll. Very nice and clean for inside decorating. Green color mostly used.

CHRISTMAS TREES



We use the Maine and Vermont Fine Balsam trees. We have them from 5 to 25 feet high and sell them from 50c to $3.00 each according to size and quality. We also have a small spruce or nursery table tree, 18 to 36 inches high, that sell from 25c to 40c each. Not less than 10 trees shipped to any one address.

SOUTHERN WILD SMILAX, $4.00 to $5.00 per case. NEEDLE PINES, according to size, from $8.00 to $12.00 per hundred. Also Palm leaves, Magnolia leaves, Galax leaves, Southern green and gray moss. Prices according to quantity and quality.

TERMS: All Christmas greens are sold on spot cash terms and your check must positively accompany your order. State the day you want it shipped and if by express or freight, and name route if possible. In reference to my responsibility ask Dun's or Bradstreet's, or write the Sixth National Bank or Mutual Trust Co., of our city. I have been in business on Dock street since 1891 and my reputation is beyond reproach, hence I ask you not to confound my goods with the shoddy stock that finds its way each season to the large cities on consignment. My goods are strictly first-class and I guarantee satisfaction.

The Economical Way

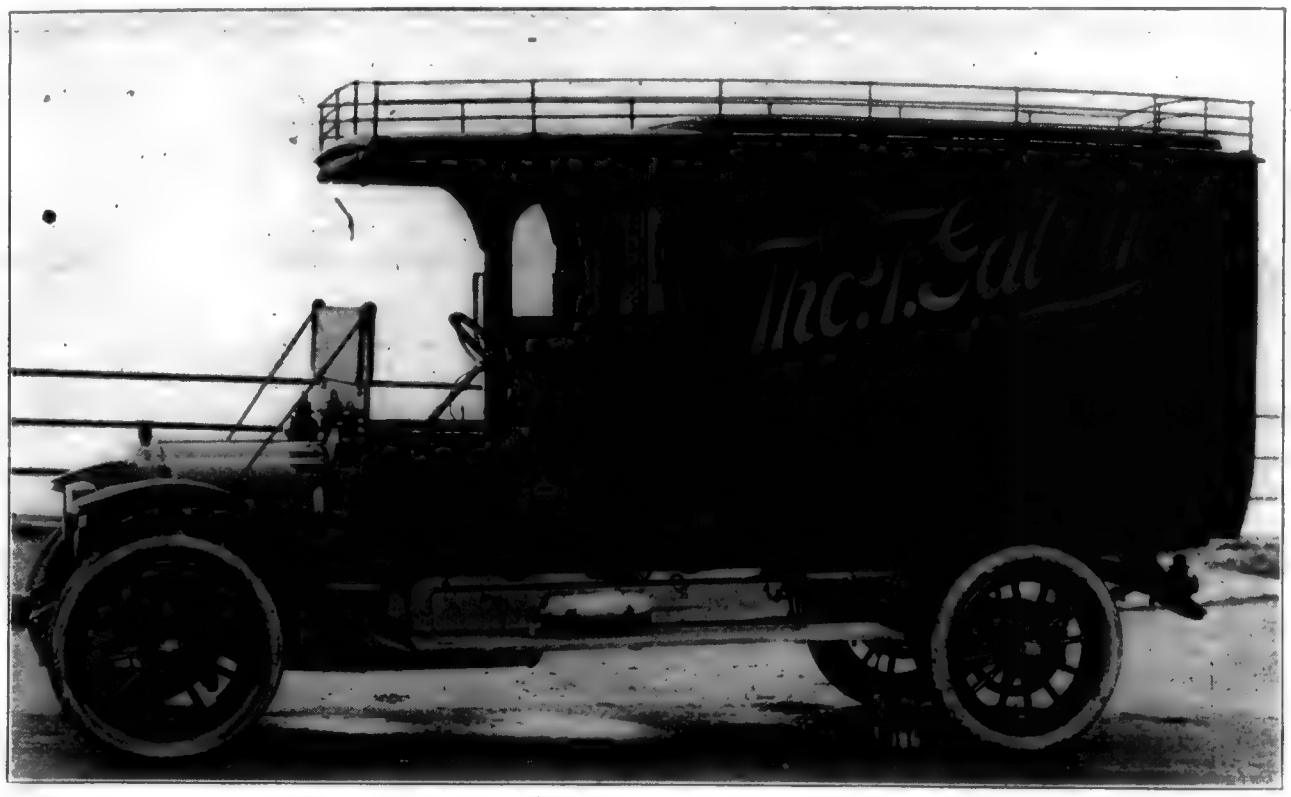
is to Use

This Celebrated Clark All Metal Leader Heater

of indestructible steel construction, and the cost is only 90 cents. Two of these heaters occupying two small spaces yield more heat and for a longer period than the old style expensive and clumsy three compartment heaters sometimes offered and which occupy altogether too much valuable wagon space and concentrate the heat in one spot.

Clark Carbon yields more heat and lasts longer than any other brick. It is by far the most economical to use.

It always comes uniformly good. Every shipment is of high quality.



Remember, there are more Clark heaters in use than all other makes combined—a tribute to their superiority.

Gentlemen:-

You will be interested in knowing that we have been operating a White truck at our New York store for more than a year past, during which time the truck has given continuous and satisfactory service.

The advantages of automobile delivery are so apparent that for three years past we have used nothing else at either our Boston or New York stores.

Yours very truly,

Are You Using a Dennison Distinctive Tag?

THEY ALWAYS SEE THE TAGS FIRST THAT IS WHY IT PAYS TO HAVE A GOOD ONE

Just as much individuality may be displayed in the put-up of flowers as in the arrangement of a bouquet. The tag, the tying material, the wrapping paper and the box count either for or against you.

If you are thinking about improving the looks of your package for the holidays or the New Year, start in by ordering a

QUEEN MARIE

THE NEW LIGHT MAGENTA POMPON

The illustration shows a bench of Queen Marie at our place. We have grown it four years and know it is a good money-maker.

Very productive. Planted in June from 2-inch pots, with two pinchings, you can get 15 to 18 sprays per plant, each spray carrying 15 to 25 flowers. Needs no tying, stems being strong and stiff enough to support themselves. Flowers very double. Holds petals until dry. Plenty of foliage—excellent as a pot plant as well as for cutting. We offer this as a money-maker for florists.

From 2-inch pots, $8.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000. Delivery after February 15, 1915.

AVIATOR

THE HIGH-FLIER AMONG SCARLETS

SOONER OR LATER you will grow Aviator as your principal scarlet Carnation —why not get in on the ground floor?

Description Parents, red sport of Maceo and red seedling. Color, intense scarlet, very bright. Stem, thin, wiry and stiff. Flowers, fine, full and nicely fringed. Habit, clean, upright growth; every break makes a rapid advance, producing a profusion of fine flowers in a very short time. The most prolific carnation ever offered to the trade, barring none. No disease, no grass, easy to propagate.

Invitation

Can be seen growing at our greenhouses at Joliet, Ill., and at the establishment of Pyfer & Olsem, Wilmette, Ill.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

THE SEASON'S LARGEST TRADE SHOW

Each season there is some one exhibition that holds special interest for florists—run by florists and attended by florists. This season the big trade show was at Indianapolis, where the Chrysanthemum Society of America and the State Florists' Association coöperated, putting up a show that brought florists from the Missouri river and from New England.

BY general consent the show in central Indiana was this year to be the one that the trade was most interested in. Run by a committee of Indianapolis florists, it was likely to partake more of the commercial character than any other large show held in the United States this season. And so it proved.

The Indianapolis florists would have liked to have a general flower show, with a premium list that covered a full line of trade stock and displays, but they realized that no adequate hall was available and wisely limited the premiums to such as are offered by the Chrysanthemum Society of America, providing space for retail displays and miscellaneous exhibits not for competition.

Under the circumstances possibly the mums are entitled to first consideration, but, really, the retailers commanded the greatest measure of approval. No admission was charged, admission being by card, and the hall of the German house was packed during the hours it was open to the public. The big blooms, no matter how good, jammed down in a vase never seem to win the approval gained even by modest displays by retailers — and those at Indianapolis were extremely elaborate.

A Crowded Hall.

The exhibits would have filled a hall twice as large. The competitive classes numbered only forty-five and entries came from only twenty-two exhibitors, but the total number of entries approximated 250, and there were many large displays not for competition. The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, was the largest exhibitor, with thirty-two entries, besides several large groups for display. Other large exhibitors were Bertermann Bros. Co., E. D. Smith & Co., Mt. Greenwood Cemetery, Wm. Vert, Baur & Steinkamp, A. N. Pierson and B. F. Hensley, each of whom made from ten to twenty entries.

It was the consensus of opinion that the show marked a cultural advance in the chrysanthemum, but that it brought out nothing new of large importance. The quality of the blooms was superb. Turner was the conspicuous variety, half a dozen exhibitors showing magnificent samples. Of the big blooms two new sorts received the greater part of the attention, Modello, from E. D. Smith & Co., and White Chieftain, from the E. G. Hill Co. Modello is a new color and a little known form. The petals are shaped like those of a cactus dahlia, the color is a striking golden bronze, and the form indicates commercial possibilities. Smith also showed Marigold, a large incurved yellow; Mankato, amaranth; Calumet, bronzy yellow, and a number of seedlings under number, but none as distinct as Modello. Chieftain, the pink Bonnaffon, has made a big commercial success in its first year, and the white sport of it looks good, but must compete with the White Bonnaffon for supremacy.

Pompons a Feature.

Perhaps the most striking feature of the show was the profusion of pompons and singles. The exhibits were so numerous they overflowed the hall and had to be set up in anterooms and on the stairs. The variety was infinite; too great, in fact, as confusion is sure to follow the naming of so many sorts that are not sufficiently distinct. It was a big vase of pompons showing wonderful culture that won the silver cup offered for the most meritorious display in the hall. It was in the pompons and singles that A. N. Pierson showed strongest, special effort having been made to build up a strong collection. W. R. Pierson promptly bought of H. Rieman the best novelty that showed up, a white pompon scoring ninety-two points, and named it Peace. Harvest Moon, a new Johnson variety, yellow, in the Pierson group, stood out as a winner. Neola, a white pompon flushed pink, in the Smith display, is thought well of and will be disseminated this season. Herman Bros. Co., of Council Bluffs, showed Queen Marie, magenta.

The show was weak in chrysanthemum plants, as are almost all middle-western exhibitions. There were so many of them that they could not be admitted to the main hall, but they all were of the kind seen every autumn day in flower stores.

The Retailers' Displays.

The leading retailers of Indianapolis seized the opportunity to present themselves to the public in an attractive light and put up displays that would have been a credit to the best men in the largest cities in the United States. Indeed, it is doubtful if any retailer anywhere ever made a display that used as much stock, occupied so much space or represented so much labor as did that of Bertermann Bros. Co. It was, in fact, too large and too elaborate to be seen and appreciated. The exhibit occupied all the space in one of the large parlors adjoining the main hall, the public being kept out by wedding ropes stretched across the double doors, which were the only point at which the splendid display could be seen, by not over a dozen people at a time. The title was "A Garden of Peace." A pergola semicircled the rear, with a dove cote, with loose live doves, in the center. In the foreground were various elaborate displays, including a garden pool, hedges and tables of choice plants and cut flowers, bouquets, and a dinner decoration. As a separate display the same exhibitor covered two walls with telegrams from florists ordering flowers delivered in Indianapolis.

A. Wiegand's Sons Co. occupied the entire end of the hall with a display that seldom has been equaled. It was excellent save that, large as was the space, it was not great enough for adequate display. The two tables that occupied half the space would have been worth it all. One of these was the parasol decoration, with Sunburst roses and ribbons to match. The other was all in white, roses being principally used, with a shower effect from a high centerpiece. But the feature of the display was a wedding scene. The bride and her maid were represented by two beautifully gowned wax figures. The bride carried a big shower bouquet of valley, the maid a big bunch of Sunburst. The two figures were surrounded with a typical wedding decoration, with gates, kneeling stool and all the accessories. The flowers used included several hundred lilies, with many white mums and Beauties in wall pocket vases against a background of wild smilax. It was a display that will be influencing orders for many years.

The booth of the Hill Floral Co. was an artistic triumph. A pergola was covered with the pompon mum Golden Climax, with just enough green. On the posts were vases of Bonnaffon. In the center of the booth was a table carrying a superb big handle basket of Hoosier Beauty. On the rug were other baskets and vases of Hoosier Beauty and yellow mums, yellow affording a splendid foil for the rich deep red of the rose. Every vase and basket showed the hand of a man who knows how, said to be C. C. Thomas, now in charge of the Hill store at Indianapolis.

The booth of the Pahud Floral Co. was three lattice walls covered with wild smilax with the base banked with foliage plants and vases of cut flowers. In the center a mirror created a sylvan lake effect. Riding on the seeming water was a gondola in flowers.

The Claypool Floral Co. also used the lattice walls, covered with greenery as a setting for numerous baskets and vases of well arranged roses, carnations, orchids, etc. It made a most attractive effect, but was not completed until the afternoon of the second day. The card said all the cut flowers used were grown by Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago.

The Roses.

There were no competitive classes for roses, but there were numerous exhibits for advertising purposes. Of course the interest centered in the undisseminated varieties, but it was scarcely less in the varieties of recent introduction that not all the growers have learned to do as well as have the exhibitors. Some splendid stock was shown.

Hoosier Beauty, the Dorner rose, was shown by the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., which will participate in its distribution, and by the Hill Floral Co., in its retail display, where it was wonderfully effective with its deep, rich red combined with such yellows as Bonnaffon and Golden Climax. The E. G. Hill Co. also showed Ophelia in better shape than it ever before has been seen, on 4-foot stems; Mrs. Russell, White Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Hadley and Lady Alice Stanley, the latter a large pink that looks as though it was worth growing. A yellow seedling, No. 1000, was shown in small quantity. It will make more noise later.

Myer Heller, of the South Park Floral Co., Newcastle, Ind., had a vase of Souvenir de Guillard, an orange yellow, deeper and richer in color than either Sunburst or Mrs. Ward. It is the rose that was awarded the gold medal at the Bagatelle Gardens, Paris, in 1914, and has been grown at Newcastle two seasons. It will be offered soon as a winter forcing variety. Used in the retail display of Bertermann Bros. Co., Mr. Heller had another French novelty rose, George Elgar, a polyantha of the size and usefulness of Mlle. Cecile Brunner, but of a fine clear yellow. This also is soon to be put on the market.

Mrs. Russell seldom if ever has been better shown than it was here by Holton & Hunkel Co., Milwaukee; indeed, the raiser of the variety, Alex. Montgomery, Jr., who was present, said he thought this vase was the finest lot of Russell ever seen in the west.

A General View of the Flower Show at Indianapolis, November 6 to 8, 1914.

A Large Room Was Occupied Exclusively by the Display of Bertermann Bros. Co., at Indianapolis.

Francis Scott Key, a John Cook rose disseminated in a small way last year, was shown by F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y. Mr. Pierson thinks so well of it that he will give it much wider distribution this season. It is a deeper American Beauty color, a large, full flower.

Mrs. Moorfield Storey, the 1914-15 introduction of the Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass., was staged by the originator. It is a delightful shade of shell pink, perhaps nearer to Taft than anything else, but much larger and more double than that popular variety.

Carnations.

No classes were provided for carnations, but there were a considerable number of exhibits, principally of new varieties.

Alice, which Peter Fisher, of Ellis, Mass., says is the most free-blooming variety he has yet raised, had suffered somewhat during its long journey, but acquitted itself creditably. The light flesh pink color is well liked and the form is excellent.

Aviator, from the Chicago Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill., sat where the afternoon sun made its bright scarlet glow after a fashion that caught every eye. The flower is excellent; if the growth is as good as the color it should prove an acquisition. On the second day a vase of Peerless Pink was placed with the display of Aviator.

From the J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill., came three seedlings raised by the superintendent, P. W. Peterson. They have been well named, Superb, Vera and Hero. Superb is a deep flesh pink, darker than Gloriosa; Vera a flesh pink a little darker than Enchantress; Hero a deep pink, darker than Mrs. Ward. One or more of these probably will be disseminated next season.

Bassett & Washburn, Chicago, staged a vase of their scarlet seedling, Belle Washburn, which is being grown in quantity for their cut flower trade.

P. J. Olinger, Newcastle, Ind., for whom William Gardener is superintendent, showed a large red seedling of excellent form and color. There is stock enough so that a large vase could be filled with good blooms, but the variety has not yet been christened.

Fred Breitmeyer, Mt. Clemens, Mich., sent a box of Philadelphia that many failed to see because it was not set up until the afternoon of Saturday.

F. Dorner & Sons Co., La Fayette, Ind., set up, on the second day, vases of Pink Sensation and Good Cheer carnations, two of their varieties that are attracting visitors to La Fayette. Blooms of Rose Hoosier Beauty also came from La Fayette.

The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, showed an interesting table of carnations. The special feature was Alice Coombs, the Roper novelty. It is a fine flesh pink and seems well thought of. A red seedling also looked good. The rest of the exhibit consisted of such blooms as are sent to market and were excellent for early autumn and extremely warm weather. The varieties were Gorgeous, Champion, Pocahontas, White Wonder, Philadelphia, Benora, Mrs. Ward and White Perfection.

Sweet Peas.

There was much interest in the exhibits of sweet peas, these not previously having been an early November flower.

Albert J. Pittet, of Indianapolis, set up a fine vase of Rose Queen, rose pink, Spencer type, seed of which was distributed during the summer and which is beginning to bloom with many growers who bought it.

A. D. Ruble, of Indianapolis, showed an unnamed variety, said to be a seedling, Spencer type, a fine clear pink, large flowers on long stems, that took everybody's eye.

Miscellaneous Exhibits.

The principal feature of the display of J. A. Peterson & Sons, Cincinnati, was Begonia Mrs. J. A. Peterson, so called because the originator thinks it is the best thing on the place. It is of the Lorraine-Cincinnati type, deep cerise in color, free blooming, bronze foliage. Melior, just distributed, was shown; also Cincinnati. The group included a fine plant of Asplenium Nidus-Avis, some good cyclamens and a number of small plants of Adiantum Farleyense.

When John Zech saw that, outside of a few in the retailers' booths, there were no American Beauty roses in the hall, he telephoned to Zech & Mann, at Chicago, to send some long-stemmed stock, and these were staged the next morning, together with some excellent Sunburst and some fine long Russell, also fifty blooms of each of five varieties of carnations, filling a corner most attractively.

A general display of commercial cut flowers was staged by the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago. On the table were eight varieties of roses, from Russell down to Cecile Brunner; a collection of pompon and anemone-flowered mums, plants, as are almost all middle-western exhibitions. There were so many of them that they could not be admitted to the main hall, but they all were of the kind seen every autumn day in flower stores.

mignonette, snapdragon and two vases of excellent valley, the latter bearing a card stating that it was grown by H. N. Bruns.

Stuart & Hough, of Anderson, Ind., put up a large table of stock of commercial character. It included mums and pompons, carnations, ferns, Begonia luminosa, Begonia Prima Donna and coleus grown to large, bush plants in pots.

The City Market florists, of Indianapolis, contributed a large group of pot plants, principally mums and ferns, of commercial character.

The Awards.

The judges were R. Witterstaetter, of Cincinnati; Frank A. Friedley, of Cleveland, and J. F. Ammann, of Edwardsville. They had an unusually difficult task because of the congestion in the hall.

The awards on chrysanthemum plants were:

One bush—Pahud Floral Co., Indianapolis, first; Bertermann Bros. Co., Indianapolis, second; Claypool Floral Co., Indianapolis, third.

Six bush—Claypool Floral Co., first; Pahud Floral Co., second; Bertermann Bros. Co., third.

York show in four hours one Sunday afternoon.

For the American Rose Society, President Wallace R. Pierson told of the work being done for outdoor roses and spoke of 32,000 people having visited the rose garden in the park at Hartford, Conn., one Sunday, this in a city of 110,000 population. He told of the plans for the next annual convention and exhibition at Chicago in March and gave a general invitation to all in the trade to be present.

The business inspiration to be found in flowers was the theme chosen by Irwin Bertermann, of Indianapolis, who said that the florist who keeps pushing will be the one who is permanently successful.

Secretary C. W. Johnson said that it was his greatest pleasure to see the interest taken in this year's show of the Chrysanthemum Society. Elmer D. Smith said it was in 1890 he first exhibited and that he never had seen an affair of the kind that gave him greater pleasure than the present season's exhibition and reunion.

Saturday night the State Florists' Association of Indiana entertained at a smoker at Liederkrantz Halle, where the festivities were opened, and their spirit indicated, by the singing of "The Gang's All Here." J. F. Ammann interrupted the frivolity long enough to speak in serious appreciation, on behalf of the judges, for the retailers' displays at the show.

C. S. A. ANNUAL MEETING.

Officers Elected.

President—Wm. Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa., reëlected.

Vice-president—Frank A. Friedley, Cleveland, O.

Secretary—C. W. Johnson, Morgan Park, Ill., reëlected.

Treasurer—John N. May, Summit, N. J., reëlected.

Meeting place for 1915—Cleveland, O.

Papers Read.

In addition to the annual address of President Kleinheinz, the report of Secretary Johnson and the financial statement of Treasurer May, which latter showed income of $244.08, disbursements of $364.65 and a balance of $154.34, the following papers were read:

"Pompon Chrysanthemums," by Fred H. Lemon, Richmond, Ind.

"Chrysanthemum Cut Blooms for Exhibition," by Wm. Vert, superintendent at Castle Gould, Port Washington, N. Y.

"Chrysanthemum Plants for Exhibition," by J. W. H. Campbell, substituting for J. Canning, superintendent of Heather Dell Farm, Ardsley, N. Y., where the specimens fourteen feet in diameter and carrying 1,400 blooms are grown.

Mr. Campbell's paper treated the subject exhaustively. He illustrated it with many photographs of the big plants frequently exhibited in New York, several of which were seen in the illustrations in The Review for November 5. There was excellent discussion of all the papers.

The society was in demand for 1915, invitations being received from Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia and San Francisco. Following a speech by H. P. Knoble, Cleveland was the unanimous choice

PRES. KLEINHEINZ'S ADDRESS.

[The following is the address of President Wm. Kleinheinz, read before the Chrysanthemum Society of America, in convention at Indianapolis, November 6 to 8, 1914.]

Another year has passed and again we meet as a society to pay due respect to the glorious flower, the chrysanthemum.

This convention, in Indianapolis, is especially remarkable as a banner meeting, as it is held in conjunction with the silver anniversary of the State Florists' Association of Indiana. And as we have chrysanthemum specialists with us like Elmer D. Smith, E. G. Hill and others as proficient, the gathering must be a success, and I am proud to have the honor to bid you all welcome in the name of the society.

In the last fifteen years the improvements in the chrysanthemum have been wonderful, and have surpassed all expectations. Great credit is due to the raisers and introducers of new varieties, a good many of which are certainly revelations to the mum growers. It is not necessary to mention any special varieties, as our shows prove my statement to the greatest extent, and I am sure that the future will bring out still better varieties, because we have a lot of never-resting hybridizers among us and they will not rest until the highest point of honor is reached.

The pompon and single varieties have also moved up to the front. Beautiful colors and combinations have been brought out in these effective and decorative kinds.

The specimen plants raised for exhibition purposes in the last few years are also eye-openers for the public. I have seen plants exhibited in New York city over fourteen feet in diameter, carrying over 1,400 flowers per plant and forming the chief attraction of the show. But don't forget what skill, time and labor were required to grow a plant to such perfection, and we must feel proud that those plants are grown by gardeners who are members of the Chrysanthemum Society of America.

Why Join the Society?

Considering the large number of chrysanthemum growers in this country, it is to be deplored that so few are members of our society.

The Chrysanthemum Society of America is beneficial to all mum growers, as we rout out the poorer varieties by having committees appointed all through the United States; by these committees the new varieties are examined and when they are found to be up to the standard, a certificate is awarded. This prevents minor sorts from being represented as up-to-date, and thus the buyers of new varieties do not run the risk of getting inferior sorts.

The Chrysanthemum Society also holds a yearly exhibition, giving an elegant opportunty for competition. At these exhibitions, only flowers of the best quality are shown, flowers which demonstrate to the grower what can be done and what a flower of the highest standard looks like. The society also sends to its members a copy of the proceedings of the yearly meetings, and this alone should be inducement enough to every chrysanthemum grower to join us. This has been the cry for years: "How can we increase our membership?" I appeal to everyone who is interested in these beautiful flowers to send his application to our secretary and become a member of this society. I am sure that after one year's membership he will say, "I am glad that I joined this able body and I must get my friends to do the same."

The Scale of Points.

In regard to the scale of points, I would say that I do not think it possible to improve on it. One suggestion I would like to make; a few varieties of our most wonderful exhibition flowers are lacking in stiffness of stem and need artifical supports, when staged on long stems. This I think is a weak point of these varieties and should be considered. I feel that any exhibit artificially supported should lose at least two points. This will not harm these sorts and still will give justice to varieties with self-supporting stems, but lacking in size.

In regard to culture and other points, I do not intend to pass any remarks, as every kind of climate and soil requires different treatments, but I must say that not everything is gold that glitters.

After all the skill, all the labor and all the expenses, the grower in general is proud every season to see his flowers develop. Yet the growers, especially in the east, have nearly every year to suffer a more or less serious loss. Warm weather sets in just at the time the flowers should have a cool atmosphere. This warm weather is generally accompanied by rolling fogs, with a high humidity, and the best flowers rot away within a few days. So far, nothing is known that can prevent this. Any suggestion or remedy would be thankfully accepted by this body.

I hope that you will all enjoy this convention and derive great benefit from it; also that the Chrysanthemum Society of America will have a larger membership next year.

SECRETARY JOHNSON'S REPORT.

[The following is the report of Chas. W. Johnson, secretary of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, presented at the Indianapolis convention, November 7, 1914.]

We are pleased to report progress. The number of seedlings submitted to the examining committees shows an increase over the preceding year; new members have been added to our ranks and our income also shows an advance.

The reports of the examining committees were sent to the trade papers each week as they were received by the secretary, and a final summary of the season's work was published. The trade press generously printed these and other notices sent to them free of charge, for which we owe to them our vote of thanks.

Our vice-president, A. F. J. Baur, deserves the commendations of this society for the great interest he has taken in the welfare of the Chrysanthemum Society and his efforts to make the present meeting a success.

The routine work of the secretary's office, consisting of sending out the statements to the members, recording the varieties disseminated, getting out the report of the twelfth annual meeting and soliciting the special premiums, was attended to in due season.

Our special premium schedule is larger for this exhibition than it has been for any other, and to all the firms and individuals who have helped us to make it so we extend our thanks.

A meeting of the society was held at New York during the time of the National Flower Show, with President William Kleinheinz presiding and A. F. J. Baur acting as secretary pro tem. One of the important matters brought up at this meeting was the definition of the term "spray," as applied to the single and pompon chrysanthemums, and it was approved that the term "spray" shall mean the cluster of blooms produced by a single terminal growth.

As instructed at the last annual meeting, the secretary sent letters of appreciation to William K. Harris, Philadelphia, Pa., and to Fred Dorner & Sons Co., La Fayette, Ind., the raisers respectively of the varieties Ivory and Major Bonnaffon, to show the appreciation of the society for the wonderful record these two varieties have made as money-makers for the florists all over the country.

Referring to the membership of the society, your secretary earnestly requests that each member undertake to do some personal work to get new members to join at this meeting. We are entering upon the twenty-fifth year of the Chrysanthemum Society of America's existence, so let us celebrate it by a big increase of members.

The badges for members winning first premiums at any chrysanthemum show have again been sent to the secretaries of the different societies, requesting them to attach one to every first-premium exhibit of a member of the C. S. A. The secretary wishes to acknowledge the kindness of Elmer D. Smith in furnishing him with a complete list of varieties disseminated in 1913, which was a great help in making up the annual report.

NOTES OF THE AUTUMN SHOWS

QUALITY THE KEYNOTE OF THE SHOWS THIS YEAR

CHICAGO.

Horticultural Society's Show.

The larger part, and unquestionably the more important part, of the chrysanthemum show of the Horticultural Society of Chicago, held at the Art Institute, November 9 and 10, consisted of exhibits not entered for competition. The classes open to commercial growers numbered six. Class 7, for the best display of cut blooms of outdoor chrysanthemums by an amateur, had no entry.

The chrysanthemum entries were mainly by Poehlmann Bros. Co. and Mt. Greenwood Cemetery. Confronting the visitor as he entered the doors of the Art Institute was a large circular arrangement of plants by Poehlmann Bros. Co., which the judges rightly thought worthy a silver medal, though it was not entered for competition. At either side of the room were cyclamens and begonias and in the rear were araucarias, crotons, ferns and other foliage plants from the same concern.

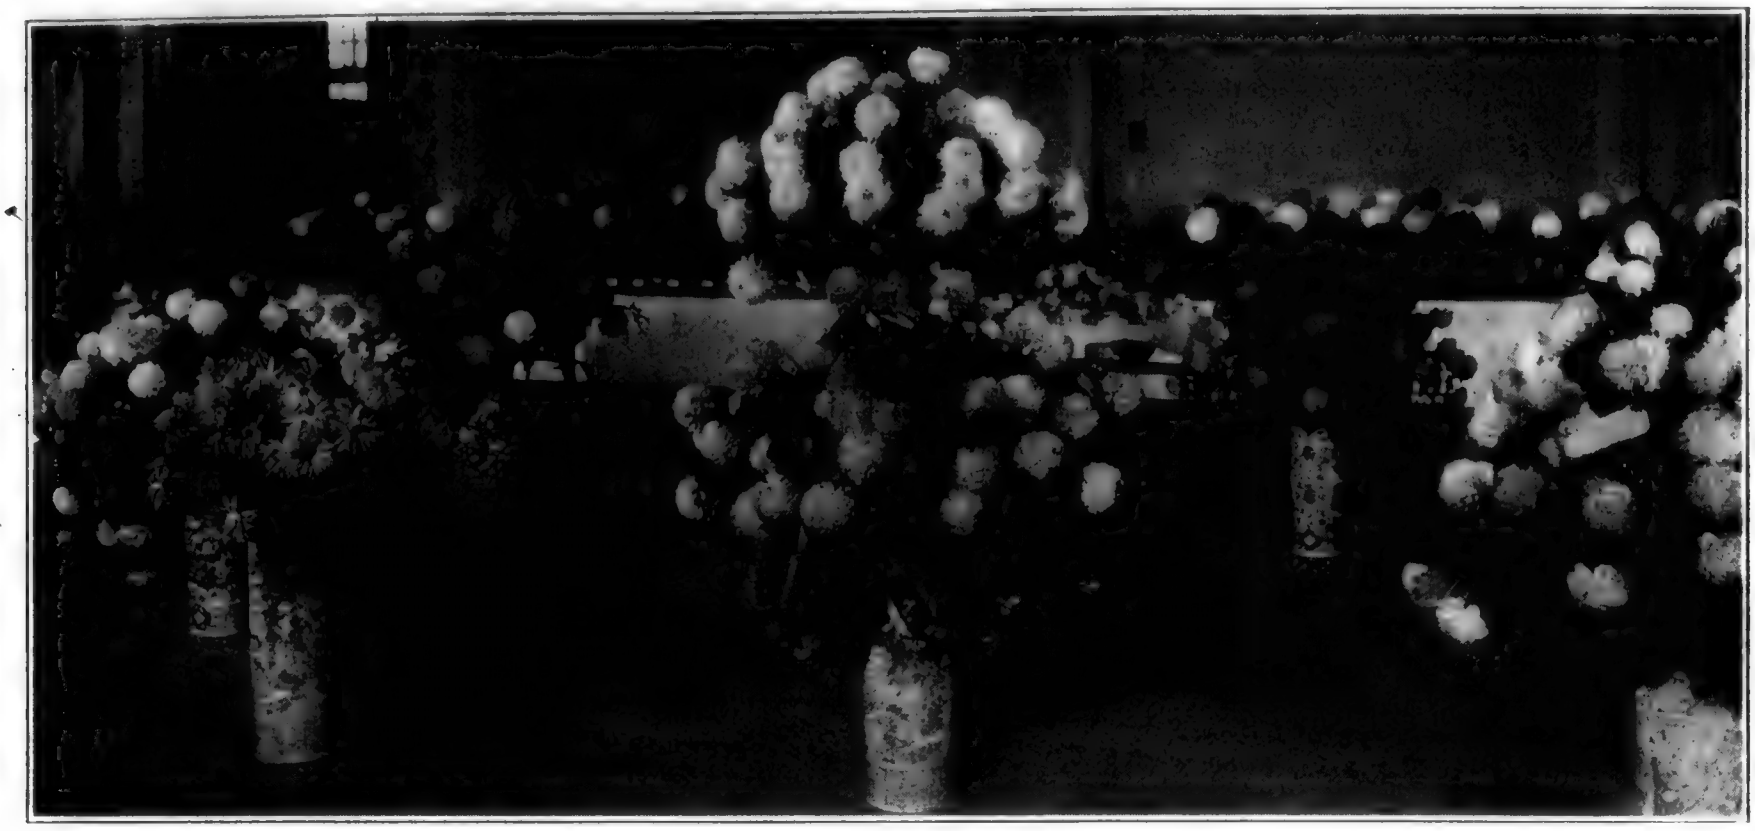
In the competitive classes Poehlmann Bros. Co. also led. Vaughan's Seed Store won first prize for a group of chrysanthemum plants, the only group entered. Poehlmann Bros. Co. took first for the best display of cut blooms of large-flowering mums, with W. H. Chadwick. Robert Blackwood, gardener for Mrs. A. C. Allerton, Lake Geneva, Wis., took second, with Mrs. Gilbert Drabble. For the best display of cut blooms of single, pompon and anemone chrysanthemums, Mt. Greenwood Cemetery won first place, with a large and excellent showing, while C. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., took second with fifty-odd vases of various varieties, all named. The only display of seedling mums not disseminated was made by Mt. Greenwood Cemetery, and first prize was given this vase, named Mt. Greenwood, a pink, incurved variety. Poehlmann Bros. Co. made such a strong showing in the class for a vase, basket or other arrangement of cut blooms of large-flowering mums, with the usual accessories, that its vase of Yellow Chadwick was given first prize and one of White Eaton second. A. Lange's vase of Wm. Turner was also given a second prize. A. Lange's arrangement in the class for a vase, basket or other arrangement of pompons, singles or anemones, with usual accessories, took first place, and one of Poehlmann Bros. Co. took second. A striking basket, of large dimensions, containing both the large-flowering and pompon types, arranged by the Bohannon Floral Co., was disbarred.

Non-Competitive Exhibits.

One of the leading non-competitive exhibits was the large plant of Wm. Turner shown by Robert Blackwood, which was seven feet across and had in the neighborhood of 700 blooms; this received a silver medal.

On the second day the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., showed a fine vase of Hoosier Beauty, the new Dorner crimson rose, and one of the unnamed yellow seedling designated as No. 1000, which took every grower's eye. It will be sure of a large sale when it is offered to the trade.

A new white anemone, Chas. L. Hutchison, was shown by Mr. Hutchison's gardener at Lake Geneva, Wm. P. Longland, and was given a bronze medal.



The new pompon, Queen Marie, shown at Indianapolis by Herman Bros. Co., of Council Bluffs, Ia., was exhibited and received honorable mention.

The Chicago Carnation Co. showed Peerless Pink and the new scarlet carnation Aviator, which made an excellent appearance and was awarded a certificate of merit.

The J. D. Thompson Carnation Co. showed a first-class vase of each of the three new carnations, Vera, Superb and Hero, each of which received a certificate of merit.

Wm. Tricker, of Arlington, N. J., had a nice display of Nymphæa Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, his new lavender water lily, which received a certificate of merit.

One of the most interesting exhibits was that of W. A. Manda, of South Orange, N. J., comprising a number of foliage plant novelties. The new dahlia, Albert Manda, also attracted notice. Polypodium Mandaianum, Anthericum Mandaianum, Manda's Golden privet, Adiantum O'Brieni, Cyperus alternifolius laxus variegatus, Asplenium elegans, Begonia Christmas Red, and a number of other novelties were exhibited. This display received a bronze medal.

Winterson's Seed Store had an excellent display of foliage plants of various kinds, which filled one corner of the room. This was awarded a bronze medal.

In addition to his singles, Chas. H. Totty showed specimen blooms of his new large-flowering varieties, Mrs. J. Purroy Mitchell, Baldwin, Woodside, Mrs. A. S. Watt and Earl Kitchener.

Not only were the retailers represented in the list of awards, but the Ernst Wienhoeber Co. brought to the public's attention the retailer's art by having two of its representatives make up baskets of various kinds with single and pompon chrysanthemums. The tasteful arrangements caught the eyes of the visitors.

The judges were N. J. Wietor, Guy French and George Asmus. C. W. Johnson was manager.

BOSTON.

Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

While the big blooms and specimen plants were not so much in evidence at the show which opened in Boston, November 5, interest in them having declined, there was a better show than a year ago. Specimen blooms were more largely shown and of much better quality. Single chrysanthemums were splendid; so were the orchid groups. The groups of flowering and foliage plants showed a marked improvement, and begonias were numerously shown. Retailers were out in force, there being eleven entries for the best table decoration. The new class for vases arranged for effect also proved popular. No new chrysanthemums were shown, although there were many inquiries for them, and there were no trade groups from a distance. The attendance of gardeners and florists was as large as ever, but the general public did not patronize it so well as usual, perhaps because there was no sensational feature.

The principal awards were:

Twenty-five blooms, twenty-five varieties—D. F. Roy, gardener to H. E. Converse, first, with James Fraser, President Taft, Reginald Vallis, F. S. Vallis, Mrs. Gilbert Drabble, Mrs. W. Duckham, Onunda, Elberon, Leila Filkins, Rose Pockett, Leonie Chandler, Marquis Venusta, Cheltoni, W. Turner, Wm. Mease, Daily Mail, Annie L. Angus, Meudon, Mrs. R. D. Foote, Viscount de Venusta, Miss Alice Finch, Alice Lemon, Pockett's Surprise, Tarrytown and Mary Mason; E. H. Wetterlow, gardener to Mrs. Lester Leland, second; A. E. Griffin, gardener to G. L. Stone, third.

Twelve blooms, Japanese—Alex. McKay, gardener to E. A. Clark, first, with Glen Cove, Mrs. G. Drabble, Col. Appleton, Mrs. J. C. Neill, C. H. Totty, W. Turner, Mrs. W. Duckham, Bronze Brighthurst, Ursula Griswold, Mrs. G. C. Kelley, White Quittenton and Wells' Late Pink; A. E. Griffin, second; D. F. Roy, third.

Twelve Japanese incurved—D. F. Roy, first, with Miss Alice Finch, Viscount de Venusta, Mlle. Jossier, Mrs. Geo. Hunt, Wm. Turner, R. F. Felton, Ethel Fitzroy, Mrs. Partridge, Wm. Duckham, Pockett's Surprise, Mrs. G. Drabble and President Taft; E. Townsend, gardener to Mrs. Lathrop Brown, second.

Twelve Japanese reflexed—D. F. Roy, first, with Mrs. Henshaw, Leila Filkins, Reginald Vallis, Viscount de Venusta, Mrs. J. E. Dunne, Cheltoni, Meudon, Gertrude Peers, Wm. Mease, Mrs. G. Heaume and J. W. Molyneux; E. Townsend, second.

Twelve sprays, anemone—Frank P. Putnam, first.

Twelve sprays, pompons—F. P. Putnam, first; E. K. Butler, second.

Twenty-five vases, single—F. P. Putnam, first; Geo. Page, gardener to Mrs. Frederick Ayer, second.

Ten blooms, pink—H. W. Vose, first, with Chieftain; W. S. Russell, second; Fred E. Palmer, third.

Ten blooms, white—Alex. McKay, first, with William Turner; Alex. McKay, second, with splendid Merza; W. S. Russell, third, with Turner.

Ten blooms, yellow—Alex. McKay, first, with Appleton; W. S. Russell, second; E. Townsend, third.

Ten blooms, red—E. A. Clark, first, with Leslie Morrison; W. S. Russell, second; W. W. Edgar Co., third.

Vase of Mrs. Jerome Jones—W. S. Russell, first; C. O. Sias, second.

Four specimen plants—W. Watson, gardener to J. S. Bailey, first.

Two specimen plants—W. Watson, first.

One specimen plant—A. M. Davenport, first.

Best specimen plant in show—A. M. Davenport, silver medal.

Twenty-five commercially grown plants—W. H. Elliott, first and second.

Twelve single-flowered plants—Wm. Thatcher, gardener to Mrs. J. L. Gardner, first.

Six plants, six varieties, six flowers to a plant—E. H. Wetterlow, first and second.

Two kentias—Geo. Page, first; Wm. Thatcher, second; M. Sullivan, gardener to W. Whitman, third.

Arecas—Geo. Page, first; M. Sullivan, second and third.

Specimen palm—M. Sullivan, first.

Group of flowering and foliage plants, covering 300 square feet—W. W. Edgar Co., first, with an excellent group.

Group covering 150 square feet—W. W. Edgar Co., first; Wm. Thatcher, second.

Orchids, best table, at least six genera—F. J. Dolansky, first; J. T. Butterworth, second.

Specimen orchid—F. J. Dolansky, first, with Cypripedium Harrisianum; J. T. Butterworth, second, with Cattleya labiata; F. J. Dolansky, third, with Cattleya labiata.

Carnations, six vases, fifty blooms each—A. A. Pembroke, first, with splendid Pink Delight, Gorgeous, White Enchantress, Champion, Benora and Princess Dagmar; S. J. Goddard, second, with an almost equally good lot of Yellowstone, Champion, Benora, Pink Delight, White Perfection and Gloriosa.

One hundred carnations, mixed—A. A. Pembroke, first; S. J. Goddard, second.

Fifty carnations, mixed—A. A. Pembroke, first; C. S. Strout, second.

Twenty-five carnations, mixed, private gardeners—Geo. Page, first; C. O. Sias, second.

Table decoration for eight covers, featuring chrysanthemums—F. E. Palmer, first, with single pink chrysanthemum W. Buckingham and Bouvardia Humboldtii; S. Hoffman, second, with Garza mums and Cecile Brunner roses; Wax Bros., third, with bronze pompon mums. There were eleven tables entered.

Most artistic vase of chrysanthemums, with any foliage—W. W. Edgar Co., first, with yellows and red oak foliage; W. W. Edgar Co., second, with white flowers and oak foliage; Mrs. J. C. Phillips, third.

Three plants of Begonia Gloire de Lorraine—E. H. Wetterlow, first; Alex. McKay, second; W. W. Edgar Co., third.

Three plants of Begonia Glory of Cincinnati—E. H. Wetterlow, first; W. W. Edgar Co., second.

The Waban Rose Conservatories received a silver medal for a beautiful vase of the new rose, Mrs. Moorfield Storey. A similar award went to William Downs for three grand plants of the rich English winter-flowering begonia, Mrs. Heal. If commercial growers would take this up, it should make a grand Christmas plant. Farquhar & Co. received a silver medal for a large and well arranged group of flowering plants, and the same recognition might well have been given a grand display of single anemone and pompon mums from F. P. Putnam, mostly seedlings. A gratuity was awarded.

Peter Fisher received a first-class certificate for Carnation Alice, and E. H. Wetterlow a cultural certificate for Begonia Turnford Hall. He also had other good begonias. E. J. Norman had a display of seedling chrysanthemums. Thomas T. Walt had an interesting table of platyceriums, statices, medinillas and other plants. Breck-Robinson Co. had a good group of flowering and foliage plants, as had Fred Becker. Edward MacMulkin had floral decorations, and Mrs. E. M. Gill dipladenias and allamandas.

Littlefield & Wyman received honorable mention for their new Winsor-colored carnation seedling. It stood up nicely right through the show. Edward Wink-ler's Morning Glow also received honorable mention. It is not large but of a charming color.

Edward MacMulkin received first for the best decorated fruit table. The Boston Market Gardeners' Association had a fine display of choice vegetables. T. J. Grey Co. received the silver medal for the finest seedsman's display of vegetables. It included over 125 varieties and was thoroughly representative.

The one disappointing feature of the show was the absence of roses. Good money prizes were offered, but not a solitary vase was shown in competition at a time when all are bemoaning the fact that roses are hard to move and are selling at the lowest prices ever known in Boston at this season.

W. N. Craig.

NEW YORK.

American Institute Show.

The eighty-third annual show of the American Institute was held November 4 to 6 in the Engineering building. There was plenty of room for the exhibits, and the arrangement added much to the charming effect.

Chas. H. Totty's exhibits were to the fore in attracting attention and winning blue ribbons. His two new roses, White Shawyer and Mrs. Thompson, were much admired. His chrysanthemums, as well as those of a number of gardeners from private estates, were noteworthy. He received special prizes for his hardy seedling, single and new varieties.

The displays of orchids by Lager & Hurrell, of Summit, N. J., and the Julius Roehrs Co., of Rutherford, N. J., fully maintained the exhibitors' high standards. John Lewis Childs, of Flowerfield, N. Y., showed his new celosia, for which he received a special award. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., also received a special prize for an effective group of chrysanthemums, and Thos. Head, of Bergenfield, N. J., for his excellent display of hardy perennials.

Max Schling was the only retailer to make an exhibit, and his baskets and table decorations were objects of much interest to the visitors. For this display he received a special award from the judges.

The Commercial Awards.

The quality of the competitive displays was high throughout. L. A. Noe, of Madison, N. J., deserves mention for his showing in the rose classes. The awards to commercial growers were as follows:

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Twenty-four blooms, one variety, long stems—Thos. W. Head, Bergenfield, N. J., first; C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., second.

Twenty-four blooms, twenty-four distinct varieties—C. H. Totty, first.

Six blooms of any new variety, yellow—C. H. Totty, first.

Six blooms of any new variety, pink—C. H. Totty, first.

Collection of hardy chrysanthemums, twenty vases—R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md., first.

Collection of pompons, ten vases—C. L. Stanley, Plainfield, N. J., first.

ORCHIDS.

Collection of orchids—Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., first.

ROSES.

Twelve blooms, American Beauty—Louis A. Noe, Madison, N. J., first.

Twenty-five blooms, pink—Louis A. Noe, first; Chas. A. Totty, second.

Twenty-five blooms, white—Louis A. Noe, first; Chas. A. Totty, second.

Twenty-five blooms, crimson—Chas. A. Totty, first.

Twenty-five blooms, any other color—Chas. A. Totty, first.

CARNATIONS.

Three varieties, twenty-five blooms of each—Chas. A. Totty, first.

One variety, twenty-five blooms—C. L. Stanley, first.

The Prize-Winning Gardeners.

The private gardeners were in evidence in all classes and made a strong showing. The stock shown by them was of high quality, and a number of special prizes were awarded their exhibits. The prize-winners among their number were: J. MacDonald, gardener for J. H. Ottley, Glen Cove, N. Y.; W. H. Waite, for Samuel Untermyer, Yonkers, N. Y.; W. H. Duckham, for D. Willis James, Madison, N. J.; Frank Honeyman, for Percy Chubb, Glen Cove, N. Y.; Jas. Bell, for C. K. G. Billings, New York; J. W. Everitt, for John T. Pratt, Glen Cove, N. Y.; Ernest Robinson, for Mrs. M. F. Plant, Groton, Conn.; Wm. Vert, for Howard Gould, Port Washington, N. Y.; W. Angus, for R. & H. Scoville, Chapinsville, Conn.; Frank Black, for Clarence E. Chapman, Oakland, N. J.; Jos. Tansey, for H. M. Tilford, Tuxedo Park, N. Y.; W. L. Fowkes, for Howard Cole, Madison, N. J.; G. P. Kennedy, for J. S. Lyle, Tenafly, N. J.; Thos. Wilson, for Mrs. J. M. Mitchell, Tuxedo Park, N. Y.; A. Wynne, for W. H. Heroy, Stamford, Conn.; Henry Gaut, for H. L. Pratt, Glen Cove, N. Y.; Peter Duff, for Mrs. J. Crosby Brown, Orange, N. J.; R. M. Johnston, for W. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y.; Rudolph Heidkamp, for the H. W. Boettger estate, Riverdale, N. Y.; A. A. McDonald, for J. B. Duke, Somerville, N. J.; H. J. Allen, for F. Vanderbilt, Hyde Park, N. Y., and Max Schneider, for Peter Hauck, Jr., Orange, N. J.

Group Staged at Boston by W. W. Edgar Co., Waverley, Mass.

LANCASTER, PA.

First Show a Success.

Lancaster's first flower show was held November 6 and 7 in the Hiemenz Auditorium, under the auspices of the Lancaster County Florists' Club, and proved most successful. The attendance was large throughout the show and thousands expressed their pleasure and surprise at the wonderful array of chrysanthemums. R. Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., was present and pronounced the show one of the most enjoyable he had attended this autumn and enlarged on the artistic arrangement and quality of the exhibits. The formal garden arranged in the lower part of the building by B. F. Barr & Co. was beautiful. The beds were planted with hardy mums and edged with sod. Beautiful beds of Scarlet Bedder geraniums planted by Rudolph Nagel were quite effective. T. J. Nolan, for the King Construction Co., erected a greenhouse 10x35, in which a bench was filled with begonias grown by E. P. Hostetter, of Manheim, and also the amateur entries in the plant classes. Ira H. Landis, of Paradise; Elmer and Charles M. Weaver, of Ronks; Amos N. Rohrer, of Strasburg; H. B. Weaver, of Bird-in-Hand; W. B. Girvin, of Leola; J. Ira Ranck and Walter Denlinger, of Vintage; E. P. Hostetter, M. H. Hostetter and P. S. Hostetter, of Manheim; Frank L. Kohr, John R. Shriner, Frank A. Suter, L. S. Landis, Rudolph Nagel and A. M. Herr, of Lancaster, had highly creditable displays of their respective specialties in cut flowers.

Maurice J. Brinton, of Christiana, showed a table of Lilium magnificum and Scholzeli ferns. H. D. Rohrer staged fifty varieties of large-flowered chrysanthemums, specimen blooms in single vases, and was awarded a special prize of $25 by Lord & Burnham Co. His vase of Wm. Turner mums were of remarkable size.

E. F. Campbell, of Marietta, showed Appleton mums of superior culture. A. F. Strickler, of Willow street, showed twenty-five varieties of outdoor pompons, which were wonderfully fine.

Retail Exhibits.

The retail exhibits were attractively arranged. H. A. Schroyer's table decoration was of the highest order. Geo. G. Goldbach's exhibit was fine and showed marked ability and taste. The exhibit of B. F. Barr & Co., arranged by Chas. F. Edgar, was a most interesting one. Two table decorations, one a 3-leaf clover and the other a 4-leaf clover, were up to the minute. Their exhibit also included a mantel decoration, and a bride and little flower girl with the latest in bouquets. They presented to every visitor a tiny flower pot attached to a pin so as to be worn, which made a novel advertisement.

Vernon H. Stirk, foreman for Mary E. Bachler, had an arrangement of palms and blooming plants that showed remarkable skill on the part of Mr. Stirk.

Thos. R. Fries had a fine display of palms, ferns and cut flowers. Chas. B. Herr, of Strasburg, showed a remarkable lot of potted pompons.

The amateur classes brought out a large number of exhibits, for which silver cups and other prizes were awarded.

The judges were H. C. Huesman, of Reading; Chas. Schaefer, of York, and S. S. Pennock, of Philadelphia.

From Out of Town.

The exhibits from out of town were large and fine. S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, sent Radiance roses and orchids in a number of varieties. The Leo Niessen Co., Philadelphia, sent Killarney Brilliant, Fireflame and Thora roses. The last named, a new, soft shade of pink, was one of the most admired vases in the show.

Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich., sent his 1915 chrysanthemum novelties. They arrived in fine shape and were beautiful throughout the show. His Flamingo, Marigold, Modello and Mankato were a revelation to lovers of chrysanthemums.

R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., of White Marsh, Md., sent fifty-seven varieties of pompons. The exhibit was one of the beauty spots of the show.

Exhibits by A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; United States Cut Flower Co., Elmira, N. Y.; McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., and Wm. Swayne, Kennett Square, Pa., arrived in fine condition.

Peter Fisher, of Ellis, Mass., sent a bunch of Alice carnations, which proved itself a good shipper, as the flowers at the end of the show were as though they were freshly cut.

C. H. Totty's new chrysanthemums were the admiration of all. H. S. Brandt, of York, had a fine exhibit of ferns. H. F. Michell Co., of Philadelphia, had an exhibit of bulbs and florists' supplies; D. J. Keohane was in charge. S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co. had an elegant showing of new baskets, ribbons, etc., which were in charge of H. S. Price.

Pfaltzgraff Pottery Co., York, Pa., had an interesting display of florists' pots, bulb pans, etc., in charge of C. L. Keeny.

The decorations consisted of wild smilax, oak branches and wall pockets filled with yellow mums. Eckenrode's orchestra furnished music. On the day after the show the cut flowers were sent to a dozen charitable institutions and hospitals. The flower show committee consisted of Albert M. Herr, chairman, H. K. Rohrer, treasurer, and Rudolph Nagel, C. F. Edgar and B. F. Barr.

Among the trade visitors were: R. T. Brown and D. S. Ward, of Queens, N. Y.; R. Vincent, Jr., and R. A. Vincent, of White Marsh, Md.; S. S. Pennock, Arthur Niessen and H. S. Price, of Philadelphia; D. T. Conner, T. J. Nolan, Geo. Pugh, Wm. Primrose, H. C. Huesman and J. H. Giles, of Reading; Adam Rohrer, Chas. Schaefer and Aug. Schaefer, of York, and James Brown, of Coatesville. H. K. R.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.

Horticultural Society's Show.

The sixteenth annual fall exhibition of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society was held in Music hall November 4 to 6. The exhibits were far superior to those of previous years, both in quality of flowers and plants and their arrangement. There was keen competition in the class for the group of decorative plants, and R. M. Johnston and Chas. R. Russell deserve great credit for the groups shown by them. The tables of decorative plants were the finest ever shown by the society. The table of orchids shown by Chas. R. Russell was particularly beautiful. The exhibits of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums were also especially fine.

The F. R. Pierson Co. exhibited a fine vase each of Ophelia and Francis Scott Key roses, each being awarded the society's silver medal. The F. R. Pierson Co. exhibited also a fine lot of roses, chrysanthemums and ferns, which were awarded a certificate of merit. Certificates of merit were awarded also to the following: Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., for a fine exhibit of large-flowering, single and pompon chrysanthemums; R. M. Johnston, superintendent for Wm. B. Thompson, for seedling verbena; Chas. R. Russell, superintendent for Finley J. Shepard, for seedling Begonia semperflorens variegata Dorothy Gould; Robert Angus, gardener for Joseph Eastman, for vase of Golden Perfection chrysanthemums.

The table decorations the second day of the show were particularly interesting, and there was keen competition in this class.

The first day the judges were S. Carlquist, Lenox, Mass.; Alexander Mackenzie, Highland Falls, N. Y., and George H. Penson, New Brunswick, N. J.; the second day, James Blair, Staatsburg, N. Y.; Robert Williamson, Greenwich, Conn., and Alexander Thompson, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.; the third day, L. A. Martin, Irvington, N. Y.; Joseph Mooney, Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., and John Featherstone, Tarrytown, N. Y.

F. R. Pierson Co. took first prize for the best vase of twenty-five roses of one variety. Scott Bros. won first prize for the best vase of twenty-five carnations of one variety. Richard Langle, of White Plains, N. Y., was awarded first prizes for a bunch of 100 single blue violets and for a bunch of 100 double blue violets. A few amateurs exhibited, but the entries in the competitive display were mostly by gardeners and superintendents of the private estates of the vicinity. The prize-winners among these were the following: R. M. Johnston, superintendent for Wm. B. Thompson; Chas. R. Russell, for Finley J. Shepard; Wm. Waite, for Samuel Untermyer; James Ballantyne, for Mrs. F. E. Lewis; John Canning, for Adolph Lewisohn; Thos. A. Lee, for Mrs. Carl Vietor; Robert Grieve, for Hugh Hill; Abel Weeks, for Mrs. F. Hermann; Wm. F. Ross, for Mrs. W. D. Guthrie; David Gordon, for Mrs. C. Neustadt; Frank C. Luckenbacher, for Paul M. Warburg; Geo. Wittlinger, for Miss Blanche Potter; Wm. Ritchie, for H. Fairfield Osborn; Wm. J. Sealey, for Chas. Mallory; Howard Nichols, for Mrs. J. B. Trevor; Robt. Angus, for Joseph Eastman; F. E. Witney, for Winthrop Sargent; A. H.

Myers, for the Sleepy Hollow Country Club; James Caselli, for Dr. L. H. Backland; A. W. Golding, for D. G. Reid; Wm. Brock, for R. Delafield; Chas. Ruthven, for Eugene Meyer, Jr.; M. McPherson, for Mrs. Isaac N. Seligman; Geo. McIntosh, for Dr. C. C. Brace; Wm. Jamieson, for Emil Berolzheimer; Wm. Kastberg, for R. B. Dula; A. MacDonald, for D. E. Oppenheimer; Robert Sharp, for Samuel Ullman; Wm. MacBean, for Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish; Wm. Will, for Clarence Whitman; Edward Trethewey, for Irving T. Bush; Frank Shaw, for J. W. Smith, and Henry J. Allen, for F. W. Vanderbilt.

PHILADELPHIA.

As reported last week, the attendance at the opening of the exhibition was gratifying. It continued in the second, third and fourth days. The crowds were large and appreciative, fully justifying all the hard work so freely given by the management and the exhibitors. The decorations and the arrangement of the exhibits were in excellent taste. The general quality of the material exhibited was of a high order. Julius Roehrs Co., of Rutherford, N. J., displayed decorative stock and nursery suggestions. The Robert Craig Co. had choice crotons, dracænas and early flowering cyclamens. S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co. exhibited florists' supplies and novelties. William Tricker, Arlington, N. J., had a new crimson chrysanthemum, Arlington, and aquatics.

Franklin Barrett showed wonderful gold and other fish. Charles A. Goudy, for Henry F. Michell Co., showed a choice assortment of hardy chrysanthemums. Alphonse Pericat, of Collingdale, Pa., had fine orchids and a new ficus of good habit.

Edward A. Stroud's sister painted a Japanese garden scene as a background for his Japanese garden.

The private gardeners put up some magnificent stock in all the classes, forming the main strength of the show. A yellow sport from William Turner and a pretty sport from Morton F. Plant were interesting novelties. Dracæna Longii, from Thomas Long, was a rare novelty.

The features of the rose exhibit were the vases of Ophelia and Hoosier Beauty from the E. G. Hill Co. Joseph Heacock Co. exhibited fine Radiance and well-colored Killarney and White Killarney. There were good My Maryland and Lady Alice Stanley, a novelty here.

Pennock Bros. put up a beautiful table containing hampers, baskets and vases of exquisite form, filled with selected stock. They used white lilacs, pompons, Radiance and Lady Alice Stanley roses, with dainty green.

Myer Heller had a lovely little yellow French polyantha rose effectively arranged in baskets.

A word of praise must be given to David Rust for his work as secretary, and to William Graham and his able corps of assistants for their handsome decorations. Phil.

LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

The Lake Geneva Gardeners' and Foremen's Association gave its tenth annual chrysanthemum exhibition at Horticultural hall, November 6 and 7. The exhibits were practically all from the private greenhouses of the neighborhood, of which there are many. The quality of the stock shown never was better and the prizes were well distributed.

A special feature of the show was the staging of twelve groups, these serving to make the exhibition one of the prettiest in the history of the association. Of exceptional excellence among the cut mums were those of R. Blackwood and J. Smith. Ferns and foliage plants of splendid quality were brought by J. Krupa, anemone and pompon mums by W. P. Longland, carnations by A. Johnson, orchids by J. Smith and mums and vegetables by A. Martin. Honorable mention was given Wm. Tricker, Arlington, N. J., for nymphæas, and C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., for single and pompon mums.

The principal exhibitors and prize winners were: R. Blackwood, gardener to Mrs. A. C. Allerton; J. Smith, gardener to J. J. Mitchell; A. Martin, gardener to J. H. Moore; A. Johnson, gardener to Mrs. J. T. Jenkin; W. Wahlstedt, gardener to Mrs. H. H. Porter; F. R. Kuehne, gardener to A. B. Dick; J. Krupa, gardener to N. W. Harris; W. P. Longland, gardener to C. L. Hutchinson, and C. Ackerson, gardener to S. B. Chapin.

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

The tenth annual chrysanthemum show of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held October 29 and 30. There was a fine display of well finished mums, carnations, roses, vegetables, etc. All the classes were well contested. The judges were W. Turner, T. Bell, R. Angus and A. Griffin. Among the prominent exhibits the class for fifty varieties of hardy pompon chrysanthemums was a foremost feature, as the two exhibitors had each won the cup two years and this year was the deciding one. It was won by Henry Gaut, gardener to Mrs. H. L. Pratt. John W. Everitt, gardener to Mrs. J. T. Pratt, was second. J. W. Everitt won the cup for table decorations, with a splendid table of a new single pink seedling chrysanthemum named Ernest Westlake, Jr., Henry Gaut taking second place with Dorothy Dann, a fine bronze. Joseph Adler, gardener to Harvey S. Ledew, Esq., was third with the bronze, Peter Pan, and F. Honeyman, gardener to Percy Chubb, was fourth with a bicolor single. There were eight entries for this class. The society's cup for twelve kinds of vegetables was won by F. Petroccia, gardener to A. G. Hodenpyle.

The principal exhibitors and prize-winners were: F. Honeyman, gardener to Percy Chubb; H. Gaut, gardener to Mrs. H. L. Pratt; James Macdonald, gardener to Mrs. J. H. Ottley; A. Fournier, gardener to W. L. Harkness; A. Boss, gardener to Mrs. W. D. Guthrie; J. W. Everitt, gardener to Mrs. J. T. Pratt; L. G. Forbes, gardener to Payne Whitney; L. Fogarty, gardener to Mrs. C. D. Brewster; Harry Jones, gardener to Mrs. J. C. Ayer; James Gladstone, gardener to Paul Dana; J. F. Johnson, gardener to Mrs. E. D. Pratt; F. Petroccia, gardener to A. G. Hodenpyle; Herman Boettcher, gardener to Mrs. W. V. Hester, and Thomas Leeming.

James Gladstone was manager of the show.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The annual autumn exhibition of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society was held November 4 and 5 at the Mathewson Street church and attracted a large number of exhibitors and flower lovers, who were unanimous in the opinion that it eclipsed the efforts of the last several years. Chrysanthemums formed the principal feature, although carnations and roses found prominent places.

Burke & Burns were first in all the rose classes except one, Macnair the Florist being first on Ward.

On carnations J. A. Macrae was first on White Perfection, White Wonder, Enchantress, Matchless and Champion, the rest of the premiums being divided between E. E. Howard, R. J. Taylor and Maplehurst Greenhouses.

Some of the Classes for Short Stems at the Boston Autumn Exhibition.

J. A. Macrae won three firsts on cut mums, F. C. Hoffman one first and three seconds, and Macnair the Florist one first.

On chrysanthemum plants, pompons and singles, the prizes were divided between Macnair the Florist, F. C. Hoffman, J. A. Macrae, R. J. Taylor, E. E. Howard and the Rhode Island hospital. Wm. Appleton was first for palms and foliage plants.

T. J. Johnston & Co. and Johnston Bros. divided the premiums on basket and bouquet, the former being first and the latter second.

AMHERST, MASS.

November 3 and 4 a chrysanthemum show and exhibition of floral arrangements was given by the department of floriculture at the Massachusetts Agricultural College. A large number of chrysanthemums, all of which were grown in the college greenhouses, were shown. A contest among the junior students in table decorations added materially to the interest of the show. Wedding bouquets of roses, corsages and basket and box arrangements of various kinds of flowers were done by the seniors in the course. Exhibits of new varieties of flowers, potted plants and pottery were sent by growers and people in the trade. The entire exhibition was much larger than any held by the department in former years and was visited by over 1,000 people from all parts of the state as well as from the vicinity.

The junior students showed both taste and skill in decorating their tables. In this class were sixteen entries, for which three prizes were awarded. Miss Esther Chase, of Holden, Mass., received first prize for a light and dainty design of Fairy Queen (light pink pompon) chrysanthemums and adiantum. Miss Gertrude White won second prize with a low decoration of Dorothy Dann (bronze single) chrysanthemums and Asparagus Sprengeri. A table decoration of foliage of Japanese maple and Dorothy Dann chrysanthemums gained third prize for Mr. McKechnie. The judges were A. Butler, of Northampton; A. D. Gallivan, of Holyoke, and R. S. Carey, of South Hadley.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., of Philadelphia, exhibited plant novelties, crotons, adiantums, asparagus, etc. The F. R. Pierson Co., of Tarrytown, N. Y., showed different types of nephrolepis. Butler & Ullman, of Northampton, Mass., had an exhibit of accessories for the retail florist. Peter Fisher, of Ellis, Mass., and the Montrose Greenhouses, of Montrose, Mass., exhibited specialties in carnations and roses.

Tuesday evening, November 3, the Holyoke and Northampton Florists' and Gardeners' Club met at the college in conjunction with the M. A. C. Florists' and Gardeners' Club. A. Butler, of Northampton, gave an interesting talk on floral decoration.

Berlin, Germany. — Communication may now be had with Germany via wireless from Sayville, N. Y., at 50 cents per word, cable count, plus the land line charges.

Bush Hill Park, England.—Stuart Low & Co. have advised their correspondents abroad that business engagements are being executed as usual, the war having made much less difference than appears generally supposed.

Yokohama, Japan.—Shippers of lily bulbs, although they have consented to the cancellation of a considerable part of their orders for Europe, do not intend to overload the American market, as has been done with French and Dutch bulbs.

Hamburg, Germany.—England, which usually takes a big percentage of the crop, will refuse valley pips as long as the two countries are at war. Consequently it is a case of ship to America or hold in cold storage until peace is declared. The crop is of excellent quality this year.

Copenhagen, Denmark.—War risk insurance has gone up because of the activity of both Germany and England in strewing the northern waters with mines. Arrangements have been made for large quantities of valley pips to go thence to America, but shippers are delaying.

Rotterdam, Holland. — Of all the world, this is the one port that is exporting more goods to America than in normal times. The consular statistics show an increase of more than twenty-five per cent. Horticultural traders' commodities have contributed their share to the gain.

London, England.—In its determination to prevent trading with the enemy the government now requires customs officers to compel certificates of origin or ultimate destination to accompany each foreign shipment.

Orleans, France.—Levavasseur & Sons say that although their force now includes only women, boys under 19 and men over 45, they still have 180 hands in the nursery and have done more and better work than ever before. They add that weather conditions have been such that stock in the district is of better quality than for the previous three years.

St. Remy-de-Provence, France. — J. Hasslach states: "Our trade has experienced temporary embarrassment in consequence of the European war. People are much pushed for money, because no sale takes place. Further, a great deal of seeds cannot be gathered because numerous growers have been touched by the mobilization. A large acreage cannot be prepared to produce seeds for 1915 or will be devoted to corn or potatoes. We will have a great deficiency in the crop of 1915."

Nancy, France.—The nursery of Lemoine & Son, over which European armies have battled for weeks, has been the birthplace of some of the plants most popular in America. Begonia Gloire de Lorraine was preceded by: Hydrangea paniculata grandiflora, 1866; Abutilon Boule de Neige, 1872; Montbretia crocosmæflora, 1882; various hybrid astilbes, distinct forms of Anemone Japonica, and various weigelas, including the variety Abel Carriere, sent out nearly forty years ago, but still one of the best pink-flowering varieties in cultivation.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

W. P. Stubbs, of Wood, Stubbs & Co., Louisville, Ky., reports an exceptionally heavy crop of blue grass seed, of the finest quality. The present low price is inducing many to speculate. This concern is having increasing calls for Kentucky Wonder pole bean, owing to the scarcity of Valentine. Five cars were received and stored in the warehouse recently built, arranged with elevated tracks. A shipment of 300 bushels to one customer evidences the popularity of this well known bean. Onion sets harvested well—a fine supply for next season. Mr. Stubbs says business since June 1 has run twenty-five per cent above the average. Part of this is attributed to many farmers sowing wheat in place of cotton. Wood, Stubbs & Co. were fortunate in getting well stocked before the market advanced. They are listing for their retail catalogue trade a line of leading perennials, having had many calls, and intend planting on part of a farm of 1,000 acres. Soil and climate are ideal for their cultivation.

Otto Schwill & Co., of Memphis, Tenn., say fall business is the best they ever had. C. E. Heckle, manager, showed me a specimen ear of a new corn grown by the Harpeth Valley Seed Farms. It is called Terminal Red Cob. It produces two ears to a stalk, seventy to eighty bushels to the acre, and matures in 110 days. I also saw a specimen of Ullathorne's Champion, yielding sixty to seventy bushels to the acre, bred by Jos. Ullathorne, of the Ullathorne Seed Co., Memphis.

C. H. Hune, of the Memphis Floral Co., Memphis, says the company has struck rock bottom, now being located in the basement, but will be back at the old stand about January 1, in a fine new building. Business has been good, both in wedding and funeral work. Chrysanthemums are selling well.

The Idlewild Greenhouses, Memphis, are busy turning out excellent stock. The chrysanthemums grown three blooms to a plant seem to be the most profitable for the ordinary run of trade.

J. P. Keller, Lexington, Ky., is making a special feature of bulbs along with the usual display of chrysanthemums at this time. He reports good business.

Honaker the Florist, Lexington, is holding an exhibition in his handsome store, the usual chrysanthemum display.

The new title, John A. Keller Co., Lexington, includes the lady members of the Keller family, who have been interested in the business for some time. Stock in the houses looks good, especially Killarney roses and Silver Pink snapdragon. Ivory is still popular as the early white chrysanthemum. Fairy Queen and Diana are the two best sellers in the pompon class. A fine ice-box and storage room are among the latest improvements.

The Goodale Seed Co., Lexington, expresses itself well satisfied with its first year's business. It is well located for both wholesale and retail patronage. gardeners. W. M.

GROWING EXHIBITION MUMS.

[A paper by William Vert, of Castle Gould, Port Washington, N. Y., read at the Indianapolis convention of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, November 7, 1914.]

After the shows are over, look to your stock for the coming year. Select as many good, healthy shoots as required, seeing that each variety is labeled correctly. Keep them free from mildew and fly. When the propagating time is at hand, select the sturdy cuttings and insert them in the bench already prepared, watering them in thoroughly. This will carry them for a few days, besides firming the cuttings. Keep them sprayed lightly, to guard against wilting.

They should be rooted in about three weeks; then pot them up in 2-inch or 2½-inch pots, with a nice, light compost, but do not firm sufficiently to injure the roots. As soon as they are established give them an abundance of air, to keep them firm and sturdy, but never allow them to become rootbound.

The Successive Pottings.

It is essential to have the pots thoroughly clean, in order to transfer the plants without injury. Repot into 4-inch pots with a nice compost, consisting of three parts fibrous loam to one part leaf soil and one part decomposed manure, adding charcoal, wood ashes, sand, etc. Place in a house or frame and keep closed for two or three days. Many people bench from the 4-inch pots, while others prefer the pot-grown plants, of which I am strongly in favor.

When they become nicely rooted, repot into 6-inch pots, using practically the same compost, but using it coarser, besides adding a little bone meal. Keep a sharp lookout for mildew and fly; also see to the disbudding. Should they not show a natural break at this stage, it is good policy to pinch them in order to encourage the next break.

When the pots become well filled with roots, an occasional watering with diluted liquid manure or soot water may be given with advantage. A spraying overhead with the latter is also beneficial as an insecticide and stimulant.

See that the plants are hardy and well rooted before placing them in their final pots, which should be 7-inch to 9-inch. Perfect drainage is most essential. The soil should be well rammed, allowing a space of two inches for watering and top-dressing. For compost use four parts fibrous loam, one part leaf soil and one part decomposed manure, adding lime rubble, wood ashes, charcoal, sand and soot, and allowing a 6-inch pot of bone or bone meal to each barrow load of loam.

Feeding, Pinching and Disbudding.

Feeding may be commenced as soon as the roots are found to be running freely, by applying weak doses of manure water. Change the feed sometimes as time goes on, using chemical manure, such as Clay's, Bon Arbor, etc., which will be found most beneficial if used with care and according to directions. Never apply manure when a plant is dry.

About the middle of June some varieties not making natural breaks, such as F. S. Vallis, Harry E. Converse, Mrs. Lopes, etc., will need pinching to make them produce buds early in August. This allows about six weeks for the last break; later varieties should be timed accordingly.

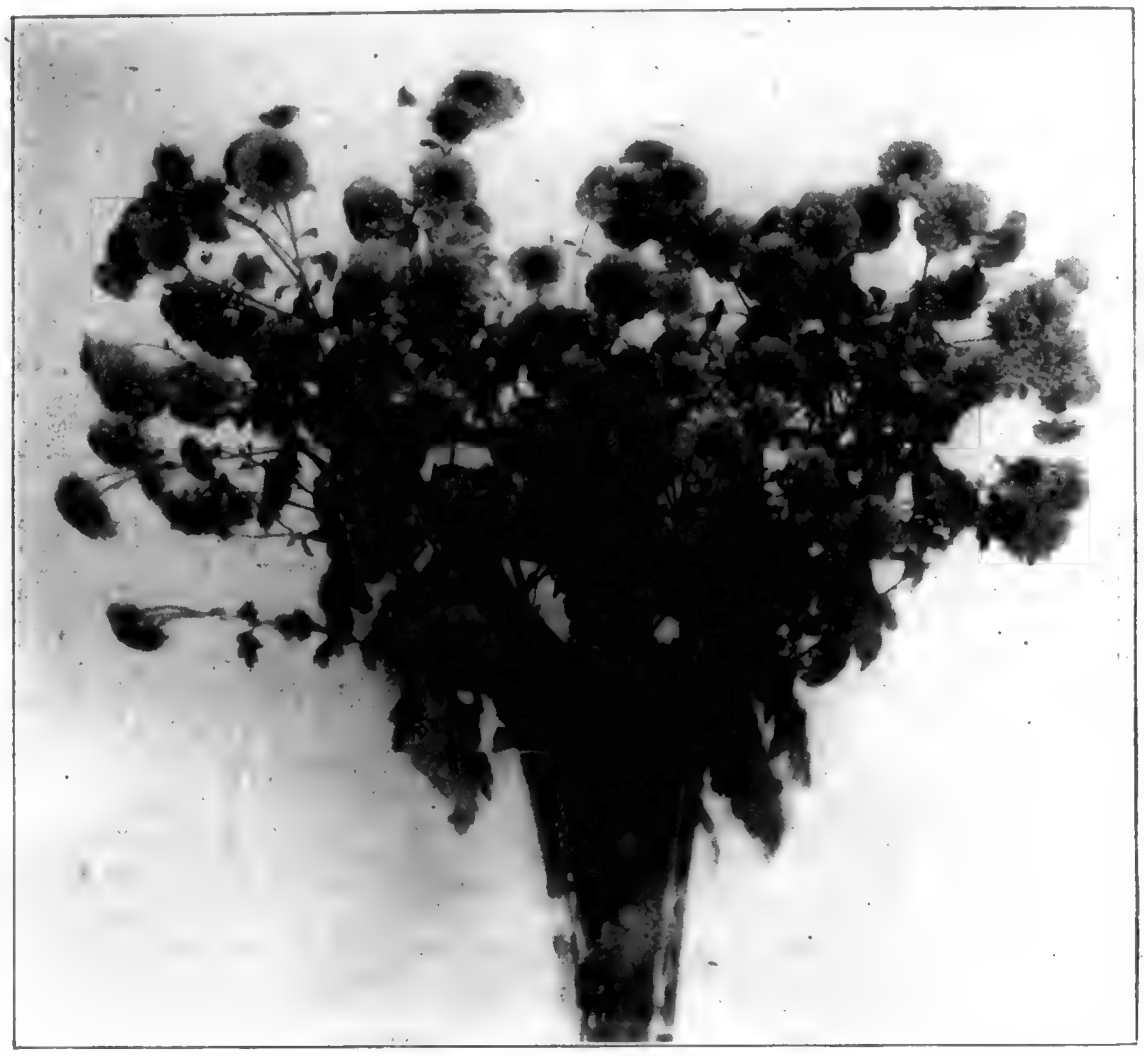
About August 10 many of the buds will be ready for taking. After this date it is safe to take all buds as soon as they become large enough to be handled without injury. In disbudding, discretion must be exercised by removing a few at a time. Keep the plants nicely staked, tied, and clean.

After the buds are secured look out for their worst enemy, the red spider, which will give considerable trouble if it once gets into the blooms. To avoid this, fumigate once a week until the buds show color. Continue spraying the foliage on bright days, avoiding the buds, which will rot if the water is allowed to settle in them. Also beware of the hairy caterpillar, which will ruin the foliage. Shade is sometimes necessary to guard against the burning of the petals during hot, bright days. The bronze and red varieties are more susceptible to burning than the other colors.

Packing the Blooms.

Cut blooms intended for exhibition are greatly benefited if put into water twenty-four hours before shipment. As to the packing, the blooms travel much better if wrapped with a full sheet of soft tissue paper, which is easily done by slitting the paper at the fold, inserting the stem in the slit just below the bloom, then gathering the folds and fastening at the top of the bloom with a gentle twist. For blooms intended to travel a distance, it is well to wrap the ends of the stems with wet moss, or use the regular Wells patent tubes.

I find the most serviceable box for shipping to be six feet long, twenty-two inches wide and twelve inches deep.



In staging, see that all blooms are fresh and unblemished, and preserve as much foliage as possible in the long-stem classes, as fresh blooms with good foliage generally capture the most points.

QUEEN MARIE.

For four years Herman Bros. Co., Council Bluffs, Ia., has grown a light magenta pompon which now has been named Queen Marie, choosing the name of O. H. Herman's youngest daughter. The variety was obtained from the Pacific coast and has proved quite profitable, both as a cut flower and as a pot plant. O. H. Herman recently has been exhibiting the variety to growers and the accompanying illustration was prepared from flowers brought to Chicago by him.

POMPON AND SINGLE MUMS.

[A paper by Fred H. Lemon, of Richmond, Ind., read at the Indianapolis convention of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, November 7, 1914.]

Looking back over the interesting history of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, a thought which occurs to one over and over again is the long list of noteworthy men who have honored this society with papers and lectures on various subjects of interest to the members. How naturally you think of the Chrysanthemum Society when you come across such names as Elmer D. Smith, A. Herrington, Prof. Cowell, C. Harmon Payne, Wm. Scott, Edwin Lonsdale, Mr. Wells, C. W. Johnson, and on through a long list—men who really know about chrysanthemums and who have given freely of their knowledge, first for the benefit of the Chrysanthemum Society, but always with the result of an uplift extending throughout the entire trade! Consider also the incalculable value of the series of articles appearing every year in our trade papers—articles of such practical merit as to constitute a textbook covering the entire subject of chrysanthemums from the cutting bed to the customer.

Taking all these things into consideration, it is not possible that I should be able to add anything of permanent value to this marvelous record. It was therefore with great hesitation that the invitation of your honorable secretary was accepted, and only the realization that the members of this society would not expect anything of great value made me decide to try to write something of interest.

Reasons for Society's Existence.

I do believe, however, that a condition confronts this society altogether different from the condition which existed at its inception and organization, or even the condition existing ten years ago. In the original constitution, which was adopted away back there in the middle nineties, there were five objects named as reasons for the society's existence. All these five "objects" applied primarily to production and improvement in culture. Only in Section 3 we find that one of the objects was "to improve the methods of culture, and to increase its use as a decorative flower." How this last clause happened to slip in, I do not know, but today I believe, with all the strength of conviction, that that little hidden clause contains the germ of the future growth and usefulness of the C. S. A. I believe that getting the millions of Americans to know chrysanthemums with an intelligent familiarity is, or ought to be, the greatest object of this society.

Any exhibition, no matter how grand the display, no matter how the expense is met, is a potential failure if it does not draw to its doors thousands of the more cultured people of the community, and, of even greater importance, show them new and beautiful ways of using chrysanthemums, as well as make them marvel over the glorious giant blooms.

Throughout the entire fabric of our business the paramount problem has changed during the last decade from the oft-repeated question of, "How can we best produce the stock to meet the leaping and bounding demand?" and has become one of reaching and teaching the great American public to appreciate our wonderful product.

Artistic Use of Small Mums.

This change is no less true in chrysanthemums than in other lines, and I believe that in the pompons and singles we have a class which will assist us greatly in our appeal to the public. The deep-seated conviction that such a change has come to pass in our business must constitute the only valid excuse for my appearing before this body of men, all of whom are able to teach me about chrysanthemums.

As a small-town florist who grows and sells his own flowers, I see in the single and pompon mums the only section of the chrysanthemum family which is amenable to the floral artist's everyday efforts. "Floral artist"—how we hate those words! And yet, what can we substitute? If anyone here has ever tried to obtain a soft and lovely effect with Timothy Eaton mums or even with Bonnaffon, I ask, if the resultant brain storm was not the artistic temperament showing forth, what was it? But give the man who has to make a floral basket a few sprays of Mrs. Buckingham or Mensa, and behold the result! Or a table decoration, in the autumn leaf colors—how well it works out when a few bunches of Inga or Ceddie Mason are at hand! How beautifully the strong tones of orange and yellow and red in the Mrs. Frank Beu sparkle in the soft light of the reception room! Even the formal little buttons like Baby or Skibo—how well they lend themselves to the formal Dutch bouquet or stately colonial! Just as the tiny Cecile Brunner or Bon Silene roses charm her ladyship into buying a corsage bouquet when she only intended to wear one rose, so will the crisp and sprightly Minta charm the customer into using mums for her table decoration in order to form a pleasing contrast to the great blooms of Wm. Turner in the hall.

Selling One's Services.

In a word, while the gorgeous and beautiful giant flowers of the queen of autumn simply give the retailer something to sell, her tiny sisters, the pompons and singles, give him a chance to sell his services—his training—his ability—his artistic instinct. The average retailer of today would as soon attempt to do without sweet peas as to go through the mum season without pompons.

The singles must be kept to a few varieties of the sturdy, crisp, outstanding kind which will stand handling and retain their form and beauty; when such kinds are found they are the prettiest of all chrysanthemums. Among the pompons the kinds with flowers ranging from the size of a half dollar to the size of a dollar are most useful, but a few buttons are always desirable. So far as colors go, the store man can use them all, and this cannot be said about the large-flowering section.

From the retailer's standpoint, I think it is safe to say that the pompons and singles form quite as important and necessary a class as the large-flowering type—that we are just as delighted to see them arrive in October and just as ready and anxious to kick them out in December. We love them while they are with us, and when they are gone we mourn them—not at all.

MR. TOTTY SERIOUSLY ILL.

Charles H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., was operated on November 6 at a hospital in Summit for appendicitis. Since the operation his condition has been critical. Peritonitis is feared.

There are few men in the trade who have more friends than has C. H. Totty. If well-wishes have any influence, his recovery will be rapid.

A FINE PHILADELPHIA STORE.

Some seven years ago Joe Callahan opened a flower store at 3804 Market street, West Philadelphia. He worked hard, kept down expenses by living in the rear of his store, and, with the aid of his better half, gradually built up a good business. People began to find out that he and Mrs. Callahan meant to please their customers; nothing was too much trouble. Their idea seemed to be to give good flowers and good service and to ask a fair price in return. The result was, the best people liked to deal at Callahan's.

Today M. J. Callahan owns the building in which his store is located, at 3924 Market street. It is the most beautiful store west of the Schuylkill river. A splendidly filled show window attracts the passer-by. Inside, a novelty case filled with pretty things, a handsome icebox cooled by an automatically regulated half-ton ice machine, a ribbon case and a substantial office adorn the handsomely furnished store. In the rear are a large conservatory, a storeroom and a garage for the two Ford cars and the now pensioned wagon.

A little bird told Mr. Callahan that The Review's readers wanted to see what he had been doing this summer, so, being a man of action, he kindly had this photograph taken expressly for their benefit. Mr. Callahan is seen on the left of the picture. Herman Schoenfeld is on the right and Al Thomas is in the rear. Mrs. Callahan modestly declined to appear. Phil.

NOLL'S NEW STORE.

The accompanying illustration shows the new store of T. J. Noll & Co., Kansas City, Mo., who have found it necessary to enlarge their space in order to take care of their business. The firm now is in its second year and reports sales running well ahead of last season.

MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

There seems to have been no improvement in general business conditions during the last week. There is an oversupply of everything. Roses make a good showing in both quantity and quality. The stock is exceptionally fine and is moving fairly well, despite the glutted condition of the market. The carnation supply was cleaned out pretty well during the first part of the week, but there is such an enormous supply of cheap mums on the market, bringing next to nothing, that carnations are suffering to some extent. Despite this fact, there seems to have been a slight improvement in the sale of carnations in the last few days. Good mums are bringing good prices, when sold, but owing to the overabundance of cheap stock, the good stock is not moving nearly as well as it should. Violets are improving every day and are selling well; the quality is up to normal, but the quantity is far short of last year. Lilies are moving slowly; the supply is extremely light, but the demand is even lighter. Valley is selling fairly well and there is plenty to meet the demand.

Various Notes.

A party of florists from this city left November 5 to attend the flower show at Indianapolis, Ind., expecting to return November 9. Among them were H. V. Hunkel, Wm. R. Schroeder, Nic Zweifel and Wm. Kennedy, of Milwaukee, and J. E. Matthewson, of Sheboygan, Wis.

Wm. Rayner, of Oconomowoc, Wis., visited Milwaukee November 6.

Nohos & Co., in the Merrill building, have opened a new store in the Camp building. The new location is an exceptionally good one, as the corner is one of the busiest in the city, and the venture should prove highly successful.

Wm. C. Zimmermann, who ran for the office of county treasurer, was not elected November 3. His many friends in the business did all in their power and his defeat was not due to lack of ability, but rather to the fact that the party with which he was associated was not strong enough to win.

Walter Holton's wife's sister has just completed a walk from Spokane, Wash., to this city, accompanied by her husband. The couple, who are stopping with Walter Holton, have many interesting stories to tell of their trip.

At the last meeting of the Florists' Club the evening was devoted to an exhibition of mums, which was well worth seeing. The Holton & Hunkel Co. had a display of Smith's Sensation. The C. C. Pollworth Co. showed numerous varieties of pompons, as well as some excellent single mums. The Heitman-Oestreicher Co. displayed some Bonnaffons. A. Reinhardt showed Lynnwood Hall and Eaton.

W. S. Desmond, of the L. S. Donaldson Co., Minneapolis, Minn., passed through Milwaukee November 7, on his way home. He did not neglect his

The Market.

Trade is picking up since cold weather set in. There has not been much funeral work, however. Chrysanthemums are not so good this year as last. It has been said that the warm October weather affected them; they seem soft and do not keep well. Pompons are coming into the market in large quantities and there are some fine varieties. Carnations are excellent and the demand is fair. Enchantress and Pink Delight are especially fine. Roses are much improved, owing to the cooler weather. Mrs. Ward, Shawyer, Sunburst, Killarney Queen, Hadley and Taft are among the best sellers. Orchids have been in demand, especially for debutantes' receptions, where they are used for table decorations, etc. Valley is good, but still is high in price. Marguerites, sweet peas, Paper Whites, Sweetheart roses, snapdragons and cosmos are the leaders in small flowers.

Various Notes.

A. N. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn., is sending some fine oncidiums, phalænopsis and cattleyas to this city; also some excellent show chrysanthemums.

Joseph Streit has a house of Chadwick mums which will be specially fine. His Lorraine begonias are ready and Cincinnati will be in fine condition for Christmas.

At Stroh's Quality Flower Shop trade is much improved since the cooler weather set in. They are growing some fine Paper Whites and some excellent pompon chrysanthemums at their greenhouses in Attica.

Harold Brookins has some excellent Spencer sweet peas, but is not cutting a great many at present. However, the full crop will soon be on.

James J. Karins, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, was a visitor last week.

S. A. Anderson had a chrysanthemum show last week, when the store was turned into a veritable Japanese garden. As a special feature, a debutante window drew large crowds. It contained a debutante figure receiving gift baskets, bouquets, etc., at the reception. There was also a handsome mantel decoration of cattleyas and Farleyense ferns and a dinner table decoration of red roses and yellow pompons.

William Ehmann, of Corfu, is shipping some excellent marguerites and carnations to this market.

The Lake View Rose Gardens, of Jamestown, N. Y., is cutting some fine Turner chrysanthemums which are immense in size; some fine Timothy Eaton also are coming in.

Harry Aust reports that his business is growing constantly and that funeral work keeps on coming his way.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Business has improved somewhat since last report. The colder weather has helped trade along. Also, a number of prominent people have been called away by death, and this has made a lot of funeral work for everybody. All seem to have had their share of the work. There have also been a few good weddings. Counter trade is not up to the mark, but is improving slowly. All outdoor stock has disappeared, giving the greenhouse men a chance.

Chrysanthemums are improving and large consignments arrive each day. The Bonnaffons are greatly welcomed, as they are of fine, lasting quality. Pacific Supreme, Chrysolora, Ivory, Touset and Queen have been good sellers during the last week. There are a lot of pompons in the market, as well as white, yellow and pink Garzas of fine quality, and all sell fairly well. Beauties are good and bring good prices. There is an abundance of other roses on the market and, although good stock, they are cleared at low figures. There has been an extra spurt in violets. Carnations are of fine quality, but the supply is not large. Orchids are good, but sell slowly. Easter lilies are plentiful, but there is no great demand for them. Bouvardia and mignonette are in the market. Valley is plentiful. The first Paper Whites of the season arrived during the week. There are plenty of bronze and green galax, magnolia leaves and all kinds of greens.

There is a good demand for potted plants, though about all that are offered are mum plants, Lorraine begonias, valley, primroses and cyclamens.

Various Notes.

J. B. Keller Sons have had a busy week. Trade is improving satisfactorily and they have several good orders ahead. They are receiving some beautiful single violets, which find ready sale.

The Maurer-Haap Co., of the Central Nursery, is doing a lot of window advertising. They report business as excellent and they are moving an immense quantity of bulbs and shrubs.

George T. Boucher recently had an unusual window display of ferns in 3½-inch crocks. It appeared as a large green rug, so regular and even were the fronds.

The Hawks Nursery Co. reports good business.

Personal letters have been sent to every member of the Florists' Association by President John Dunbar and also by Secretary H. B. Stringer, urging the members to attend the meetings more regularly during the coming winter season. Interesting topics are being arranged for the regular monthly meetings.

A wonderful display of chrysanthemums is being shown at the Lamberton Memorial Conservatories, in Highland park. They are now at their best, over 2,800 plants in full bloom being shown. The display includes many of the newer varieties, and large crowds attend daily.

James Vick's Sons are being kept fairly busy at their store on Stone street. The bulb season is at its height and large quantities are being sold.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

The market is at present badly overcrowded with chrysanthemums of all types. A return of warm weather is responsible for this oversupply, which extends to roses and carnations. Few violets are to be had; those coming in are but fair and stems are short. There is, however, a good demand for this flower. Snapdragon, which is coming into the market in small quantities, is not good and the call is light. Sweet peas are increasing in quantity, but are in little demand. Cattleyas are off the market and the new crop is not expected until the latter part of next week in this locality. Dendrobium formosum is plentiful and is exceptionally good. Gardenias are better, both as to quality and quantity. American Beauty roses are in oversupply.

Club Meeting.

The Florists' Club of Washington held its regular monthly meeting in the rooms of the American Institute of Banking last week. Among its guests were Richard Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., and Prof. Anspon, of the Maryland Agricultural College. Mr. Vincent brought with him a large collection of small chrysanthemums and gave a short talk on the rise and fall of the small varieties. He declared that these were regaining the popularity which they lost upon the advent of the larger types.

Prof. Anspon invited the florists and growers to take advantage of the facilities of the college to avoid insect depredations, improper results from fertilizers and similar troubles, sending the necessary specimens for experimental purposes.

An exhibit of small chrysanthemums was made by Theodore Diedrich and these, with a handsome vase of Killarney Brilliant, were the subject of favorable comment on the part of those present.

At the conclusion of the meeting the club proceeded to the store of Gude Bros. Co., where the firm's exhibition of chrysanthemums was viewed, and later to the Grotto, where a buffet luncheon had been prepared.

Various Notes.

Theodore Diedrich is bringing in some fine small chrysanthemums. His singles and pompons are meeting with ready sale.

David G. Grillbortzer is cutting some of the finest Killarney Brilliant that has ever been seen in this locality at this season of the year.

George H. Cooke has taken possession of his new store, at 1102 Connecticut avenue, northwest, and now has one of the most attractive establishments in the city.

Gude Bros. Co. has just completed what has proved to be one of the most successful chrysanthemum shows ever held by the firm. The entire floor space, about 5,300 square feet, was attractively decorated for the occasion with large palms, ferns, autumn foliage and cut flowers. The huge fountain space in the center was turned into a rockery and was topped with a large standard of American Beauty roses. The large stretch of space behind the icebox usually devoted to workroom purposes was given over to a showing of small chrysanthemums. The greenhouse at the rear was filled with large chrysanthemums of various colors. C. L. L.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

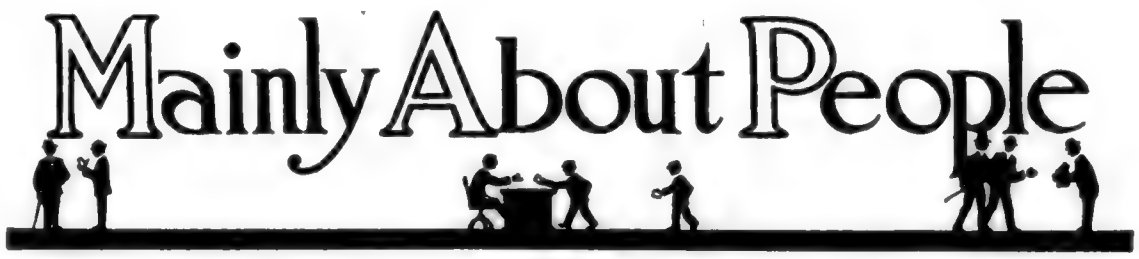
Business is improving, the conditions having been a little more favorable during the last week, and everyone seems to be more cheerful. The weather is not favorable to the grower or to the retailer, as it is too hot and brings stock into bloom too quickly. Chrysanthemums are just two weeks ahead of their time to bloom. Carnations and mums both are soft and flabby, and there are too many coming in at one time, which makes it difficult to dispose of them. The sales of low-priced mums and inferior stock are small. The retailer who does not handle this class of stock can sell the better grades at higher prices to his customers when he explains the difference in the quality of the flowers. All stock wholesales at a lower price than a year ago, and there is plenty of good stock of all kinds.

The rose supply is not so heavy, although both quantity and quality have improved considerably over last week. The prices have advanced a little, but they are not up to the average of the season for such good stock. Short roses are not so plentiful and are bringing a comparatively higher price than the better grades.

There are not enough yellow mums of the best quality to supply the demand, but the other colors seem to be plentiful. Of the inferior grades there seem to be too many at the close of the week, causing some sales at low prices in the department stores and elsewhere. Pompons and singles are in abundance everywhere. It seems as though everybody has doubled his stock this year, which makes the market sluggish for these varieties.

Carnations are improving in quality and there is a steady increase in quantity. The prices are low, owing to so many chrysanthemums being on the market at present.

Various Notes.



Ed. Ellsworth has purchased nine acres of ground at Grinter Heights, a suburb of this city, on the interurban Bonner Springs line. Mr. Ellsworth intends to make it his home some day. The purchase price was $3,000.

Mr. Hepting has purchased the interest of his partner, Mr. Stevens. Mr. Hepting has about 25,000 square feet of glass, which is devoted mostly to carnations; he also has a couple of benches of mums. He is cutting carnations which are above the average.

Arthur Newell reports that business is going along nicely and he is satisfied with the results. He had a heavy run on funeral work last week.

W. J. Barnes has had several small decorations, which keep things going. He has a fine lot of mum pot plants, but they are not moving as fast as they did last year.

T. J. Noll & Co. report that business is on the increase and they are receiving a fine lot of cut stock that is moving well. They are receiving a good many advance orders for supplies for the holiday trade and are working up a nice out-of-town business. W. J. B.

Mansfield, O.—Lee C. Berno, who not long ago disposed of his interests in the Berno Floral Co., is preparing to move to Kissimmee, Fla. The family leaves shortly.

Gibson City, Ill.—Andrew Peterson, of the Peterson Floral Co., acted as judge at the chrysanthemum show held November 5 and 6, under the auspices of the Civic Federation.

Plainfield, N. J.—Mrs. L. J. Denton, who has carried on her husband's business since his death, has sold out and is retiring from business, but will continue to reside in this city.

De Kalb, Ill.—J. Leonard Johnson, proprietor of the Flower Store, has announced that the nursery end of the business will be run separately under the name of the Odorosa Nurseries.

Champaign, Ill.—C. F. Swayger, formerly general landscape gardener of the Union Pacific railroad system, is now chief gardener for the Illinois Central, Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroad.

Altoona, Pa.—Edward Cassell, a 21-year-old employee of Myers Bros., who was injured in an autobus wreck October 27, has shown little improvement. His injuries, about the head and spine, are more serious than were supposed.

Rock Falls, Ill.—C. Frey has been engaged by the International Harvester Co. to care for the shrubbery and plantings around its Keystone plant.

Washington, D. C.—Robert Pyle, of West Grove, Pa., delivered an address on rose culture at a meeting of the Brookland Brotherhood here November 10.

Dwight, Ill.—The trade's sympathy is with A. L. Bump, of the Dwight Greenhouses, in the loss of his father, H. L. Bump, of Wausau, Wis., who died last week at his son's home here. The body was taken to Stevens Point, Wis., for burial.

Salem, Mass.—A "smooth" gentleman, who took two florists in this town for "easy marks" on which to work the check cashing game, made a poor guess. Joseph Hamilton and Henry T. Conant, upon whom he tried it, both failed to "fall" for it.

Canal Dover, O.—C. Betscher recently returned from a trip east, on which he visited Henry A. Dreer, R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., Peacock Dahlia Farms and other places handling similar lines to his own. He returned with the feeling that the florists' and nurserymen's business this autumn is relatively better than in most other lines.

SCHLING AND HIS HANDIWORK.

For the recent Tercentenary affair in New York Max Schling decorated his delivery car and created a mild sort of sensation. As Mr. Schling expresses it, "In one class we got $100 as a prize, and I thought that was all, but on Monday morning I received a large medal, almost a pound in weight, as a special prize for the most artistically decorated car." The picture shows Mr. Schling inspecting the car as it was ready to start out.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The Indian summer weather continued all through the last week, and the cut flower market showed no improvement until Saturday. It was a week of sacrifice. Many vanloads found an outlet through the department stores. The bargains were largely in the rose and carnation departments.

The flood of chrysanthemums is at its height. Prices are at least fifty per cent lower than in other years, and few of the best flowers have gone above $3 to $4 per dozen. There will be a splendid supply of mums for Thanksgiving, and some of the wholesalers are already booking orders for Christmas.

The shipments of roses of all kinds are now at high tide and the quality improves daily. American Beauties are superb. With twenty-five varieties of roses to select from daily, no taste need go unsatisfied. Some of the new varieties of roses are quite popular, especially Hadley and Ophelia.

Carnations sold all the week at half their value. There is little hope of normal prices for these and the short-stemmed roses until the mum shipments grow less. Both lilies and valley are firm at present quotations. Rubrums are low. Longiflorums show a hardening tendency.

Daisies, narcissi and sweet peas are now abundant and prices nominal. The violet men are talking $1 for the Yale game on Saturday, but have been glad to take a third of that figure for the best during the week past. The colder weather will bring a gradual improvement. There is little, if any, advance in price in the orchid market and no decrease in quantity.

Club Meeting.

President Duckham was promptly in the chair as usual when the meeting of the Florists' Club was called to order, November 4. The fair faces of nearly a hundred ladies graced the occasion and an even larger number of the sterner sex were present, nearly every prominent member of the club attending. The business session was brief. Resolutions of sympathy on the death of Miss Lillian Shaw were read by Emil Schloss, for the committee, and a message of hope and greeting was sent to Charles Totty, dangerously ill at Overlook hospital, Summit, N. J., following an operation for appendicitis, November 6.

James Fraser, of Morristown, and Samuel Batchellor and P. W. Popp, of Mamaroneck, were elected to membership. C. Tedema was proposed. The nominating committee announced as contestants for the various offices of the year 1915, for president, Messrs. Duckham, Bunyard and Hendrickson; for vice-president, Messrs. Miesem, Koehne and Henshaw; for secretary, Messrs. Young, Tuthill and Ebel; for treasurer, Messrs. Rickards, Schenck and Roehrs; for trustees, Messrs. Hogg, Cobb, Schloss, Fiesser, Boehler and Maynard.

Mr. Duckham made a graceful address of recognition of the club's courtesy in withdrawing his name for the office for another year.

The rooms were handsomely decorated with chrysanthemums, roses and oak leaves and banks of palms, provided by Wm. Kessler, Paul Meconi, Walter F. Sheridan, Jas. McManus, Traendly & Schenck, Gunther Bros., United Cut Flower Co., C. Slinn, New York Florists' Supply Co., L. B. Nason, J. K. Allen, Badgley, Riedel & Meyer, H. E. Froment, Pennock-Meehan Co., E. C. Horan, Geo. Siebrecht, Henshaw & Fenrich, Growers' Cut Flower Co., Young & Nugent, P. J. Smith, Woodrow & Marketos, W. P. Ford, Kervan Co. and Guttman & Raynor. The bouquets for the artists were made by Messrs. Hanft and Dentale, of Young & Nugent's staff. The ribbons were the gift of Schloss Bros. The banquet table was adorned with chrysanthemums and smilax. The menu was satisfactory, as usual, and the musical and literary entertainment the best ever afforded. The various artists donated their services and the club's thanks were hearty and universal. A. J. Guttman presided and with eloquence, wit and humor conducted the affair to a great success. Messrs. Duggan, Guttman and Musto deserve credit for their good work as officers of the house committee.

Various Notes.

Thos. F. Galvin's window decorations at his store on Fifth avenue are attracting much attention; they are sometimes changed twice daily.

James Coyle's best seller last week was the white Arline. He also displayed the first of the Enguehards.

Alex. McConnell's importations of boxwood from Holland for window and vestibule decoration have arrived and are of superior quality. This firm has had during the last week several notable church wedding decorations.

A message from his father called A. H. Henshaw suddenly to England November 7.

M. Aronowitz, of the Barclay Nursery, has leased the large corner store at Barclay street and West Broadway for a term of years. It is a splendid location for a dealer in bulbs and plants.

Guttman & Raynor's new store is approaching completion and will be one of the largest and most convenient wholesale establishments on Twenty-eighth street.

One hears no complaints as to general business at the seed stores, and all seem to be doing as well as in ordinary years when no wars prevailed.

The immense windows of the Stumpp & Walter Co. are featuring bulbs at present.

The sessions of the MacNiff Horticultural Co. will continue until after the holidays, if the weather prophets are to be believed.

The monthly meeting of the directors of the Cut Flower Exchange was held Saturday, November 7, at Queensboro plaza, in the office of W. H. Siebrecht, Jr., Long Island City.

B. Rosens, the supply man, has a great assortment of novelties for the holidays, and is the sole importer, he says, of the popular fricze roping from Japan.

Woodrow & Marketos are still busy with landscape contracts, which will take the rest of the year to complete.

Dierks & Arenwald have removed their enterprise to Brooklyn and have a department with Abraham & Strauss, of that city.

The wedding of Miss Alice Clarke to John Ashwell took place at St. Patrick's church, Jersey City, November 4. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Charles Clarke, and the maid of honor was Miss Grace Miller, daughter of Wm. H. Miller. The best man was Geo. W. Ashwell, brother of the groom. The reception was held at the home of the bride's father, at 66 Wegman place, Jersey City.

Horan, Geo. Siebrecht, Henshaw & Fenrich, Growers' Cut Flower Co., Young & Nugent, P. J. Smith, Woodrow & Marketos, W. P. Ford, Kervan Co. and Guttman & Raynor. The bouquets for the artists were made by Messrs. Hanft and Dentale, of Young & Nugent's staff. The ribbons were the gift of Schloss Bros. The banquet table was adorned with chrysanthemums and smilax. The menu was satisfactory, as usual, and the musical and literary entertainment the best ever afforded. The various artists donated their services and the club's thanks were hearty and universal. A. J. Guttman presided and with eloquence, wit and humor conducted the affair to a great success. Messrs. Duggan, Guttman and Musto deserve credit for their good work as officers of the house committee.

Various Notes.

Thos. F. Galvin's window decorations at his store on Fifth avenue are attracting much attention; they are sometimes changed twice daily.

James Coyle's best seller last week was the white Arline. He also displayed the first of the Enguehards.

Alex. McConnell's importations of boxwood from Holland for window and vestibule decoration have arrived and are of superior quality. This firm has had during the last week several notable church wedding decorations.

A message from his father called A. H. Henshaw suddenly to England November 7.

M. Aronowitz, of the Barclay Nursery, has leased the large corner store at Barclay street and West Broadway for a term of years. It is a splendid location for a dealer in bulbs and plants.

Guttman & Raynor's new store is approaching completion and will be one of the largest and most convenient wholesale establishments on Twenty-eighth street.

One hears no complaints as to general business at the seed stores, and all seem to be doing as well as in ordinary years when no wars prevailed.

The immense windows of the Stumpp & Walter Co. are featuring bulbs at present.

The sessions of the MacNiff Horticultural Co. will continue until after the holidays, if the weather prophets are to be believed.

The monthly meeting of the directors of the Cut Flower Exchange was held Saturday, November 7, at Queensboro plaza, in the office of W. H. Siebrecht, Jr., Long Island City.

B. Rosens, the supply man, has a great assortment of novelties for the holidays, and is the sole importer, he says, of the popular frieze roping from Japan.

Woodrow & Marketos are still busy with landscape contracts, which will take the rest of the year to complete.

Dierks & Arenwald have removed their enterprise to Brooklyn and have a department with Abraham & Strauss, of that city.

The wedding of Miss Alice Clarke to John Ashwell took place at St. Patrick's church, Jersey City, November 4. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Charles Clarke, and the maid of honor was Miss Grace Miller, daughter of Wm. H. Miller. The best man was Geo. W. Ashwell, brother of the groom. The reception was held at the home of the bride's father, at 66 Wegman place, Jersey City.

Bowling Club.

The bowling club is now well established. The officers are: President, John Miesem; captain, Jos. Fenrich; secretary, H. C. Riedel, and treasurer, P. Jacobson. The club bowls at Thumm's alleys every Thursday evening. The last scores reported were:

Player—	1st	2d	3d	4th
John Miesem	162	181	187	186
Jos. Fenrich	160	178	156	172
H. C. Riedel	139	162	160	153
P. Jacobson	152	146	143	169
A. Kakuda	150	145	146	159
C. W. Scott	142	151	154	171
A. J. Guttman	141	168	...	...
R. J. Irwin	139	153	...	...
J. Donaldson	185	163	...	...
W. P. Ford	170	149	...	...
A. Schanzer	130	137	...	...
A. M. Henshaw	137	149	...	...

The club also bowls on the afternoon of the monthly meeting of the New York Florists' Club, the second Monday of the month, at the same alleys. Everybody is then welcome. J. A. Shaw.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

The supply of outdoor mums has materially decreased and an improvement in the demand was noticeable during the week. Mums, of course, are the center of attraction and are in plentiful supply, with only fair prices prevailing. The weather has been unseasonably warm and clear and all of the later varieties are coming to maturity about two weeks earlier than their normal flowering time. Roses were in much better demand than they have been for some time and prices are going up to somewhere near normal again. Carnations are plentiful, but buyers are not, and the price is correspondingly low. Valley is overplentiful, with little call. Violets are improving, but still are of rather poor quality, with little demand.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club was held November 9, President Johnston in the chair. There was a good attendance and an interesting meeting. The coming show was the main topic under discussion and good results were promised. President Graham spoke on the subject and gave a general outline of the exhibition, and also gave out attractive placards for the members to distribute and display in their business places. The request for mums to fill the vase which will be the feature of the exhibition met with a hearty response from the growers present. A letter from the secretary of the S. A. F. was read in regard to the affiliation of local clubs with the national body. As the club has not the necessary number of members that are members of the S. A. F., it was decided to so inform the secretary. R. Vincent, Jr., told of the coming convention to be held at San Francisco and spoke of getting a party together to attend.

Various Notes.

William Lehr and Charles Siegwart took a trip to Philadelphia last week, to look over the show, and visited a number of rose growers in that vicinity.

James Hamilton has a fine lot of pompon mums, both in pots and for cut flowers.

John Cook is occupying his old stand, 318 North Charles street, after being temporarily located a few doors above while improvements were being made. The floor space of the store has been doubled, a new refrigerator has been installed and a plate glass and white marble front have been added, making this one of the most modern and up-to-the-minute stores in this city.

Hoffman Bros., of 311 South Seventh street, Philadelphia, will shortly open a branch store in this city, at St. Paul and Pleasant streets, for retail business.

Everything is ready for the opening of the show November 17. The annual meeting of the Maryland Horticultural Society will be held in the rooms adjoining the exhibition hall at 2 p. m. of this date, when the annual business will be transacted. W. F. E.

BOSTON.

The Market.

A slightly improved tone is noticeable in market conditions. Flowers clean up a little better, but prices show little improvement. Chrysanthemums continue to completely dominate the market. They are of good quality, but I never have seen prices on these so low. Except for a few fancies or crimson for the football games, the best figure obtainable seems to be about $12 per hundred. Bonnaffon continues to sell better than anything else. The singles and pompons sell better than the larger flowers and are much more popular for table decorations. Roses show a trifling advance on short grades. Those which had hung fire at 50 cents per hundred are now making $1. The call for fancy stock is not at all robust. Special Beauties make $3 per dozen, but quantities are cleared as low as $15 per hundred.

Carnations move sluggishly and will do so until the mum wave recedes. Of the newer sorts, Champion and Matchless are fine with a number of growers. A few special violets make 75 cents, but the general average is from 30 to 50 cents per hundred. Paper White narcissus has appeared, but there is really little need of it thus early. Easter lilies and callas are plentiful and selling poorly. Valley moves better; a good deal seen is of inferior quality. Cosmos sells poorly. Yellow marguerites and bachelor's buttons clean up as well as anything. Cattleyas are too abundant and clean up with difficulty at low prices. Gardenias are in better supply.

The leading flowering plants seen are chrysanthemums, Lorraine and Cincinnati begonias and cyclamens. Each of these sells fairly well.

Market Banquet.

The Boston Coöperative Flower Market held its annual business meeting November 7 and elected the following board of directors: John McFarland, W. H. Elliott, John Barr, Thomas Capers, Charles Leach, Donald Carmichael, L. E. Small, J. W. Simpson and Robert Montgomery. The new members on the board are Messrs. Barr, Capers, Leach and Simpson. Donald Carmichael, the treasurer, read his annual report, which showed a substantial balance.

In the evening a splendid banquet was served at the Quincy House to the stallholders and stockholders of the corporation. Some invited guests, including many ladies, also were present. Robert Montgomery, the president, called upon W. H. Elliott to officiate as toastmaster, which he did in his usual efficient manner. He spoke on the necessity of securing new channels of distribution for cut flowers in these times of glut.

Mayor Curley was prevented from attending, but sent his secretary, Mr. Slattery, who made an eloquent address and assured his auditors that the mayor would assist in every way in his power to create some better outlet for cut flowers, so that the masses could procure them in times of plenty at a low cost. W. N. Craig also spoke on the need of additional outlets for flowers. J. J. Cassidy spoke for the retailers' side, and B. A. Snyder for the wholesalers. Thomas H. Westwood spoke of the interesting and attractive calling that growers were engaged in. Further remarks were made by Charles Leach and Edward Wood. J. M. Cohen strongly favored having street boys and believed they did no harm to the retailers.

A nice vase of Mrs. Moorfield Storey rose graced the head table. These were the only flowers used, and this reminds me that at the Boston Flower Exchange dinner only a solitary vase was in evidence. If florists will not use flowers at their own banquets, is it not unreasonable to criticise others who do not use them?

Various Notes.

Paine Bros., of Randolph, are handling a fine lot of pompon mums this season. Their favorites are Princess of Wales, white; Savannah, yellow, and Fairy Queen, pink. They are just finishing a fine lot of Miss Alice Byron.

R. & J. Farquhar & Co. have foundations laid for six new houses, to be used mostly for propagating purposes, at their Dedham establishment.

C. S. Andem, of Putnam, Conn., is having good success with Matchless and Philadelphia carnations. White Wonder, White Enchantress and Enchantress Supreme are his other sorts. All are handled by Nathan Lerner.

John Gilmartin, an employee of Peirce Bros., Waltham, was poisoned November 5 by adding some Nicoticide to a drink he was mixing up for a cold. He lived only ten minutes after taking it and died in great agony. The accident occurred at midnight. The deceased had worked on a number of commercial places near Boston, was 33 years of age and leaves a widow and two children.

Frank Edgar is handling a splendid lot of pompon mums this season. He finds the old Julia Lagravere the most profitable kind. It comes in just right for the Harvard-Yale football game. He also has a splendid lot of Bonnaffons.

The West Street Greenhouses, of Reading, are shipping in bachelor's buttons and calendulas in quantity. Their carnations are unusually good, especially Pink Delight, Benora, White Wonder and Fenn. They also are strong on pompon mums.

Among the mums coming in from J. K. Chandler & Son, of Tewksbury, Iola, white, and Shrimpton, red, are the leaders now.

Paul F. Bridgham, of the Westboro Greenhouses, has 35,000 carnations this season. He grows chiefly Eureka, White Enchantress, White Wonder, Matchless, Philadelphia, Pink Supreme and Fenn.

A. A. Pembroke, of North Beverly, is one of our largest and most successful carnation specialists. He likes Matchless; its only fault is being short-stemmed early in the season. Champion also is doing splendidly here. He has a large batch of Princess Dagmar and it is blooming freely. White Wonder is superb. It already is three and one-half to four feet high and is a veritable sheet of flowers. Gorgeous is doing well, as are Pink Delight and Benora.

Galvin's had the decorations for the Larned-Fuller wedding in Dedham November 7.

The new store of the Houghton-Gorney Co., under the Park Street church, on Tremont street, opened for business November 9. The store is commodious and the interior decorations and arrangements are up-to-date. There are two show windows. A new auto delivery truck has also been secured. With so promising a start, the new firm should do a good business.

Fred Becker, of Cambridge, has a new anemone-flowered mum, larger than Garza, with more petals and a much better center. It makes a splendid bush plant, being dwarf and stocky. It will be introduced next season.

At the next meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, November 17, the annual nomination of officers for 1915 will be made. There will be a display of late chrysanthemums. W. N. Craig will read a paper on "The Gardener and His Profession."

The Horticultural Club held a meeting at the Parker House, November 4, with a good attendance, J. K. M. L. Farquhar presiding. W. A. Manda was among those present. C. S. Strout, of Biddeford, Me., was admitted to membership and made a forcible address. The lecturer of the evening was H. T. Fernald, of Amherst, his subject being "Insect Pests and Their Control."

John McFarland, of North Easton, has a grand house of late mums, mostly Bonnaffons.

Everett E. Cummings, of Woburn, is getting a fine lot of sweet peas. He also has Bonnaffon mums in quantity, in addition to his big lot of single violets.

Wax Bros. had attractive windows November 7 for the football game. In one crimson mums and cattleyas were used, in another yellow mums and calendulas. Business here is reported as good. They have a new delivery auto.

Peter Hylen, of Randolph, and Mann Bros., of the same town, had the first Paper White narcissi in the market November 7.

H. W. Vose, of Hyde Park, has Chieftain in good shape. This seems to be the leader of its color here.

The Sutermeister Estate, of Readville, says stevia will soon be fit to cut.

W. N. C.

Phoenix, Ariz.—Charles E. Morton opened his store in the Balke building, 115 North First avenue, October 31. The business will be run under the name of Morton's Flower Shop.

Olean, N. Y.—Elmer Rawlings has purchased the greenhouses and land of Fred A. Hamm, at Allegany, N. Y. His eight large houses on West State street are being moved to the new site, at Allegany, where he will have a large and up-to-date establishment.

Muskogee, Okla.—C. L. Crawford's interest in the concern run as Crawford's Flower Store has been purchased by Charles W. Whaley. Mr. Whaley was formerly claim agent for the Muskogee Electric Traction Co. and at one time a newspaper man. He will continue the business under the old name.

Johnson City, Tenn.—Miss Sallie Faw, owner of the Johnson City Floral Co., has just finished building a Moninger greenhouse, 25x138 feet, with a curved-eave show house in front. This will practically double the size of the range, which now comprises close to 10,000 feet of glass. The place is leased by Gunnar Teilmann, formerly of Marion, Ind., whose business has been steadily growing.

Rochester, Minn.—The R. Bragg Co., which was recently organized to take over the business of Ross Bragg and of which Mr. Bragg is president and treasurer, is planning the erection of a store on West Zumbro street, across from St. Mary's hospital. There will be a greenhouse attached to this store. The company also contemplates the erection of a range of greenhouses within the next few months.

Painesville, O.—The Carl Hagenburger Co. has opened its new store in the Utopia block, and has an excellent display of chrysanthemums, etc., in the window.

Huron, S. D.—Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Huron Greenhouses. The capital stock is fixed at $25,000, and the incorporators are R. D. Whorton, W. F. Whorton and Mildred Cahsun.

Winston-Salem, N. C.—Robert Grunert, proprietor of the West Salem Greenhouses, has just completed a greenhouse 21x80 and an addition to the main rose house, making the building 21x80 feet.

Gloversville, N. Y.—Thomas Barsons has sold his greenhouses and business, which he has conducted here for twenty years, to J. H. Frederick, for some years in the trade at Schenectady. The property consists of three large houses on North Perry street and the stock in the store at 18 West Main street.

Detroit, Mich.—The Schroeter-Stahelin Co. will open a high-class retail flower store at 531 Woodward avenue about November 16. The store will be in charge of Hugo Schroeter, who for eighteen years has been in the retail business with his father, B. Schroeter. The other member of the firm is Albert J. Stahelin, whose immense plant at Redford, Mich., is well known to the trade. It was Mr. Stahelin who built the first movable houses in this country and who now has a range of eight movable houses, covering a floor space of 50,000 square feet. In addition he recently completed a house 72x400 feet.

OBITUARY

John L. Parker.

John L. Parker, one of the best known druggist-florists in the south and for years president of the board of education at Birmingham, Ala., shot himself through the right temple November 3 in the basement of his store, on the corner of First avenue and Twentieth street. Death is thought to have been instantaneous.

There were few better known men in Birmingham than Dr. Parker. He had been president of the board of education for a number of years and was prominent politically before the inauguration of the commission form of government in Birmingham. He served several terms as alderman and once as president of the city council. He was also president of the state board of pharmacy, a former president of the board of trade and chairman of the executive committee of the State Fair Association. He was a Mason and a member of many clubs.

Mr. Parker came to Birmingham from Livingston in the early days of the city. His first drug store was on the corner of Second alley and Twentieth street. When the Woodward building was erected he secured the corner store and had operated a drug, flower and seed business there since. Mr. Parker had many interests in Birmingham, and the statement that he was in financial difficulties was denied by his friends. It is stated that his business was in much better condition this year than it was at the same time last year. His estate, although unappraised as yet, is expected to reach a large figure. Mr. Parker owned nearly thirty acres adjoining the fair grounds, with greenhouses, and in addition to this held much property both in Birmingham and elsewhere. It was stated by friends that Mr. Parker had $151,000 life insurance in force at the time of his death.

Mr. Parker is survived by his widow and two children, the oldest 14 years.

The funeral was held November 5. The public schools were closed in his honor. There was a large attendance and there were two wagon-loads of flowers. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery.

David Walsh.

David Walsh, aged 51, an employee of G. R. Clark, of Scranton, Pa., died November 3 at his home in Scranton, after an illness of several weeks. Surviving him are his widow, three sons, James, Edmund and David, Jr., and one sister, Mrs. John McVeigh.

John Welsh.

John Welsh, for twenty-seven years in the employ of S. J. Reuter & Son, Inc., at Norwich, Conn., died October 31 at his home on Clark street, Norwich, at the age of 45. He had been in failing health for the last six weeks and his condition became critical about a week before his death. Mr. Welsh was held in high esteem by his employers and was a foreman for the firm at the time of his death. He leaves a widow and four children.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

WITH this issue The Review starts its eighteenth year.

THE unemployment in the florists' business is nothing like what it is in almost every other line. On the whole, florists should count themselves lucky this season.

THE originator of the Hadley rose says that if a grower does not cut thirty to forty blooms per plant in ten months of the year there is something wrong with the culture.

CAN you think of anything more responsible for the fall in the price of roses than is the fact that production per plant has increased so greatly now that everybody grows the Killarneys as standard varieties?

THE average florist is more inclined to scramble with the other fellow for such trade as is going, than to think up ways to make new flower buyers. One new customer is worth, to the trade, any number coaxed away from some competitor; there's no gain there.

IT is the opinion of more than one or two that the principal reason for the present poor condition of business is a "psychological" one—people don't know but what there are real "hard times" ahead and are putting their money away instead of spending it. It may take a little extra advertising in the way of printers' ink to make them loosen up, but when they do the money will come the faster.

THE SWEETEST WORDS.

There are three words, the sweetest words
In all of human speech—
More sweet than are the songs of birds
Or pages poets preach.

This life may be a vale of tears,
A sad and dreary thing—
Three words, and trouble disappears
And birds begin to sing.

Three words, and all the roses bloom,
The sun begins to shine.
Three words will dissipate the gloom
And water turn to wine.

Three words will cheer the saddest days.
"I love you"? Wrong, by heck!—
It is another, sweeter phrase,
"Enclosed find check."

—American Lumberman.

ILLINOIS FLORISTS TO MEET.

The executive board of the Illinois State Florists' Association held a meeting at Indianapolis, Ind., November 7 and decided to hold the next annual convention of the organization at Urbana, Ill., the first Tuesday and Wednesday in March, 1915.

SETTING AN EXAMPLE.

The Review has tried consistently to work toward better things, to improve the quality of its matter in contrast to the twaddle that burdens the columns of many trade papers, to lead the trade upward instead of backward. It isn't so easy as to follow looser business methods, but it is appreciated—and becoming better appreciated every week:

The Review's new fall costume certainly is becoming, and the contents of the paper also is improving steadily. Of course, being the leading trade journal, we expect The Review to set a good example for us florists to emulate.—Bert Clippinger, Laramie, Wyo., October 23, 1914.

JUDGE VESEY TO WED.

The Indianapolis papers of November 6, the day the city had numerous trade visitors for the silver jubilee banquet of the State Florists' Association of Indiana, in a telegram from St. Louis announced the engagement of W. J. Vesey and Miss Cleo Freeling, a singer of that city. Judge Vesey, besides being well known in the trade as head of the firm of W. J. & M. S. Vesey, is a former judge of the Indiana Supreme court and one of the best known men in the state. He is a widower and 60. The dispatch stated that Miss Freeling is young and beautiful.

DON'T GRUNT; DO YOUR STUNT.

Think of the wonderful possibilities that lie before us in the crops just harvested! Preliminary estimates of the important farm crops announced by the Department of Agriculture, and statistics of the average prices paid to producers November 1, indicate that this year's wheat and corn crops are the most valuable ever grown in the United States, that the wheat and apple crops are record harvests, and the potato crop is the second largest ever raised.

The values of the important crops, based on the average prices paid to producers November 1, and their values last year follow:

Corn	$1,885,867,000	$1,730,021,000
Wheat	858,056,000	587,863,000
Oats	484,390,000	425,150,000
Barley	100,839,000	97,469,000
Rye	34,387,000	26,153,000
Buckwheat	13,297,000	10,444,000
Potatoes	219,396,000	230,741,000
Sweet potatoes	42,751,000	44,706,000
Hay	803,353,000	786,062,000
Cotton	462,483,000	880,360,000
Flaxseed	18,960,000	21,192,000
Apples	144,963,000	124,471,000

Is it any wonder that out in the great grain states of the middle west business never was better?

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

FIVE YEARS.

Wichtendahl, Wm., Maywood, Ill.

TWO YEARS.

McGowan, Frank, Utica, N. Y.
Sexton, Edwin, Delmar, N. Y.
Kohout, Joseph, Libertyville, Ill.
Weaver, Chas. M., Ronks, Pa.
La Crosse Floral Co., La Crosse, Wis.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

NO SCARCITY IN REQUISITES.

It develops that the dealers in florists' supplies, who were hard hit by the war, have been able to regain a lot of the lost ground. They depend in large measure on Germany and at first it looked as though they would be unable to make their usual importations this year. By much effort, and at considerable increase in cost for traveling expense, cables, freight and insurance, they have been able to get possession of a large part of their purchases, with more on the way via Holland. Certain items still are on the doubtful list, but on the whole the situation now is far better than seemed possible in August. The ribbon men now are the ones who are down in the mouth. They have the stock, but the orders for it have not been so good as was expected.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Sentiment has improved more than business. A couple of days of seasonable weather at the opening of the week served to cheer everybody up. But business still lags. There is a good run of orders at the ends of the week, but the middle of the week is dull. Always at this time of year there comes a fortnight or so that the shipping demand is affected by the large supplies of chrysanthemums through the country. Practically every florist who has any glass has been cutting mums in the last ten days. With mums ready for sale, either in his own place or in some near-by wholesale establishment, the country florist is pushing mums and not ordering anything more than he can help from Chicago. It always is this way. As soon as the mums through the country are cleaned up, the shipping demand will revive, almost with startling suddenness.

The Chicago market is loaded with mums. There is so much low grade stock that it can only be cleared out to the cheap sales people at figures that would not look well in print. There is no oversupply of strictly high grade mums and such of these as are received are selling rapidly, though at no high prices. The retailers complain they cannot get all the fancy mums they need; there is something wrong with most of the better stock. The season has progressed so far that it seems doubtful if there will be the usual supplies for Thanksgiving. This is expected to put quite a different face on things within the next ten days. Pompons never were so abundant as now, and this includes the so-called single varieties. They sell in quantity, but at low prices.

Next to mums, the carnation is the most abundant flower. The supply is much larger than usual at this time of the year and prices continue low. While the growers who produce strictly fancy stock are getting fair money, the grower whose stock is only average is realizing much less than normal November returns.

While it would appear that the quantity of Beauties on the market would justify seasonable prices, the fact is that the dealer who does not cut rates to clean up frequently finds himself with an accumulation of open flowers. The abundance of mums is thought to have had more effect than usual on the price of Beauties so far this month.

Rose crops are not heavy, but there is all the stock that is required. This does not always apply to orders for the novelties, and sometimes it is difficult to find short White Killarney, but Killarney is equal to requirements. Killarney Brilliant is not doing as well as the growers had expected, and those who planted Hadley still are awaiting results.

Violets are selling at the best prices of the season, not because there is special demand, but because the weather has caused the local singles to drop their buds, just as the sweet peas have been doing. Also, until recently the weather has been too warm for the shipment of the Hudson river violets. Consequently, there have been times when orders could not be filled with satisfactory stock. Gardenias and orchids are equal to the demand. Lilies are slightly more plentiful, both giganteum and rubrum. There is valley enough to go around and prices are easier than at any time since war was declared. There is some short pink snapdragon that is selling fairly well. Paper Whites arrived this week.

One of the noticeable features of the market is the increase in the number of cash buyers who visit the wholesale houses. These are the owners of the small stores that are increasing in number so rapidly through the outlying business districts. In the aggregate they take great quantities of stock out of the market every day.

Field Closes Flower Department.

After an experience of a little more than a month in the florists' business, Marshall Field & Co. closed its flower department November 7. No announcement was made as to intentions. Richard G. Kootz, who has had charge, under the millinery manager, of the two sections devoted to flowers and plants, was released; the other employees were transferred to other departments. The fixtures are still in place, but the space is being used for other lines.

The trade long has been of the opinion that the big store has the opportunity to do the largest flower business in Chicago, but the trade was

CARNATIONS

WE OFFER FINE STOCK AT REASONABLE PRICES

Buyers who know this market need only to be reminded that we regularly handle more Carnations than any other house in the west—probably more than any other one wholesaler in America. Club Meeting.

The Chicago Florists' Club held its monthly meeting at the Bismarck hotel November 5, but was unable to complete the business of the evening. R. J. Parker and Victor Young were elected to membership. Nomination of officers was postponed until November 19, when a special meeting will be held.

Most of the evening was given over to the discussion of plans for the show at the Art Institute, now a matter of history.

sales have been surprisingly good, considering the large quantities of bulbs in the country this season. The Dutch stock is well cleaned up except for one variety, Keizerskroon. Auratum has arrived from Japan and is specially good this year.

November 5 George Bayer, of Toledo, began his annual shipments of Bonnaffon to Kennicott Bros. Co. E. E. Pieser was able to be at the store for a short time November 9, but still is a sick man.

Several local growers and supply houses have shipped exhibits to the Houston flower show this week.

C. A. Boyle, at Galien, Mich., has begun his annual shipment of red winter berries to this market.

E. C. Amling comments on the condition of business, stating that he does not believe an equal quantity of flowers ever has been sold with so little actual waste as has been the case in the last month.

O. P. Bassett, who, since his retirement from the firm of Bassett & Washburn, has made his home at Pasadena, finds the climate there just to his liking. He is 80 years of age, but full of health and energy. Motoring is his principal pastime. His present car has been run just two years and recently the speedometer turned 50,000 miles. He averages about 2,000 miles per month.

L. Hockner, who is commuting from Crystal Lake, had a party of friends out for a housewarming November 8. Among them were Felix Reichling, Miss McNulty and their fellow employees of Peter Reinberg.

Erne & Klingel report the receipt, November 4, of a consignment of mums from San Francisco. They had been on the road since October 31, but arrived in salable condition. Only it is something like carrying coals to Newcastle to ship mums to this market in November.

For years John G. Witt & Son have done a large garden business at 10423 Wallace street. Recently they have gone into outdoor cut flowers, etc., consigning last summer to the Chicago Carnation Co., and now they are building a small greenhouse, planning to start a retail flower business as the Fernwood Park Floral Co.

Pyfer & Olsem have removed their retail store at Wilmette to the Village theater building, where, with new fixtures, they have an extremely attractive place.

According to N. J. Wietor, W. L. Brock is the best pink mum, better even than Chieftain.

tion in the trade is largely a state of mind, business undoubtedly being good, else such heavy receipts could not be cleared with so little waste.

J. E. Quallich, who as service manager was a recent addition to the office force of the A. L. Randall Co., says he enjoys the job immensely. His duties are to see that the wheels of business run smoothly, an important matter in a line so full of detail.

Better business is expected by A. T. Eichel, the Irving Park Florist, now that he has moved into his new store at 4226 North Crawford avenue.

A. L. Vaughan and some friends made an automobile trip to Rochester, Ind., November 7. The return was delayed a day by engine and tire trouble.

Paul Klingsporn, of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, says Elmer Sigwalt, at Arlington Heights, is having special success with his sweet peas.

avenue. At the rear of the new place he has built a showhouse 25x25 and a greenhouse 23x100, both designed and manufactured by the Ickes-Braun Mill Co.

After a brief trial Peter Reinberg will discard Hadley and use the space for propagating, Emil Reichling considering it the most unpromising bench on the place.

Ed. Galavan, of the A. L. Randall Co., says the new stork basket has made a hit; the idea appeals to the public.

Ernst Amling, at Maywood, is one of the growers who is more than pleased with his success with Mrs. Russell rose.

A. Lange seldom has handled larger quantities of stock than in the last six weeks.

The interests in the McNeff-Swenson Co., advertising specialists, have incorporated McNeff-Swenson-Zoll, with $15,000 capital stock. The incorporators are L. Dow McNeff, Hilmer V. Swenson and Robert L. Zoll.

There was much excitement at the Wittbold establishment November 6. A row of frame dwellings about a block away caught fire and showered the neighborhood with sparks. Most of the greenhouse force took positions on the roofs of the Wittbold buildings to extinguish flying embers.

When P. D. Farrand, of Valparaiso, Ind., made a hurried trip to Chicago about a week ago he called on Buchbinder Bros. He is now the possessor of one of the No. 4708 refrigerators.

Harry Manheim, with Hoerber Bros., who is one of the old hands in the market, says he never has seen mums affect the salability of carnations the way they seem to have done this season.

The retail store of Wm. Schofield, 734 North State street, has been remodeled and newly decorated at an approximate cost of $900. The improvements consist of a new tile floor, marble wall shelves, a marble centerpiece and a new refrigerator. Work on the floor was greatly delayed on account of the tile layers going on a strike.

Wellworth Farm, the Kidwell establishment at Belmont Station, is cutting a fine crop of Beauties.

C. L. Washburn, of Bassett & Washburn, returned November 6 from an eastern trip. Mr. Washburn reports Beauties outselling mums in the east. Carnations were moving slowly. Mr. Washburn said that the public wants a fancy mum and will hardly buy any other. His son, E. B. Washburn, is in New York, and soon after his return will leave for California.

A holdup right in front of the City hall had as its victim A. Billerbeck, who is with H. N. Bruns. The spoils did not amount to so much, but when Mr. Billerbeck objected he was knocked down.

Why Buchbinder Refrigerators are Best : : : : : : :

WE HAVE been building florists' refrigerators for 15 years and it has been our aim to build only the best in every way. Within that time our business has grown rapidly until today, what was at the start a very small shop, is a large and completely equipped and perfectly organized factory.

Our success in the making and marketing of Florists' Special Refrigerators has been very gratifying, and we attribute this success to a thorough and practical understanding of the requirements of Florists, as well as to a fixed determination to excel in this particular line of manufacturing.

We exercise the greatest care in the selection of all materials entering into our goods, and each and every part is thoroughly inspected by our experts. In this way we are able to make refrigerators which not only appeal to the eye for their beauty of design and finish, but which excel in every other way.

To establish the reputation we enjoy has required careful study of the Florists' special needs and constant guarding against imperfect workmanship and the use of inferior materials; to maintain this reputation shall ever be our constant aim, and we promise to all the utmost satisfaction.

BUCHBINDER

FLORISTS'

520 Milwaukee Avenue

PERFECT circulation in our refrigerators is accomplished by maintaining sufficient air space around the ice to permit the cold air to drop freely in the bottom of the ice chamber. The ice chamber is so placed and arranged that the cold air flues are placed lower than the warm air flues, for this reason: The cold air, dropping from the bottom of the ice chamber into the bottom of the refrigerator, forces the air at the bottom to the opposite side of the partition, and the vacuum caused by the air dropping from the ice chamber draws the air that has been forced to the opposite side back into the ice chamber through the top of the warm air flue, where it again comes in contact with the ice and is recooled.

This method of circulation is the most positive and economical that can be used and insures always a cold, dry air, circulating continually through your refrigerator.

Visitors.

R. Karlstrom accompanied the exhibit of W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., which was shown at the Art Institute this week. He is not so pessimistic about business as are many easterners.

H. J. Corfield has been in town, with his eye open for large landscape jobs. He says he has the plans in his hands for one at Libertyville, which he hopes to carry out. At present Mr. Corfield has no fixed abode, but moves from job to job.

Among the visitors since the Indianapolis show have been Alex. Montgomery and Alex. Montgomery, Jr., whose special interest was in the growers who have Russell and Hadley.

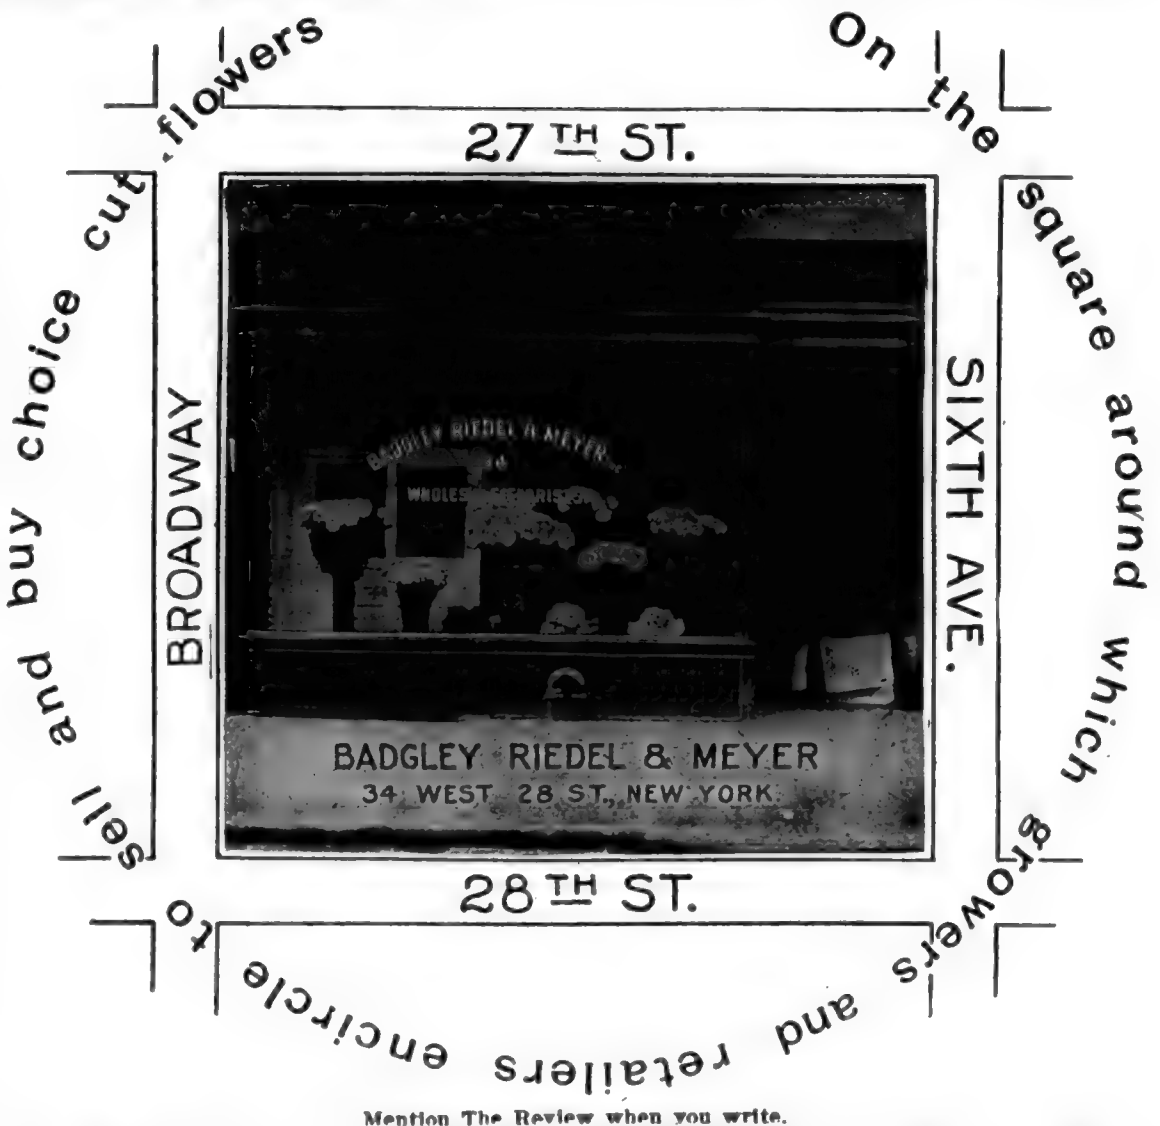
Mrs. M. E. Irby, of the Flower Shop, Memphis, was in town several days this week.

E. G. Hill, of Richmond, is calling on the growers, showing new roses.

O. H. Herman, of Herman Bros. Co., Council Bluffs, has been in town several days in the last week, showing the new magenta pompon, Queen Marie, and booking orders for stock.

NEWPORT, R. I.

Edward Hass has returned from a business and pleasure trip to New York, where he spent several days.



James Ritchie has commenced the erection of a handsome bungalow at Miantonomie Hill, in Middletown.

William B. Scott & Co. have been receiving several large invoices of Holland bulbs recently, which are finding ready sale.

John H. Greatorex was a visitor in New York last week.

D. P. Thurston, general manager of the tree surgery department of the Armstrong Co., of Worcester, Mass., has returned after a two weeks' visit here.

It is likely that the American Gladiolus Society will hold its annual exhibition and convention in this city. While the date has not been set, it will probably be in August or September. W. H. M.

GLOEKLER FLOWER REFRIGERATORS

THE essential part of the preservation of cut flowers is a cold, dry circulation of air. That is the fundamental principle of Gloekler Flower Refrigerators. It keeps the refrigerator sweet, clean and sanitary, and at the same time results in a saving of ice consumption. It requires perfect insulation to produce this condition, and the Gloekler method of reinforced cork insulation has been proven by test the only practical way of producing such a result.

And then, the selling quality of the refrigerator—that is a big point for consideration. These refrigerators display flowers so attractively that they almost sell themselves. They are as valuable as an extra salesman in your store. They present an insistent argument to the customer to buy, but in an unobjectionable way. And, after all, the first aim of the florist is to sell.

Gloekler Refrigerators are made of selected materials, finished to exactly harmonize with your store interior, and completed with our own heavy, attractive hardware.

Many splendid styles and sizes in stock for quick shipment. We build any size or style to order. Any finish.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

The Market.

On the morning of October 29 we had our first frost of the season, with the thermometer registering 28 degrees. Nearly all the outdoor stock, unless protected, was killed. After two or three hard frosts, the temperature rose to the summer level and last week business was slow, owing to the heat. The present week started cool, with a large number of funerals, and much better business will result. This week will see the finish of the greater part of the mums, as the warm weather hurried them on. About the only ones left will be the extra late varieties. Roses are plentiful and the wholesale price is low. Carnations are coming in with nice flowers, but the cut is a little short.

Various Notes.

William Halbrooks, superintendent at the Oak Hill cemetery, is cutting some nice carnations from his new house, which is located near the cemetery. He is selling the cut at wholesale. The greater part of the plants are of the Enchantress varieties. Some of the newer sorts are being tried out. The house is 30x200 and of Moninger semi-iron construction. The boiler is a 125-horse-power Brownell, put in with the expectation of erecting more houses. The establishment is on a 5-acre tract of fine, level land, near the city limits. Two of the sons are in charge.

Louis Fritsch has put in a new hot water boiler, with capacity enough for another house. He reports a good business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Elspermann have returned from Chicago. They were exceedingly busy on All Saints' day and All Souls' day and business since then has been good.

The west side business men recently held a fall festival and it is planned to hold one annually. The exhibits were all in tents, of which there were six. The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. had a large exhibit of palms, ferns and cut flowers in the pure food tent, and it attracted considerable attention. They won the first prize. They find business good and the supply of flowers is equal to the demand. Their downtown store window is always tastefully decorated.

Julius Niednagel & Sons had an exhibit in the agricultural tent at the west side festival and it was much admired. This firm is cutting excellent mums and business is up to the usual standard. The office and show room in the Intermediate building is seasonably decorated.

Karl Zeidler has had considerable funeral work and has worked off most of his mums in this way. He is having a large cut of roses. The carnations are looking well.

Austin Wallace is cutting a large quantity of Killarney.

Miss Nellie Goodge has a few benches of lavender Queen mums that are unusually fine.

W. D. Macer keeps a good stock of mums in his store and appears to have an excellent business.

Royston & Fenton are having a nice cut of roses and smilax, for which the demand is good.

It seems that but little effort would be needed to induce all the florists to make an exhibit at the next fall festival held on the west side. The business men over there are a lively bunch and would be glad to have such an exhibit. Think it over. E. L. F.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

The Market.

Little can be said in praise of the weather during the last week. With rain and cloudy skies predominating, there is little encouragement for the florists. The early varieties of mums have practically disappeared and such varieties as Bonnaffon, Eaton, Razer and the like are coming into market in great quantities. There is an oversupply of nearly all kinds of mums. Carnations are seen only in small quantities and are of rather an inferior grade.

The Flower Show.

The principal topic of conversation among the florists is the flower show, which was held November 5 to 8, under the auspices of the Visiting Nurses' Association. As this was the first flower show held in this city in many years, the florists are to be commended for the results which were obtained. Exhibits were made by E. D. Smith & Co., of Adrian, Mich.; A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, Conn.; C. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J.; Pennock-Meehan Co., of Philadelphia, and G. B. Hart, of Rochester, in connection with the local growers and dealers.

The Baker Floral Co. showed one dozen each of twenty-four varieties, including Wm. Turner, Roman Gold, Timothy Eaton, Bonnaffon, Mrs. Kelley, Elise Papworth, Pockett's Crimson, Black Hawk, Smith's Sensation and Pink Gem. They also exhibited some fine cyclamens in 5-inch to 8-inch jars. Mr. Brown, the foreman for the company, reports that they are growing 26,000 mums in fifty-three varieties.

Of the local dealers, P. R. Quinlan made a large exhibit of plants, roses and mums, showing some good Vallis, Razer and Turner, together with several vases of pompons.

Peter Kay exhibited, in addition to mums and potted plants, two excellent vases of Carnation Gorgeous, which received considerable notice.

G. Bartholme showed a fine display of mums and palms.

The Pierce-Christian Co. exhibited fine vases of exhibition blooms, consisting of one dozen each of Turner, Enguehard, Appleton and Josephine.

Charles Bourne's display included mums of fine grade, plants and several baskets of pansies in bloom.

Other local exhibitors included Bannister Bros., Chester A. Harris, L. J. Mulhauser, the Fairmount Flower Shop and Cannellos Bros., all of whom deserve credit for the display made and for their efforts in bringing the show to a success.

Various Notes.

Bard & Davis have a most wonderful line of pompons in their greenhouses this year, comprising many of the newer sorts.

The W. E. Day Co. has been exhibiting in the windows some choice blooms of the newer kinds of mums and pompons.

Irving Clark, of Jamesville, and William Swind, of Cazenovia, have decided to discontinue their greenhouse operations for the coming winter and have disposed of their stock. Mr. Swind, however, will continue the cut flower and design work as usual.

R. W. Vogt, of Skaneateles, reports an exceptionally good fall in shrubs and roses, having had a big increase in orders and planting over last year.

Mr. Sheldon, the narcissus specialist of Oswego, was in town during the mum show and expresses himself as greatly pleased with the efforts of those in charge. He reports great progress in the development and growing of bulbs on his place, and anticipates a big future for them.

The Baker Floral Co. reports having received thirty cases of azaleas from Belgium, in fine condition, and will have the usual quantity for Christmas.

L. S. B.

ST. PAUL.

The Market.

Conditions last week were highly satisfactory to the general trade. The cooler weather has set in and business was brisk. Debutante receptions required a lot of stock and at these affairs the best generally prevails. Fancy baskets are taking the lead in the debutante sales. The larger stores report exceptionally heavy sales along these lines. Funeral work is plentiful and the general business is reported as constantly increasing. Stock is fine and the supply is well taken care of. Chrysanthemums at some of the growers' places are about cut out. Carnations and roses are fine and at times the market has been short. Violets are of good quality, but are slow in coming in, no doubt owing to the weather. Orchids and bouvardias are ready sellers.

Various Notes.

St. Paul will shortly add one more store to its list. Gus. Colberg, recently of L. L. May & Co., has leased a store in the new St. Paul arcade and expects to have his opening December 1. The arcade connects two principal streets and, as there is no other florist in the immediate neighborhood, it should prove a good location. Mr. Colberg is

The Market.

There is a better tone in the retail flower shops, hardly yet felt in the wholesale houses. This is easily explained, as with such an immense quantity of stock in the market the retailers are able to take advantage of the extremely low prices that still exist, while the wholesalers have such heavy loads to move that it takes a great deal of business to affect them. The fact that they are able to move the flowers at some price is encouraging.

Chrysanthemums rule the market. Prices range lower than last season for the same quality of flowers. In a general way fine Bonnaffon bring about 12½ cents; Maud Dean, the same; Alice Byron, Dolly Dimple and Alice Salomon, about 10 cents, while 8 cents is a fair figure for Ivory. The vanguard of the late midseason varieties, such as

My dear Mr. Niessen:

For the Tercentenary Affair, we not only did get a $100.00 prize in one class, but also the first prize, consisting of a medal weighing almost a pound, for the most artistic decorated car.

Now that all this is past and forgotten and new big things are coming up, I still remember how much help I did get for my work through your firm, who helped me a great deal in supplying 9000 Dahlias in one shade and color, and if I would not have had my flowers in the exact coloring in sufficient quantity, I never would have made my work so that it took these prizes.

Thanking you again, I am,

Yours sincerely,

Chadwick, Eaton and Dr. Enguehard, have arrived. They bring about $2 per dozen for the best, occasionally more, but not infrequently less. Prices on pompons range about the same as last week, with a greater variety for selection.

Violets are the scarce flowers in the market, but there is so little demand for them that this scarcity is hardly felt. The rose crop is rather off, due possibly to a nip from Santa Claus, but this is mainly felt in the shorts or saving-a-loss grade, for which there is keen competition among the quantity buyers.

There is no especial feature to the rest of the market, excepting the fact that everything feels keenly the competition of the autumn queen.

The November Meeting.

The election meeting of the Florists' Club was the best in a long time; everybody was there and helped to make things go. There were good addresses from E. Gurney Hill, of Richmond, Ind.; Myer Heller, of Newcastle, Ind.; C. L. Washburn, of Chicago, and C. T. Carrie, of Portland, Ore. President George Burton announced the committees. A number of new members were elected. After adjournment President Burton entertained the club.

Various Notes.

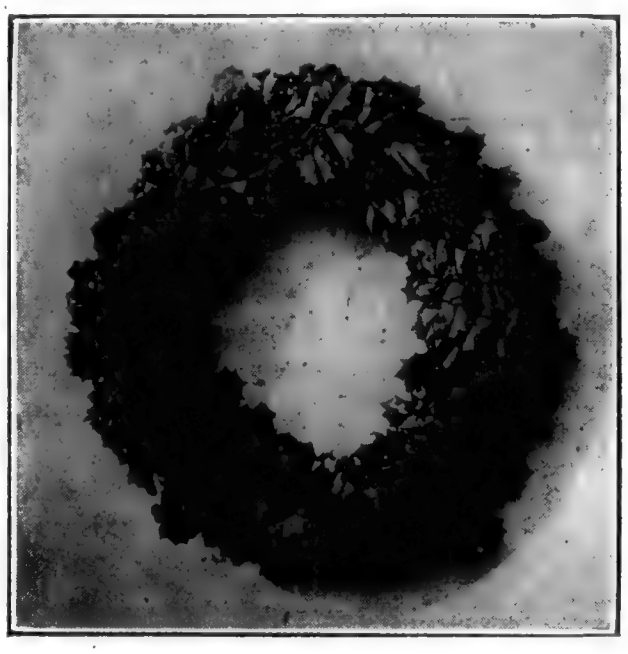
The national flower show committee met at the Hotel Walton, November 11, to make the preliminary arrangements for the big show to be held in this city in the spring of 1916.

Charles Poryzees has returned from Greece.

John R. Andre is embarking in the coal business, with two practical coal men, at Doylestown. Mr. Andre will run his coal business as an adjunct to his greenhouses, with the idea of getting his coal at cost, it is said.

Miss Mary Brown has opened a new store, her third, at 1523 Germantown avenue, formerly occupied by F. W. Myers. Miss Brown's two other stores are on Rising Sun lane and at Fifth and Fairmount avenues.

President Eschner, not President Wilson, says that business has greatly improved since the election.



Raimbault & Bruzeaud Co., of Buena, N. J., is sending the first early white lilac to John W. McIntyre.

H. Bayersdorfer says that all the florists' supplies for which invoices have been received are now here. He predicts a scarcity by the end of next month.

A. F. Yeager and Mrs. Yeager, of Allentown, Pa., were here last week.

Raymond Brunswick, secretary and treasurer of the M. Rice Co., is suffering from ivy poisoning, the result of camping out with his troop of boy scouts. He has had a pretty tough time, but is now recovering.

John Godfrey Aschmann is sending out large shipments of azaleas.

There is to be a big flower show at Reading the last three days of this week. Henry F. Michell Co. will have an exhibit there.

The Germantown Horticultural Society held a successful chrysanthemum show November 9 at the Friends' library in Vernon Park. There were excellent exhibits and a large attendance. Miss A. H. Jacobs delivered a lecture on insect life in relation to plant life.

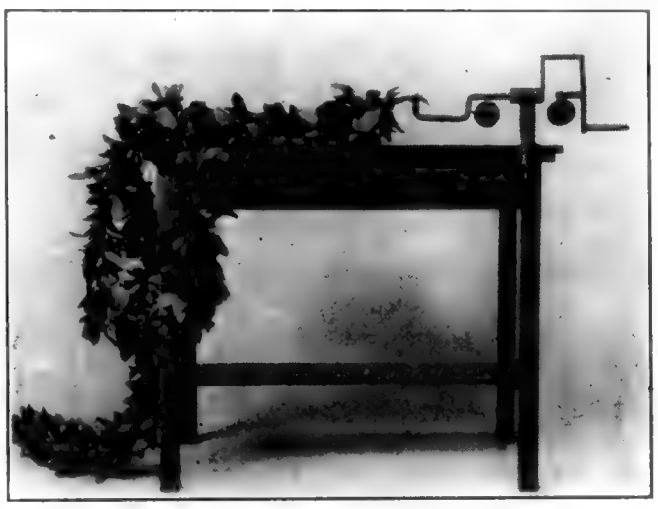
Leo Niessen reports the arrival of Cypripedium insigne from Chestnut Hill. There is an added interest attached to these cyps from the fact that John Burton spent his leisure summer-time getting them into trim.

Edward Reid had a successful gunning trip to Meadowbrook last week, when he outshot his German competitor in good style.

H. H. Battles likes Hadley, but the growers are a bit dubious. Phil.

CLEVELAND.

Club Meeting.



Monday, November 9, was the regular meeting night of the Florists' Club and the welfare committee and the exhibition committee arranged a flower show which brought out a large and enthusiastic crowd. The judges appointed to examine the displays reported as follows:

The Carl Hagenburger Co., Mentor, O., had a fine vase of mixed snapdragon, including Mrs. John Newell, pink; Phelps' White, September Morn and Yellow Nugget; also a table of Gloire de Lorraine begonias, well grown.

The Breitmeyer Floral Co., Mt. Clemens, Mich., showed a vase of seedling pompon chrysanthemums.

A. Schmitt had a table of cyclamen, declared to be the finest ever shown here.

The J. M. Gasser Co. showed a table

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The week has been unusually warm and fair for the season, there being no approach to frost at any time. Everything has come forward faster than was desired, and there has been an abundance of everything seasonable. Of course chrysanthemums continue to be the big feature and there is a larger supply of these than there is demand, but roses and carnations are not far behind. What we need is something to clean up the surplus. The demand is better than it was a few weeks ago and even better than it was a week ago, but it is not nearly so good as it was a year ago. This, together with a supply that is greater than ever before, means plenty to go to the dump. But still no one is complaining, for everything is bringing fair prices.

Various Notes.

The Art Association gave an exhibit last week in the Carnegie Library building, and several florists donated exhibits of plants and cut flowers. As their names appeared on the exhibits, they benefited somewhat by the show, though the visitors were left to be their own judges of quality. This leads to the query, why not have a flower show in Nashville? There are several seasons of the year when such an event could be held and it would be well patronized, besides being a good way to educate the public to buy flowers.

The Nashville Manufacturers' Association is holding a special exhibition of things made in Nashville this week, and some of the florists are taking advantage of the occasion to get some advertising by putting up exhibits.

Goldenrod, wild asters and rudbeckias in several varieties were most abundant this season, and, as they were somewhat of a novelty, they were used in decorations to a considerable extent where florists' flowers would otherwise have been used. This may in part account for the decrease in the demand.

McIntyre Bros. have a nice display of mums in their new place this week. Of course the old place is full of plants and cut flowers as well.

At the Hillcrest School Farm bulbs are being dug. Tuberoses and ismene have done well, but nothing else has amounted to much this season.

All hands are busy in the city parks getting in bedding stock and putting things in shape for the winter. A great deal of tree surgery is being done this fall.

Haury & Sons have their wagon on the street at present selling pot plants of various kinds. Their store is well stocked with the best line I have ever seen at their place.

The Joy Floral Co. is keeping up the exhibit of "fifty-seven varieties," and it attracted favorable comment from the daily press a few days ago. The company exhibited a vase of twenty-five as fine white chrysanthemums at the Art Association exhibit as one often sees.

Pot mums continue to be the feature at the store of Geny Bros., but their cut stock is better than usual, also.

F. B.

Salina, Kan.—Edward Tatro's greenhouses and boiler shed are now all completed. Stock in the former is growing well, and everything in the latter is ready for the fires to start.

RECEIVER'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

of PHOENIX NURSERY COMPANY

BY VIRTUE OF AN ORDER and decree of the Circuit Court of McLean County, Illinois, on the 5th day of November, A. D. 1914, I, John Y. Chisholm, Receiver of Phoenix Nursery Company, will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder, at 2 o'clock P. M., on at the east door of the Court House in Bloomington, Illinois, the Real Estate of the Phoenix Nursery Company, comprising a trifle over 65 acres, nearly all of which is located within the city limits of Normal, Illinois (a suburb of Bloomington and connected by street car).

This is one of the oldest and best-known nurseries in the United States, with a patronage in nearly every State and Territory in the Union.

There are located on these grounds: Greenhouses, with about 60,000 feet of glass, heated by steam; large Barns, Sheds and Cribs; also very large Packing House and two large frost-proof Cellars, besides Grafting and Propagation Houses, Office and other buildings.

A part of this property would make an ideal addition to Normal if not desired to use in connection with the Nursery. The Receiver will offer the property in Parcels and also as a Whole. The Receiver invites personal inspection of property prior to date of sale and will be pleased to answer any inquiries concerning same.

Address JOHN Y. CHISHOLM, Receiver

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Gentlemen:-

We have been making a careful study of results obtained through our various advertising mediums, and, among the trade papers, we have found that we are obtaining the best results from the Florists' Review.

During the Convention in Boston, many visitors who came to our booth to inspect our advertising display mentioned the fact that they have seen a great deal of our advertising in the Florists' Review.

After careful investigation we are satisfied that yours is the leading Trade Paper and that the best results from advertising may be obtained by using its columns.

Yours very truly,

Penn the Florist.

The Market.

Summer-like weather prevailed last week, which brought out cut stock in great quantities, and the market again was overcrowded with everything in season, especially chrysanthemums. In these, all the late varieties are coming in heavily. The extra fancy sell well, but not at such prices as were obtained last season, as trade in retail circles has been dull and the overproduction caused a slump in the prices of fancy blooms. All the wholesale houses have a big supply of fancy blooms of Ivory, Major Bonnaffon, Golden Wedding, Eaton, Chadwick, Appleton and Kelley. Roses are in fine supply, with the demand slow and prices low in all grades. Some extra fine Milady, Hadley, Richmond and Killarney were noticed daily at all the markets. The best hardly went over $8 per hundred. Of carnations the same story can be told. The large supply that is coming in daily has to be disposed of at low prices in order to make them move. Beacon and Enchantress in all varieties are among the best, having long stems and excellent color. Violets and sweet peas sell well. Valley is plentiful, with a good call. Easter lilies are not any too numerous. Paper Whites are coming in and the first brought $4 per hundred. Outdoor stock is now a thing of the past for this season. The weather conditions are better, for this week opened cold and clear, which should put some life into the business. Greens are plentiful.

Various Notes.

The St. Louis County Growers' Association held an interesting meeting November 4. The attendance was large and all the officers were present. It was decided that all members purchase an oil stove, so that if anything should happen this winter to the heating systems of any of the members there would be enough stoves in an hour's time to keep the frost out. President Vennemann says it was one of the best meetings the association has ever held.

Phil. Goebel, Jr., who brings in the county growers' cuts each morning, is cutting some extra fancy blooms of chrysanthemums and especially his Bonnaffons, which are being consigned to Windler.

David Geddis says his floral department at Vandervoort's put in a busy week. The sale of bulbs was especially heavy. A lot of large funeral designs, including a 50-dollar casket cover, made of valley and white mums, were gotten out.

The Lady Florists' Home Circle met November 11 at the home of Mrs. Fred W. Bruenig.

Guy Reburn, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, spent a few days here last week. He attended the meeting of

A. H. Burkemper, local representative of the Grasselli Chemical Co., called on the trade last week in the interests of nicotine.

The Bourdet Floral Co., Geo. B. Windler, John Held and Wm. Schray & Sons have a world of fine chrysanthemums, both cut flowers and pot plants, from which they supply the local store men. The demand has been good in all varieties.

Grimm & Gorly's place on Washington avenue looked like a flower show last week. Chrysanthemums were the main flower on exhibition. Mr. Gorly says the fine weather brought the buyers out and transient trade formed a large part of their business.

Clarence Pedlow, of Indianapolis, Mrs. M. Stoffey, of Chicago, and Paul A. Kohl, of St. Louis, were recently awarded scholarships at the Missouri Botanical Garden.

One of the attractions along Broadway is the window display of the Riessen Floral Co., which is featuring fancy cut blooms of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Buechel says business is satisfactory and is picking up daily.

Frank Windler, of the Windler Wholesale Floral Co., says that chrysanthemums sold well all through the week, but roses, carnations and orchids met with a poor demand.

Fred H. Weber, at Boyle and Maryland avenues, is showing some extra fine blooming plants and cut stock. Business here is reported good in all lines.

W. J. Pilcher's rose crop, which was badly affected with mildew, is now coming in, showing clean foliage and excellent flowers. Some fine Hadley, Milady, Ward and Killarney from here were received by the Smith Wholesale Floral Co. last week.

The local retailers donated several thousand carnations November 7 to society girls, to be sold on the streets for the benefit of the Old People's Christian Home. In this way the wholesalers got rid of a lot of surplus stock which could not have been sold otherwise.

"Bill" Edwards is on hand each morning with a fine cut of Bonnaffon. Joseph Hauser's specialty now, since the dahlias are gone, is violets, which are of extra good quality.

H. G. Berning, J. F. Ammann, E. W. Guy and A. G. Fehr enjoyed a few days at Indianapolis last week attending the show and meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society. All report a good time and a splendid show.

Richard Tubisen, who has been with Mrs. M. M. Ayres for several years, is now one of the firm of the M. M. Ayres Floral Co. He is the buyer for the firm at the wholesale market.

The Woolworth 5 and 10-cent stores, on Washington avenue, started to sell cut flowers November 8. Their first purchase was 5,000 chrysanthemums, which they expected to sell at 5 and 10 cents each.

A. F. Kopp, of Kirkwood, is consigning to this market some fine sweet peas with extra long stems. His carnations, too, are high in quality.

sioner of St. Louis and well known in trade circles, was stricken by paralysis at his home, 6170 Berlin avenue, November 6, and is now at the Jewish hospital in a serious condition.

Dr. George T. Moore, director of the Missouri Botanical Garden, created a fine impression on the members of the City Club, whom he recently addressed on "The Relation of the Garden to the City."

A considerable number of the suburban florists visited the wholesalers last week. Among them were H. Johann, C. Cerny, W. A. Rowe, P. Schneider, J. Connon, E. Denker, E. W. Guy, H. Emunds, W. J. Pilcher, W. J. Edwards, A. G. Fehr, A. H. Ahner, J. Himmer, H. Werner, A. Hartmann, G. Vennemann, A. Meyer, H. Gross, J. Hauser, R. Wolfsberger and A. F. Kopp.

The chrysanthemum show at the Missouri Botanical Garden is drawing unusually large crowds to the garden daily. W. W. Ohlweiler, the general manager, assisted by M. Schiller, Geo. H. Pring and C. W. Garnett, has staged a great show in the new conservatory, where the exhibit is held. A lot of new varieties, as well as all the old ones, are shown. Those in the trade who viewed the exhibition say it is one of the best they ever have seen at the garden. J. J. B.

hard to clean up the market, but it was almost impossible. Saturday, November 7, the temperature stood at 76 degrees, but by Sunday night it had dropped 40 degrees and about three and a half inches of snow fell. On the same day last year we had twelve inches of snow. This has caused all to be more hopeful for stock to shorten up and prices to go up. The bright, warm weather has caused most of the chrysanthemums to come in soft and their keeping qualities are not up to the usual standard.

Club Meeting.

The Florists' Club held its meeting November 3, at the Fort Pitt hotel. Chrysanthemums were exhibited and discussed. Among the exhibitors were John Costoff, gardener for Hon. Wm. Flynn, who showed Winifred, Appleton, Chas. Davis, Maud Dean, Virginia Maul and Nagoya of a commercial size. These were grown in benches.

Edward Tyler, gardener for C. D. Armstrong, showed some fine specimen cattleya plants and the single white daisy mum, Anna; also a sport of Anna, a pretty yellow.

Phipps Conservatory, north side, where Jas. Moore is gardener, had splendid flowers of Wm. Turner, Woodmason, Mrs. Gilbert Drabble, Odessa, a new yellow, and Meudon, a new pink, besides some fine single mums.

Phipps Conservatory, Schenley park, where John Jones is gardener, showed Winifred, Mrs. Geo. W. Burke, Wm. Turner, W. Mease, Rose Pockett, and one plant of Chrysanthemum Indicum. These flowers were all pot-grown and were fine, especially the Wm. Turner, which was the finest ever seen by any of the members.

Carl Becherer, of Dixmont hospital, was on the job with a lot of seedlings, both show varieties and single and double pompon varieties.

the commercial varieties, White Bonnaffon, Roman Gold, Chrysolora, Appleton and Chieftain.

President Neil McCallum then took the plant of Chrysanthemum Indicum and gave us one of his characteristic talks, with a history of the growth of the flower during the last 200 years. After an interesting talk by a visitor, whose name I have lost, on the influence of electricity on the soil in the cultivation of plants and field crops, the meeting closed.

Various Notes.

The A. W. Smith Co. is this week celebrating its fortieth anniversary with an autumn floral display. Invitations have been sent out to all customers. The store is newly decorated in the new shade of French gray, which some call London smoke. They will exhibit one certain flower each day, beginning Monday with chrysanthemums, Tuesday roses, Wednesday orchids, showing the effect of the different flowers for table decoration. On chrysanthemum day they showed a tea table decorated with Golden Wedding mums and a dinner table decorated with pompons and single mums. Both were beautiful, and the store, decorated with specimen vases of Wm. Turner, Dr. Enguehard, Golden Wedding, Roman Gold, Chieftain, Appleton and Eaton, presented a pleasing sight. To say that their visitors are appreciating the show is putting it mildly.

features of chrysanthemums in their window displays. Randolph & McClements have been making some splendid displays of vases of mums and baskets of pompons and single varieties, with specimen plants of cibotium.

The Zieger Co. finds that chrysanthemums and autumn leaves make attractive combinations in the large windows.

G. P. Weaklen & Co. make a specialty of the new shapes of baskets filled with pompons, and mixed baskets of small buds, daisies, etc., which seem to appeal to the general public.

The Blind Floral Co., with a store on a corner, used large vases of chrysanthemums with ferns and palms in all the windows. The store was recently painted and presents a beautiful appearance.

Mrs. E. A. Williams ran a yellow window all last week. Large chrysanthemums, pompons and single chrysanthemums, with some splendid specimen crotons and ferns, together with ribbons, filled the windows. The effect was changed every day.

The E. C. Ludwig Floral Co. had a beautiful table decoration in the window, arranged in a dining room effect, using chrysanthemums as the main flower.

The Ludwig Floral Co. kept up its usual display of assorted flowers, depending more on a general effect of all it had to offer than on any single line of flowers.

Mrs. J. W. Criswell, of Vandergrift, Pa., has completed a new house for the growing of bedding plants. Mrs. Criswell's success is more than creditable. Having started with no knowledge of the business, she is building up a fair sized establishment and a good trade, doing everything in a most up-to-date, business-like manner.

Pittsburgh's public conservatories are again to the front with their splendid shows of chrysanthemums, Lorraine begonias, orchids and plants of all kinds. They are filled with a constant stream of visitors from morning till night and on Sundays it is necessary to have police to look after the line outside waiting their turn to pass through. Both at Schenley park, where John Jones is gardener, and at North Side park, where James Moore is gardener, there are splendid shows and these reflect great credit on Superintendent George Burke, who plans for them each year. The Market.

Trade is better than for several weeks past, but is still below normal, and plenty of stock of all kinds is on hand. Nearly all the trade or at least the greater part of it is in mums. Some good mums are to be seen, and some extra fancy Turner, that make a hit. As a rule, however, most of the stock has been on the soft side, owing to the warm weather we have had, and even some of the midseason varieties have come and gone. At times there has been a great glut of mums and other stock in proportion, and we are all welcoming the cold weather we are now getting, which will have a tendency to improve the quality.

Beauties are arriving in fine condition, but have to be sold at a low price to move them at all. Other roses are fine and find about the same conditions. Carnations are plentiful and move fairly well, but most of them are moved at low prices. Sweet peas are coming in, but not heavily. Violets are not moving any too fast and plenty of them are coming in.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., 1915.

THE surplus of Dutch bulbs appears to be principally of hyacinths.

S. M. ISBELL & Co., Jackson, Mich., have published a set of post cards showing operations on their seed farms.

LEONARD SUTTON, of Sutton & Sons, has been chosen as mayor of Reading, where the firm's widely famous seed establishment is located.

NOTICE of the assignment of R. B. Hutchcraft, Sr., the Paris, Ky., seedsman, will be found in this issue under the head of Business Embarrassments.

LET the publicity artists get to work on the Brussels sprout. One of the best of vegetables, it is almost unknown to the great mass of the American people.

THERE will be some surplus lists this season, all right, but it looks as though most of them, at least at the start, will quote prices above the usual values.

EIGHTY-TWO cases of kentia seeds on board the steamer Soestdyk, from Rotterdam, which reached New York November 1, are the first to reach port of the consignments which importers last week were informed were on their way.

THE outstanding feature of the seed situation in the Chicago section is the extremely poor bean crop. As a direct result of the poor harvest this season, prices on seed beans have been boosted to a point which has not been reached for a long time.

A. H. HUMMERT, of the St. Louis Seed Co., says: "Business in our territory is normal. We have been having a good trade in bulbs this fall, both retail and wholesale. We have advertised in our local papers for the last three Sundays, which has helped us to clean up our surplus stock, with the favorable weather conditions, and we are expecting a good trade on Christmas greens for the coming season."

ACCORDING to M. L. Germain, president, the Victor Johansen Seed Co., Los Angeles, Cal., enjoys the distinction of being the only seed grower in the United States which makes a general line of flower seeds its exclusive industry. The business was founded at Arroyo Grande in 1898 by Victor Johansen, who entered the work with a splendid knowledge and experience gained in the culture centers of Europe. From the beginning it has been a unique organization through the active interest of all the members of the family, who have become experts in the work; and since the death of Mr. Johansen the roguing and selecting of stock seed have been done under the personal supervision of Mrs. Johansen and her three sons.

EASTER DATES are important for florists to know. Next Spring Easter comes April 4th, which is early. Those who have good facilities can easily get Giganteum in flower in time, but those who have only a moderate amount of heat had better get a few boxes of Lilium Formosum, to be more sure of flowers on time. And don't overlook the fact when ordering, that Horseshoe Brand Formosum are the kind to get.

BULB RECEIPTS DIMINISHING.

The end of the season for the importation of Holland bulbs is fast drawing to a close and the receipts are decreasing proportionately. The total number of cases received since last report numbered 146 and came on four steamers from Rotterdam, the Soestdyk and Nieuw Amsterdam, which reached New York November 1, and the Potsdam and Oosterdyk, which arrived November 4. WHOLESALER AND RETAILER.

Their Legal Relationship.

The relationship between wholesale and retail dealers in seeds, as affecting the rights of a customer of the retailer to proceed against the wholesaler, and questions concerning warranties in the sale of seed, as affected by trade customs and one's duty to read the terms on which goods are sold to him, were involved in the recent case of Ross vs. Northrup, King & Co., 144 Northwestern Reporter 1124, in which the suit was dismissed by the Wisconsin Supreme Court as presenting no cause of action against defendant, a wholesale dealer in seeds at Minneapolis. Plaintiff ordered a quantity of Comstock Spanish tobacco seed through a local dealer in Wisconsin, a Mr. Morton, of Viroqua, and, claiming that, after planting, the seed proved to be of an inferior variety, brought suit against defendant on the theory of a breach of warranty of the quality of the seed. In dismissing the suit, the Supreme Court took the view that Mr. Morton must be regarded as plaintiff's agent, and not as a representative of defendant, and that, since Mr. Morton was chargeable with notice that defendant disclaimed any warranty, the notice must be imputed to plaintiff so as to defeat any right to recovery. Judgment for $1,015 was accordingly reversed.

Existence of Agency.

It was shown that defendant advertised its seeds widely, and included in its advertisements coupons to be used in ordering catalogues. In the coupon there was a blank space for writing the local dealer's name. The court said: "We think it too plain to warrant discussion that this advertisement did not make every retail dealer in the United States the agent of the defendant. Inasmuch as the plaintiff must contend in order to recover that [illegible] keeper acted as his agent, it is not very material for the purposes of the case whether or not it be said that he also acted as the agent of the defendant, because we think the same result would follow in either case. * * * It is apparent that the material question in the case is whether the tobacco seed was sold to Morton with or without a warranty that it was true to description. Defendant knew nothing of the plaintiff in the transaction. Plaintiff's rights against the defendant are no greater than Morton's would be if he had been the real instead of the ostensible principal.

The Disclaimer Upheld.

"Leaving any question of custom out of consideration, where a certain variety of seed is called for, and seed is furnished in response to such call, there is a warranty that it is true to description, unless the seller advises the purchaser that the sale is made without warranty. * * * There is no doubt that the vender may sell without warranty."

The proof showed that Mr. Morton ordered the particular seed from one of defendant's catalogues, which contained an express disclaimer of any warranty, as did the shipping tag which was attached to the shipment, and the invoice. On this state of facts the court held that Mr. Morton, as agent for plaintiff, was chargeable with notice of the disclaimer clause, although he did not actually read it, and said on this point: "Mr. Morton could not close his eyes to the information that was literally staring him in the face, and then hold the defendant liable because he did so. In matters of contract one must observe what he has reasonable means of knowing." It was further held that it was immaterial that the seed was received before the invoice which contained the disclaimer clause, since it was not claimed that any use was made of the seed in the meantime.

Knowledge of Trade Custom.

The jury found that there existed throughout the northwest a custom among seedsmen to refuse to warrant seeds, but that plaintiff did not know of it. It was not found whether Mr. Morton knew the custom or not, but the court said he was presumed to know of it, and added: "It is not the law that ignorance of a general trade custom relieves a party from the effect of it. If there was a general custom among seedsmen such as was found, Morton, as

Single Early Tulip

Winterson's "Brilliant Keizerskroon"

ACTUAL SIZE OF FLOWER, FROM A PHOTOGRAPH

IF YOU WOULD "MAKE A HIT" with your customers, suggest the planting of a bed or border of this, the grandest of Bedding Tulips—do it now.

Winterson's "Brilliant Keizerskroon"

When in bloom they will prove a wonderful advertisement for you. Besides, there's a good profit in selling the bulbs.

A bed of this most beautiful of early Tulips, when in bloom, is certainly a dazzling sight. The combination of colors—brilliant Red and dazzling Gold—cannot be surpassed by any other variety. The flowers are of extra large size, with very strong stems, which protect them against rain and wind storms; furthermore, on account of their general strong character, they make a perfect showing for a longer time than any other variety. We have received from a specialist in Holland an exceptionally fine stock of this Tulip and offer them at the low prices as below:

Price, per 100, $1.35; per 1000, $12.50

250 at 1000 rate—special price quoted for quantity

"Brilliant Keizerskroon" is likewise excellent for forcing.

Are you getting your share of the "Bulb Money" that is "going the rounds" this year?

The public want Flowering Bulb Beds and Borders in spring, and it's "up to you" to take care of this important branch of the business this autumn.

NORWOOD (Near Cincinnati) OHIO

a retail dealer in seeds, was bound to know it."

Summarizing its conclusions, the Supreme Court said: "Under these conditions Morton would have no right of action against defendant, and therefore his undisclosed principal would have no such right. These conclusions would, we think, follow if Morton acted as the agent of both parties, because it would be his duty as agent of the plaintiff to communicate to him the knowledge with which he was chargeable."

Meeting a claim made by plaintiff that defendant had previously sent Mr. Morton a cabinet of garden seeds for sale on consignment, and that no disclaimer was printed on these packages, the court said: "If there was a general custom such as the jury found, it was immaterial whether there was a disclaimer on the packages or not, unless the defendant knew that Morton was ignorant of such custom, and there is no claim that it had such knowledge.

Non-Warranty Clause Is Fair.

"Besides, if defendant saw fit to sell its garden seeds with a warranty, that would be no particular reason why it should sell its field seeds in the same way. The damages recoverable for breach of warranty on the sale of small packages of garden seeds would ordinarily be inconsequential, while in the case of field seeds the reverse would be true. In the present case the pound of tobacco seed was sold to Morton for $2.25. The damages recovered were $1,015. It may seem unjust that the purchaser should suffer this loss. But it is apparent that, if seed houses warranted their seeds, they would have to sell at a very much higher price than if no warranty were given. If the defendant had sold 100 pounds of this seed instead of one pound, it would receive therefor $225, and on the basis of plaintiff's recovery would be liable for over $100,000 damages. It purchased the seed in Virginia, and admittedly ordered the variety which the plaintiff desired. The evidence shows that there was no way in which the substitution could be discovered until the tobacco plants were pretty well grown. Large seed houses who draw their supply of seeds from different parts of this and perhaps other countries cannot well grow all the seeds they handle. They are liable to be imposed on, and must either adopt the practice of selling without warranty, or of selling with one and imposing on the consumer an added price sufficient to make good the

SAVING EGGPLANT SEED.

I have some fine eggplants which I intend to keep for seed. Please tell me the best way to take the seed from the fruit.

J. M.

Let the fruit start to decay, then stratify in dry sand and afterwards screen out the seeds. Or, let the fruits rot altogether and then wash and screen out the seeds.

GREEN WORMS ON LETTUCE.

Is there anything with which I can fumigate my greenhouse to kill little green worms on lettuce?

S. E. C.

Scattering salt about lettuces, cabbages, cauliflowers and other plants attacked by green worms at this season will clear them out. Fumigation with hydrocyanic acid gas will also kill them.

C. W.

ONIONS FROM SETS.

Will onion sets do well if planted between tomatoes, or would the tomatoes shade them too much? Do onions require much water, and how long does it take to make a crop from sets?

H. C. B.

No, it will not pay to plant onion sets between tomatoes; the latter are rapid-growing plants and would soon shade the onions too much. Onions require a good water supply. The time needed to make a crop will depend on the time they are planted. If started early in January you will get a crop in eight to ten weeks. If you wait for sizable onions it will take longer, but I am supposing that you want bunch onions.

Houston, Tex.—The formal opening of R. C. Kerr's conservatory on the roof of his flower store at Main street and McKinney avenue was attended by over 2,500 people, to whom were presented ferns and cut flowers as souvenirs. An orchestra and elaborate decorations added to the attractiveness of the place. One of the show windows contained a wedding display and the other an autumn decoration, featuring the "old oaken bucket."

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Santa Barbara, Cal.—A. J. Verhelle, who has been in New York acting as agent for a European insecticide concern since he leased the Kentia Nurseries to his brother a short time ago, has returned and will conduct the Kentia Nurseries with his brother.

Baker, Ore.—J. Dale, of the Powder River Nursery, has had a wide experience with chrysanthemums, covering forty-five years, during many of which he grew in Europe 40,000 to 50,000 for market work. At present he is nursing a white seedling of which he has worked up a stock of close to 1,000 plants running from four to twelve buds per plant, recently lifted and moved indoors. He says "it is the easiest to grow of any that he has had to do with. The plant is a sturdy, hard grower, its height, when full grown, being from three feet to three feet six inches; every bloom perfect, there being no hard heads, and for commercial purposes, in my opinion, it cannot be beaten. I shall have flowers of this variety from now on to New Year's, one being able to work them to come in any time they choose."

PACIFIC COAST BEGONIAS.

Will you kindly tell me how I can make Begonia robusta and B. floribunda bloom, and at what time? I have fine plants of them, but they have never bloomed satisfactorily. L. V. D. L.

The nomenclature of the begonias is sadly mixed up in California gardens, and although I never heard any authority for the name, Begonia robusta is the name frequently applied to a form of B. arborescens. While not so free flowering as some other kinds, it usually gives a considerable number of its small, creamy-white flowers for several months in the year. It does best in a sunny place and should not be too frequently disturbed. L. V. D. L. should allow his plants to remain a little on the dry side now until spring, and then water freely as it begins to grow. B. floribunda—so called in California—is a form of B. semperflorens and, of course, a totally different plant. I never heard of anyone having trouble to flower this. In fact, it is so free in blooming that it is difficult to obtain sufficient wood for propagating. If this is not the kind L. V. D. L. is growing, it would be a good plan for him to send a little of the wood for identification. H. R. Richards.

SHIPPING ON THE COAST.

There has been a wonderful development in the last couple of years in the business of shipping cut flowers and greens out of the coast cities, especially Los Angeles and San Francisco. The latter city has built up a big trade north and east because of its location and excellent railroad facilities. Of course the principal factor has been the great increase in the population along the coast, but Frisco flowers now go so far east that they come into competition with stock from Chicago. While all kinds of flowers are shipped, the longest journeys are made by violets. Violets grown in the San Francisco region go regularly to retail florists in Missouri and Iowa. The shipments of violets last season were far heavier than ever before, but the way business is opening this autumn indicates that it will show another big advance. The number of florists between the Missouri river and the coast has increased much faster than has the production of cut flowers, which accounts for the demand on the wholesale shipping centers.

In the early part of this season San Francisco wholesalers did an unusually large business shipping chrysanthemums. There was a big demand in the northwest, and for weeks before the local stock was ready big shipments were drawn from San Francisco. California mums also have been sent this season to buyers in Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

It took the San Francisco growers and wholesalers some time to wake up to the possibilities of the shipping trade, but now they are thoroughly alive to the situation and are cultivating the demand.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

A dull week, with a lot of good stock going to waste and a lot more practically given away, about sizes up the situation in the local market. Northern growers continue to ship in large quantities of mums, quite demoralizing the market temporarily, and the fine weather has tended to bring in large quantities of local stock. Election day was almost a holiday, but without the usual holiday business that florists enjoy when other folks are having a good time. Prices are lower than ever known here before. In fact, there are no prices; it is simply a case of taking what is offered.

Smith & Dieterich's new store, at the corner of Seventh and Figueroa streets.

Leon De Staute met with an accident that might have proved extremely serious when walking home on the Whittier road recently. He was run over by an auto, but, on being taken to the Montebello hospital, was found to be only bruised and shaken up, no bones being broken.

W. W. Felgate and Irving Ward, of Sierra Madre, were among the exhibitors at the Sierra Madre show last week, both showing fine groups of flowering plants. Mr. Felgate also exhibited an excellent collection of vegetables. J. Dieterich and W. W. Felgate were judges.

Six carloads of nursery stock are due here this week for the joint buying of Howard & Smith, the Germain Seed & Plant Co. and E. Rust.

Hervey M. Lindley, the manager of the new store of Smith & Dieterich, will be married to Miss Alice Blust at the First Christian church of Los Angeles, November 19. Mr. and Mrs. Lindley will be at home to friends at 130 North Kingsley drive after December 30.

Big consignments of chrysanthemums continue to arrive at the Murata establishment, which is a busy place these days.

Frank Nelson, it is said, has sold his interest in the Washington Flower Shop.

A big floral umbrella was prepared for Albert Knopf, of the Redondo Floral Co., and he found it on his desk on the morning of November 4, the day that L. A. kept "wet." Fortunately, Mr. Knopf takes all things good-naturedly and does not fly off the handle at a little pleasantry.

The monthly meeting of the Los Angeles County Horticultural Society, November 3, was so poorly attended that adjournment was voted at 8:30. The election excitement in town was, no doubt, the cause of the poor attendance. The election of officers is due at the next meeting and a good attendance of members is earnestly desired.

Big consignments of evergreens and other trees are expected shortly by the California Evergreen Co. Mr. Rolleri is showing the berried manzanilla, a beautiful, glossy-leaved evergreen that is not so well known here as in the north but is well worth increased attention.

Fred Sperry is handling the cut of several growers of carnations and mums and is well satisfied with business so far.

The H. N. Gage Co. is pushing the nursery end of the business hard and the condition of the stock coming from Montebello leaves little to be desired.

H. W. Turner's rose stock looks as if it might produce a big Thanksgiving and Christmas cut.

Henry Bailey, of Montebello, has purchased a new automobile and is evidently quite at home in handling it.

H. R. Richards.

The Market.

Business was comparatively quiet last week. Now, though the election is over and this state has "gone dry," prospects in the flower trade are none too lively. The fact that carnations are selling wholesale this week at a cent apiece is no great source of joy to the long-suffering florist. This condition, however, is only temporary, and we all expect to see these staple flowers resuming their accustomed status soon. Indeed, there is a probability that before Christmas they will be exceedingly scarce and high-priced. Roses are good and fair supplies of them are coming in. Chrysanthemums, both large and small, are selling, but the prices are not so good as formerly. Pompons are meeting with good demand and are useful in many ways. More orchids are displayed just now than have been seen for a long time, and they are more popular than ever. Paper Whites are showing the commencement of the bulb season and are selling moderately well. Of pot plants, cyclamens and obconicas are now arriving in good shape. What little valley arrives is being used up quickly. Greens of all kinds are fairly abundant.

Various Notes.

Andrew Matthiesen has rented his greenhouses to the new firm of Buxton & Pedersen, who took possession the first of the month. These boys have had considerable experience in the greenhouse business. A. E. Buxton has recently been working for Van Slyke & Seamons, at Tacoma. He is not by any means a stranger in the district, as at one time he rented the Scott place, at Brighton. Lambert Pedersen, after varied experience in the east and in Europe, has for the last few years been associated with Joseph Stuber in the East Seattle Floral Co. It is confidently predicted that the new firm will make a success of the venture. At any rate, if painstaking effort and good knowledge count, there is no doubt in the matter.

There has been a change at the Rosaia greenhouses, at Thomas. E. Vittori, who has been in charge there for some years, has relinquished his interest in the business and gone to California. G. Gakazzi has been placed in charge by Rosaia Bros.

Jean Lamley's smiling face is once more visible in the store of Mrs. L. W. McCoy. He has been having a long vacation, partly on account of his health, and during his rest he visited eastern points. If appearances are anything to go by, he has benefited by the rest and change.

Palmero Rosaia became the happy father of another boy last week. This makes the seventh olive branch added to his family, so that indications point to Rosaia Bros.' perpetuity.

Washington and Oregon went dry at the election just over, so that now we shall have to get our booze from our southern neighbor, California, in addition to our other more or less desirable products.

Jacob Sahli was visiting friends at Brighton last week. He reported business good and prospects fair at Kent.

The Market.

A few days of cloudy weather tended to reduce the supply of carnations and mums to something more like normal. The demand has been affected by the interruption to social affairs due to the state and county election, as the women vote and take a great interest in politics. The varieties of mums now in their prime are Golden Eagle, Wm. Turner, Bonnaffon and an assortment of pompons. Several new seedling pompons have appeared which have taken well, as they are improvements over the parent stocks. There seems to be a

It Pays

To Pacific Coast Florists:

What stock have you for sale to the trade? Is it moving as it should? No?

Then tell the trade about it by using the Pacific Coast Pages of The Review.

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

Say! That ad's a humdinger for getting the business.—Everett Floral Co., Everett, Wash.

I sold all the Mum cuttings advertised, and you will not hear from me again until I can get some more stock ready. Shall root 100,000 Carnation cuttings for next season, as I know The Review will sell them for me.—Frank Wilhelm, Los Angeles, Cal.

Please cut out of our advertisement in The Review the cyclamen seedlings. We sold all our surplus cyclamen seedlings as a direct result of our advertisement in your paper.—Spokane Greenhouses (Inc.), Spokane, Wash.

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results. —Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

stronger demand for pompons than for the larger varieties. The supply of roses is about normal and their quality is excellent. The demand is fair. The varieties having the best sale are Double White Killarney, Richmond, Mrs. Geo. Shawyer and Mrs. Aaron Ward. California violets are more abundantly shown. Orchids are appearing, with Cattleya labiata taking the lead. Cyclamens, Primula obconica and gloxinias are now rivaling the potted mums in popularity.

Among the seedsmen business is more quiet, on account of the advanced season. The nurserymen are busy lifting stock and filling early orders. When possible they are delaying the filling of orders for soft-wooded and deciduous plants until their foliage is cast. There is some complaint that the orders coming in are for smaller quantities than usual.

The Czar violets recently brought into the market did not prove good sellers. The beautiful long-stemmed giants from California, and the Baroness de Rothschild, locally grown, have attractions which proved superior to the short-stemmed, small-flowered Czar. The double violet, Marie Louise, is no longer grown, on account of its susceptibility to disease, so that the Lady Hume Campbell now has no rival.

Various Notes.

The city commissioner in charge of the public market has denied the request of several wholesale growers of plants and cut flowers for stalls in the market. They are applying the rule that the public market is solely for the benefit of those who have no other way of selling their products. The wholesale growers are making an effort to have this rule reversed.

R. A. Wallace, well known among the florists of Portland and San Francisco, has taken a position at S. Lubliner's flower shop, in the Portland hotel block. This store furnished the decorations for the opening of the new National theater, which occurred last week.

The beautiful gloxinias now on the market come from the Holden Floral Co.

N. S. Nehl, a florist of Woodburn, was in town last week.

Max Smith is displaying the first Paper Whites of the season. He is

The Market.

With a spell of dark weather business seems to have made a decided increase along all lines. Some funeral work has helped to clean up the cheaper grades of stock, while the fancy grade, as usual, sells itself. Some good decorations have been executed by the various florists and, taken as a whole, the amount of business done has been good.

California mums are being shipped in, while the local stock is still short along some lines. Some extra fine Bonnaffons have been shown during the last few days. Violets are arriving in limited quantities, but are not yet of good grade. Carnations are still in oversupply, but the cut is becoming less and will be about equal to the demand in a few days. Roses are of fair quality and find a ready sale. Valley and orchids are scarce.

Potted stock is moving well. Some fine cyclamens and primulas are shown. Greens are about equal to the demand.

Department of Registration.

Public notice is hereby given that J. A. Peterson, Cincinnati, O., offers for registration the begonia described below. Any person objecting to the registration, or to the use of the proposed name, is requested to communicate with the secretary at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from this date.

Description—New winter-flowering begonia seedling from Begonia Socatrana x Gloire de Sceaux; flowers deep cerise-pink, changing to dark red with age, borne in great profusion from October till March; at its best during December and January; foliage similar to that of Lorraine, but of an iridescent bronze-red; decidedly distinct from all other varieties. Has been in our possession for the last three years, and its keeping qualities are all that could be desired. Name—Mrs. J. A. Peterson.

THE THIRD EDITION

Of the most successful book ever published for the trade

The original Album of Designs was published in response to many requests from florists who felt the need for an up-to-date book that could be used in taking orders for Funeral Designs, Wedding Decorations and Bouquets, Table Decorations and all cut flower work where it was not practicable to show the customer the finished article as it would be when ready for use. With the publication of this Album it became possible to show the finished work in beautifully printed pictures. The first edition sold like hot-cakes, and a second edition went quickly. The third edition is now ready. Everything is in it—all the standard designs and many new and heretofore unpublished pieces.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

B. E. Gage, of Peterson Nursery, Chicago, recently welcomed a second son into his family.

The delay of winter and continued fine weather has been to the advantage of the nurserymen this fall, allowing a longer season for planting and an opportunity for greater sales.

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Russellville Nursery Co., at Portland, Ore. The capital stock is $25,000 and the incorporators are H. A., M. T. and D. A. Lewis.

The last summer favored the production of high-class nursery stock of all kinds in the middle west, and the prosperity of the farmers as a result of the good crops should mean big business for the nurserymen in this section.

The planting of a larger acreage and an increased line of stock lead the firm of Trainor & Desmond, of Sacramento, Cal., to look forward to a better year than ever. Citrus and deciduous trees particularly adapted to the region are the specialty of this firm.

An annual output of 10,000 trees is the record of the Canadian government's free nursery at Indian Head, Saskatchewan. Here's one reason why the growing country of western Canada, which holds so much for the farmers who are moving in, offers little to the nurseryman.

Southern nurserymen are welcoming the movement for diversified farming in their part of the country. Many a cotton field is expected to be turned into an orchard before many months, and where conditions are favorable the new crop should prove as profitable as the old was.

During the last three weeks Nag-Ir-Roc Farm, the estate of James Corrigan at Wickliffe, O., has received five carloads of nursery stock, mostly from Long Island. E. A. Bause, the superintendent, says that eventually all of the 250 acres will be beautified and that at present the farm is the heaviest buyer of its class anywhere in America.

J. H. H. Boyd has resigned from the presidency and management of the Forest Nursery & Seed Co., at McMinnville, Tenn., and offered his stock for sale. He will in future give assistance to Farest Phifer, one of his former employees, who is starting the Riverview Nursery & Seed Co. Mr. Boyd intends to spend a good part of his time in the mountains collecting evergreens.

PETERSON IN BIG DEAL.

One of the largest transactions in acre property that ever has been recorded in Chicago was consummated this week between William A. Peterson, proprietor of Peterson Nursery, and W. F. Kaiser & Co., real estate operators. In a trust deed to the State Bank of Chicago Mr. Peterson conveyed seventy-eight acres at the intersection of Lincoln and Peterson avenues. The consideration is not stated, but is believed to be in excess of $160,000. The purchasers have arranged for $100,000 to be expended in the improvement of the property, after which it will be put on the market as building lots.

This is the second piece of the original Peterson property to go on the market. As in the first instance, the land adjoins, but is not a part of Peterson Nursery. It never has been used for nursery purposes. There remains in the Peterson tract 275 acres for nursery and other uses.

TO CLOSE UP PHOENIX AFFAIRS.

As the result of a hearing before Judge C. D. Myers, of the Circuit court, at Bloomington, Ill., October 30, on a petition to close up the affairs of the Phoenix Nursery Co. within sixty days, it was decided by the court that the remaining stock should be disposed of and the land sold, so that the business might be wound up by March 1, 1915. The longer time allowed will permit the receiver, John Y. Chisholm, to get as good a price as possible for the stock on hand. It appears that the expenses have been large during the last year and the interest, amounting to $3,000 yearly, has been piling up, and the local banks who have an interest in the case are anxious that matters be settled as soon as possible, so that their losses will be no greater. There are eighty acres of land, valued at all the way from $250 to $500 per acre, and the disposal of this is the most important object remaining. The land will probably be offered on the open market and sold to the highest bidder.

UNDERVALUATION OF SHIPMENTS.

The liability of a seller of nursery stock at wholesale for loss of part of a carload shipment in transit was involved in the case of Southern Nursery Co. vs. Winfield Nursery Co., 132 Pacific Reporter 149, which was before the Kansas Supreme Court. Plaintiff, doing business at Winchester, Tenn., shipped a carload of nursery stock to defendant, at Winfield, Kan., and the latter defended suit which was brought by plaintiff to recover an unpaid part of the contract price on the ground that the railway company to which plaintiff delivered the trees was the agent of plaintiff, and not of defendant, with the result that title to the shipment did not pass to defendant on delivery of the stock to the carrier, and defendant had the right to refuse to accept the trees, which had become unmerchantable in transit. This defense was overruled, however, and plaintiff was awarded judgment on the theory that title passed to the defendant at the time the shipment was made, exonerating plaintiff from any liability for injury to the freight in transit, as it was found that the shipment was properly prepared for transportation.

Defendant also sought to hold plaintiff responsible because, in shipping the trees, plaintiff, in order to obtain a lower freight rate under a classification permitting it, agreed to release the valuation of the freight to 3 cents a pound, thus restricting the railway company's liability to $480, whereas the actual value of the shipment was $1,784. On this point the Kansas Supreme Court said:

"It is the custom, understood and agreed upon by nurserymen, for all shipments of nursery stock to be made under a valuation of 3 cents a pound, for the purpose of saving freight charges, unless positive instructions be given to the contrary. No such instructions having been given to the plaintiff, the goods were billed out according to the custom. * * * The defendant claims that a contract to ship at a gross undervaluation to procure the benefit of a lower freight rate, although under a classification permitting it, is contrary to law and public policy, and consequently that a custom among nurserymen to ship under such contract cannot be recognized."

The court concludes that a seller of trees is authorized, on delivering them to a carrier as the buyer's agent, to ship in the usual way and according to the custom above mentioned, and that the carrier in this case did not become plaintiff's agent to make delivery to defendant, merely because the liability preserved against the railway company was not sufficient to meet the loss sustained. This Idea Will Increase Your Canna Sales

All our Canna roots are Northern grown, right here at West Grove.

LOTS of your customers want an assortment of Cannas—say, twelve. Now, supposing you had assortments all packed in special parcel post mailing boxes, ready to send right out, wouldn't it greatly simplify things for you?

Of course it would.

Then another thing, Antoine Wintzer would make up the assortment—a point well worth mentioning in your catalogue. But that isn't all—you would be selling, not just Cannas—"any old Cannas"—but an extensively advertised brand, the Swastika Brand.

In addition to your regular Cannas, let us send you a case of twenty of these assorted boxes, all carefully packed, ready to mail out.

Fall Trade List now ready. Send for it, and let us explain more fully this box assortment plan.

The Market.

A heavy frost last week blackened all outside vegetation and put an end to stock from outdoors. The mild weather has returned, however, and is making the chrysanthemum crop come on faster than expected. The chrysanthemums in the vicinity of Des Moines are much better in quality than they have been for a considerable time.

Various Notes.

A recent visit to the J. S. Wilson Floral Co. found everything in good shape. The carnations are in splendid shape. Mr. Broad, who comes from Newcastle, Ind., has charge of them, and his stock promises a bumper crop. He says that stem-rot is exceedingly troublesome. The firm's ferns are in good shape, including Scottii, Whitmani and Bostons. A welcome addition to the pot plants is that wonderful, free-blooming begonia, Perle de Chatelaine, which has won considerable praise. Cyclamens and Lorraine begonias are looking quite promising for the Christmas trade.

The Alpha Floral Co. has been exhibiting a splendid lot of chrysanthemums, including Chrysolora, Col. Appleton and Chieftain; the last-named is making its first appearance in Des Moines. This company is also showing some good ferns, valley, roses and cyclamens.

Wm. Trillow has been cutting some excellent chrysanthemums, including some good pompons and singles. In fact, the chrysanthemums grown in Des Moines are making a better showing this year than for some time previously.

C. W. Davison has concluded the business arrangements which detained him, and has returned to Denver, to further advance his new venture, the Davison-Western Floral Co.

Frank Stevens, who has charge of the retail department of the Iowa Seed Co. greenhouses, is cutting some excellent Col. Appleton chrysanthemums, some of the blooms reaching twenty-two inches in circumference. This company has also been cutting some excellent Robt. Halliday, Early Snow, Ivory and Pink Ivory. Pot mums are in good shape, too. Virgil Harding, for eight years in the employ of this firm, has left to take a position as traveling salesman for a stock feed company. Carl Olsen, one of the vegetable growers, has also left. W. D.

Let us quote you on Lilium Giganteum, Rubrum, Album and Auratum. Let the results convince you of the quality; the price will be right, too.

How Much Longer Will You Sleep? How Much Longer Will You Worry?

Worry makes gray hair. Don't get old when you can prevent it. Don't let the war worry you. Wake up! Go right ahead into business. Look out for yourself, for nobody will give you anything if you have nothing. The European war has nothing to do with the florists' business—we don't ship plants to Europe. If business is bad, don't blame the war, but blame yourself.

Look here:—I will help you and give you a chance, but for one week only, at prices seldom offered. We need the room for our great importation of Azalea Indica, and have decided to make a big reduction on the following plants:

Our Ferns are all Pot Grown. Bench grown and lifted are no good, they will go back on you. 20% reduction is not included in this list.

A 7-inch $1.00 Boston Fern we shall reduce to only 50c.
A 6-inch 75c Boston Fern we shall reduce to only 40c.
A 6-inch 50c Boston Fern we shall reduce to only 35c.
A 5½-inch 40c Boston Fern we shall reduce to only 30c.
A 7-inch $1.00 Whitmani Fern we shall reduce to only 50c.

A large 6-inch 50c Scottii Fern, reduced to 35c.
A large 5½-inch 40c Scottii Fern, reduced to 30c.

And look, to give you an additional chance, we shall give a reduction of 20% on cash with order on everything we have advertised, with the exception of Kentias, Araucarias and Azaleas.

AZALEA INDICA.

DON'T BE DECEIVED. We are the only reliable importers of Azalea Indica. Our 25 year reputation of importing, selling and shipping should be sufficient proof of our ability. Be up-to-date and go nowhere else for Azaleas but to Godfrey Aschmann.

Our new crop from Belgium is on the road now, and we are able to fill every order, subject to stock being in when orders arrive, and if the stock fails to arrive, we have a big stock of 1913 importation, just as good if not better than the new crop. We have only the leading varieties.

Force Now for Christmas. For Christmas forcing we have: Mme. Petrick, very double pink, one of the best, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Hexe, Vervaeneana, double rose, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Deutsche Perle, double white, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50 to $2.00. Simon Mardner, double pink, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Vervaeneana Alba, double white, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

For Easter Blooming we have: Mme. Vander Cruyssen, best double pink, E. Enckhaute, Simon Mardner, Vervaeneana, Niobe, De Schryveriana, Princess of India and other well tested varieties, at 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50 to $2.00. We are known to give first-class goods for the money, and always full value without giving measurements. Don't forget that we are Azalea Importers who have no equal.

ARAUCARIA.

OUR SPECIALTY.

WAR ABROAD will make the Araucarias scarce this fall and winter. But look, it won't affect Godfrey Aschmann. Why? We were not afraid to invest thousands of dollars in importing the plants in the spring of 1914, hence we do not care for the war, and are prepared to fill all orders—4 houses are filled with the choice ARAUCARIA EXCELSA. We are again able to fill all orders. 5½ and 6-inch pots, 2, 3, 4, 5 years old, 14, 15, 20 to 25 in. high, well established, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. EXCELSA GLAUCA and ROBUSTA COMPACTA, large plants, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

PALMS.

The Market.

As far as aggregate sales are concerned, last week's market showed no improvement. The demand for stock was fairly active, but prices were so low that it took a large number of sales to run into any money. The supply continues far too large for immediate needs. Owing to the fact that the bulk of the call for flowers is leaning toward chrysanthemums, the rose market is poor. Good stock of all kinds may be had in quantities. The chrysanthemum market is overloaded with small stock. The number of choice blooms coming in is limited, but suffices for present needs. The lily cut has let down. Quite a number of rubrums offered in the last few days met with an indifferent sale. Valley and orchids enjoy a fair but not a steady call. New York double violets are now in the market. Carnations are plentiful and good.

Various Notes.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Society was held November 9 at Hotel Gibson. J. A. Peterson showed a plant of the new begonia, Mrs. Peterson. Gus Adrian, Max Rudolph, R. Witterstaetter, Henry Schwarz and Chas. H. Hoffmeister were appointed to work out an equitable method of valuation of plants for taxation purposes and to report at the next meeting.

Among the Cincinnatians at the Indianapolis exhibition last week were C. E. Critchell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Peterson, Gus Adrian, Max Rudolph and son, R. Witterstaetter, Henry Schwarz, Ray Murphy, Otto Hirschfeld, J. T. Conger, Miss Mae Carroll and Albert Sunderbruch. All were enthusiastic about the show. Mr. Sunderbruch, commenting upon it, said that one of its commendable features was the artistic displays of the different retail florists, and that this feature verifies the oft repeated statement that to make any show a success you must have the coöperation of the retailers.

Wm. Murphy has been quite ill, but, his many friends will be pleased to know, is improving steadily.

C. E. Critchell was the first in the market to offer New York double violets this season.

Geo. Klotter, of Price Hill, has been sending some fine Perrin, Bonnaffon and White Bonnaffon to L. H. Kyrk.

The list of visitors includes: J. H. Broxey, Layton; Chas. L. Baum, Knoxville, Tenn. C. H. H.

Baldwin, N. Y.—David Dean has sold his florists' business to a New York man.

NEW ORLEANS.

The Market.

By 5 o'clock in the evening of All Saints' day nearly every flower grown or bought for the occasion had been disposed of. Although chrysanthemums predominated and were used mostly in loose bunches, set pieces of various designs were noticeable. The prices paid for chrysanthemums ranged from $1 to $8 per dozen, retail. Ideal weather during the whole of All Saints' day week and on the day itself helped considerably to dispose of the stock on hand.

Great quantities of winter-flowering sweet peas have been planted both by wholesalers and retailers, and, judging from their present condition, a fine Christmas crop is assured. Nearly every grower is using some part of a greenhouse, coldframe, or open space for the cultivation of Asparagus plumosus, which in this locality, as well as elsewhere, is now indispensable for all kinds of flower work. The greater part of it has heretofore been shipped to this city from Florida, but in a short time the buying of this valuable green will be reduced to a minimum at this season. The cold wave at the end of October, which reached as far as northern Florida, was not severe enough in New Orleans to kill tender bedding and flowering plants, and since then the night temperature has reached as high as 65 degrees. Outdoor-grown poinsettias are covered with fine flowering bracts, showing color, and, barring an early frost, they will be in bloom before Christmas.

Various Notes.

M. J. Gurtler's Robinson mums were the finest he has grown for some years, and the big crop was sold out completely.

F. J. Reyes & Co. believe in keeping their name before the public; hence the constant increase in business.

Mrs. Carrie Rehm reports a splendid All Saints' day trade and is looking forward to a good winter season.

F. Rieth is well satisfied with his share of the trade. He is getting new customers steadily. R. E.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Middleboro, Mass.—Frederick P. Chace, for many years in business here, filed a petition in bankruptcy November 3, in which his liabilities are listed at $1,616 and his assets at $315.

Paris, Ky.—R. B. Hutchcraft, the wholesale seed and commission merchant, made an assignment through his attorney, Harmon Stitt, October 30, to James McClure, cashier of the First National bank of Paris. This action is said to be the result of the failure of the George Alexander & Co. State bank last May, and was not unexpected, as during the previous ten days suits had been filed against Mr. Hutchcraft to the amount of $100,000. Mr. Hutchcraft was a stockholder and director in the Alexander bank, and it is said he was a borrower from the bank through notes given to various persons to the amount of about $25,000. In the schedule filed the assets are given as $215,000 and include 2,073 acres of blue grass land valued at $100,000, twenty-seven pieces of real estate in Paris and vicinity, valued at $60,000, and other items to amount to $55,000. His liabilities are placed at $145,000.

The principal creditors are the Second National bank of Lexington, $10,000; Security Trust Co., of Lexington, $10,000; Weil Bros., Lexington, $22,000; First National bank of Paris, $14,000; Fifth-Third National bank of Cincinnati, $4,000, and twenty-three others averaging about $3,000 each.

Toledo, O.—In spite of the fact that the greenhouse built by Arthur Cowdick for Searles Bros., the vegetable growers, eight years ago, was not completed until so late in the winter that Searles Bros. lost a large part of their crops, the Supreme court of the state has decided that they must pay $5,094 for its construction. Payment was refused at the time on account of the loss occasioned by the delay.

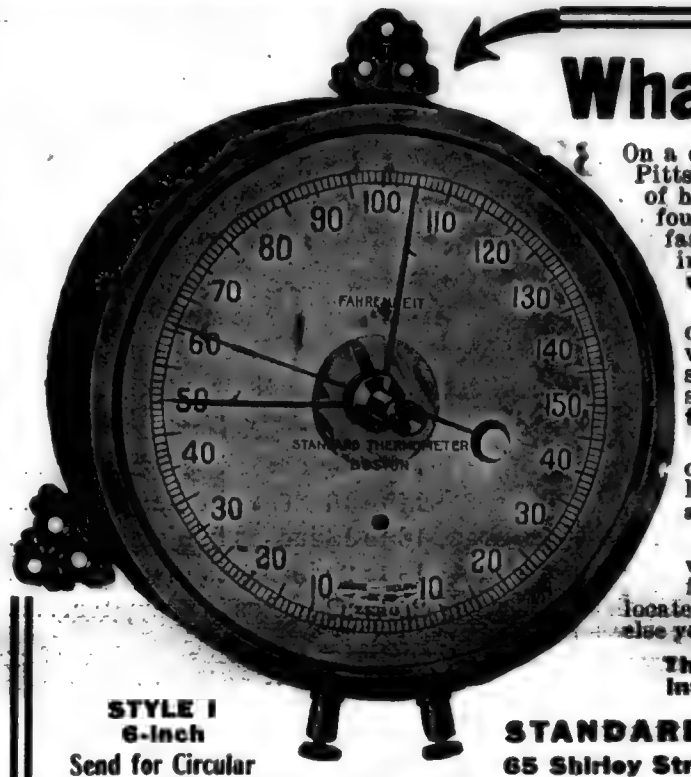
Greenhouse Heating.



PIPING A NEW JERSEY HOUSE.

I am building a greenhouse, 20x50 and nine feet high to the ridge. The sides stand on a 10-inch concrete foundation; above this is a wall of ⅞-inch grooved boards, covered with building paper; this, again, is covered with feather-edge weather boards. Above this is a 2x4 sill, and then two feet of glass to the eave plate, making the sides six feet high from the ground, inside the building. The ends are built the same way up to the 2x4 sill; above that the ends are all glass. The building stands on nearly level ground. I wish to heat it to 60 degrees in zero weather. How many runs of 2-inch pipe will be needed to be sure to keep the temperature up to that point?

I have a new Lord & Burnham boiler, which will be located in a cellar under a shop and potting shed. The cellar is about nine feet deep and fifty feet distant from the greenhouse. A hot water system will be used. I wish to use 3-inch pipe for the main, carrying it overhead outside to the greenhouse and returning it underground to the boiler. G. E. S.

About 450 square feet of radiation will be required to heat the house described to 60 degrees. For main flow and return pipes, between the greenhouse and the boiler, 3-inch will be the correct size. Within the house I would use three 2½-inch flow pipes, placing one on each wall plate and the other eighteen to twenty inches below the ridge. Although nine 2-inch returns would heat the house, it will be found more economical of fuel if ten are used. Three should be on each wall; the other four, supplied by the main under the ridge, should be under the middle benches.

Connect the expansion tank with the main supply pipe near where it enters the greenhouse. The flow pipes should have a slight fall toward the boiler. This will do away with the necessity for using air valves. If a generator is attached to the supply pipe, the house can be heated by means of three 2-inch flow pipes and ten 1½-inch returns.

SYSTEM

Solves the condensation problem in the greenhouse. Condensation in the steam apparatus means a sluggish steam system—and wasted energy. Greenhouses, where the temperature is not uniform, produce imperfect stock. Correct both these conditions by installing a Morehead System. It puts the condensation back into the boilers—hot. That not only means a saving in heat but it protects you against poor steam circulation, leaks and repair expenses. Have our engineers tell you why. Write today.

STEAM FOR THREE HOUSES.

Enclosed you will find a sketch of our range, which we intend soon to pipe for steam. We built one house last year—the center house, 30x100, which we heated with hot water, and we are now building two additional houses, one of them 40x100 and the other 20x70, with the boiler room and workshop at the end of the short house. We have decided to change the heating system from hot water to steam, as we experienced considerable trouble in heating the one house with hot water. Please tell us what piping will be required for steam, to heat these houses to a temperature of 60 degrees when the outside temperature is 10 degrees below zero. Please state, also, what kind of trap you would recommend for forcing the condensation back, as you will note that the bottom of the boiler is two feet above the floor of the greenhouses. We should like to use nothing but 2-inch pipe for the coils and a 5-inch pipe from the boiler to the greenhouses. Our location is in western Ohio. H. J. V. & S.

For heating the house 40x100 with steam to 60 degrees, if there is no more than four feet of glass in each wall, I would advise the use of a 3-inch overhead flow pipe and fourteen 2-inch returns. Two of the returns may be in each walk and the others on the walls, or all of them may be on the walls. In the house 30x100 the flow may be 2½-inch and ten 2-inch returns should be used. For the house 20x70 a 2-inch flow and seven 2-inch returns are suggested.

This boiler is guaranteed to do the work and costs less to install and operate. Write for prices and recommendations.

TO-BAK-INE

[TRADE MARK]

"THE OLD RELIABLE"

THE ABOVE BIRD'S-EYE VIEW REPRESENTS THE ENLARGED DETROIT NICOTINE CO.'S PLANT FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF TO-BAK-INE PRODUCTS.

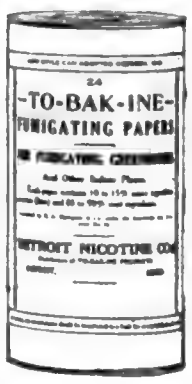
The demand for To-Bak-Ine became so large that the output could not keep pace and during the summer of 1913 the size and capacity of the factory has been doubled. All orders can now be taken care of promptly.

The use of tobacco stems and tobacco dust as an insecticide is well known; also the fact that the burning of them is frequently dangerous to greenhouse plants, due to the presence of ammonia, while they often have little or no effect on the insects, owing to the great variation of the Nicotine strength, sometimes containing practically none. Therefore it is impossible for the florist to secure satisfactory results unless he uses standardized products containing a definite amount of Nicotine. This quality is found in To-Bak-Ine Products.

The sales of To-Bak-Ine Products now are double those of previous years; we do not know how there could be a stronger testimonial to their merit.

TO-BAK-INE LIQUID

is a concentrated solution of refined Nicotine, always containing a definite amount (45% nicotine), adjusted by chemical assay, making it a most efficient insecticide for spraying or vaporizing. Free from ammonia and tobacco odor, makes it especially desirable for use on greenhouse plants and vegetables for killing insect pests and leaving no after odor or taste. TO-BAK-INE LIQUID is without doubt the cheapest insecticide on the market for spraying; its cost is nominal considering the value received and results obtained. No labor is required in making up solution.



Put up in ⅛-pint, ¼-pint, ½-pint, pint, ½-gallon, gallon and 5-gallon cans. Special 10 and 20-gallon casks for large users.

SPECIAL NOTICE

We wish to direct your special attention to the fact that when a florist buys Nicotine products by measure he gets more Nicotine than when he buys by weight. Most persons believe eight pounds make a gallon—but one gallon of To-Bak-Ine Liquid, containing 45% Nicotine, weighs about 8¾ pounds and contains about 27,500 grains Nicotine.

To-Bak-Ine Liquid is the strongest and most highly refined Nicotine product offered, and costs no more, but less, than others when results are made comparative.

TO-BAK-INE FUMIGATING PAPER

is an especially prepared paper, each sheet being saturated with a definite amount of pure nicotine, making it a most valuable and extremely convenient and neat insecticide for fumigating purposes; it is also free from ammonia, which is present in ordinary tobacco smoke and extracts. TO-BAK-INE FUMIGATING PAPERS are recommended for use on delicate flowers and plants.

Put up in hermetically sealed tin cans of 24 full length sheets; ½ case, 6 cans, 144 sheets; 1 case, 12 cans, 288 sheets.

TO-BAK-INE FUMIGATING AND DUSTING POWDER

In some cases a slow and long fumigation is desirable, and therefore offer to the trade a fumigating powder for this purpose. This powder is unlike others on the market in that it is practically free from sand, therefore uniform in insect killing properties. Many of the powders offered are nothing more than tobacco dust, containing a large percentage of sand and practically no Nicotine, or very little.

TO-BAK-INE FUMIGATING AND DUSTING POWDER is also a finely powdered product and especially adapted for dusting or sprinkling on flowers, plants and vegetables.

Put up in 50 and 100-lb. bags.

To-Bak-Ine Products have been on the market many years and, if you happen to be one who never has used them, we urge you to try them, feeling sure they will prove so helpful to you that you will become one of the many thousands of regular users.

The Market.

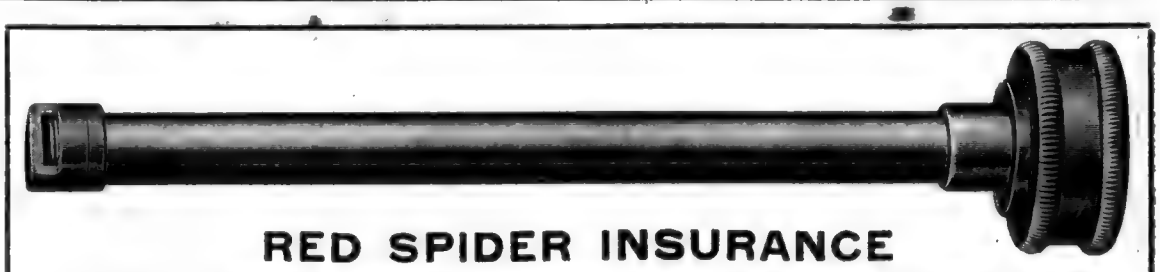
Stock of all kinds is plentiful and of good quality, but prices are so low that the grower is losing money on every dollar's worth brought to market. Added to this is the fact that every market gardener with a greenhouse is growing flowers and is offering them below the market price. Mums especially are being grown by this class of gardeners. Roses, owing to the bright, warm weather, are plentiful and of good quality.

Various Notes.

Jacob Schulz scored a big success with the chrysanthemum show at the store, at 550 South Fourth avenue. Three days were devoted to the event, November 5 to 7. Mr. Schulz issued a neat little pamphlet, "The Story of the Chrysanthemum," in which a history of the chrysanthemum was given. A Victrola entertained the visitors as they passed through the store.

Fred Haupt reports continued success with his Saturday special, carnations at 25 cents per dozen. Mr. Haupt started the sale some time ago in order to fight the local department stores, and he succeeded in putting a stop to the sale of these flowers in the various stores. Mr. Haupt says that his sales for Saturday average 8,000 per day. This proves to be a larger item when it is considered that these flowers are sold to individuals and not delivered.

At the last monthly meeting of the Florists' Society, November 3, the nomination of officers was slated, but owing to the small attendance, the nominations were postponed until the next meeting, which will take place December 2. A full attendance is urged.



George Schulz, of Goss avenue, has his houses in fine shape for the winter. He says that he has plenty of stock and all he wants now is plenty of customers.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Business is approaching the normal. The number of small social functions last week combined with the funeral orders in creating a slight improvement in demand. The large supply of roses and other stock, however, has had the tendency of keeping prices down to a low figure and the early chrysanthemums are not receiving the financial support that is usually accorded them. With the appearance of the larger blooms, however, it is expected that there will be a stiffening to a satisfactory price.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

Weather conditions have been somewhat contrary to the interest of the florists, as it has been warm and one of the latest fall seasons ever known in this section of the country. Outdoor flowers have been plentiful and cheap, thereby taking away much of the florists' trade, with the exception of flowers furnished for weddings, funerals and special occasions. However, taking everything into consideration, the florists have little cause for complaint. Stock of all kinds is plentiful and good; in fact, chrysanthemums are better than ever before, and carnations are above the average, although roses are nothing to boast of.

November 7 was observed as Chrysanthemum day by all cemeteries in and about Knoxville. This day was set aside and advertised by the Florists' Club. The sales were good, although not so much as they might have been, as the farmers and gardeners took advantage of the occasion and stocked the market with a lot of cheap flowers. We are satisfied that Chrysanthemum day will eventually be a great day for the florists in this city. All advertising was of a coöperative character, the object being to advertise the day and not any particular florist. This mode of advertising has been used several times and always brings the best results.

Various Notes.

The store force at Chas. L. Baum's has been busy of late. Weddings and funerals have them on the go all the time. Chrysanthemums are fine and he has been realizing as high as $1 a bloom for a few of the best.

Addison J. McNutt reports business good. As his place is located in the City Market house, he did a fine business Chrysanthemum day.

A. H. Dailey is a busy man. By the time he looks after the store, the stall in the market house, the wagon on the market and his greenhouses, he has little leisure.

Mrs. Rosa Hall Ryno, whose place of business is located in the suburbs, at New Gray cemetery, reports business as being good. She had a splendid trade Chrysanthemum day.

Crouch's are having plenty to do in the way of wedding and reception work, with the usual run of funeral work.

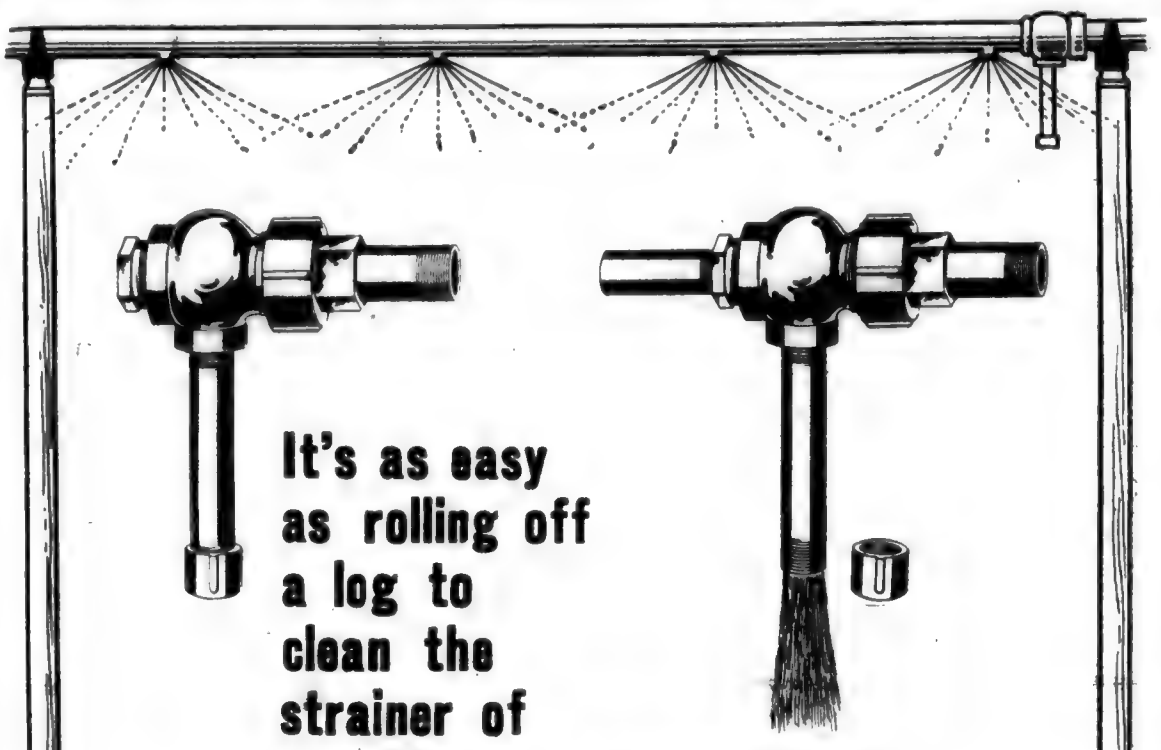
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The Market.

There has been a let-up in trade during the last week, but in the previous week it was fairly good. Most of the mums are fine, though in some cases, where they have been forced, they are rather poor. Alice Byron has been fine, and some good Yellow Bonnaffon are to be seen. The Eatons are not as good as usual. Chas. Razer, which was condemned by a number of growers last year, has turned out to be one of the best this year and is a good keeper. Robt. Halliday and Dr. Enguehard are also among the best. Pompons are seen in several varieties; they are unusually good and sell well. There is not much demand for high-priced mums this year. Mum sales are held nearly every Saturday by a number of florists. Carnations are improving, having longer stems and larger flowers. Roses, too, are better, but violets are somewhat poor. Funeral work has been heavy and several wedding decorations helped out the trade.

Various Notes.

T. F. Sheehan has been quite busy with funeral work lately.



Ostermann & Steele have had a number of large wedding decorations in the last few weeks.

William Schlatter & Son held their fourth annual flower show in the last part of October, at their greenhouses on Bay street. It was well attended.

Mark Aitken has added another Ford delivery car to his service. The new store is popular with the flower buyers. He is showing some excellent mums that came from his greenhouses in Agawam.

Sidney A. Saunders held a flower show at his store, 150 State street, November 6 and 7. About 100 varieties were on exhibition, including both pompons and large mums. The store was tastefully decorated for the occasion and a Victrola furnished music. Neat announcement cards had been sent out, inviting the public to attend.

F. J. C.

OCTOBER 29 we told you why the Skinner Union was made in the shape of an inverted funnel. If you happened to overlook that ad, better look it up, because it has to do with a very vital point in the success of overhead irrigation.

It is because of the inverted-funnel shape of this strainer that it is less likely to clog up than any other strainer that could be selected. Any strainer, however, no matter what kind or shape, must be cleaned once in a while.

There are two ways of cleaning the Skinner System Union. If there is no heavy accumulation of dirt, all that is necessary is to turn off the water, take off the cap at the bottom of the turning handle, turn on the water again and it will wash off the strainer, carrying the dirt to the end of the union handle. If for any reason this does not thoroughly clean it, it is a very simple matter to unscrew the cap from the globe-shaped part of the union, then, by slipping the brass sleeve out of position an eighth of an inch or so from the seat on which it rests, the large opening at the end of the body of the union will then be entirely free. With two fingers you can reach in through this opening, pull out the strainer and clean it thoroughly.

A view of strainer so you can see its construction.

The three main features which have made the Skinner System Turning Union so thoroughly successful with its users are:

First: The shape of the strainer, which reduces clogging to a minimum.

Second: The ease with which the strainer can be washed off by letting the water flow out through the handle.

Third: The readiness with which the cap can be unscrewed from the union and the strainer entirely removed from it.

In the next issue we will tell you why we use the simple idea of the tee fitting rather than some other means of turning the pipe. It is so simple that most people have overlooked it.

If you haven't our Irrigation Bulletins—better send for them.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

Business has shown only little improvement in the last week. Stock of all kinds has been plentiful, without any unusual demand except for November 7, when large quantities of chrysanthemums were shipped to Ann Arbor for the annual Michigan-Pennsylvania football game.

Various Notes.

The Doswell Floral Co., at the entrance to Lindenwood cemetery, started with a small house of plants and gradually has increased until now there is a large range growing all kinds of stock for cutting. The chrysanthemums this season are of exceptional quality. There is a good cut of carnations, with excellent prospects, and pot plants are coming along nicely for holiday trade. Two new houses are in course of erection, to be used for more roses.

Fort Wayne recently had a fare refund week and all the florists made special efforts to attract out-of-town purchasers through window displays.

Announcement was made here last week of the engagement of Judge W. J. Vesey and Miss Cleo Freeling, a wealthy young woman of St. Louis. Judge Vesey met his fiancee, who is a concert singer, in Milan, Italy.

W. J. Vesey, Jr., and Mrs. Vesey attended the C. S. A. meeting at Indianapolis last week. R. R. F.

Brookings, S. D.—The annual chrysanthemum show of the State College was held under the direction of F. C. Stoltenberg. More than 7,000 plants were in bloom in the greenhouses.

Ridge Framimg In Our Reconstructed Construction

THE more work we can do on a house in our factory the better. It brings the cost down for you and means quicker erection on the job. One radical departure in our Reconstructed Construction is the complete assembling and hot riveting together of the rafter from the ridge to the column in connection with the main members and strut of the double angle iron truss.

To splice this assembled rafter and truss together at the ridge we use an angle Splice Plate and bolts.

The 12 feet 4 inches span of the ridge between the rafters is so long that if not stiffened it would have a tendency to sag. To prevent this, we run a light steel rod truss from rafter to rafter with a strut in the center.

Now take particular notice of the extra wide ridge cap overhang, and how it is milled out to take the sash, making a weather tight cap that is weather tight.

Notice, also, the notch that is milled on the sash to prevent the wind forcing the water between the sash and cap.

In the next Ad. we will tell still more about the ridge, and further about the rafter truss.

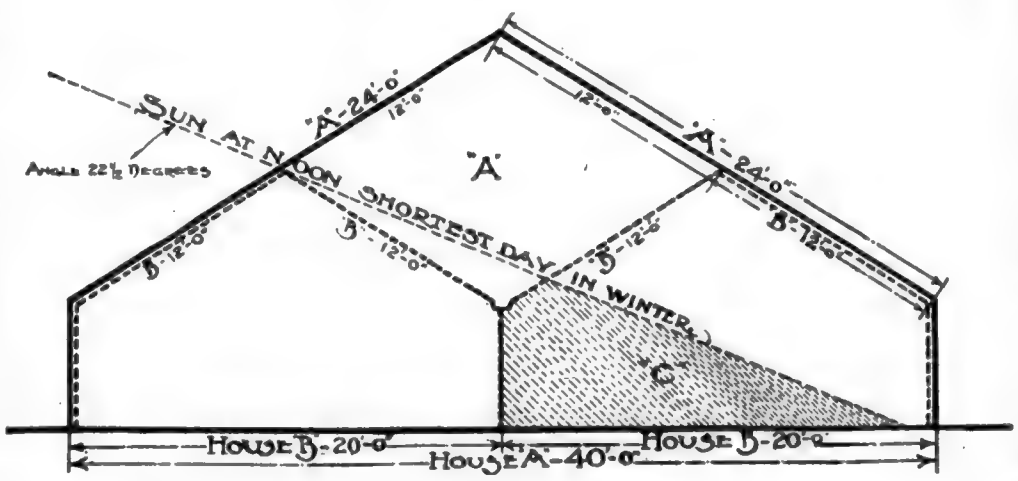
The Question of Shade in Ridge and Furrow Houses

ALONG the middle of last August, when in Pittsburgh, I took the trolley one fine morning out to Bakerstown, to visit again the range of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. Was fortunate in finding Mr. Burki at his office. In his characteristic direct way, all formalities were soon out of the way and he was talking greenhouse facts and figures.

Most of his eight acres of glass are separate houses, but he has two blocks of connected ridge and furrow ones. In 1911 we sold him 10 each 12′ 0″ wide and 100′ long.



Last year, however, he bought another of our separate houses 41′ 4″ x 583′ 4″ and this brings us to the main point of this Ad. —the shade in connected houses.

In passing through some of these houses, the benches of which had just been whitewashed ready for new soil, Mr. Burki called my attention to the difference in the shadow cast by the sun on the benches by the gutter, and by the ridge.

The ridge shadow measured three inches in width, and the gutters 7½ inches, or more than twice as much.

When you consider that this was at one o'clock on a day in the middle of August, when the sun was high and casting the shortest shadow, the thought of what that shadow is, during the short days of December, when the sun hangs low, is certainly such as to make a man sit up and take notice.

Not only will the shade be much broader but in combination with the ridge the shadow is practically continuous, as shown by this line drawing.

This sketch shows the shade cast by the ridge and the gutter in a connected, or ridge and furrow house, at noon on the shortest December day. The single wide house the same width as the two connected ones takes no more roof than the two narrow ones and you do away entirely with the gutter and the one extra ridge.

Mr. Burki declares that he wants no more connected houses. Such a statement coming from a man standing so high in the business and based on actual comparative results carries with it convincement.

In addition to the shade side of this discussion there are also the questions of heating economy and improved ventilating conditions that unquestionably exist in the large single houses, both of which we would like to discuss with you.

When you are ready —say when and where and we'll be there.

CARNATIONS.

My stock this year is in extra fine shape, bright, bushy, thrifty and in fine growing condition. 75% of my orders this fall have been from old customers, who have been so satisfied with my treatment of their previous orders that they wish my stock again. Remember, I specialize in this line and spare no effort to produce stock that will make customers and hold them. I dig every order myself and personally supervise all packing, which often means much to the buyer.

I, today, shipped an order to a grower in Red Hook, N. Y., which is the third order shipped to him this fall.

My stock is now all dug and PROTECTED from FROST in a cold frame, where it is kept cool and dry. This stock is as good as stock dug from the field.

GLADIOLI.

BUY COLEMAN QUALITY.
There is as much difference as day from night in gladiolus bulbs. WE DO NOT SELL CUT FLOWERS, consequently, all the strength of plant goes to produce a big, fat bulb, almost as thick through as its diameter. DON'T BUY flattened out bulbs with a big scar on the bottom, they're not good to force. Our prices are no higher than others.

PANSIES.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for 40 years, and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers to date. Some of many reports: "The pansy plants all look like good, healthy, stocky plants, and we feel will come up to all expectations." Henry J. Hass & Son, Newport, R. I. "I would like to get 4000 or 5000 of your pansy plants. I saw a house of pansies from your stock last winter and they were the finest I ever saw." Harry W. Stewart, Rhinebeck, N. Y. An immense stock of fine field-grown plants from seed sown in August in sandy soil, thinly, broadcast, so that the plants grow short and stocky, with extra good roots. Over 75 varieties mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, 1000, $3.00; 500, $1.75; 5000, $14.00; 10,000, $27.000. Delivery by express in good condition guaranteed. Cash.

...NEWS NOTES...

Islesboro, Me.—Malcolm McLeod is having an office built, which will be a useful addition to his establishment.

Austin, Tex.—A new downtown flower shop has been opened in the big Central Drug Store, with Chas. H. Alff as proprietor and manager.

Newark, O.—At his third annual fall flower show, Paul M. Halbrooks displayed for the benefit of the public forty-seven varieties of chrysanthemums at his greenhouses.

Austin, Tex.—H. B. Beck says business is much as usual and that cotton has begun to move steadily for export, which is creating a much better feeling through the whole southwest.

Quincy, Ill.—Joseph Holtschlag has just completed repairs on his greenhouse on South Twelfth street. He has had workmen busy since spring and has given the place a complete overhauling.

Bangor, Mich.—A post card bearing suggestions as to the giving of flowers in general and his boxes of chrysanthemums and carnations in particular is, says A. E. Davis, "what pulls the local trade here in Bangor."

Burlington, Wis.—A number of improvements have been made at the range of the Burlington Floral Co. by Manager Frank Mueller. The office room has been enlarged and the greenhouses are heated from a central plant instead of by several boilers as before.

Van Wert, O.—Scharff Bros. are remodeling their greenhouses and adding one new house, 29x185 feet. The material for both the new house and the repair work was furnished by the Lord & Burnham Co. When the work is completed Scharff Bros. will have 40,000 square feet of glass.

Joliet, Ill.—John Goranson believes the quick delivery of orders made possible by the addition of an automobile delivery car to his equipment does its share toward increasing business. He has been building up a good trade at 1600 Wilcox street, where both his store and greenhouses are located.

Shenandoah, Ia.—The three new houses of the Stevens Floral Co., on Thomas avenue, will be devoted to roses. The six old houses, on Nishna road, will be used mainly for carnations. The three greenhouses on Thomas avenue are in the rear of the two store buildings being put up by Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Stevens, one of which will be occupied by the company.

Springfield, Ill.—An examination for florists will be held at various cities in the state Saturday, December 5, by the State Civil Service Commission to fill vacancies now existing. The salary of the positions open varies from $40 to $75 a month and maintenance, and the age limits are 21 and 55. Training, experience and technical knowledge of flower growing and greenhouse methods will be considered. Requests for information and application blanks should be addressed to the State Civil Service Commission, Springfield, Ill.

GREENHOUSE LUMBER

"ALL-HEART" CYPRESS
WORKED TO SHAPES
HOTBED SASH
PECKY CYPRESS
SQUARE RED CEDAR POSTS

LOCKLAND LUMBER CO., Lockland, O.

"TANK GRADE" CYPRESS

No other lumber manufactured is subjected to such close inspection and is graded so carefully as Cypress. It is the only variety of wood in which there is such a class as "TANK GRADE." Other woods have Firsts and Seconds, but "TANK GRADE" Cypress represents a choice, handpicked, selected quality—the very cream of Firsts.

For greenhouse construction, those who are accounted reliable among the contractors use none other than "TANK GRADE." Of course they put in "pecky" for standards and benches, but when it comes to sash-bars, sash, hot beds, cold frames, tanks, tubs, plant boxes, etc., it is Cypress, "TANK GRADE," from ridge-pole to foundation.

And you will do well to follow the lead and advice of the experienced contractor.

BOOKS STILL FREE

Those Cypress booklets are as free as ever. Volume 3 is about Greenhouses; Vol. 4 is the Barn Book, with plans and specifications; Vol. 36 is the book on Home Carpentry; Vol. 37 is the big, new Silo Book. These are especially attractive booklets. Get them. Write for one or a dozen of them.

What it Means to You

That is just what you are interested in.

Thousands of florists buy what they require in ventilating apparatus and greenhouse fittings from us. There certainly must be a reason.

Don't you think it will pay you to investigate? We are always willing to explain.

Just write for our catalogue. It is good business judgment to listen to reasoning. We have the reasons and will explain them in answer to your inquiry.

American Prepared Oak Sprays

Cherry Red—Golden Brown—Tan—Natural Green

Lycopodium (Bouquet Green)

Something new that lends itself readily to the ingenuity of the up-to-date Florist for making Wreaths, Roping, Garlands, etc. It is a light green color and is unexcelled for Basket work as a substitute for Sea Moss.

AMERICAN Prepared Oak Sprays are the most popular material to be had. The Oak this year is more heavily foliaged than ever before, and we have also improved the colors.

AMERICAN Beech Sprays. Prepared in the same colors as the oak.

Magnolia Leaves. Full size cartons containing 1000 leaves. Red, Green, Brown and Purple. (Our Purple Mags. are making a hit with the florists.)

Parisian Ferns. For wreaths and designs.

HEDGE TIME IS HARVEST TIME

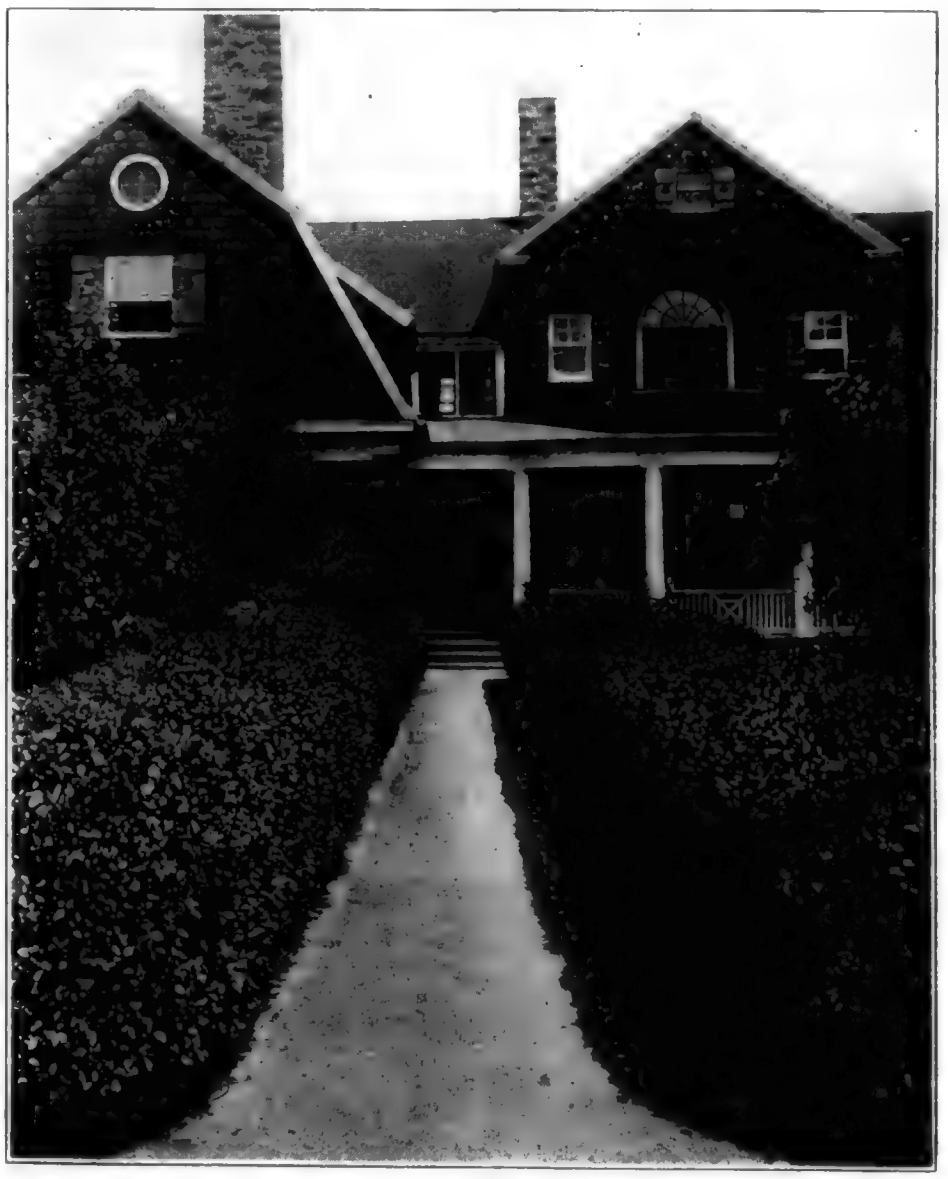
Indian summer weather is bad for the cut flower trade, but splendid for planting hedges. The dull days of autumn can be made dollar days by the florist who will take the opportunity to develop this lucrative and legitimate side-line. What to plant and how to plant it, what it costs and why it's worth it, are told here by an authority.

"KEEPING everlastingly at it," is the modern form of a recipe for success that was not original with the ancient Greek philosophers who expressed it in a more mellifluous style. But the florist can't sell flowers to his patrons when they are enjoying the glowing colors of the autumn in their automobiles any more than he can when they are spending their days in the salt sea waves at Atlantic City or another summer resort. So, if he would keep busy at this season, when his cut flower trade promises well, but pays only fairly, he must cast about for something else that will enable him to give employment to the receiving teller rather than the paying teller at his savings bank.

One of the first to suggest itself is the planting of hardy perennials, shrubs, climbers, trees, etc., and particularly the planting of hedges. The bedding plant trade is a most important part of many a florist's business in the spring. Why should he not have an equally important trade in hardy stock for fall? This line has already become of importance with some florists, but, in comparison with the possibilities, the surface as yet has only been scratched.

A Paying Proposition.

What the public wants depends to a great extent upon what the public has been told it ought to have. The demand for hardy stock in general and for hedge plants in particular will increase in proportion as the florists devote more effort to persuading the public that it should have them. There is no reason why the supplying and planting of bedding plants and bulbs should be the limit of the florist's outdoor activities.



In response to the prompt question, "Does it pay?" a positive "Yes" can be given, and it is for this precise reason that this branch of the business should be largely extended. Some of this work must be left until spring, of course, but at present far too much of it is left till then. The work can be better done in the autumn, when the soil is in better condition and, if plants must be bought, much finer and fresher ones can be had. Some of these hedge plants can easily be grown by the florist, but if time and space will not allow this, they can be procured from nurserymen at moderate rates.

What to Plant.

The demand in hedge plants in this country is more for those of an ornamental character than for those used for defense, as in Europe, where the wonderful hedges of hawthorn excite the admiration of travelers year after year. Honey locust, osage orange and cockspur thorn are the leading defensive hedge plants here, but none of them makes a first-class hedge, and all are more for agricultural than horticultural use.

We have, however, a good variety of ornamental hedge plants, both deciduous and evergreen. A neat hedge gives a finished and more attractive appearance to any place, and the seclusion thus furnished adds to the charm of a garden. In this connection, it may be said that there is room for many times the number of hedges now to be seen without at all overdoing the hedge planting business. It is not good policy to recommend and plant the same type of hedge for each customer. This only intensifies the monotony that is already too apparent in American gardens. It is sometimes better to suggest hedges which are a little out of the ordinary, which will give an air of distinction to the grounds of the owners using them.

While many people prefer hedges clipped square, a somewhat rounded top is to be recommended. The latter is ordinarily as handsome as the square top, and has the added advantage of shedding snow much better.

Foremost Among Deciduous Hedge Plants is the Privet.

Deciduous Hedge Plants.

Foremost among deciduous hedge plants come the ligustrums, or privets. The one most in demand is the California privet, L. ovalifolium. This is quick growing and makes a thick and handsome hedge in a short time. It cannot be used, however, in the colder states, where minimums of 5 to 20 degrees below zero are recorded, for under such conditions it will be cut down to the ground in winter. A much hardier and more satisfactory variety, one which will withstand temperatures of 25 to 30 degrees below zero, is L. Ibota, the Japanese privet. L.

A Hedge of Althaeas Makes an Effective Floral Display in Late Summer.

Amurense, the Amoor River privet, is also quite hardy. As a general rule, plants eighteen to twenty-four inches high are the best for hedges. A zigzag row makes the thickest, densest hedge. Set the plants in a double row twelve inches apart. Once the ground is prepared, the plants can be furnished and set out, and will yield a good profit at 50 cents per yard row for the California privet and $1 for the other kinds, which cost somewhat higher. Privet hedges should be cut down quite hard the first year or two. This insures a thick bottom. The pruning should be done in spring, not in fall. Two clippings should be given during the growing season, one in June, the other in early August. Fall planting of privet is not recommended in the more northerly states.

Berberis Thunbergii.

Berberis Thunbergii, the Japanese barberry, makes a splendid hedge, one which is defensive in character as well as ornamental. It succeeds equally well if planted in either fall or spring. It may be trimmed into a formal hedge, like the privets, or allowed to grow naturally. Of course, the latter plan is the more pleasing where space will allow. If a thick, trimmed hedge is wanted, set the plants a foot apart; if natural growth is to be allowed, double that space. As Berberis Thunbergii can be retailed eighteen to twenty-four inches high at $12 to $15 per hundred, this type of hedge is inexpensive. When the hedge is untrimmed, the fruits, which remain fresh all winter, give it an added charm.

The althæas, or roses of Sharon, are excellent for hedging purposes in case an effective late floral display is desired. Plants twenty-four to thirty-six inches high should be planted twenty-four inches apart. They require heading back well each fall to keep them within bounds, but must not be cut in summer. The althæas suffer when the thermometer descends to 10 degrees below zero in winter.

The cratægus, or hawthorn, makes a wonderful hedge in England, where thousands of miles of it are to be seen. C. Oxyacantha is the kind best adapted for hedging. Plants twenty-four to thirty-six inches high should be planted a foot apart for a close hedge, and the plants must be headed down to ten inches to insure a dense bottom. Unfortunately, hawthorns in America have many foes, such as borers, leaf-miners, scale, red spider, aphis, etc., and some bad fungoid affections. For this reason they will never become popular.

Deutzias and Others.

Deutzia Lemoinei makes a splendid hedge plant. Set out twenty-four inches apart and allowed to grow naturally, it soon makes a dense hedge and in May or early June, according to latitude, will each year be a mass of white flowers. D. gracilis also makes a fine hedge plant. As deutzias fifteen to eighteen inches high can be retailed at $2 to $3 per dozen, this is not at all an expensive hedge. It does not, of course, produce an immediate effect, as in the case of privets.

A few other deciduous plants which can be used for hedging purposes are: Hydrangea paniculata grandiflora; this, of course, needs heading back well each winter; it makes a grand floral display in late summer. Fagus sylvatica, European beech, is useful if a tall hedge is desired. Rosa rugosa is also a strong grower, but is not adapted to small grounds. Syringa vulgaris, lilac, makes a satisfactory hedge. Acacia, or honey locust, is good as a defensive hedge. Rhamnus cathartica, buckthorn, is good where a tall, strong hedge is desired. Philadelphus Lemoinei, the new French hybrid, is more moderate growing than the old P. coronarius and makes a splendid natural hedge, flowering profusely while small.

These do not at all exhaust the best of desirable hedge plants of a deciduous character. Various spiræas, viburnums, carpinus, stephanandras and others are available, but I have already named more varieties than the average florist will care to know anything about.

Fewer Evergreens.

Coming to evergreens, we find the list a much more restricted one. Probably the variety most in use is Thuya occidentalis, American arborvitæ. This makes a neat hedge, is hardy, withstands dry conditions well and is a quick grower. Objections to its use are that it turns a brownish color in winter, and no matter how well headed in it may be, it is thrown out of shape to some degree by heavy snows. It is the most inexpensive of evergreen hedges. A hedge can be profitably planted with 24-inch to 30-inch plants, eighteen inches apart, at $1 per yard.

Picea excelsa, Norway spruce, makes a splendid thick hedge, one which can be closely cropped annually. I have seen hedges of this spruce in New England ten feet high and as much across, which are perfect pictures, grand windbreaks and afford shelter and nesting places for hundreds of birds. Set the Norway spruces twenty-four to thirty-six inches apart, according to size.

Tsuga Canadensis, or hemlock, when placed in a suitable position, one not too dry or windswept, makes easily the finest of all evergreen hedges, coming the nearest to the English yew of any of our North American evergreens. It suffers from dryness at the root more than other evergreens, but when it is given sufficient moisture, we have no evergreen equal to it. It lasts longer than Norway spruce or arborvitæ, and hedges set out with 36-inch plants three feet apart should be worth $2 per yard.

A few other available hedge plants are: Buxus sempervirens, boxwood; useful as a bordering for flower beds, etc. Juniperus Virginica, common red cedar; I have seen excellent hedges made of this plant. Retinospora plumosa, Japanese cypress; this and its golden sport, aurea, make neat hedges. Euonymus Japonicus and E. Sieboldianus; these have handsome, dark green, shiny leaves, are erect in habit and make splendid hedges. Taxus cuspidata brevifolia, yew, and Taxus baccata, English yew; the last named succeeds moderately well near Philadelphia and at points south, but is not hardy farther north.

Preparation of Ground.

To make a success of hedges, the ground should be prepared in advance and turned over to a depth of two feet, deeper if possible, and two or three feet wide. Incorporate some thoroughly decayed manure with the soil. Be sure not to use any fresh manure. If planting cannot be done until spring, it is a great help to prepare the ground in the fall. Generally speaking, evergreens succeed better if planted in spring than in fall, but most deciduous plants do as well or better if planted in the fall, provided the work is not done too late and care is taken to firm the roots thoroughly. In the case of evergreens, it is especially necessary to keep the roots moist, not only at planting time, but through the season. Dryness at the root is accountable for more dead evergreens than winter's cold. Therefore, in the fall, when there is any likelihood of evergreens having dry roots, soak them thoroughly before the ground becomes sealed by frost.

Hedge planting is a branch more florists should add to their business. There is room for many times the number now planted. The opportunities are excellent; the profits are good; the work comes at a time when other lines are dull. One or two plantings carefully done will serve as a good advertisement. Why not make a start now?

Anderson, Ind.—Stuart & Haugh gave their twenty-fifth annual free flower show November 12 to 14. It was a huge success from the standpoints of beauty and attendance. The houses were thronged with visitors, who warmly complimented the firm on the extent and quality of the exhibit and were unanimously of the opinion that it surpassed any of the former shows. Visiting florists especially praise the carnations and ferns. Stuart & Haugh report business good and that Anderson is in a prosperous condition.

NOTES OF THE AUTUMN SHOWS

QUALITY THE KEYNOTE OF THE SHOWS THIS YEAR

HOUSTON, TEX.

First Annual State Show.

The first state show ever undertaken by the florists of Texas proved to be as successful as if they had had a long experience in the promotion of flower exhibitions. Thursday, November 12, was the opening day, although the opening ceremonies in connection with the No-Tsu-Oh festival did not take place until the following day. The large crowds which had come to Houston to celebrate the week's festivities undoubtedly added to the success of the show in the matter of attendance. But the large number and high quality of the trade's exhibits, competitive and display, were the result of hard work by the florists who had the affair in charge. So successful were the three days for which the show was scheduled that it was decided to continue it for two days longer.

The slogan of the Texas State Florists' Association, "Texas-grown Flowers for Texas People," was that of the show as well, and in order to acquaint the people of Texas more particularly with the products of the growers of their own state, inducements for growers in that territory were strong. Those from outside the state were well taken care of, also, and a large number of non-competitive exhibits were shown which had come from a distance.

Chrysanthemums were, of course, the principal constituent of the exhibits, although roses were well and largely shown. Plants, particularly decorative stock, were in large numbers. Profiting by the experience of other shows, which have shown that the retailer is a strong factor in interesting the public, the management included a number of classes for retailers' work, which drew the expected attention and admiration.

The Awards.

Probably the most interesting part of the show to the visitors was the retailers' work and there was a great deal of this, of first-class quality. The leaders in this were Robert C. Kerr and H. H. Kuhlmann, of Houston, while Gus Radetzki, of the Forestdale Flower Shop, Houston, and T. J. Wolfe, of Waco, took several prizes, and the Brown-Dawson Co., of Dallas, furnished some good work. The decorations were for mantels, tables and altars, and the bouquets and baskets were of every kind.

In the cut flower classes, T. J. Wolfe was by far the leader. H. H. Kuhlmann took a large number of prizes, also, and Bird Forrest, of Waxahachie, cut into the awards. Chrysanthemums, carnations and roses were shown.

The plant classes did not have many entries. John Mickelsen, gardener for Miss Harriet Levy, of Houston, had several prize-winning displays of foliage plants and pot mums. H. H. Kuhlmann, R. C. Kerr, the Forestdale Flower Shop and Bird Forrest also figured on the list of awards.

The sweepstakes cup for the local exhibitor capturing the most prizes went to H. H. Kuhlmann. The sweepstakes cup for the Texas exhibitor not less than 100 miles from Houston taking the most prizes was won by T. J. Wolfe.

Non-Competitive Displays.

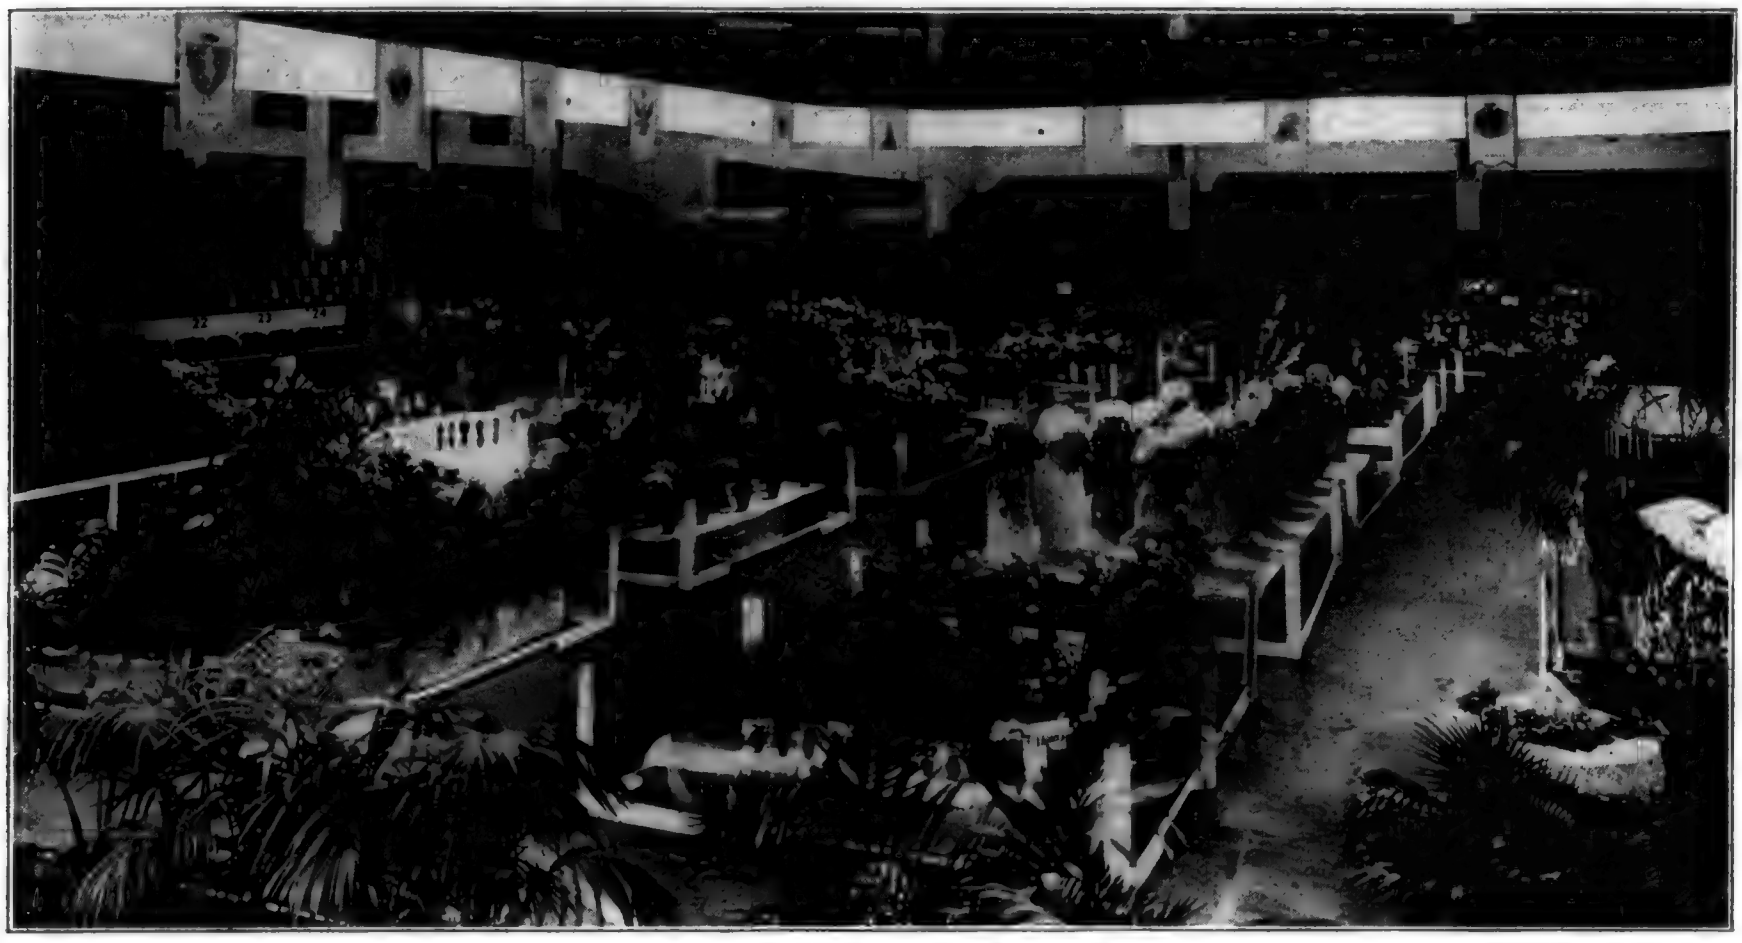
Many florists, from inside and outside the state, who made no entries in the premium classes put up displays for exhibition purposes which added greatly to the effectiveness of the show. Baker Bros., of Fort Worth, exhibited excellent chrysanthemum pot plants, as well as some cut blooms. The Green Floral Co., of Dallas, showed geraniums and cut flowers of various kinds.

Stevens & Stevens, Mrs. J. W. Carlisle and Mrs. W. C. Steele, all of Alvin, combined to send an exhibit of cut flowers, flowering plants and fruit trees. Griffing Bros. Co., of Port Arthur, had a display of nursery stock in charge of Henk Dirken, of Houston, in which were palms, evergreens and small citrus fruit trees. E. E. Stone, of Dickinson, made an exhibit, mainly of foliage plants. H. J. Condren, also of Dickinson, had a display of amaryllis bulbs. O. H. Hannah & Son, of Sherman, and Bird Forrest, of Waxahachie, also put up exhibits. T. J. Wolfe, of Waco, had a non-competitive display in addition to his many prize-winning entries.

Most of the Houston florists showed their wares, in addition to making a strong appearance in the competitive classes. Among the most prominent were the displays of R. C. Kerr and H. H. Kuhlmann. John Mickelsen, gardener for Miss Harriet Levy, showed some good decorative stock. C. L. Brock, city superintendent of parks, had on exhibition a model of George Hermann park as it will appear when completed.

From Outside the State.

Of points outside the state Chicago was in all probability the best represented. The A. L. Randall Co. sent some excellent roses and other cut flowers, and had a good supplies exhibit. Poehlmann Bros. Co. and Peter Reinberg had fine displays of cut flowers, and Vaughan's Seed Store was also represented.



From Madison, N. J., came an exhibit of Chas. H. Totty's chrysanthemum novelties. Elmer D. Smith & Co., of Adrian, Mich., had a display of the same flower. The Pikes Peak Floral Co., of Denver, Colo.; the Stuppy Floral Co., of St. Joseph, Mo.; C. H. Frey, of Lincoln, Neb.; J. F. Wilcox & Sons, of Council Bluffs, Ia., and Furrow & Co., of Guthrie, Okla., were others who sent noteworthy exhibits of cut flowers of various kinds.

The Management.

Credit for the successful showing of this first show held by the florists of Texas belongs to a large extent to the enthusiastic and energetic president of the state association, Robert C. Kerr, of Houston, and to T. J. Wolfe, of Waco, the chairman of the flower show committee. Full mention, however, should be made of the services of a number of others, without whose assistance the success would not have been so great as it was. On the flower show committee with Mr. Wolfe were Henry Greve, of Dallas; T. J. Stubblefield, of Fort Worth; E. D. Hall, of Austin; W. Suchy, of San Antonio, and E. E. Stone, of Dickinson. The Houston committee from the state organization comprised Geo. M. Cosh, chairman; C. T. Brock, I. M. Johnson and S. J. Mitchell. The committee from the Houston Florists' Club included H. H. Kuhlmann, H. Blicker, I. M. Johnson and John J. Boyle.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.

The annual fall exhibition of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held at Germania hall November 4 to 6. The combination of fair weather and a large attendance helped materially to make the show a success.

A noteworthy feature was the excellent trade exhibits. The Geo. E. Baldwin Co., of Mamaroneck, N. Y., staged a splendid exhibit of orchid plants in bloom, including many rare varieties, which was awarded a certificate of merit. Two especially fine specimen plants of Cattleya labiata were each awarded a cultural certificate.

Scott Bros., of Elmsford, N. Y., had an extensive display of chrysanthemums. Several novelties were noted in this collection, which was awarded a certificate of merit. An exhibit of this firm's new Nephrolepis Elmsfordii gained a cultural certificate. A vase of Matchless carnations won for this firm first prize for fifty any variety.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, Conn., staged a fine display of mums, consisting largely of singles and pompons, which was awarded a certificate of merit. The pompon novelties of this firm attracted much attention.

MacMillen & Co., of Greenwich, Conn., received a certificate of merit for their exhibit of foliage plants, cut flowers and chrysanthemums in pots.

The judges were James Bell, of New York city; Wm. Turner, of Oceanic, N. J.; Samuel Bachelor, of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; N. Butterback, of New Rochelle; W. H. Waite, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Donald Sheppard, of New Rochelle. Among the gardeners who contested for prizes in the ninety-four classes, the following were the most successful: W. J. Sealey, Ewen MacKenzie, A. L. Marshall, Jas. Linane, Wm. Whitton, H. Lyons, Adam Patterson, Thos. Aitchison, A. Bieschke, A. Wynne, Thos. Ryan, C. Hankenson, P. W. Popp, H. Lehman, Benj. Disley, J. T. Burns, Jas. Stuart, Wm. Graham, W. H. Maginnis, Robt. Grunnert, Martin Glendon, J. P. Sorenson, Jos. Tiernan, Henry Gaut, Robt. Williamson, Owen Hunwick, E. Lewis and W. R. Pitt.

In the class for table decorations by ladies only, Mrs. Ewen MacKenzie took first prize, Miss B. Scott second, and Miss Helena Floerke third. The basket of flowers arranged for effect by Miss B. Scott, of Elmsford, which won first prize in its class, was undoubtedly the finest and best arranged basket ever exhibited at any of the society's exhibitions, and gained for this young lady a fine cut-glass punch bowl.

P. W. Popp, Cor. Sec'y.

The Cotton Bouquet.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

The twentieth annual exhibition of the Dutchess County Horticultural Society proved to be one of the best shows the society has had, although not financially successful. Among the commercial growers who took prizes were the Saltford Flower Shop, which had a fine group of foliage and flowering plants; Valentin Burgevin's Sons, of Kingston, who made their showing in roses and carnations; B. Willig, who was strong in the carnation classes; N. H. Cottam, of Wappingers Falls, whose prizes were for retailers' work, and W. Feierabend, who showed some good violets.

The gardeners who took prizes were H. J. Osterhaudt, gardener for W. P.

Clyde; F. E. Whitney, for Winthrop Sargent; Harry Allen, for F. W. Vanderbilt; Wm. McBean, for the Stuyvesant Fish estate; James Mills, for the Ogden Mills estate; R. Abernathy, for Isaac Untermyer, and W. Tait, for A. C. Zabriskie.

The judges were Wm. C. Russell, of Millbrook; R. W. Allen, of Hudson, and Wm. Scott, of Elmsford.

VINCENT ENLISTS STATE AID.

Apropos of the fact that we had received many inquiries from different sections of the country and every fall and spring there is considerable discussion of an affliction or a geranium leaf spot which is supposed to be caused by a fungus, we have had our state horticultural department take the matter up and they have taken it to the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington, in regard to which Prof. F. H. Chittenden, in charge of truck, crop and stored product insect investigations of the Bureau of Entomology, writes to Prof. Temple, of the Maryland Horticultural Department, as follows:

"I am in receipt of your additional specimens of geranium leaves and beg to state, as before mentioned, that the injury is apparently entirely that known as stigmonose. This was for some time believed to be a specific fungous trouble, but by experiments has been determined to be the result of injury either by thrips or aphides. Under certain conditions plants attacked by these insects seem to develop this peculiar adventitious cell growth, which much resembles the attack of certain species of fungi. Fumigation or the application of proper insecticides for thrips and aphides would undoubtedly lessen the injury. The attack of these insects may be responsible for the yellowing of the leaves, but I am unable to state this definitely."

Prof. C. E. Temple, writing further on the subject, says: "I may add that Mr. Anspon and I are planning some experiments to determine the cause of this trouble. It will take some time, but I am sure that we will be able to get some results. I am unable to see how the trouble can be considered especially serious, and personally I do not believe the spot which we have had most to say about is caused by a fungus."

Prof. Temple would be pleased to receive any information or data relating to the disease from any florist who has the trouble, so that he may come to some definite conclusion as to what the real cause is and thereby the remedy.

COTTON BOLLS FORM BOUQUETS.

While the cotton problem remains so prominently in front of the eyes of the south, florists, as well as silk weavers, etc., may find their trade cut into by the substitution of cotton for their wares. What has already been done along this line in this trade is indicated in the illustration on page 15. This bouquet was the handiwork of Mrs. O. B. Hilzem, of Yazoo City, Miss. Other bouquets of her making have figured publicly already—one was presented to Secretary Bryan when he spoke in Memphis, another was worn by the daughter of Champ Clark at the cotton demonstration in Washington, and still another was carried by Mayor Behrman, of New Orleans, in the parade at the opening of the state fair at Jackson, Miss. Recently Mrs. Hilzem has had many orders for cotton bouquets, colonial and corsage.

The bouquet shown on page 15 was sent as a souvenir to the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago. It is made of cotton bolls in various stages of maturity, tied with cotton tape. Asparagus and magnolia leaves were the only components of the bouquet, aside from the foil used to wrap the stems, which did not come from the cotton plant. The cotton used in the bouquet is known as long staple, and came from one of the plantations of Yazoo county.

R. H. S. REPLIES TO GARDENERS.

The following communication has just been received by the committee appointed at the meeting of the National Association of Gardeners held in Boston last August, to draft suitable resolutions conveying the sympathies of the organization to the European horticulturists:

ROYAL HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY,
Westminster, London, England.
November 3, 1914.

Dear Sirs: The council of our society are very grateful to you and to the National Association of Gardeners for the kind and brotherly sympathies which you extend to us and the other gardeners of Great Britain and elsewhere in the present time of intense strain and distress.

May we hope that when the time comes for the reinstatement of the Belgium horticulturists we may receive your active cooperation and financial support? Our society will start a fund of help when the right time comes; but that time, we grieve to say, is not yet.

With brotherly greetings to our fellow gardeners in the States, I am,

Yours very truly,
W. Wilks,
Sec'y R. H. S.

SNAPDRAGON RUST THREATENS LOSS TO GROWERS

A report on "The Rust on Antirrhinum," by Chas. C. Rees, Floricultural Pathologist, Agriculture Experiment Station, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

DURING the summer of 1913 the attention of the floriculture department of the University of Illinois was first called to a rust on antirrhinum growing in the region north of Chicago. This rust, although it was thought at the time to be of little or no economic importance, has since, by virtue of its having spread into two other states, affecting seriously the snapdragon crops of a considerable number of growers, come to be regarded as a serious pest by all florists who depend upon the popular antirrhinum for a part of their revenue.

History and Distribution.

Prior to the summer of 1913, the rust had been reported but from two western coast states, California and Oregon. In 1895 it was determined as a new species by Holway, an American botanist, and named Puccinia antirrhini (Diet. and Holw.). However, as has already been mentioned, the station was apprised of the presence of the rust in the region north of Chicago about fourteen months ago and within a month from that time four new areas of infection had been located within a radius of fifty miles from the point at which the disease was first reported.

Then in September, 1914, the writer learned that the snapdragons growing on a private estate in northern Ohio were suffering an attack of the disease.

Fig. 1.—Rust Pustules on Antirrhinum.

The report was substantiated by the receipt of a quantity of diseased material from that locality at the station only a few days ago. Ten days ago two new areas of infection were located, one about a mile from the infection just mentioned in Ohio and the other in the western part of central Indiana. From all that could be learned, the rust in Indiana and Ohio was noticed on the antirrhinum for the first time during the latter part of last August. One grower in the northern part of Indiana has recently reported the loss of 6,000 cuttings. The loss, however, occurred three years ago. It has also been recently reported that a rust quite similar to, if not the same as, Puccinia antirrhini has been found on the wild Linaria vulgaris, commonly known as butter-and-eggs. This linaria is quite closely related to Antirrhinum majus.

Fig. 2.—Badly Infected Antirrhinum.

Description.

The disease is easily recognized and each grower of antirrhinum owes it to himself as well as to neighboring growers to examine his plants and cuttings thoroughly for any traces of infection. Within ten to thirteen days after a plant has been exposed to the rust, numerous grayish white areas the size of a pin's head will appear on the under sides of the lower leaves. From three to five days later characteristic rusty, brown pustules begin to replace these spots. (See Fig. 1.) These pustules continue to increase in number until practically every leaf of the plant is attacked. The stem also furnishes a foothold for the disease.

At this stage the plant begins to wilt; its period of usefulness has passed and in a short time it is dead. Figure 2 shows well the condition of a plant two weeks after the infection had established itself. The plant was taken from the house.

Cuttings have also proved themselves to be quite susceptible to attacks of the disease. Taken at a time when their vitality is at its lowest point, the cuttings fall an easy prey to the rust. The disease appears on the cuttings as it does on the older plants, grayish white spots appearing first, followed by the rusty brown pustules. However, where the cuttings are taken from diseased plants in the field, the pustules may show up on the upper leaves as soon as they do on the lower ones. The reason for this is obvious, as the disease was already established on the plants in the field from which the cuttings were taken.

Cause of Spreading.

Two theories have been advanced to account for the presence of the rust in these widely separated localities. One is that the rust spores might have been introduced on cuttings shipped in from an infected territory. The other is, since the rust has recently been reported on the linaria, butter-and-eggs, that the disease might easily be carried over from year to year on this wild host, which is so common in the United States and which is closely related to the antirrhinum. Under these conditions the linaria, growing wild, would furnish an excellent medium for the transportation of the infection to the extreme limits of its habitat.

The recent discovery of the teleutospore or winter stage of the rust on the material from Indiana permits of the conclusion that the disease is carried over from year to year in the field by these spores which establish themselves during the early fall on the stalks of the snapdragon. (See Fig. 3.)

A Warning.

It is hoped that this article will serve to place every grower of antirrhinum on his guard against the ravages of the rust, which gives every indication of causing alarming loss if allowed to go unchecked.

Owing to the fact that experimental work on the disease is just being commenced, the writer is unable at this time to advance any definite methods of control. However, after studying this problem for the last six weeks and after having observed the infection in a number of localities, it would seem advisable to observe the following precautions:

(1) Cover with straw and burn all dead plants that were left in the field. Even though these plants show no signs of the disease, this precaution should be taken.

(2) Examine carefully the cuttings and plants growing in the house. Pay particular attention to the lower leaves of the older plants, as the heavy moisture on these leaves makes conditions ideal for the germination of rust spores. Remove at once and burn all plants showing the slightest signs of infection, keeping well in mind the description of the rust as given in this article. Diseased plants should be removed, roots and all, and burned with great care, as the spores will "fly" upon the slightest provocation, and in this way neighboring plants are infected.

(3) As heavy moisture on the leaves makes germination easy for all rust spores, it would seem advisable to discontinue all overhead watering. Water only from below, and should the soil dry out too rapidly, mulch the bench well.

(4) Do not propagate from a plant showing the slightest signs of the rust or from a plant that has in any way been exposed to the disease. The selection of cuttings from diseased plants has already played too active a part in the spread of the infection.

If every grower of antirrhinum will take these precautions the chances of artificial as well as natural infection will be greatly reduced. By so doing, the spread of the disease can at least be checked until definite control measures can be advanced.

A Request.

In order that the writer may be apprised of the location of this rust wherever it is present, it is asked that any information regarding the location of any infection not mentioned in this article, as well as specimens of the same, be sent to him at once at the Agriculture Experiment Station, Urbana, Ill.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Louisville, Ky.—Immanuel J. Diehl has filed voluntary bankruptcy proceedings in the United States District Court, listing liabilities of $923.15 and assets of $100.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The cold snap is still on its way, and from this long stretch of Indian summer the cut flower market does not gain prosperity. Even the clean-up of Saturday and the effect of the Yale-Princeton football game produced no satisfactory uplift, though the latter event did draw heavily on violets and yellow mums.

The chrysanthemum supply has been enormous. It was impossible to move them. For the finest stock the large receivers were fortunate to obtain even $2 per dozen for what I have seen sell in other years at $5. It now looks as if the bulk of the supply would not be lessened much before Thanksgiving.

The rose shipments are still in excess of the market's requirements and the quality of the arrivals continually improves. American Beauties are especially fine now, but even the selected stock seldom rises above $12 per hundred. The short-stemmed stock of all kinds can hardly be given away. The high-class stores readily absorb all the novelties. All the medium stock of all kinds goes by vanloads, every afternoon, to the department stores.

Carnations have not advanced in price or quality. Only the newest and best rise above $1 per hundred. Longiflorum lilies are steady, at a slight advance, and valley has weakened, from an oversupply, seldom rising above $2 per hundred. There are too many pompon and single mums. Violets had an encouraging week, the price advancing daily until Saturday. The reaction this week will doubtless reduce them again to 50 cents and lower, until the demand materializes for the Yale-Harvard football contest. Gardenias are improving rapidly, and the supply is growing. Prices, however, continue low. A slight advance is noted for the best orchids. Their October slump was abnormal.

Bowling.

The scores of the members of the New York Florists' Bowling Club at the last gathering, Thursday, November 12, were as follows:

Player.	1st	2d	T'l.
J. Fenrich	163	170	333
C. W. Scott	141	154	295
W. H. Siebrecht	157	164	321
P. Jacobson	162	162	324
F. Niquet	159	164	323
J. Miesem	200	190	390
A. Kakuda	144	158	302
A. J. Guttman	145	168	313
P. Meconi	206	162	368

Various Notes.

J. K. Allen has had a large sale of mums and pansies in pots, quite up to the average of other years.

At the auctions of the MacNiff Horticultural Co. Mr. MacNiff has been averaging six hours at each session. Prices have been satisfactory and the volume of sales is far ahead of any former season at this date.

W. E. Maynard, the nurseryman, has opened a store at 1985 Clinton avenue, calling his enterprise the Garden & Farm Supply Co.

The many friends of C. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., will be glad to know that all reports from the hospital where he is convalescing have been encouraging and a complete recovery is now assured.

Wm. Plumb has been appointed manager of a large estate in Cuba and has resigned his position as superintendent of horticulture at the San Francisco exposition.

Patrick Welch, of Boston, L. J. Reuter, of Westerly, R. I., and E. Allan Peirce, of Waltham, Mass., were recent visitors in New York.

J. Austin Shaw.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

Market conditions are improving. A large call for stock for funeral work last week helped to clean up an overcrowded market. Excellent mums are obtainable now, including Golden Wedding, Enguehard, Chadwick, etc., besides pompon and single chrysanthemums of all kinds and colors. Soleil d'Or and Paper White narcissi have arrived, but are not received with open arms as yet. Roses are off crop, as is usual at this time of the year. Everyone is figuring on a heavy crop for Christmas. Carnations never were finer and seldom as cheap as they are now. Lilies are a trifle too plentiful. Valley is equal to a fair demand.

Club Outing.

The second industrial trip of the Florists' Club was as interesting and as well attended as the first. A crowd of forty visited the greenhouse establishments of the J. M. Gasser Co., W. J. Kramer and Lars Anderson, all of Rocky River, and Chas. Reep, Claude Tyler and A. M. Coe, all of North Olmsted. They also stopped at the vegetable houses of the Western Reserve Greenhouse Co. while en route.

The carnations at the range of the J. M. Gasser Co. were top-notchers, the best seen at this place for years. The roses, chrysanthemums and other stock also received favorable comments. W. J. Kramer makes a specialty of carnations and the stock looked it; a heavier showing of buds for a midwinter crop would be hard to find. Lars Anderson grows carnations, poinsettias, stevias, Romans, Paper Whites and other bulbous stock. His carnations were found in fine shape, with excellent crops coming on. Several new varieties, particularly Champion and Matchless, showed up well. Mr. Anderson's poinsettias, both in bench and pans, were just right. Claude Tyler is another carnation specialist. While not in as heavy crop at present as the other places visited, his prospects for a heavy Christmas cut are first-rate. Two houses of calendulas are grown here and they are the best this market has seen at any time, bar none. Chas. Reep was found busy rebuilding his shed and workroom. He evidently is getting ready to handle large cuts of early Golden Spur and tulips, for which he is famous. A. M. Coe grows a miscellaneous crop for the wholesale market—carnations, snapdragons and chrysanthemums principally. All was found in good condition. The stop at the vegetable houses of the Western Reserve Greenhouse Co. was interesting to the flower growers. Nearly three acres of lettuce in various stages of growth were under one roof, and as clean as could be grown.

The trip was made in ten automobiles belonging to our more prosperous brothers and, barring the attempts of John Kirchner to operate on two cylinders and a blow-out experienced by Herman Knoble, it was made in safety. Next trip will probably be in early December.

To show how the club's publicity committee keeps on the job at all times, a reporter from the Leader-News was taken along and a half column was the result the next day.

Various Notes.

Frank Gumpf, formerly gardener for Mrs. Leisy, is the patentee of a palm slip or cover that he has sold and demonstrated to several local florists. It appears to be a good thing. It is made of a heavy, closely woven cloth, well lined, and is slipped over the plant and buttoned. It affords excellent protection from the cold and permits the plant to stand erect, with no danger of broken leaves. F. A. F.

Mrs. Fred Chott welcomed a large number of old and new patrons at the opening of her new store, on Fleet avenue. The new fixtures and the fine floral display arranged for the occasion drew much comment. Miss Elgie Rychlik, of Painesville, O., furnished the music at the opening.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

There has been little change in trade conditions since last week. The snow storm passed over and bright weather again prevailed. There was a flood of chrysanthemums and flowers of all kinds on the market. Every market gardener who has a greenhouse seems to have filled it with chrysanthemums and the result is that the market is flooded with stock that any price will buy. The wholesalers had enough stock left over Saturday night to do another Saturday's business. Taken altogether, it was another unsatisfactory week. The trade is still hopeful that the worst is nearly over, for with bad weather the stock will certainly shorten up. The retailers have had nothing to brag about. Trade was quite ordinary, but credit must be given them for making displays that under ordinary circumstances would have made things hum.

Various Notes.

The A. W. Smith Co. had a week of flower shows that were indeed creditable.

Mrs. E. A. Williams had a beautifully decorated window, with mixed color effects of yellow crotons and ferns; also hats filled with single and pompon chrysanthemums tied with the proper ribbon.

Ray Daschbach kept his store and windows decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums in beautiful effect. All of the other retailers seemed to make a special effort last week and those who did not buy certainly have had some good reason for not buying. If trade was not all it should have been, we must take our hats off to the retailers for their splendid efforts to persuade people to buy.

Randolph & McClements have another large wedding in Youngstown, O., this week. They have been unusually successful in picking up the large orders in Ohio this fall.

The boxwood trade is on in earnest and Pittsburgh is certainly making good its assertion that this is the distributing point for boxwood.

The McCallum Co. has been showing some fine chrysanthemums from local growers. They have their store decorated with Christmas material, such as bells, red chenille and wreaths of magnolia.

Fred Burki and T. P. Langhans have been called for jury duty for the next two weeks. As this is a bad time for florists to leave their business, they are figuring on how to tell it to the court.

The Sunshine Home for Children had a flower day Saturday, November 14, and it is estimated that they sold 50,000 pompon chrysanthemums. Hundreds of young women were selling the flowers and it seemed everyone had a little yellow flower on his coat.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. has been using a peculiar nozzle for syringing, by which it is possible to syringe the under side of foliage to such good advantage that they are continually receiving requests for them. They are now putting them on the market.

State Florists' Convention.

Last week the annual convention of the Minnesota State Florists' Association was held here, with headquarters, as usual, at the West hotel. W. D. Desmond, manager of the flower department and greenhouses of the L. S. Donaldson Co., had charge of the exhibits and the supply of palms and bay trees from the Donaldson greenhouses. He was able to make a gorgeous display, showing all exhibits to the best advantage. He was assisted by C. B. Livingston, manager of the flower department of the Holman-Gerdes Co. Wm. Vasatka, foreman at the Donaldson greenhouses and secretary of the Minneapolis Florists' Club, had charge of the decorations for the banquet and did himself credit. Friend Latham was at the door to collect the dollar for the banquet, and you may feel assured that none escaped his eye, for he has that gentle way of extracting the dollars.

O. P. Olson, of Holm & Olson, St. Paul, was toastmaster and deserves the palm. J. E. Quallich, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, made a speech on running a retail store. His remarks showed much thought, experience and keen reasoning. Many others spoke briefly, among them Aug. S. Swanson, L. L. May, Miss H. B. Whitted and Julia Ells.

Songs dedicated to Theodore Wirth and President Olson were sung by a colored quintet, and Theo. Nagel rendered vocal solos, accompanied by his wife at the piano.

The exhibits were exceptionally fine. Among the chief exhibitors were: Miss H. B. Whitted, L. S. Donaldson Co., Holm & Olson, St. Paul; Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago; Gust. Rusch & Co., Milwaukee; A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, and La Crosse Floral Co., La Crosse, Wis. The bulbs were from A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, and were grown in the L. S. Donaldson greenhouses. An exhibit of Winsor carnations, grown in the Donaldson greenhouses, had stems eighteen to twenty inches long and took a certificate of merit. Miss Whitted took many prizes for baskets and mums. Holm & Olson received a prize for a display of palms and orchids. Other exhibits worthy of mention were the mums shown by J. A. Weber, gardener for C. G. Goodrich, Zumbra Heights, Minn.; the Wm. Turner exhibited by the Jewell Nursery Co., Lake City, Minn.; the Russell roses sent by the Holton & Hunkel Co., Milwaukee, Wis., and the plant exhibit of the Minneapolis Floral Co. Hans Rosacker and Will Bros. Co., of Minneapolis; John E. Sten, of Red Wing, Minn.; N. C. Hanson and the Merriam Park Floral Co., of St. Paul, also had excellent exhibits.

Visitors from out of town whose presence was noted were: Calvin Kinsman, Austin, Minn.; C. G. Nordine, Lake City, Minn.; John E. Sten, Red Wing, Minn.; N. Nielsen, Mankato, Minn.; C. E. Schafer, of the La Crosse Floral Co., La Crosse, Wis.; A. L. Miller, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, and J. E. Quallich, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

Various Notes.

At the last meeting of the Minneapolis Florists' Club, H. Rosacker showed a yellow sport of a single white daisy, of which he did not know the name, but which caused much discussion, and he also showed an Enchantress sport measuring about four inches across. W. D. Desmond showed some of L. S. Donaldson's prize-winning Dorothy Dimple. The new officers took their places at this meeting.

Perl Bros. have delayed their opening on account of the warm weather, but will probably hold it soon, now that the weather is cool.

Miss H. B. Whitted has had a chrysanthemum show at her Fifth street store, which attracted much attention. The mums were grown by the La Crosse Floral Co., of La Crosse, Wis.

W. D. Desmond had a large decoration at the Radisson hotel, which necessitated a trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Littleton, of the flower department of the Chapman-Basting Co., will open a store across from the Minneapolis Club, January 1. She has already secured a lease and ordered an auto truck. She will be assisted by her husband.

John Monson has built an addition to his greenhouses, to be used for housing chickens, in the hope of getting a supply of fresh eggs this winter. This addition cost $500. He has also built a large house for chrysanthemums.

The park board's chrysanthemum show, at the park greenhouses, is now open and is finer than ever before. The display consists of many new varieties, all carefully and conspicuously labeled. Superintendent Wirth conducts these exhibits of flowers in the height of their blooming season. People come from all over the state, and even from outside the state, to see these shows, as Mr. Wirth has the finest of help and oversees everything personally.

C. B. L.

The Minnesota State Horticultural Society will meet December 1 to 4, at the State Farm School, St. Anthony Park. The program for Tuesday evening has been turned over to the State Florists' Association, and papers will be read by A. S. Swanson, E. Meyer and Prof. Moore, of the State School. During the week premiums will be awarded for the best exhibits of palms, ferns, blooming plants, roses, chrysanthemums and carnations.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

Business has steadily increased, although the continued warm weather has a tendency to check general trade. More cut flowers were in the market last week than the week before.

Chrysanthemums have been heavy on this market for the last two weeks, but by next week a good many of the growers in this vicinity will have cut all their stock and there will probably be a shortage for Thanksgiving day of the home-grown mums. Pot plants have sold slowly this season. Baskets of mums are the best sellers. Many retailers keep them made up ready to sell, which seems to pay, as they are attractive as advertising. Pompons and singles were not so heavy on the market as they were a week ago.

Roses are plentiful. Heavy consignments have been received daily, selling at low prices. The quality seems to improve daily. American Beauties are plentiful, but they seem to hold up in price better than the rest of the roses.

Carnations are improving in size and length of stem, but they are soft and easily bruised. Prices remain low. Narcissi, stevias and sweet peas are arriving. Orchids are plentiful and their price is low, for there is little call for them at present.

Various Notes.

John R. Hanley purchased, November 14, from Willard J. Bush, Sr., new greenhouse property at 2215 Jackson avenue, with a frontage of 132 feet. The consideration was $7,500. Mr. Hanley will have a good location, as he will be near the entrance to St. Mary's cemetery.

Samuel Murray was busy all last week with decorations. He had a large decoration out of town, which took some time to get ready, as so much stock had to be shipped for the occasion.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. had a pretty window last week, displaying handsome cut mums of good size.

Stevens & Larkin have their greenhouses in good shape. They have 62,000 square feet of glass. A large space is devoted to carnations and chrysanthemums, two houses to Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri, one house to cyclamens and one house to azaleas and Christmas plants.

Arthur Newell had some small, pretty baskets of mums in his window all last week, and they seemed to be just what the people wanted for various purposes.

Henry Kusik & Co. report good business in both supplies and cut flowers.

Walter Heite is bringing in a great many mums from Merriam, Kan.

The Alpha Floral Co. had a fern sale Saturday that was a boomer. It was a big drawing card and made business good. The company reports a good funeral business for last week.

W. J. B.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

Business conditions are much improved. Last week was a good one, especially in transient trade. There has been considerable funeral work, besides debutante decorations, etc. The influence of the cold weather helped trade considerably. Flowering plants, such as begonias, primroses, chrysanthemums, etc., are selling well. Carnations are not plentiful as yet. They are small and short-stemmed. Fortunately, pompons are taking the place of carnations, for the varied colors of the pompons can be used for any purpose and in many ways. Roses continue to be plentiful and of splendid quality. Sunburst is a great favorite this season. Hadley is next in favor. Bon Silene and Sweetheart, or Mignon, roses are used a great deal for debutante work. The revival of Dutch, colonial and French bouquets has captivated this season's debutantes. Large numbers are being sold for each young lady entering society. The French corsages to be worn on the left shoulder are gaining popularity. These are made of a single Ward, Sunburst or Taft rose, with a few sprays of valley and about eight or ten violets. A Brazilian bug adds to the quaintness, as does also a tiny bow of ribbon where the stems of the flowers are tied.

Chrysanthemums are plentiful and good. Bonnaffon, Turner, Maude Dean, Ivory, Chadwick, Touset, Eaton, Enguehard and Chrysolora are coming in now. Beauties are scarce. The dark weather has kept them from developing. They are small and lack color, as well as strength of stem. Violets are good, but are high in price. Valley has dropped in price, in spite of the influence of the war.

Various Notes.

K. M. Cantlin, on Wadsworth street, reports that business has shown a decided improvement since November 1 and is increasing in volume each week. Thanksgiving trade is always good at this store. A special line of cut flower baskets will be disposed of November 26. The window displays are always attractive.

Mrs. Katherine Raeker finds business good. She has a large number of funeral and debutante orders. Cedar bark logs filled with bronze and yellow pompons are among her creations and are being disposed of rapidly at her store.

J. H. Rebstock was busy with funeral work last week. Fall trade here is increasing right along.

The Gray and Coit debutante receptions were two big jobs for W. J. Palmer & Son.

S. A. Anderson had the Knox reception and dance decoration, which was the biggest affair of the season, requiring about 500 Beauties, among other flowers. The table decorations were made of oncidiums, phalænopsis and cattleyas. The gift baskets and bouquets were most handsome and costly. Several gift bouquets came from New York.

The latest thing in debutante creations is the Mexican sombrero and leghorn hats filled with orchids, Sunburst and Ophelia roses and tied with contrasting or harmonizing ribbons. Pompons and Hadley roses are also used in the hats to good advantage.

Stephen Greene, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, was a visitor last week.

J. Benson Stafford had a good sized wedding decoration at Barnesville, O., recently. He also had an artistic decoration at Niagara Falls.

The J. G. Pickelman Co. had a sale of Japanese vases with one flower in each. These were quite artistic.

William Sievers, on Genesee street, had a pleasing window display of Bonnaffons. He always has a large stock of first-quality flowers on hand and the store is one of the neatest on the east side.

Ed. Stroh is running his new delivery car.

Anna Louise Faul entertained a few friends at dinner Saturday, November 7. The table was prettily decorated with white pompons, pink snapdragons and smilax.

E. C. A.

WACO, TEX.

The Waco Floral Co. has changed managers. Mr. Keld, formerly with Wolf, the Florist, is the new manager.

T. J. Wolf, of Wolf, the Florist, was in attendance at the state flower show in Houston last week.

The Cotton Palace, which closed November 15, drew large crowds to this city. Business here is good, although we have our share of calamity howlers.

The Mohan Floral Co. has just completed two additional houses 21x165 feet. One is full of mums and the other of carnations. This company won first prize for a decorated float in the parade of the Lady Maccabees of Waco recently. On the float was a bridal party, with complete floral accompaniments. The frame of the bridal arch, which has been used by the company several times previously, is of gas pipe with four legs and feet to fasten to the floor. It is easy to decorate and saves the trouble and expense of erecting a wooden frame for each occasion.

Westboro, Mass.—Frank L. Midgley, son of Leonard C. Midgley, of the Westboro Conservatories, was married November 7 to Miss Marion L. Hero. After their return from a honeymoon in New York and Washington, they will reside at 18 Walnut street, Worcester, where he is engaged in the florists' business.

OBITUARY

Emanuel E. Pieser.

E. E. Pieser, one of the oldest in point of years of service among those in Chicago's wholesale cut flower market, died Saturday evening, November 14, as he was in the act of rising from his chair to bid good night to his physician.

Mr. Pieser had been ill for several months and for several weeks his condition had been such as to give great alarm, but it was difficult to break the habit of a lifetime and he paid frequent visits to his store last week, even on the day of his death being at his desk until almost closing time. He suffered from a disease of the heart and his physician was in the habit of paying him a nightly visit at about retiring time. The heart gave out as the doctor was about to take his departure after the usual chat over the news of the day. The end was instantaneous. Curiously enough, both of Mr. Pieser's associates in business died of heart trouble. Flint Kennicott dropped on the steps of a barber shop a few doors from the store and G. H. Pieser died of enlargement of the heart, November 14, 1911, exactly three years ago to the day of his brother's death.

Emanuel E. Pieser was one of Chicago's native sons. He was born New Year's day, 1863. His mother survives, an octogenarian and too feeble to be present at the funeral. Mr. Pieser leaves a widow, but no children. There remain two sisters and a brother, Isaac, of the Pieser-Livingston Co., millers. Two other brothers, Gabriel and Sam, were florists, but are gone.

More than thirty years ago Flint Kennicott and his brother, Amaza, started a wholesale flower store on Washington street, where the Field building now stands. They soon secured E. E. Pieser as a lieutenant. He was associated with the Kennicott interests almost uninterruptedly till the day of his death, when he ranked as being the oldest active wholesale cut flower dealer still in the business in Chicago. When the Kennicott Bros. Co. was incorporated, in 1893, G. H. Pieser joined the forces. For many years Flint Kennicott was president, G. H. Pieser secretary and E. E. Pieser treasurer. At Mr. Kennicott's death, G. H. Pieser became president, to be succeeded in turn by his younger brother. At the time of his death, E. E. Pieser was president and treasurer of the corporation, with Hal Kennicott acting as secretary. In the early days the business passed through many vicissitudes, but the record of the house was preserved without blemish and as the years passed it gained a financial standing of exceptional character.

E. E. Pieser was not quick to make friendships, but, once he gave his confidence, he would stick to a man through thick and thin. He was unostentatious, democratic, "just plain Manny Pieser" to all who knew him, and if he gave his word it was as good as a bond.

The funeral was held November 17, from the residence at 1004 East Forty-second place, followed by public services at Furth's chapel, attended by representatives of practically all the wholesale florists, by many retailers, growers and other friends. There were many beautiful flowers. Interment was in Rosehill.

Emanuel E. Pieser.

William H. Smith.

William H. Smith, for many years a trusted employee of the Johnson Seed Co., Philadelphia, died November 16. He was 79 years of age. Mr. Smith's association with the seed business in his city dates back to the early days of the firm of Johnson & Stokes, with whom he worked throughout their twenty-five years in the seed business in Philadelphia. When the firm of Johnson & Stokes was dissolved a few years ago Mr. Smith became store manager for the Johnson Seed Co., which position he has held since. Mr. Smith has suffered from two attacks of illness, due to cold, which undermined his constitution.

Irvin H. Anderson.

Irvin H. Anderson, of Reading, Pa., died November 5, at the age of 43, at his home in Reading. He was formerly the proprietor of the Brookside Greenhouses, which he sold some time ago to B. and L. Steckler.

J. P. Thompson.

J. P. Thompson, assistant florist at the state capitol at Austin, Tex., died November 2 in an Austin hospital, at the age of 59. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

Henry Cannell.

The news of the death of Henry Cannell, noted florist and founder of the firm of H. Cannell & Sons, will be learned with regret by gardeners everywhere. He died October 25, at Swanley, the small Kentish village with which his name is associated, in his eighty-second year. Deceased was born at Norwich in March, 1833, the eldest son of a large family. His gardening career was long and honorable. The Victoria Medal of Horticulture was conferred on him in 1902. The troubles of his closing years were somewhat alleviated by horticultural friends, who contributed a fund for a pension.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

The Joy Floral Co., Nashville, Tenn., has the stock in its houses in first-class shape. There is rather too much for the demand, Tom Joy says, but as he has harvested a bountiful crop of Irish Cobbler potato that will bring a good price, we must rejoice that business is not so bad. A special house of chrysanthemums will be in prime condition for Thanksgiving and some good orders are on file. Pot mums are tiptop.

Geny Bros., Nashville, are much taken up with the Mrs. Russell rose and will grow it in place of Beauty, planting five houses instead of one trial house. It has produced an average of six blooms per plant, keeps color better than Killarney and is excellent in cloudy weather. The bench plan for growing Paper Whites was adopted here some time ago. Bulbs are kept in the original cases until ready to plant. One case is planted each week. A temperature of 50 to 55 degrees is maintained and it is no trouble to obtain a rotation crop. W. M.

New Castle, Pa.—A. P. Barclay, recently at Denver, has arrived here to enter the employ of Hennon & Son.

Thirty-first annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., August 17 to 20, 1915.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

THE next big event on the trade calendar will be the appearance of the Christmas number of The Review.

IF the Mrs. Russell rose is given American Beauty temperature during the winter it should keep going satisfactorily during the dull weather months.

NEXT season, just for fun, try disbudding a few pompons. The change in size, form and even in color of flower will be most interesting and can be turned into good advertising.

IF ever a new mum filled a long-felt want, that mum is Chieftain, sometimes referred to as the pink Bonnaffon. If you have stock plants you can sell all you can propagate next season.

THE recent reduction in the dividend of the Adams places the express company stock on a four per cent basis. Not many shippers in this trade would care to do business on so narrow a margin.

WHAT do you think would happen to the price of other roses if someone should send out a variety of the size of Russell and the floriferousness of Killarney? Wouldn't such a variety make everything else unprofitable?

THOSE who usually devote this part of the year to booking advance orders are finding business particularly slow this season. But there is no need to worry; the run of mail orders around delivery time will be all the stronger.

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING.

One by one advertisers are learning that it is not where a paper is printed, but where it is read, that counts. For instance, a letter containing instructions to omit several varieties from an advertisement of bulbs concludes:

We certainly were surprised at the response to this advertisement; The Review sure does pull.—J. J. Wilson Seed Co., Newark, N. J., November 11, 1914, by J. J. Wilson, president.

WHAT BUSINESS IS.

Business consists in getting an order for the goods, filling the order to the satisfaction of the customer, getting the money and completing the transaction to the profit and pleasure of all parties concerned.—Elbert Hubbard.

COLLECTIONS IMPROVING.

Collections have been slow, decidedly slow, for two or three months. People usually prompt pay have in many instances deferred the settlement of their accounts, while as for those who are congenitally slow pay—well, they seemed to think a moritorium had been declared in this country as in Europe—that one had no right to ask them for his money.

But conditions are improving. It has become the fashion to ask for payments on account—for something, even if only a little, to accompany new orders. Collections are looking up.

Also, the banks are in easier circumstances and the man of good credit can borrow at his bank at reasonable cost.

BAD BUSINESS, WHAT?

In a recent issue of The Review an Illinois florist was quoted as saying that business was what one might call good, as the sales of October 26 put him ahead of the total for the 365 days in 1913. Now comes a cotton states florist who has an even better story to tell. This is it:

I notice in The Review for October 29 what Wm. Swinbank reports regarding his business this year as compared with last. We have got him "beaten a mile" and then some. Our business for 1914, including today, November 9, is $21.60 more than twice our entire 1913 business. Yes, we are fully satisfied.—C. D. Otis, Lake Charles, La.

GARDENERS' CONVENTION.

The annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners will take place in Philadelphia December 9 and 10. Thomas Logan, William Kleinheinz and John H. Dodds are the committee on arrangements and report the preliminary program as follows:

Wednesday, December 9.—The general meeting of the association will be opened promptly at 2 p. m. at Horticultural hall. Following the business session, several speakers prominent in horticulture will address the members on subjects interesting to the gardeners.

Wednesday evening.—The banquet will be held at one of the local hotels, to which ladies are to be invited.

Thursday morning, December 10.—The bowling tournament will take place, open to all members of the association who register at the business session. There will be no team bowling, but prizes will be offered for individual scores. During the bowling tournament a shuffleboard contest for the ladies will be provided, for which prizes will also be offered.

Thursday afternoon will be devoted to visiting some of the prominent growing establishments in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

The Hotel Walton, directly opposite Horticultural hall, has been selected as the headquarters of the association during the convention. Accommodations can be secured there at moderate rates.

M. C. Ebel, Sec'y.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

THREE YEARS.

Sealey, R. E., Cedarhurst, N. Y.

TWO YEARS.

Shrader, J. W., Mattoon, Ill.
Wiffin, Charles, Des Plaines, Ill.
Zweifel, Nic, North Milwaukee, Wis.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

SMILE, AND THE WORLD—

In Chicago there is a janitor who presides over an apartment house filled with nervous women. There are women who fight when the apartment gets cold, and an equal number who fight when it gets too warm. And, one and all, they all descend into the yard, at stated intervals, to rip this janitor up the back, because he does not put an end to what annoys them.

And the janitor? He is a Swede and he just smiles. He says, "Yes, sure," to everything. He disagrees with no woman, but he smiles at them all with charming lack of discrimination. The result? That is easy. No woman has ever been able to quarrel with this janitor for long. It can't be done.

The suggestion is: Try this smile in your store and in your business life. But, in trying it, you want to make sure that you use the right brand of smile. This janitor's smile comes from a merry heart; it isn't forced, put on as politicians do. He means it. It isn't the smile of derision such as the wise man uses when he wants to make the fool seem doubly foolish. It isn't the smile that the selfish man uses when he has "put it over" on the other fellow. This Swede's smile is that of a man pleased with the world and who wonders that you are not. That is the brand of smile to try.

This sort of smile will work both ways. It will treble the efficiency of your staff and it will stop all the complaints made by those who want to kick, but are not sure what to kick about. It will soothe the nerves and smooth the road.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

There have been signs of an impending change in the market, but the improvement last week was slight. Immense quantities of flowers were sold, so that business must have been good with some of the buyers, but the supply has been so much larger than what the trade calls the regular demand that it has so far been impossible to raise prices to any appreciable extent—average returns to the growers, especially on carnations, still are much below normal for this time of year. The cold snap that came November 15 is expected to change things before many days, if it lasts.

The flower that brings the best price is the Mrs. Russell rose; in most wholesale houses it brings considerably better prices than they are able to average for Beauties. No rose ever achieved quicker popularity than has come to Russell, and no rose ever held greater menace for other varieties. Next season many growers will cut down on Beauty to give extra space to Russell and no doubt the price will fall, which will increase the competition for the other roses. Ophelia is acquitting itself creditably; the propagators are getting busy and it will be planted more extensively next season. Killarney Brilliant has hardly made good its early promise, but some fine stock is seen. Hadley is not yet a market factor. Milady and Richmond are in better favor since cooler weather came. There is plenty of Killarney for the present demand, but a change is expected with cooler weather and the passing of mums. Sunburst is fine and sells well, as does Ward.

Mums appear to have passed the height of their season and to be on the down grade. There continue to be large supplies of low grade mums, but an improved market is noted for good Chadwick, Eaton, Yellow Eaton and other first-class large late sorts. Pompons and singles never were so abundant as last week. Prices are low. Expert growers have thus far averaged only about three-fifths what the benches brought them last year. The late benches are expected to do better.

Carnations have been and are too plentiful for the demand; growers have not, in most cases thus far this season, averaged much over half what they did last year. The colder weather is expected to help, if it lasts.

Violets, double and single, are more abundant and of better quality since the weather turned cooler. Cattleyas are equal to all demands. Valley, too, is in adequate supply. Two local growers are cutting gardenias, enough to take care of all buyers who make their wants known in advance. Lilies are becoming more plentiful. Sweet peas, too, are coming stronger. Stevia arrived last week. Bouvardia is seen in several wholesale houses. Paper Whites already have begun to stand around.

All greens are abundant and of good quality.

Thanksgiving Prospects.

There is every indication of an excellent Thanksgiving business next week. Shipping has been cut down by the large supplies of mums through the country, but these crops are passing and the result already is apparent in the revival of the shipping trade. With the mums cleaned up to an unusual degree by Thanksgiving, the call on Chicago should be stronger than ever before.

The trade through the country understands that unusually good values were to be had in Chicago this fall, and that this, no doubt, still will be the case next week, so that there is every indication of brisk business.

Announcement was made November 17 of the formation of a new partnership, between Guy W. French, Richard Salm and the Mrs. Russell rose. Messrs. French and Salm have leased the establishment of the Yorkville & Union Grove Greenhouse Co. and will start into business March 1, growing the Mrs. Russell rose exclusively.

The Yorkville & Union Grove Greenhouse Co., Union Grove, Wis., was organized last spring as the result of efforts by those interested in the Meredith Flower & Vegetable Co. It was an inauspicious moment for new ventures and financial vicissitudes resulted, now cleared up by the leasing of the establishment to competent growers for operation. The range still lacks a few days of completion. It consists of three Lord & Burnham iron frame houses each 57½x350, thoroughly up-to-date in every particular, with all necessary service buildings. The location is seven miles west of Corliss, Wis., with good train service to Chicago, where it is expected the cut will be sold on commission. French & Salm will not take possession until March 1, the place being completed and lying idle in the interval, so that they get it new and unused.

Guy W. French is well known as the president of the Chicago Florists' Club. He has been with Poehlmann Bros. Co., at Morton Grove, for seventeen years, in charge of carnations. He says it seems like leaving home to make a change, but that this seems an unusual opportunity to start in business. Richard Salm has been at the Poehlmann establishment for nine years, in charge of the Beauties. Both men are known as close thinkers and expert growers.

The House of Kennicott.

The news of the sudden death of E. E. Pieser, president of Kennicott, Bros. Co., was a shock, although the market had realized that his health was precarious. Mr. Pieser held sixty per cent of the capital stock of the Kennicott corporation, the other forty per cent being in the hands of Agnes Kennicott, widow of Flint Kennicott, and her son, Hal, both of whom are in Florida. Mrs. Pieser is her husband's only heir and has signified her wish that the business go on without change, the corporation having the services of three experienced and capable men, N. P. Miller, Max Ringier and E. Frank, the latter in charge of the accounting.

consignees receiving freight at the Summerdale station. This was on complaint and evidence furnished by the florists there and it caused a reduction of 15 cents per ton in the freight paid on coal from the smokeless fields of West Virginia. The principal beneficiaries were Peter Reinberg, George Reinberg and the J. A. Budlong estate.

Having secured a reduction that put them on the same freight basis as other growers north of town, claims were entered before the commission requesting that a refund be ordered equal to the overcharge during the years 1911, 1912 and 1913. It amounts to a pretty penny. November 14 George Reinberg, P. C. Schupp, representing the Budlong estate, and Miss Marguerite Kane McNulty, representing Peter Reinberg, appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission at a hearing in the Federal building to give evidence in the case.

The Bowlers.

Five florists as a team are bowling in the North Chicago league this season and November 16 tackled the league leaders, a team that has attracted the attention of the fraternity throughout the city by rolling game after game above 1,000. They did not have to extend themselves to beat our boys three straight, and the Florists did excellently at that. The score:

Various Notes.

The Chicago Florists' Club will hold an adjourned meeting at the Bismarck hotel tonight, November 19, for the nomination of officers.

The Cook County Florists' Association holds its monthly meeting tonight, November 19, at the Tavern.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Union will hold its sixth annual dance at Wicker Park hall, 2046 West North avenue, November 21, when a large attendance is expected. The officers this year are: President, James Lynn; vice-president, Joseph Artner; treasurer, Martin Schneider; financial secretary, Adrian Vanderpoel; secretary, Louis Heidtmann.

The wedding of Miss Adelaide Louise Amling and Rev. Jean M. Bailey will take place Thanksgiving day at Trinity church, in Oak Park. Miss Amling has many friends in the trade, as she assisted for some time in the office of the E. C. Amling Co., of which her father is president.

At Morton Grove, Poehlmann Bros. Co. has fitted up a large floor in the new service building as a factory for the manufacture of florists' supplies, under the management of T. E. Waters. The latest addition is a drying room where ruscus and other materials can be dried by the mechanical exhaustion of the air and moisture in the room, saving considerably in time.

Friday, the thirteenth, was one of John Zech's lucky days. He devoted it to a round of the trade in Milwaukee, where Zech & Mann do considerable business, and had a fine time.

weeks in Washington Park hospital, Ernest Oechslin was able to return to his home in River Forest November 15. He is up and around the house and hopes soon to be able to resume business. It will be remembered that he was injured October 28 in a collision between his auto and a street car.

The first stevia noted this season was seen November 12 at the store of the Batavia Greenhouse Co., cut at Batavia.

A trip to Richmond and Newcastle occupied two days of last week for John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., and H. Wehrman, of Maywood. Mr. Michelsen feels confident of a marked improvement in the market within the next few days, basing it largely on the passing of the mums and especially the bunch mums.

The International Forwarding Co. states that it has on its hands about a carload of Dutch bulbs, mostly tulips, small lots, refused by the consignees. The bulbs have been held until the local dealers are pretty well cleaned up, so that marketing through outside channels will do little harm.

It is stated that F. C. Mendonza is paying $3,600 per year on a lease for two years for his new location at 6236 South Halsted street, adjoining the entrance to the new Empress theater. The building is close to Sixty-third street, one of the best locations on the south side, and Mr. Mendonza is fitting up a first-class store.

A. C. Spencer, with Kyle & Foerster, points out a fine location for a flower store, in the new building at the corner of Broadway and Winnemac avenue. The owner, George J. Kappes, is one of Mr. Spencer's numerous friends.

A report in the market that J. W. Ensweiler, 5329 South Morgan street, was held up on Michigan avenue Sunday night is an error. It was Mr. Ensweiler's son who received a bump on the head.

The will of W. L. Palinsky was filed for probate November 16. It designated Mary Palinsky, widow, as executrix and sole beneficiary. The estate was valued at $15,000.

J. A. Jegen has opened a new retail store on North State street, between Division and Elm streets.

E. B. Washburn, of Bassett & Washburn, returned from New York November 17. He and his wife will leave for Pasadena November 22.

C. Frauenfelder, 3343 West Madison street, is doing a fine business in funeral work, but reports a light demand for potted plants. Mr. Frauenfelder is presenting a rose to every lady customer.

Robert Northam, with George Reinberg, says that in spite of the seemingly dull conditions, a large quantity of flowers has been moved with little or no waste.

Dominick Freres is having numerous improvements made on the flat building he owns on the northwest side.

Paul R. Klingsporn, manager of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, points to one of the little compensations of the times, showing that, on account of the non-exportation of cotton, twine is considerably cheaper than a year ago and probably will go to 12½ cents per pound.

J. C. Bruckner, Sixty-ninth street and Parnell avenue, has opened another store, to be called the Princeton Florists, at the corner of Fifty-ninth street and Princeton avenue. He will take charge of the new place, as Mrs. Bruckner will run the old store.

A. L. Vaughan says conditions, both as to sales and collections, have improved to a considerable degree but still are erratic, a busy day frequently being followed by a dull one.

Alois Frey, at Crown Point, is cutting a fine lot of single, bunch mums, mostly varieties of his own raising.

A. T. Pyfer is well pleased with the prospect. The firm of Pyfer & Olsem has done well in spite of the low prices that have prevailed so far this season and the Chicago Carnation Co., of which Mr. Pyfer continues to act as manager, has largely increased its business on the commission account, much of the stock coming from new glass, so that it is clear gain—nobody's loss.

Peter Reinberg is on a trip to his hunting club on the Mississippi.

Adolph Poehlmann tells visitors to Plant B, of the Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, that probably 100,000 Mrs. Russell will be planted there next season.

C. W. McKellar reports an excellent demand for gardenias, now that the social season is open. He looks for an unusually busy Thanksgiving trade.

Charles Erne, of Erne & Klingel, indicates his belief that a strong market for roses is in early prospect.

Herman Schiller says that if all retailers are doing as well as the Schiller stores there is no cause for complaint in that department of the trade. The west side store is doing as much as in any other year and the north side store is showing a good gain over last year, which was the first.

The Market.

The market last week was overcrowded with cut stock of all kinds. The weather was fine and summer-like all the week, but November 16 ushered in our first touch of winter weather. Chrysanthemums are still in greatest demand. There is not so overwhelming a glut as in former years, but the demand is less and the prices that ruled in former years have not been reached this season. Bonnaffon is now arriving in greater numbers than any other variety, although Chadwick, Eaton and Dr. Enguehard are abundant. The demand was good last week, but not large enough to clean up. Roses are plentiful in all varieties, but these will not come into their own until the chrysanthemum season is over. Among those of high quality are Ward, Hadley and Richmond. The prices are running low on extra-quality stock. Carnations rarely go above $2 per hundred and the lower grades run from $5 to $10 per thousand. Some extra fancy Enchantress are seen daily, as well as good Beacon and Ward. Violets have been cleaning up of late, as the quality is becoming better daily. Paper White narcissi, sweet peas, Easter lilies, valley and snapdragons are the other flowers that make up the daily market. Asparagus sells well; so do fancy ferns and smilax.

Club Meeting.

The St. Louis Florists' Club held an interesting meeting November 12, in Odd Fellows' building. There was a splendid attendance. President Jules Bourdet presided over the meeting and the entire staff of officers were present. A letter from John Young, secretary of the S. A. F., pertaining to S. A. F. matters, was read and ordered filed for future reference. Application for membership was made by Max Schiller, of the Missouri Botanical Garden. O. C. May and Geo. Denys, applicants for membership, were reported favorably and their election followed.

The holding of a spring flower show was again brought up for discussion. This discussion was opened by W. C. Smith, followed by W. S. Wells, Aug. Hummert, Carl Beyer, W. W. Ohlweiler, H. C. Irish and F. Fillmore. The plan spoken of by W. C. Smith seemed to impress the members most, and on motion the chair appointed a committee of five to bring in a report at the next meeting as to the advisability of holding such an exhibition next spring. This committee consists of W. C. Smith, W. S. Wells, A. H. Hummert, Geo. H. Pring and Al. Gumz. A report from this committee at the next meeting will bring final action from the members.

The report of Treasurer Smith showed that the club was quite healthy financially.

A motion was made that an entertainment of some sort be given for the members and their families, and the trustees were instructed to prepare a program to be submitted to the members at the next meeting for acceptance.

The question box contained nothing of importance for discussion. Next meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, December 10.

The students at the Missouri Botanical Garden have organized a club to be known as the Missouri Botanical Garden Students' Club. The officers are: Fred S. Grossart, president; Carl Giebel, vice-president; Paul Kohl, secretary and treasurer. Meetings will be held monthly in the lecture room. At the first meeting, November 5, Dr. Geo. T. Moore and F. S. Grossart read interesting papers. For the second meeting, held November 19, W. W. Ohlweiler and Carl Giebel were scheduled to read papers on subjects of interest to the young students.

The Retail Florists' Association held its banquet Wednesday night, November 11, at the Washington hotel. It was not a big success as to attendance, but the few that did come say they spent a most enjoyable evening. The tables were nicely decorated.

Florists' Display Refrigerator

The McCray keeps flowers fresh longer than any other. Its system of refrigeration maintains an even temperature of the proper degree for the preservation of cut flowers and entirely eliminates the great loss that is caused by imperfect refrigeration.

The McCray is built to permit an attractive and inviting display of your flowers, its various compartments being of different sizes to accommodate the different lengths of cut flowers.

The interior linings are of either opal glass, bevel plate mirror or white enamel and are very handsome and easy to clean. The exterior may be of any finish desired to match the interior of your woodwork or other fixtures.

The handsome appearance of the McCray is an improvement to any store and is a great stimulant for increased sales and pleased customers. Investigate the McCray and ascertain why they are the best for florists.

The consignments of roses from Werner Bros. and W. J. Pilcher were supreme at the establishment of the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. last week. The extra fancy sold well, but the demand for the lower grades was slow.

Charles Wors was made happy last week when he received word that the stork had paid a visit to his daughter's home and made him a grandpa for the first time.

The Market.

The last week has seen a decided revival in business. There was a general verdict that the week's trade was better than in any previous week this season. As the writer made his rounds, he found nearly everyone busy making designs. Prices are fairly good, being about the same as in previous years. Mums are at their height and are certainly plentiful. A few are going into storage for the Thanksgiving trade. There is a much greater range of variety this season than heretofore.

In roses there is a heavy cut of all varieties. Among the newer ones, Shawyer and Cecile Brunner make an especially good showing. Neither has been grown here to any extent till this season. Both are proving to be great producers and both sell well. Cecile Brunner is especially profitable, as it has no rival. Some of the growers say that they think more of Russell than of any of the other new roses. Sunburst seems to be doing better than ever before, but Ward is easily the popular yellow. None of the new reds is making good here, unless Russell be called a red. Carnations have improved decidedly in the last week or two, both in size and texture. There are more of them than there is a demand for. Home-grown valley is appearing again and will be plentiful soon. Lilies are rather scarce and there are no home-grown orchids as yet.

Various Notes.

Geny Bros. have a monopoly of violets and sweet peas thus far. They are selling well, too. The new Philadelphia carnations, as seen at this firm's place, are of fine form and color, and Mr. Geny states that they are proving to be the heaviest producers that he has ever grown.

Through the influence of some of the local florists, an editorial on "Flowers at Funerals" appeared last week in one of the leading dailies. The editor spoke strongly against the growing custom of appending the words, "Please omit flowers," to funeral notices.

Haury & Sons had some of the best Sunburst roses this week that I have ever seen. They have stuck by this rose from the first as their yellow, and they are learning to grow it at its best.

Miss Sloan, of the Joy Floral Co., was not at her post when I called, as she was confined to her home by illness.

The greenhouses at Ward Belmont College are in the best condition we have ever seen them. M. L. Postma has had charge for the last three months. He is doing much, also, to improve the appearance of the grounds.

McIntyre Bros. report that their new store is already proving profitable. They ran a chrysanthemum sale a few days ago, offering their best mums at $1 per dozen and cleaning things up pretty closely.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Rain, replenishing the springs that have dried, is really the most important market news of the week, particularly as Jupiter Pluvius was so considerate as to send his downpour on the Sabbath, thereby improving week end business. Nevertheless, those enterprising youths who went on to Princeton the day before laden with baskets and boxes of Princeton yellow Bonnaffons and Yale blue violets got nipped, or so they say. It is claimed that Bonnaffons for which 12 and even 15 cents was paid were afterward unloaded in this city at 10 cents, after enjoying the round trip to Nassau. But this is a digression. To return to the market, it is a little better than it has been, taking it all the way through. The quantity of flowers is simply enormous, the sales are large and prices are low. The queen of autumn is in her final splendor. All the standard late varieties, the Eatons, the Chadwicks, Dean, Enguehard, Minnie Bailey and Golden Wedding, are at their height. Only one of the standard market sorts has not yet appeared. The prospects today are that we shall have plenty of fine chrysanthemums for Thanksgiving, and not many again save one afterward; which is as it should be.

Of the other flowers, for it really is chrysanthemums on the one hand and all the other flowers on the other, it may be said that orchids are again more plentiful; that gardenias are fine; that Hadley is a popular rose; that carnations are selling better; that Paper Whites have come, and that violets are scarce, the only scarce flower in the market, due to weather conditions.

George Asmus, of Chicago, chairman; William P. Craig, of Philadelphia; Adolph Farenwald, of Roslyn, Pa.; William F. Kasting, of Buffalo; Thomas Roland, of Nahant, Mass.; President-elect Patrick Welch, of Boston, and Secretary John Young, of New York. Charles H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., was absent, owing to severe illness. They met to decide where and when and how the national flower show should be held in this city in 1916.

Where: Two places only were possible. The Academy of Music bridged over to Horticultural hall, and Convention hall. After a careful investigation the committee unanimously decided in favor of Convention hall, at Broad street and Allegheny avenue.

When: Convention hall was leased for eight days, probably Saturday, March 26, to Sunday, April 2, 1916. This will be three weeks before Easter, which is April 23 in that year.

How: Some fifteen committees formed from perhaps half of the members of the Philadelphia Florists' Club have been selected to do the work. Each committee will have its special field, so that the task will be divided instead of bearing heavily on the shoulders of any one man.

Invitations were sent out on Wednesday night to a number of leading men of this city to meet the national committee on the following morning, November 12, to indorse what had been done. Those who came were President George Burton, Robert Craig, John H. Dodds, Charles Henry Fox, William Graham, Robert Kift, William Kleinheinz, Charles E. Meehan, Leo Niessen, Samuel S. Pennock, J. Otto Thilow, and Secretary David Rust. They agreed that the selection of place, time and means was wise and promise their hearty support.

A Camden Wedding.

The most beautiful church wedding that has ever taken place in Camden, N. J., occurred recently. The decorations were of pink and white chrysanthemums, perfect, highly-colored pin oak foliage, palms, ferns and greens. The altar was elaborately decorated with artistic skill, green and white being used with telling effect. A pretty feature was the baskets of white chrysanthemums surmounting the aisle posts, three large baskets on each side of the long middle aisle. Baskets of the autumn queen were also suspended from the chandelier. Screens prettily festooned were used to break the severity of the corners. The bride carried a lovely shower bouquet of valley and white orchids. The maid of honor had a pink muff of valley. The work was arranged and executed by James M. Thoirs, who was ably assisted by James Walch. Mr. Thoirs has, by energy and ability, developed a fine business in Camden.

Various Notes.

J. J. Habermehl's Sons expect to open their new flower store, adjoining the Ritz-Carlton hotel, November 21. The date of opening depends on the hotel's ability to get its annex finished in time.

Ludwig P. Vollers purchased the retail business of Robert Kift, at 1725 Chestnut street, November 16. The business will be carried on under the name of Vollers' House of Flowers.

Edward Reid has been appointed by the court as trustee for the closing up of the affairs of Robert Kift.

The Joseph Heacock Co. has installed a compressed air system, with a large tank, in the plant at Roelofs, owing to the water lowering in the wells.

The will of Godfrey Aschmann leaves his business to his eldest son, John Godfrey Aschmann, who has been for years his father's grower. The business will be continued under the name of Godfrey Aschmann.

William A. Leonard, of Lansdowne, has his new house planted with Killarney Brilliant. The plants promise well.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., is featuring bird houses in its window this week. An attractive little bird book has been issued and the bird houses are being sent out by parcel post.

The exhibit of novelties by W. A. Manda, of South Orange, N. J., was accidentally omitted from the show account. Harry S. Betz also had window boxes for inside and for outside that were cleverly arranged. Then there were miniature gardens, with everything in them in tiny perfection.

Charles Henry Fox has issued a call, on behalf of the Retail Florists' Association, to every florist in this city, asking each most earnestly to contribute something toward defraying the expenses of the publicity campaign in the newspaper that will benefit all.

The monthly meeting of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society was held November 19, to hear the reports of the fall show and Dr. Robert G. Huey's proposals for the officers for 1915.

The Henry F. Michell Co. has received a large shipment of spiræa, valley and dielytra.

George S. Hampton, with Joseph G. Neidinger, has returned from his third business trip of the season, to find his house in a rush of business.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Rusitzky, of New Bedford, Mass., were here this week on their wedding trip. Mr. Rusitzky is proprietor of the Flower Mart, 249 Union street, New Bedford.

NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

Meeting of Committee.

The National Flower Show committee held a meeting in Philadelphia, occupying two days, November 11 and 12. There were present: Chairman George Asmus, Adolph Farenwald, W. P. Craig, Thomas Roland, Secretary John Young, Treasurer W. F. Kasting and President-elect Patrick Welch.

The first session was called to order at the Hotel Walton at 10 a. m. on Wednesday. The minutes of the previous meeting, held in Cleveland, O., were read and approved. Mr. Farenwald made a report in detail covering the efforts which had been made to secure a suitable building in which to hold the show and the terms under which Convention hall, operated by the municipality, could be engaged. Action on the report was deferred to a later session.

A Large Sum for Premiums.

Considerable discussion took place regarding the premium list, the total value of which it was arranged should be $15,000. Liberal apportionments to the different societies were made, the same to be contingent upon the usual conditions as to active coöperation. The premium committee was given authority to prepare a preliminary schedule on the basis thus determined, all special prizes being considered as part of the total valuation.

In the afternoon the committee made an inspection of the principal public buildings available for show purposes, including Convention hall, at Broad street and Allegheny avenue. Later the committee had a second session at the Hotel Walton. On motion, Adolph Farenwald was appointed vice-chairman of the committee. A special committee on finance and appropriations was appointed, composed of the chairman, the vice-chairman and the treasurer, its duties to include the passing upon all appropriations. A resolution was passed authorizing the secretary to raise a guarantee list to amount to $10,000. The secretary was authorized to sell space for trade exhibits at the show, upon the usual basis of compensation for his services. The matter of the official program was left in the hands of the local executive committee. Adjournment was taken until Thursday afternoon at 2:30, when an open meeting was arranged for in the rooms of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia.

An Open Meeting.

The meeting on Thursday was attended by the committee, and there were also present many members of the trade from Philadelphia and vicinity. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president of the club, who stated the nature of the business before the meeting and introduced Chairman George Asmus of the National Flower Show committee, who presided over the meeting. Mr. Asmus made a stirring address, in the course of which he appealed to those present and others in the trade to give their loyal support to the National Flower Show to be held in the spring of 1916. He reviewed the work of the promoters of the shows held in Chicago, Boston and New York, and the results accruing from the same, and emphasized the importance and value of such shows.

Patrick Welch spoke at some length regarding the Boston show and the benefit of a Sunday opening, in order that the working classes might have an opportunity to take advantage of the educational features of the show.

Convention Hall Recommended.

Leo Niessen spoke in favor of the leasing of Convention hall, his view being that if the show were properly advertised the location of the hall would be no detriment. For this reason he gave it as his opinion that the appointment of a committee on publicity and advertising would be an important matter.

Mr. Farenwald detailed the work already done in regard to the selection of a suitable building for the show. If Convention hall were selected, he said, some provision would have to be made for heating the building.

S. S. Pennock expressed himself as confident of the success of the show.

Charles H. Fox spoke of the value of publicity for the show, not only during the few weeks preceding the show, but for many months in advance of the show dates. He also suggested the advisability of the selection of jurors well in advance of the show.

William Kleinheinz said he had given much thought to the show and had every confidence in its success. He did not consider Convention hall too far away from the center of the city. He promised to support the show in every way he could, and said he would exhibit on a large scale and that every private gardener around Philadelphia would also exhibit.

Robert Craig spoke in favor of leasing Convention hall, and was of the opinion that no better building for the purpose could be found in the country. The forthcoming show, he said, would electrify the horticultural world by its magnificence and would be a pronounced success.

Predictions of Success.

John A. Dodds expressed his confidence in the success of the show, and said that he would make a large exhibit and lend his assistance in any direction required.

John C. Gracey, retail florist, predicted that the show would be a success, and that the members would work harmoniously together to that end.

J. Otto Thilow expressed himself as being optimistic in regard to the show. He spoke of the value of publicity concerning it, and intimated that his company was already preparing for it and that he would seek to induce many others to become interested.

Treasurer W. F. Kasting made a few remarks, in which he expressed his pleasure at the enthusiasm noticeable among those present at the meeting, which augured well for the success of the show.

Thomas Roland spoke of his satisfaction as regards Convention hall, where it was proposed to hold the show, and suggested the possibility of some firm of horticultural builders undertaking to furnish a temporary heating plant.

Thomas Logan spoke for the private growers and promised their support, also his time and assistance in an effort to make the show a success.

W. K. Harris, Jr., spoke of the benefit he had received from previous shows in the knowledge he had acquired, and said that if the members of the different branches of the trade in Philadelphia would eliminate all personal feelings and work in unison the exhibition could not fail to be successful.

Aid from Horticultural Society.

David Rust, secretary of the Horticultural Society of Pennsylvania, expressed his satisfaction with the proposed location of the show and predicted a successful outcome. His society, he said, was ready to assist, and was awaiting definite information as to arrangements before launching into the work of preparation.

W. P. Craig also endorsed the choice of the committee as to the location of the show and expressed his belief that the show would be a huge success.

Fred Michell, Harry Betz, George Burton, Charles E. Meehan and Robert Kift also spoke, each expressing a belief in the ultimate success of the show.

Chairman Asmus thanked all present for the interest they had shown in the undertaking. The National Flower Show committee, he said, would at once appoint the chairmen of the various committees to handle the work of preparation for the show, and the chairmen of these committees would compose the local executive committee with the vice-chairman of the National Flower Show committee as its chairman. He announced that $15,000 had been set apart for the premium list, a greater sum than ever before offered at such an exhibition.

Authorized to Lease Hall.

In the evening the National Flower Show committee had another session at the Hotel Walton, at which the names of a number of gentlemen were considered as appointees to the chairs of the proposed committees. A resolution was passed directing the secretary to notify these gentlemen as to the appointments and the power conferred upon them. Acceptances of these offices are to be obtained before the list is available for publication. It was also resolved that Robert Craig, Louis Burk and John Westcott be added to the local executive committee as members-at-large with the privilege of voting. The committee on lease and contracts was authorized to obtain a lease of Convention hall on the best terms possible. Upon motion, it was decided that the chairman of the local reception committee should also be a member of the local executive committee. It was also decided that the exact dates of the show would be announced later.

LANCASTER, PA.

A delegation of Lancaster county florists visited the flower show at Reading, Pa., November 11. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Barr, Albert M. Herr, W. B. Girvin, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brown and H. K. Rohrer. Albert M. Herr acted as judge.

The show was held in the Rajah hall and both floors were taxed to their utmost. The decorations consisted of southern smilax, autumn foliage and evergreen branches, presenting a most pleasing effect. Several groups of pot chrysanthemums were remarkably well done. Mounds of palms and potted mums were well arranged. A table of heliotrope exhibited by Heck Bros., of Wyomissing, Pa., was remarkable, the plants being in 5-inch pots and eighteen inches tall, with clusters of blooms as large as one's hand. H. D. Rohrer, Lancaster, Pa., showed twenty-five varieties of mums of the large-flowering type.

The Reading florists are certainly to be complimented on this, their first annual flower show, and on the high quality of the exhibits and the management in general.

November 19 the Lancaster county florists expect to make a trip by automobile to visit a number of the members whose establishments cannot be reached easily by the electric systems. The party will leave Elmer J. Weaver's at 2:15 p. m. The monthly meeting will follow at 7:30 p. m., in the Chamber of Commerce. H. K. R.

Battle Creek, Mich.—B. W. Kribs has opened a flower store on Jefferson avenue, where he will dispose of the flowers grown in his Coldwater street greenhouses.

Alvin, Tex.—The Alvin Cape Jessamine & Floral Co. has added 3,000 Cape jasmine bushes, which will be in fine shape for next season's cutting. The unusual amount of rain this fall has produced excellent growth in these flowers, says W. L. Heller, manager of the concern.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Florists' Review,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:-

During the SIX MONTHS from March 4 to September 4 I have received from other Florists, by mail, telegraph or cable, orders to the amount of $513.25 as a result of my advertisement in the Retailers' department of The Review. With the allowance to senders the record for SIX MONTHS is:

Value of orders received----------	$513.25
Less 20% allowed senders--------	102.60
Net value of orders for SIX MONTHS--	410.65

It should be noted that this showing covers the DULL SUMMER MONTHS, when any addition to a Florists's business is decidedly welcome.

Retail Florists not advertising in The Review should profit by this letter.

Respectfully,

The Market.

The market, which was fairly brisk during the week, slackened considerably November 14. Large quantities of chrysanthemums are seen everywhere and they are arriving with much stronger stem and firmer blossoms. There has been quite a demand for the branching varieties and also the pompons. Easter lilies are quite plentiful and a good supply of valley is on hand. Large consignments of roses arrive each morning, but the price is quite low. They are of fine quality and have improved greatly, owing to the cooler weather. Orchids are plentiful, but the demand is not great. A few sweet peas are on the market. Carnations are quite plentiful and of good size, with fair length of stem. Violets are much more satisfactory, both in size, color and fragrance. Snapdragons, Paper Whites, bachelor's buttons and a few gardenias make up our usual stock. Greens of all kinds are plentiful.

Mr. Hart Takes Exception.

George B. Hart requests the publication of the following: "In your issue of November 5, I wish to take exception to the stated condition of the Rochester market. Your correspondent has certainly made erroneous statements in regard to roses, carnations and valley. There has been no time in the last two weeks when we have not had from 1,000 to 1,500 valley going to waste for the want of buyers. This also ap-

B. Hart."

Various Notes.

Stephen Greene, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, was in town November 13.

The monthly meeting of the Rochester Florists' Association was held November 9, presided over by John Dunbar, president. Apart from the routine business, plans were made for the flower day of the Rochester Public Health Association to be held early in June. In a talk entitled "Could Rose Growing be Made Successful in Rochester?" Colin B. Ogston attempted to show that as yet it was practically impossible for florists in this city to compete with the rose growers in the east. He gave statistics showing the lack of sunlight in this vicinity compared with that in places where roses are grown successfully in greenhouses.

A visit to F. R. Bohnke's greenhouses shows everything to be in good condition. He plans to grow 20,000 geraniums for the coming spring. His carnation plants are well budded, but at present cuts are light. He has recently installed two boilers, which were fired a few days ago.

Clifford & Sons, of Barnard, N. Y., are well pleased with their large new iron-frame Lord & Burnham house. It is filled with carnations, in a robust condition. They are planted on solid beds. In his other houses the plants are doing well, but it is easy to see the difference in the plants in the new and up-to-date house, and the old style, which makes a grower realize that it pays to keep up with the times.

The Lady Florists' Association met at the home of Mrs. H. P. Neun November 10. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Fifteen members were present.

H. E. Wilson has been showing in his window some ripe breadfruit grown by Mr. Lepper, a former Rochester florist.

A chrysanthemum show and concert is being organized for Convention hall, November 20 and 21. The proceeds are for the Red Cross. H. J. H.

BOSTON.

The Market.

While there is still abundant room for improvement, conditions are somewhat better and a more optimistic feeling is abroad. There has not been much advance in values, but, with the gradual decrease of the chrysanthemum supply and with somewhat more seasonable weather, clearances are better and it is hoped that from now on the market will brace up. No one, however, has any hopes of a boom in business for a long time yet.

Chrysanthemums have passed their flood tide and, while the markets are still overabundantly supplied, this condition must soon change. Bonnaffon is the most popular mum still, with White and Yellow Eaton, Intensity, Patty and a few others selling in smaller quantities. Pompons are selling better than the large varieties and good colors clean up well. Carnations are moving a little better; the prices also show an improvement. Roses are doing a little better; the supplies have shortened up considerably. Beauties do not improve in price, but should do so soon. Ward, Shawyer, Hadley, Stanley, Sunburst and Russell are the leaders.

Violets are not overplentiful and are selling better. Some nice sweet peas are coming in. These make 50 to 60 cents per hundred. Valley holds up well, but callas and lilies move slowly. Cornflowers sell fairly well. Paper White narcissi are now abundant. Cattleyas rarely bring over $3 per dozen. Gardenias are good and are more plentiful. Asparagus does not sell well. In the way of pot plants, some Mme. Petrick azaleas are now available, in addition to chrysanthemums, cyclamens and begonias.

Club Meeting.

At the club meeting November 17 there was an attendance of 135. The following nominations were made: H. H. Bartsch, president; James Methven, vice-president; W. N. Craig, secretary; Peter Fisher, treasurer; executive committee, Jas. Kennedy, Geo. M. Anderson, F. J. Rea, P. M. Miller, W. K. Rogers, W. J. Patterson, W. J. Colling, Peter Barker, George Wyness. The lecture on "The Gardener and His Profession," by W. N. Craig, brought out discussion by Messrs. Palmer, D. Finlayson, Downs, Westwood, G. F. Stewart, Kennedy, James Wheeler and others.

Exhibits included specimen chrysanthemums from Alex. McKay, Begonia Florence Davenport from A. M. Davenport, Begonia Melior from the W. W. Edgar Co., Bouvardia Humboldtii from W. N. Craig, a seedling carnation from Littlefield & Wyman, Carnation Alice Coombs, Grace and seedlings from A. Roper and Carnation Lady Northcliffe and seedlings from A. A. Pembroke.

It was voted to have ladies' night in January.

Various Notes.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society was held November 14, when the following officers for 1915 were elected: President, J. K. M. L. Farquhar; vice-president, R. M. Saltonstall; trustees for three years, C. S. Sargent, F. L. Ames, Thomas Roland and Thomas Allen; nominating committee, John L. Smith, Richard Hittinger, George Page, David R. Craig and Henry M. Howard; delegate to state board of agriculture, Edward B. Wilder.

Penn had the decorations, which were quite extensive and elaborate, for the farewell reception given on the new Argentine super-dreadnought, Rivadaria, launched some time ago by the Fore River Shipbuilding Works, Quincy, Mass. Palms, southern smilax and American Beauty roses were used in quantity, and the decoration was one of the finest the firm has ever carried out.

John Barr is one of the local growers whose establishment is always to be found in immaculate condition. At one time he grew cyclamens and hydrangeas in quantity at his Natick place, but he has now dropped pot plants and handles carnations exclusively. No matter when his houses are visited, they seem to be a veritable mass of buds and flowers. This season he has Matchless and Champion both in fine shape. Mrs. Cheney, his seedling variegated, is as good as ever; so, also, are his Pink Delight, Yellow Prince and White Wonder.

Julius H. Zinn, of Park street, will move to the store recently vacated by F. H. Houghton, on the same street, about January 1.

John A. Nelson, of Framingham, in addition to a splendid lot of carnations, is now cutting a fine lot of sweet peas.

William R. Morris, of Wellesley Hills, through B. J. McGinty, is sending in as fine a lot of Richmond, Killarney and White Killarney roses as are to be seen in the local market.

At Carbone's, Ophelia roses are immensely popular. Other roses in great demand are Stanley, Sunburst, Ward, Shawyer, Fireflame and Russell. They have a grand lot of the newer dracænas, and their specimen plants of Polypodium Mandaianum and aureum are grand.

The Rosery, on Boylston street, always keeps an attractive show window. Business here is reported good and the outlook is promising for the coming winter.

Fred E. Palmer, of Brookline, has one of the finest lots of cyclamens I have seen this season at his greenhouses on Newton street. He also has a fine assortment of mums, including some particularly good stock of such favorite sorts as Bonnaffon, Miss Alice Byron and Chieftain, a beautiful pink. He also has a splendid lot of pompons and singles. This summer he built a new lean-to house, which is filled with hardwooded plants.

The Halifax Garden Co., through A. E. Walsh, is disposing of large quantities of pompon and single mums, which are popular this season. Their Ward roses are unusually good and of a high color.

ways strong on Boston ferns and his stock this season is better than ever. He also has some fine Eaton chrysanthemums.

J. W. Foote, of Reading, seems to have the market practically to himself on Bouvardia Humboldtii, which he grows splendidly. Other growers have taken this up and dropped it. Growers must carry over old plants from year to year to get quantities of flowers; young plants are not profitable.

The Shepard-Norwell Co., which is the most recent of the big dry goods stores to establish a cut flower department, uses the newspapers freely in advertising flowers and plants. Their show window on Winter street is near Silverman's and bargains are always offered there. If a few more of the big stores would also handle flowers, the trouble with the market glut would be solved.

J. Newman & Sons are getting a good share of funeral and wedding orders, in common with other newer firms. All work turned out by this old firm is well done.

J. A. Budlong & Son Co., of Auburn, R. I., find Patty a useful pink chrysanthemum, but cannot get extra long stems on it. Yellow and White Eaton and Bonnaffon are their great standbys.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. had a large decoration in Dorchester, November 12. They continue to make a feature of bargain boxes of roses.

The W. W. Edgar Co. is already marketing Mme. Petrick azaleas, in addition to cyclamens and begonias. They still have a grand lot of speciosum lilies.

Welch Bros. Co. is being kept quite busy with shipping orders and is optimistic as to the coming season.

If there is one grower of giganteums whose flowers are ahead of all others, the man is John J. Fee, of Jamaica Plain. His flowers have a size and purity not seen on other stands.

Various remedies for the existing cut flower congestion are being suggested. The two wholesale markets are considering the question. The proposal to open the markets to the public after a certain hour finds considerable favor. A public market is also suggested and is said to find support in civic circles. Another suggested remedy is to petition the mayor to open up certain streets so as to permit boys to sell flowers.

In addition to his immense stock of orchids and gardenias, Frank J. Dolansky has a grand lot of Otaheite oranges and poinsettias for the holidays.

W. R. Cobb, of the Lord & Burnham Co., will deliver a stereopticon lecture before the Gardeners' and Florists' Club December 15 on "Greenhouse Construction." The annual election of officers will occur the same evening.

The Market.

The market in November so far has not come up to the October standard, probably due to the fine summer weather we have been having. We are in hopes that a big snow, November 14, and the cold weather we have been having since then will give a little stimulus to trade. Stock of all kinds seems to be plentiful. Paper Whites are beginning to come into the market. Potted plants are going well.

Various Notes.

C. J. Bickes, of the Stiles Co., Oklahoma City, Okla., called on the trade last week in the interest of his firm. He reports business good in Oklahoma City.

Two new flower stores opened in Denver last week, the Economy Store, on Fifteenth street, and the O. P. Johnson store, at 1929 Welton street.

Carl A. Espelin, of Espelin & Warren, Fort Collins, Colo., was among the visitors last week.

J. A. Valentine, of the Park Floral Co., has returned from a short visit to Chicago. R. S.

Commissioner Otto F. Thum is planning to build a greenhouse at the City park this winter or next spring, at a cost of from $25,000 to $30,000, to take the place of the present weak and antiquated structure. As all the parks in the city are supplied with stock from Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., 1915.

THE demise of Wm. H. Smith, store manager for the Johnson Seed Co., Philadelphia, is reported in this week's obituary column.

THE catalogue writers again are burning the midnight oil; they must close up their work, in most cases, within another ten days or so.

CHARLES J. BOLGIANO, Baltimore, was operated on last week for appendicitis. His condition is said to be satisfactory and a rapid recovery is anticipated.

INCORPORATION papers have been filed by Loechner & Co., of New York city, with a capital stock of $10,000. The incorporators are Charles Loechner, Mark V. Haase and Oscar Haase.

INSTEAD of laying off employees, as concerns in other lines are doing, F. H. Woodruff & Sons, of Milford, Conn., contemplate adding a dozen or more in the next few weeks, in the expectation of a large winter and early spring trade.

A. H. HUMMERT, of the St. Louis Seed Co., reports good progress on the new building, on the site of the one recently crushed by falling walls. A complete set of new fixtures will be installed. It is expected to be in the new quarters before January 1.

AT the regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the Holmes Seed Co., Harrisburg, Pa., November 6, the following officers were elected: President, B. F. Meyers; vice-president, George A. Gorgas; treasurer, David G. Claiy; secretary, H. W. Miller; general manager, H. L. Holmes; directors, B. F. Meyers, G. A. Gorgas, David G. Claiy, Frank R. Leib, C. C. Cocklin, E. Z. Gross and H. L. Holmes.

BREACH OF CONTRACTS.

In a recent decision, the Pennsylvania Superior court held that if plaintiff offered to sell lots of grass seed to defendant, and if the offer was accepted, and the minds of the parties thereby met in their correspondence in regard to the subject matter of the contract, the price, time and place of delivery and payment, defendant could not afterwards cancel the order on the ground that he had made a mistake, without incurring liability in damages

Special Exceptional Announcement

First-class Vegetable and Flower Seeds, Sweet Peas, Aster.

APPEAL TO THE TRADE:

The recent decree of the French government, forbidding all trading with the enemy, put our Provence seed growing people in an anxious situation. During many years I was growing, with the assistance of well chosen, clever and honest cultivators, big and numerous sorts of seeds for the enemy. These seeds are now lying here to be sold. I therefore beg to make appeal to the British seedsmen, both of England and colonies, to take a friendly, sympathetic and patriotic view of it by passing me your order.

The General Average

You can never be too sure of anything, and least of all of something which has all the earmarks of a sure thing. Nothing is so uncertain as the duration of the life of an individual. Yet nothing is more certain than the average duration of life of a thousand individuals. We know the average duration of human life is about 33 years; we know about 25% die before the age of six and 50% before the age of sixteen; and that only 1% live to be 65. Of a thousand men we know so many smoke, so many are criminals, so many attend church, etc. It is the Law of Average. This law may be applied as well to Lily bulbs. It says that Horseshoe Brand lily bulbs average nearly 90% good when properly grown; that most all the largest consumers use them; and the very largest use them entirely. More profit has been made from this brand than from any other brand ever known. We don't claim every bulb will give you unequaled results, but we do claim a thousand bulbs will average more and better results than a like quantity from other brands. The average is what counts. Absolutely the best that can be obtained anywhere. Catalogue free.

JUST RECEIVED

A NEW IMPORTATION OF KENTIA SEEDS

We have just received in fine condition, an importation of Kentia seeds, which we offer as follows, either Belmoreana or Forsteriana:

1000 seeds.....at $7.50 per 1000 2500 seeds.....at $6.50 per 1000
5000 seeds.....at $6.00 per 1000

We give no guarantee as to germination of this seed, but you have the privilege of returning at our expense, if upon examination you do not feel satisfied.

as for breach of contract. (Spears vs. Henry F. Michell Co., 56 Pennsylvania Superior Court Reporter 294.) And the court decided that, to afford a basis for recovering damages for defendant's repudiation of the contract, plaintiff was entitled to sell the seed in the open market within the time he would have been ready to make delivery under the contract. On the question of the measure of damages the court said:

"Grass seed is bought and sold and kept in stock like other merchandise at known seasons of the year, and there is no reason for taking it out of the general rule recognized in this state, that for a breach of contract for sale of personal chattels, yet to be manufactured, the vendor is entitled to recover the difference between the selling price and the market value at the time and place of delivery of the chattel." S.

IMPLIED WARRANTY IN LAW.

Those dealers in seeds who have read with care, as most of them do, the legal matters that have been a feature of this department of The Review for the last several months will have been impressed that their protection against long, expensive litigation and possible mulcting in damages lies in their own hands. The force and effect of the disclaimer has been well established in courts of last resort. But the courts also have held that a sale of seeds by name, unless there is a direct non-warranty, carries an implied warranty that the seed is true to description—that it actually is the variety called for. As practically every sale of seeds is in response to an order for a certain named variety, the seedsman who does not use the disclaimer puts himself in the position of warranting the trueness of every lot of seed he sells, no matter how small or large the transaction. The numerous suits for damages have fairly well established the principle of the general custom of the trade to sell without warranty, but where seeds are sold under the name of a variety, without notice of disclaimer, the trade custom is held only to protect the seller against claims for poor germination and not against claims arising from alleged delivery of an article not true to name. Also, every sale in which the disclaimer is not used weakens the "trade custom."

That an important number of seedsmen do not use the disclaimer in the way they should is plain to everyone who receives any considerable number liminary wholesale catalogue, comprising lists of flower, vegetable, field and tree seeds, and miscellaneous bulbs; thirty-two closely printed pages, with no illustrations.

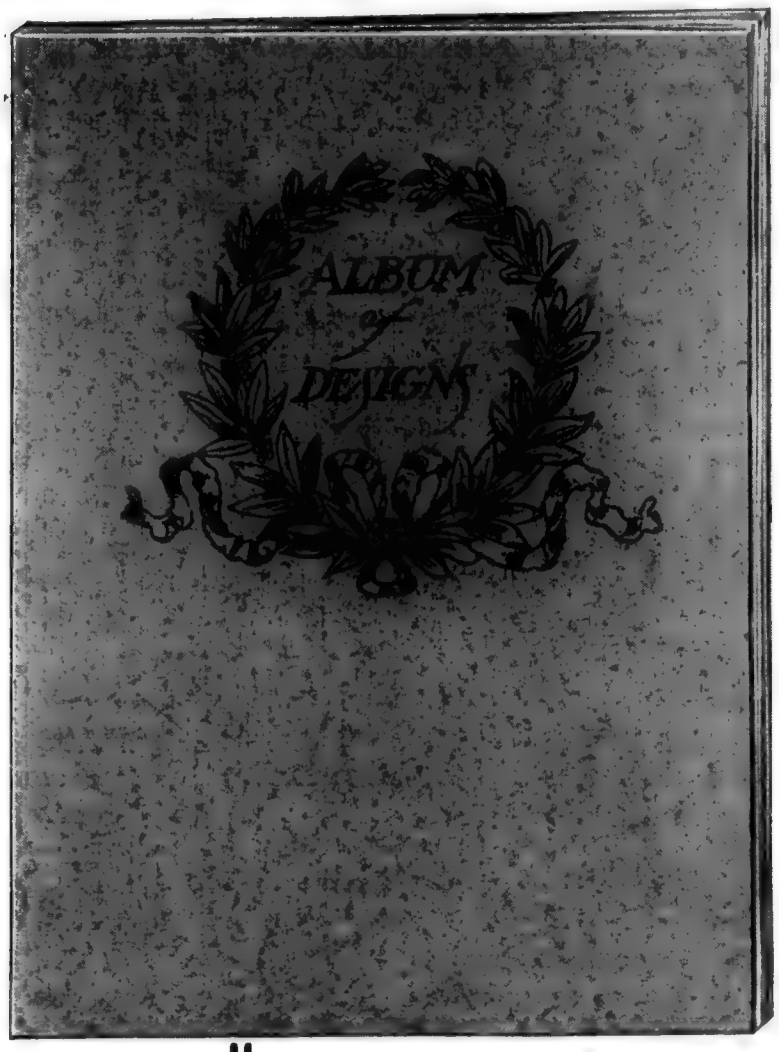
GREENWICH, CONN.



A good representation of members was present at the monthly meeting of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society, held in the society's rooms in Doran's hall, November 13, with President Robt. Williamson in the chair. One active member and one life member were elected. Joseph Manda, of Orange, N. J., was a visitor.

A happy feature of the evening was the presentation of prizes to the winners at the fall exhibition, held recently. Our honored member, John M. Brown, mayor-elect of Stamford, Conn., made the presentation speech.

A letter from the secretary of the National Association of Gardeners was read, informing the members of the resolutions adopted at a recent meeting of the coöperative committee of the N. A. G. Our society is in hearty accord with the efforts of the N. A. G. for the betterment of the conditions affecting the gardeners and for the advancement of horticulture. The local committee will endeavor to assist the national committee in every way possible.

The nomination of officers of the society for the ensuing year was next in order. The list of names assures the society of a continuation of the successes of the past.

During recess one of our talented members, J. E. Melcher, of Riverside, Conn., entertained us with some clever and mystifying tricks of sleight of hand. A rising vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Melcher for the pleasure afforded the members. Oscar Addor then entertained the members by the reading of a clever piece of original writing, entitled "The Battle of Rye," replete with satirical allusions to the struggle for supremacy at the annual outing and games of the society between the members from Westchester

OF THE

Album of Designs

(A Book Every Retailer Needs)

THE original Album of Designs was published in response to many requests from florists who felt the need for an up-to-date book that could be used in taking orders for Funeral Designs, Wedding Decorations and Bouquets, Table Decorations and all cut flower work where it was not practicable to show the customer the finished article as it would be when ready for use. With the publication of this album it became possible to show the finished work in beautifully printed pictures. The first edition sold like hot cakes, and a second edition went quickly. Now a third edition is off the press. Everything is in it—all the standard designs and many new and heretofore unpublished pieces.

96 pages, nearly 300 designs and decorations, beautifully printed on heavy glazed paper, handsomely bound in a cover that will stand wear and Fairfield, held at Rye Beach, N. Y., in August. Mr. Addor was accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

The exhibition tables were filled to overflowing with a choice display of cut flowers. The awards of the judges were as follows: Cultural certificate for vase of Chrysanthemum W. Mease, from James Foster; high commendation for vase of seedling carnations, from A. Wynne; cultural certificate for display of hybrid nerines, from James Stuart; vote of thanks for display of single mums, from Thomas Ryan; vote of thanks for vase of Carnation White Enchantress, from R. Grunnert; high commendation for vase of seedling mums, Garza x Miss Rose, from P. W. Popp; certificate of merit for specimen orchid plant in bloom, Cattleya maxima, from the Geo. E. Baldwin Co., Mamaroneck, N. Y.

A vase of single chrysanthemums was exhibited to start a discussion on the proper definition of the term "terminal spray." There is a diversity of opinion as to what constitutes a terminal spray, and if this classification is to appear in the schedules of the fall exhibitions it will be important to have the matter settled definitely by some eminent authority.

The next meeting will be held December 11. P. W. Popp.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Oakland, Cal.—Business is excellent here; plenty of stock, so that prices are not high, and a sufficient demand to keep things going.

Santa Monica, Cal.—The Mountain View Nurseries, under the management of Albert V. Amet, has been establishing a general nursery and florists' business since early this year. The salesyard and flower shop is at 1044 Second street, and the plant depot and nursery is being completed at Fifth and Bay streets. For further expansion the company has recently acquired 280 acres of land in the Santa Monica mountains, fourteen miles from the salesyard. Mr. Amet is an enthusiastic hybridizer and has recently produced a magenta carnation, Amalya Schoene, and a rose which he is naming Mrs. Woodrow Wilson on account of its approach to a blue color, Mrs. Wilson's favorite hue. Mr. Amet, Sr., is now on a trip east.

TACOMA, WASH.

The Market.

While nothing in the nature of a rush has been noted, business is better than for some weeks. With the colder weather coming on, and plenty of stock in sight, the prospects are bright for a good holiday trade. Chrysanthemums will be in excellent condition for Thanksgiving. Such varieties as Bonnaffon, Polypheme and Chadwick will be at their best at that time. Carnations are still plentiful, but the prices have held well; no price cuttings have been indulged in. All flowers of the finer grades, such as orchids, etc., are scarce here. Few orchids are grown by the local florists.

Various Notes.

A. E. Buxton, who for the last few months has had charge of the carnation range at Van Slyke & Seamons', has severed his connection with this company and returned to Seattle, where he will engage in the business.

J. Jacobsen, florist at the Western Washington Insane Asylum, has been showing some fine specimen chrysanthemum blooms at the rooms of the Commercial Club during the last week.

The Market.

There was a decidedly better tone to business last week and everyone seems satisfied. The biggest rush of chrysanthemums seems to be over; though there are still large numbers of them around the stores, yet they have not piled up so much in the wholesale houses. We have had a heavy rain and there are signs of more; this will probably clean off some of the mums not yet sold. Outdoor roses are fine for this time of the year and La Detroit roses are especially good. Indoor stock is fine, too; Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, My Maryland and Killarney Queen are among the best. Carnations are coming right along and probably never looked better at this time. Considerable business is being done in small flowers like violets and Brunner roses and there has been a much better call for valley. Ferns and miscellaneous greens are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Tassano Bros. appear to have struck a rich vein of Mexican ivy. Tony showed me some elegant stock that, he says, had been gathered for them in an entirely new locality. They say business has been better since moving to their new location, on Los Angeles street.

A hasty look around the Montebello nursery of the H. N. Gage Co. showed wonderful improvement since my last visit. The propagation of carnations is in full swing and many thousands of all the popular kinds are already in the sand. One entire greenhouse is planted with Cecile Brunner or Baby roses, and, judging by the appearance of the plants, there will be a fine cut this winter. Outside Chinese lilies and Paper Whites are coming in by the acre, and, while the mums are getting past their best, there was enough good stock at the time of my visit to show what they had been. The big lath house contains a fine lot of Boston ferns and other plants in great variety, and the whole place reflects the greatest credit on all concerned.

C. Gutting, of the Superior Nursery Co., had a narrow escape from being electrocuted November 11. He uses a motor for spraying or diffusing the oil used in his boiler for fuel, and while attending to some slight repairs he asked an assistant to throw out the switch adjoining the one already cut out for the repairs. Instead of doing this, the assistant turned the current on, and had it not been for the timely action of Mrs. Gutting he would have been killed. As it was, he was badly blistered on feet and hands and pretty severely shaken up.

H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

The yearly football game between California and Stanford Universities creates a demand for yellow and red chrysanthemums and for violets in profusion. This year Saturday morning found every one of our retailers rushed and taxed to his utmost capacity. It is a good stimulant, and while it brings no wonderfully big sales, it carries with it many decorations. It is usual for chrysanthemums to rise somewhat in price at this gala occasion.

The week shows no decided increase or decrease in the general prices of cut flowers. Chrysanthemums are coming in more heavily. A few light rains have improved the violets a trifle. Roses are excellent. Particularly good are Killarney, Maryland, Mrs. Charles Russell and Mrs. George Shawyer.

Cattleya labiata is not seen in as great quantities as a few weeks ago. There are phalænopsis in the best stores. Gardenias are at a premium. Fine potted cyclamen are being brought in by our leading growers. We have also a few Begonia Gloire de Lorraine. They prove quick sellers.

terest of all connected with the trade was the opening of Joseph's new flower shop, at 233 Grant avenue. Beyond a doubt, Mr. Joseph is opening the finest shop that San Francisco can boast of. He has leased three stories of a prominent building, the front of which is embellished with flower boxes and trellises. From the flower boxes wonderful plants of Lotus peliorhynchus hang gracefully over the edge, and at the pilasters he is constructing a latticework, which will be covered with vines throughout the year. The first floor of Mr. Joseph's flower shop is in ivory white. The show window is immense, the largest span of plate glass that any florist here can boast of. The walls are Caen stone finish, the floor tile. The second floor of Mr. Joseph's establishment is arranged with a bower effect and will be devoted exclusively to plants in art receptacles. The third floor will be temporarily used for an aquarium and aviary, but later will be devoted to fine English and Italian garden furniture. For a trade-mark, Mr. Joseph has selected a many-colored escutcheon, to represent the coat of many colors. Mr. Joseph's establishment differs from other local concerns in that he advertises his firm as dealers in "flowers, fruits and favors."

Podesta & Baldocchi showed a most appropriate window for the occasion of the "big game." Skillfully created footballs of yellow and red chrysanthemums dexterously laced with ribbon were a striking feature of the window.

The Gaiety Flower Shop last week had a window of old-fashioned bouquets, showing the colors of the leading football teams.

Eric James, of Elmhurst, has been confined to his bed with a severe cold. He will be up and about within a few days.

The MacRorie-McLaren Co. has just received a consignment of three carloads of boxwood, hollies and other ornamental plants. Mr. MacRorie reports that the goods reached their destination in perfect shape.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society was held in Sachem hall, Redmen's building, November 7. The following were the awards on the monthly exhibits: Eucalyptus ficifolia blooms, exhibited by E. A. Asmus, 90 points; nephrolepis, exhibited by Hillsborough Nurseries, 80 points; cyclamen plants, exhibited by MacRorie-McLaren Co., 95 points.

Regarding carnations and mums the situation has changed but little. This small change, however, has been for the better. A few more cloudy days have helped to increase the demand, as homes require more decorating to be cheerful and there are not quite so many flowers in the yards that can be used.

Retail prices have been well sustained, considering the oversupply. Roses, violets and valley of good quality are plentiful and retail at normal prices. Orchids are coming in more freely. Ornamental and blooming potted plants are moving a little faster.

The Market.

With all the flower stores making a fine display of flowers and plants, and most of the outside flowers finished for the season, there should be better business. Some days it is fair, but the average sales are hardly so good as we would desire. There has been a glut of carnations and they are still too plentiful, but indications point to their resuming their normal prices before Thanksgiving, and probably after that the supply will not be in excess of the demand. Shawyer and Chatenay roses are arriving in fine shape and there are few left over. Chrysanthemums are mostly home-grown and are selling well, as in their keeping qualities they are much superior to California stock. There is a good supply of orchids and they are used for many purposes. Cyclamens are good and are selling well. Lorraine and Cincinnati begonias are moving fast.

Club Meeting.

The usual monthly club meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room, November 10, with a fair attendance. An influential deputation from the Tacoma Florists' Club was present and subjects of considerable importance to the trade were discussed. A committee consisting of J. J. Bonnell, George Antenin and L. C. Beal was appointed to see that the interests of the trade are looked after by the coming state legislature, and to confer with members of the trade regarding the reduction in the number of bulbs forced for spring trade. An interesting discussion took place, after which the Tacoma delegation was entertained by the local club.

Various Notes.

The store of Mrs. L. W. McCoy, on Third avenue, was visited last week by burglars for the second time recently. The first visit did not result in any gain to the prowlers, but this time they secured three checks, which they subsequently cashed. However, as Mrs. McCoy had stopped payment of them at her bank, she was not the loser. Fortunately, they were not able to open the safe and consoled themselves by ringing up some amounts on the cash register.

Chris. Jochimsen, of the Rainier Floral Co., has been operated on for appendicitis and is still in the Seattle General hospital, recovering fairly well. The operation, though successful, was the cause of a great deal of subsequent suffering and he is showing the effects of it. All in the trade—for he is a universal favorite—wish him a speedy recovery. During his illness the interests of the Rainier Floral Co. have been carefully attended to by his brother.

Charles Gilmer, who has been foreman at A. B. Matthiesen's place for the last few years, has gone on a visit to his old home in Alabama. It is expected that his return will not be long deferred, as few people can reconcile themselves to living long away from this salubrious district after they have once made this their abode.

A few months ago we recorded the fact that Miss Fowler, of the Burdett Co., was an author of note; now we have to record that she is a poet as well as a writer of prose. At a concert here last week a song of her composition was sung and she has others that have been set to music. There is nothing more conducive to the divine afflatus than the environment of flowers and who knows but that the muse is lying dormant in most of our floriculturists?

Last week Redelsheimers the Clothiers celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary here and Rosaia Bros. had an opportunity to display their artistic talents in the lavish decorations.

SCILLA PERUVIANA.

What is the proper treatment for Scilla Peruviana? Should the crowns be covered with soil or not, and what is the proper temperature for them? I have several hundreds of these, but have had no experience with them. Are they hardy here, in western Wisconsin?

J. M.

This scilla would not prove hardy in your state. As the bulbs are large, pots of a fair size are necessary to hold individual bulbs. Give them about the same compost as would suit ordinary Dutch bulbs, such as tulips and narcissi. Just cover the bulbs with soil and give them ordinary greenhouse culture. They naturally bloom outdoors in May and June in the warmer states, but under pot culture may be had earlier. They seldom produce flowers two years in succession from the same bulbs. From the name it would be imagined that S. Peruviana, commonly called the hyacinth of Peru, is a Peruvian plant, but, as a matter of fact, it is not found in Peru at all, but in the Mediterranean district of Europe. A temperature of 50 degrees at night suits it.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE Farmers' Nursery Co., of Troy, O., last week purchased eleven acres of land in Butler township, from F. A. and Sarah J. Suber.

HENRY HANSEN, for some years in business at Long Grove, Ia., has formed a partnership with R. M. C. Rohlf, of the Alta Vista Nursery, at Davenport, Ia., and expects to move in the near future.

PETERSON NURSERY, Chicago, reports more business on its books than at this date in any recent year, mostly public and subdivision planting, but including several excellent private landscaping contracts.

AN immense sign-board, in plain view of passengers on the trains which pass by the grounds, is used by the Elm City Nursery Co., at its new establishment at Woodmont, Conn., to attract the notice of the public.

THE court has ordered the sale of the real property of the Phoenix Nursery Co., Bloomington, Ill., at public auction, January 16, 1915. John Y. Chisholm is receiver. It is one of the oldest and best known nurseries in the United States.

A CARLOAD of evergreens, shrubs and vines has been shipped by the Bay State Nurseries, of North Abington, Mass., to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco. This stock is donated for exhibition purposes and will be planted about the Massachusetts building.

As long as there are "crooks" there will be "suckers" to make their devious ways prosperous, proving that P. T. Barnum was a wise man when he said that people want to be fooled. Some Wisconsin horticulturists are finding that the "seedless" raspberry bushes they bought from alleged nursery agents produce fruit that causes persons with bad teeth as much inconvenience as ever.

DUTY ON RHODODENDRONS.

The Board of United States General Appraisers at New York has just overruled the protest of P. Ouwerkerk, who objected to the collector's assessment on Rhododendron pontica at twenty-five per cent ad valorem under paragraph 264 of the 1909 tariff act as nursery stock. The importer claimed the merchandise was entitled to free entry under paragraph 668 as evergreen seedlings.

MOVE FOR UNIFORM INSPECTION.

Uniform laws in regard to the inspection of nursery stock are coming closer and closer to being accomplished facts in the Pacific coast states and particularly in the Pacific northwest. The horticultural commissioners of the four northwestern states are meeting in conference in Spokane this week, during the national apple show, with the object not only of checking over the progress of the work in the various states, but also of agreeing upon modifications of present laws so as to promote uniformity. A greater step in this direction is being taken by Governor West, of Oregon, who has invited the governors of all the Pacific coast states, as well as Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and Arizona, to be present at Corvallis November 31 and December 1, to meet with the legislative committees of the Oregon State Horticultural Society and the state board of horticulture. At this meeting a uniform law will be agreed upon by the members of the two committees and the governors or their delegates, which will then be introduced in the legislatures of the states interested.

WHY ONE SUIT FAILED.

Otto Hubenthal, doing business as the Spokane Nursery, has just lost a suit in the Washington Supreme Court, on the ground that his suit purported to be one to recover the purchase price of nursery stock under an ordinary sale, whereas the proof offered by him showed that the stock was delivered to defendants upon consignment and under an agreement that when the trees should be sold, defendants would remit the proceeds, less a commission of twenty-five per cent. The trial judge permitted plaintiff to amend his claim to conform to the proof, and awarded judgment in plaintiff's favor, but, on defendant's appeal, the judgment was reversed, on the ground that a person cannot sue on one theory and recover on another. On this point the court said:

"The plaintiff pleaded a contract of sale and proved a consignment. Between these two contracts there is a marked distinction. In a sale the title passes to the vendee, while in a consignment the title does not pass to the factor or broker. A failure on the part of the vendee, under a contract of sale, to meet the obligations incurred by his purchase subjects him only to a money judgment, while a failure of the factor or broker to properly account for goods or merchandise held by him on consignment when sold, not only may subject him to a money judgment, but to a more serious penalty under the criminal law. There appears to be no alternative but to sustain the claim of the error. It is not a harsh rule, however, when the facts, as in this case, are within the knowledge of the plaintiff, to require that they be set forth truthfully in the complaint." (Hubenthal vs. Creighton, 143 Pacific Reporter 98.)

While it should be interesting to laymen to note the principle of law thus decided, the responsibility for such a mistake in procedure as occurred in the case above mentioned ordinarily will be found to rest with plaintiff's attorneys, rather than with plaintiff, who has the right to rely upon his attorneys to bring suit in proper form. JULES GOUCHAULT & TURBAT NURSERIES

E. TURBAT & CO., Successors, ORLEANS, FRANCE

TO THE AMERICAN NURSERY AND FLORIST TRADE

Gentlemen.—On account of the war we have not printed, at this season, any catalogue, although we have on hand the best lot of Nursery and Florist stocks we have had for years.

We have not printed a catalogue because its preparation has been stopped by the uncertainty in which we have been during the months of August and September.

We do not speak about the uncertainty of the results of the defensive war, but of the uncertitude of the means of transport of the goods.

Now, however, we are sure that the French railways touching the seaports in connection with the U. S. A. are able to do their work, and that the sea is free. The route is via Le Havre direct to New York or via England.

In these conditions our services are at the disposition of our American colleagues for the following articles:

ROSE TREES. Several millions deliverable, in the best sorts, old and new, in splendid choice. Our collection is one of the most complete in the world, deliverable as dwarfs and as standards. Great specialties of Ramblers and Baby Ramblers.

ROSE STOCKS. Enormous lots of Manetti, Multiflora de la Grifferaie, Multiflora Polyantha, Dog Rose, etc.

ALL FRUIT TREE STOCKS. Enormous lots of Apple, Cherry, Mahaleb, Pear, Plum Myrobolan, Quince, etc.

YOUNG DECIDUOUS and EVERGREEN ORNAMENTAL TREES and SHRUBS. Very large assortment and splendid choice.

YOUNG FOREST STOCKS. Conifers and others. Specially Betula alba (Common Birch), Pinus Austriaca nigra (Austrian Pine), Pinus Laricio Corsica, Pinus Sylvestris (Scotch Pine), etc.

YOUNG CONIFERS from open ground and in pots. Very good.

NEW, RARE AND NOTICEABLE TREES AND SHRUBS.

FORCING SHRUBS IN BUSHES. Many sorts.

HARDY HERBACEOUS. New, rare and noticeable hardy herbaceous; also general varieties.

Big assortment of ASTERS (Michaelmas Daisies), PEONIES, PHLOXES, etc.

And in general, all FRENCH NURSERY PRODUCTS.

If you have in hand our catalogue dated Autumn 1913, Spring 1914, please read it as reference, taking account that our new prices are about the same, except those for several Fruit tree stocks, Rose stocks, Rose trees, which have been lowered, some of them on a large scale.

We will be pleased to quote at once any demand received. The best care will be bestowed on any order received.

Our nurseries are placed under the control of the Paris phytopathological station. Do not forget to send your number of permit with your orders.

New customers should send French or English reference, or cash.

Awaiting the favor to hear from you in the course of the season, we remain, gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) E. TURBAT & CO.

canker may be introduced at any time into the United States with citrus nursery stock, buds, scions or seeds.

This disease has already been brought to this country, apparently on Japanese nursery stock, and is becoming established in the gulf citrus region of the United States, including Florida. In the latter state most strenuous efforts, at great cost, which probably will be successful, are being made to stamp it out.

In view of the tremendous value of the citrus development in the United States, and the serious possibilities of this and other citrus diseases, it becomes the duty of the Secretary of Agriculture to consider the advisability of restricting or prohibiting the importation of citrus nursery stock, buds, scions or seeds, from all foreign countries.

Under Section 7 of the plant quarantine act of August 20, 1912, a public hearing will be held at the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., at 10 o'clock, December 8, 1914, in order that all persons interested may have an opportunity to appear and be heard concerning the establishment of a quarantine on all citrus nursery stock, buds, scions or seeds coming to the United States.

URBANA, ILL.

University Chrysanthemum Show.

In spite of a cold rain and a driving wind, 2,500 people ventured out Sunday afternoon, November 15, to see the chrysanthemum show, which was held in the floricultural greenhouses of the University of Illinois. The gorgeous display of single, pompon and large-flowering chrysanthemums, which occupied one house 30x100 feet, attracted the most attention. The commercial exhibition and specimen plants were staged in an adjoining house, and these, with the different varieties of orchid-flowering sweet peas, received their share of admiration and attention.

The palm, fern, rose and carnation houses were also open to the public. The rose section is making a wonderful showing this year. Of the different commercial varieties grown, Hoosier Beauty, plants of which were presented to the university by F. Dorner & Sons Co., of La Fayette, Ind., has out-topped any other rose on exhibition.

The chrysanthemum show is an annual affair at the university, but this year the show has proved a greater success than ever before.

Floricultural Club Reception.

Friday evening, November 13, the Floricultural Club gave a reception to the members of the faculty of the University of Illinois at the floricultural greenhouse, and about 400 members turned out. There were also present some out-of-town florists, among whom were: Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of Danville, Ill.; Miss Emily Dorner, of La Fayette, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Rudd and Miss Rudd, of Morgan Park, Ill. The greenhouses were open in connection with the reception and gave those present an opportunity to see the display of chrysanthemums and other flowers under artificial light. A. G. H.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

We are still waiting, rather impatiently, too, for cold weather to wake up the flower buying public. The season thus far has been abnormal to a marked degree and a true comparison with other years is impossible under existing conditions.

Roses continue in good supply and the stock is really fine. Some splendid specimens of the different varieties are seen on the market. This stock is selling well, although the prices realized are lower than they should be.

Carnations are plentiful and are being cleaned up better than heretofore. The stock is good, with no more than the ordinary percentage of splits, but prices are, of course, below normal.

Cheap mums are nearly out of the market; by that I mean the small, weak stock. Good mums are still with us in quantity, but are being disposed of at low prices. The mum crop is not at all satisfactory this year, as the warm weather brought the stock in heavily and glutted the market to a great extent. This, of course, affected the sale of other flowers.

Violets are coming in slowly and what we get are being sold at medium prices. This stock will help considerably later on, as it seems to be a general favorite with buyers. Valley remains about sufficient to meet the demand and no trouble is experienced in moving the cut. A few callas are seen on the market, but are not moving well. Lilies are scarce, but as the demand is light, this is not a hardship. American Beauties are in fair supply and are selling well.

Various Notes.

John Zech, of Chicago, visited his Milwaukee friends Friday, November 13. T. B. Comandros, of the Golden Rule flower department, St. Paul, Minn., was also a visitor last week.

H. J. S.

Somerset, Ky.—M. H. Singer, of Harrodsburg, is arranging to open a store here shortly. Next year he may erect greenhouses.

GERANIUMS

We are headquarters, having the most complete assortment of varieties in the country. Our stock is in excellent shape; we have about a million plants in two and three-inch pots, ready to send out, with a million more on the way.

We offer good standard sorts from 2-inch pots, at $2.00 per 100, $18.50 per 1000; 3-inch pots, $3.00 per 100, $25.00 per 1000.

Let us book your order for future shipment.

Novelties and New Varieties at Fair Prices.

Maryland, the bright scarlet semi-double that we introduced last year; the one that won a first-class certificate at the S. A. F. Convention in Boston, $1.00 per doz., $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

Petunias, double white and mixed, and single mixed; Alternantheras, 10 varieties; Alyssum, dwarf double and giant; Swainsonas, white and pink; Lemon Verbenas; Lantanas, assorted; Coleus, 10 varieties; Hardy English Ivy; Achyranthes Lindeni, in good shape for immediate shipment, at $2.00 per 100 for 2-inch, or $3.00 per 100 for 3-inch.

Dahlia roots at $5.00 per 100 up for whole field clumps; write for list.

NEW "MUMS"

The fall shows are now past, and you have no doubt jotted down the names of some varieties you will add to your stock next season. That is the way to keep abreast of the times. If you have not already done so, be sure you include our "Yellow Sport from Mrs. Chas. Rager." It will eventually be as widely grown as the white variety from which it sported. You run absolutely no risk in buying it.

Send for our price list, which also includes Carnation cuttings and Geranium plants. We have both in large quantity and top quality.

How Much Longer Will You Sleep? How Much Longer Will You Worry?

Worry makes gray hair. Don't get old when you can prevent it. Don't let the war worry you. Wake up! Go right ahead into business. Look out for yourself, for nobody will give you anything if you have nothing. The European war has nothing to do with the florists' business—we don't ship plants to Europe. If business is bad, don't blame the war, but blame yourself.

Look here:—I will help you and give you a chance, but for one week only, at prices seldom offered. We need the room for our great importation of Azalea Indica, and have decided to make a big reduction on the following plants:

Our Ferns are all Pot Grown. Bench grown and lifted are no good, they will go back on you. 20% reduction is not included in this list.

A 7-inch $1.00 Boston Fern we shall reduce to only 50c.
A 6-inch 75c Boston Fern we shall reduce to only 40c.
A 6-inch 50c Boston Fern we shall reduce to only 35c.
A 5½-inch 40c Boston Fern we shall reduce to only 30c.
A 7-inch $1.00 Whitmani Fern we shall reduce to only 50c.
A 6½-inch 75c Whitmani Fern we shall reduce to only 40c.
A 6-inch 50c Whitmani Fern we shall reduce to only 40c.
A 5½-inch 40c Whitmani Fern we shall reduce to only 30c.
A beautiful 7-inch $1.00 Roosevelt Fern, now only 50c.
A beautiful 6½-inch 75c Roosevelt Fern, now only 40c.
A beautiful 6-inch 50c Roosevelt Fern, now only 35c.
A beautiful 5-inch 40c Roosevelt Fern, now only 30c.
A large 7-inch $1.00 Scottii Fern, reduced to 50c.
A large 6½-inch 75c Scottii Fern, reduced to 40c.
A large 6-inch 50c Scottii Fern, reduced to 35c.
A large 5½-inch 40c Scottii Fern, reduced to 30c.

And look, to give you an additional chance, we shall give a reduction of 20% on cash with order on everything we have advertised, with the exception of Kentias, Araucarias and Azaleas.

AZALEA INDICA.

DON'T BE DECEIVED. We are the only reliable importers of Azalea Indica. Our 25 year reputation of importing, selling and shipping should be sufficient proof of our ability. Be up-to-date and go nowhere else for Azaleas but to Godfrey Aschmann.

Our new crop from Belgium is on the road now, and we are able to fill every order, subject to stock being in when orders arrive, and if the stock fails to arrive, we have a big stock of 1913 importation, just as good if not better than the new crop. We have only the leading varieties.

Force Now for Christmas. For Christmas forcing we have: Mme. Petrick, very double pink, one of the best, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Hexe, Vervaeneana, double rose, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Deutsche Perle, double white, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50 to $2.00. Simon Mardner, double pink, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Vervaeneana Alba, double white, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

For Easter Blooming we have: Mme. Vander Cruyssen, best double pink, E. Enckhaute, Simon Mardner, Vervaeneana, Niobe, De Schryveriana, Princess of India and other well tested varieties, at 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50 to $2.00. We are known to give first-class goods for the money, and always full value without giving measurements. Don't forget that we are Azalea Importers who have no equal.

ARAUCARIA.

OUR SPECIALTY.

WAR ABROAD will make the Araucarias scarce this fall and winter. But look, it won't affect Godfrey Aschmann. Why? We were not afraid to invest thousands of dollars in importing the plants in the spring of 1914, hence we do not care for the war, and are prepared to fill all orders—4 houses are filled with the choice ARAUCARIA EXCELSA. We are again able to fill all orders. 5½ and 6-inch pots, 2, 3, 4, 5 years old, 14, 15, 20 to 25 in. high, well established, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. EXCELSA GLAUCA and ROBUSTA COMPACTA, large plants, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

PALMS.

BELMOREANA and FORSTERIANA, bushy, stocky plants, new importation, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50. K. BELMOREANA, single plants, bushy, 5½-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c; made up of three plants, bushy, 5½ and 6-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c. FORSTERIANA, single, 5½-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c.

COCOS WEDDELLIANA, 3-inch, 15c, 18c and 20c; 4-in., 25c.

FICUS ELASTICA (Rubber Plant), 6, 7-in. pots, 30c, 40c, 50c, 75c, $1.00. Large, staked up.

HYDRANGEA OTAKSA, pot-grown, 6, 7, 8-in. pots, bushy, very fine, 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00 to $1.50. The Otaksa is the only pink variety that will stand the winter at the sea shore and elsewhere. Five best French varieties, 5½, 6-in. pots, pot-grown, 25c, 35c, 40c.

DAISIES: Queen Alexandra, pure white, 2½-in. pots, $3.00 per 100.

FILL UP THE RANKS

is the military order and this rule is maintained regardless of the sacrifice. FILL UP THE BENCHES must be the florists' slogan if he would reap success. 'Mums are now ripening and soon there will be space "to let." Don't keep it idle. Chuck in a few hundred of my famous Silver Pink Seedling Snaps and keep the money coming. No plant on earth will give you so much joy and profit. It is a pleasure to watch it branch and grow and a lasting satisfaction over a long flowering season. Fine, stocky, well branched plants at only $4.00 per 100, $35.00 per 1000. Less than 100, 5c each. New crop seed of same at $1.00 per pkt.; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Last week's market was somewhat weak. The heavy supply of the previous weeks continued to come in, while the call for stock was not so active as it had been. Low prices rule in most lines. Roses of all kinds are plentiful and generally of a most excellent quality. American Beauties sell well. Carnations are in heavy supply, but are meeting with an indifferent market. The cold weather that came with the first of this week is expected to shorten these lines greatly.

Chrysanthemums are coming in heavily and, while many sell, the prices are so moderate that it takes large sales to run into money. The pompon market is not strong. Lilies are plentiful. Both rubrums and callas are to be had. Other offerings include narcissi, sweet peas, valley, double and single violets and orchids. Green goods are plentiful.

Various Notes.

C. E. Critchell was the first in the market to offer sweet peas this fall.

L. H. Kyrk was the first wholesaler to offer Paper White narcissi.

J. T. Conger is opening a store at 112 East Third street as a wholesale distributing depot for his plants and poinsettias for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Kyrk left November 14 for a short visit to Samuel Batson, at Kalamazoo, Mich., and L. Frank & Sons, at Portland, Ind.

The daily receipts of P. J. Olinger's new seedling red carnation, as yet unnamed, are attracting considerable attention from the local florists. It is proving to be a popular offering.

Wm. Murphy has been on the sick list for several days, but is improving.

Recent visitors include H. C. Neubrand, representing A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; R. E. Blackshaw, representing the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago; Joseph Hill, Richmond, Ind.; E. W. Jordan, Cherry Lane, N. C., and Paul Berkowitz, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

FLORISTS' PUBLISHING CO., Caxton Building, 508 So. Dearborn Street, CHICAGO

ST. PAUL, MINN.

Club Meeting.

The St. Paul Florists' Club held its first large display of flowers at the regular meeting, November 10. The entries were confined entirely to St. Paul grown stock.

In the class for pompon and anemone chrysanthemums, the Snelling Floral Co. took first with a vase of Lady Lee, and the Merriam Park Floral Co. second, showing thirteen varieties. The Warrendale Floral Co. showed twenty-six varieties and was awarded honorable mention. In the large-flowering mum class, the Warrendale Floral Co. was awarded first on a lot of Eaton, Golden Wedding, Thanksgiving and Dolly Dimple. N. C. Hanson took second on a vase of Dr. Enguehard.

N. C. Hanson took firsts on a vase of Enchantress and a vase of Mrs. Shawyer. On pot plants, Holm & Olson took first, the Warrendale Floral Co. second and N. C. Hanson third. The Warrendale Floral Co. took a premium for the largest display of cut flowers, and N. C. Hanson for the largest plant display.

Hugh Will, of Minneapolis, and Frank Gustavson, of St. Paul, acted as judges.

The next meeting of the club will be held December 8. At this meeting, Philip Foley, of Chicago, will be here to tell what he knows about greenhouse construction. No doubt a good representation will be present. All should come.

Various Notes.

The Boardman Flower Shop has moved from the St. Paul Hotel to Sixth street, near Robert street. This should be a profitable move.

Visitors: Calvin Kinsman, of Austin, Minn.; Albert Clausen, of Albert Lea, Minn., and J. E. Quallich, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago. C. F.

Bangor, Pa.—The firm of Stone & Stone has been succeeded by that of Stone & Frutchey, of which S. S. Stone and E. P. Frutchey are the members. They have rented the greenhouses of J. Howard Stone, at Stroudsburg, which recently have been operated under the name of the Sylvania Floral Co. The establishment will be run in connection with the Bangor place.

Greenhouse Heating.

HEAT FOR ONE NEW HOUSE.

Kindly advise me as to the best way of heating my new greenhouse. It is 20x50. The side walls are five feet high and consist of two and one-half feet of wood and two and one-half feet of glass. Each end contains two and one-half feet of wood and the rest is glass. The height to the ridge is eleven feet. There are three benches, each four feet eight inches wide. I have an upright sectional boiler, four feet eight inches high, with a 30-inch grate. This boiler now heats two houses, one of them 24x50 and the other 16x62. The new house is for carnations. Do you think the boiler can heat all three houses? If not, would it do to put on another section? In one of my houses there are ten 1½-inch pipes under each of the side benches, and, when the fire is on, the soil in those benches is baked all the time. If the pipes can be so arranged in the new house that there will not be many under the benches, I shall be thankful. The center beds are solid. M. C. M.

The letter does not give the amount of glass in the side walls of the present houses, or the temperature at which they are kept, and as this might make a difference of 50 to 75 per cent in the amount of radiation needed, I cannot be sure about the ability of the boiler to handle it, especially as the only idea regarding the rating of the boiler must be taken from its grate area. A boiler with a grate thirty inches in diameter is generally rated at 1,500 square feet of radiation and upwards, and as the amount of radiation in the three houses is likely to be considerably less than this, the present boiler will probably be able to heat the three houses. In case the rating of the boiler as given by the manufacturers is not more than 1,200 square feet, and the actual radiation in the houses is much more than 1,000 feet, I would suggest that a mercury generator, or some other form of circulator, be installed, and that an additional section be added to the heater.

For the new house I would use one 2½-inch flow pipe on each plate, and five 2-inch returns under each of the side benches. Unless the top of the boiler is below the level of the returns, it would be better to carry the flows on the purlins or at a point two or three feet below the ridge.

With proper attention to watering, there should be little difficulty in preventing the drying out of the soil if the pipes are a foot or more below the bottom of the benches. When the houses have walks along the side walls, it is advisable to run from one-fourth to one-third of the returns on the walls, but, as I understand it, these houses will have benches against the walls, which will make it necessary to run the pipes either under the benches or in the walks on the bench supports.

INDEPENDENCE, MO.

The florists have about all recovered from the damage done by the hail. Some have just finished reglazing their houses.

E. H. Frandsen has rebuilt several of his houses, as has R. B. Tindall. The mild weather has been a great help to the florists who are rebuilding. We have only had two heavy frosts here as yet. Last year at this time we had heavy snows.

J. H. Boyd has just completed a large greenhouse and has another under construction. He has two houses of chrysanthemums, from which he is cutting some choice blooms. His Major Bonnaffon are hard to beat. J. H. B.

The Market.

Trade has picked up wonderfully during the last week. This is due to the fact that we have been having a little winter weather, and a great many funerals; also a continuous round of social affairs. Chrysanthemums, carnations and roses are the main crop at present, but some of the florists are cutting nice sweet peas and violets, which find ready sale.

The bulb business, taken as a whole, is not so good as it has been in former seasons. While the florists are selling about the usual number of bulbs, the different seed houses, which no doubt do the greatest amount of business in this line, report sales as light. This might be attributed to the fact that the bulbs were not received until a little late this season; also, the price was a fraction higher than usual.

Various Notes.

Chas. L. Baum, who attended the chrysanthemum show in Indianapolis, reports a fine trip. On the way up he stopped at Louisville, and on his return at Richmond, Ind., and Cincinnati.

Mr. Speer, formerly of Columbus, O., who has been for some time with C. W. Crouch, of this city, is now with A. H. Dailey, who has had his hands full of business.

Mrs. Rosa Hall Ryno's force is having plenty to do in the way of funeral work. She also has had several wedding jobs of considerable note. As her chrysanthemums were a little early this year, the crop will soon be exhausted and she will be compelled to fall back on carnations, which are blooming nicely. Mrs. Ryno has been ill for some time, but is much better, and will soon be able to get back to business.

Crouch's are having unusually good trade. They made a number of beautiful designs for the funeral of J. C. Luttrell, one of the most attractive being a casket cover of valley, orchids and white roses. They are cutting a sufficient supply of good stock.

Addison J. McNutt reports a good business for last week. His place being in the Market house, he does an excellent business on Saturdays.

Chas. L. Baum's force may be seen busy any time in the day, and many times at night. He has a great many out-of-town agents. His new chrysanthemum, Lena Baum, is now in season and from all indications will be a fine commercial variety. S. S. Skidelsky, while calling on the trade in Knoxville, spent Sunday with Mr. Baum.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Business has shown a little improvement, but prices still are low. There was quite a good demand for the better class of stock, such as Beauties, gardenias, orchids and valley, and, while the sales were nothing unusual, the spurt was quite encouraging. Mums of course are still plentiful, small to medium sizes being in most request. Roses are plentiful and the demand takes up most of them, but prices are not up to the usual average. There are plenty of carnations of fairly good quality, but most of them find their way to the street boys. Violets, both single and double, are coming in better and are selling fairly well. Lilies are not in large supply, but there is no demand to speak of and quantities find their outlet in the rubbish box.

Various Notes.

The Baltimore Cut Flower Co. has handled a fine lot of single-stem Wm. Turner mums in 6-inch pots.

T. J. Michell, of Philadelphia, was in town last week.

J. C. Bartell says business is picking up.

Chas. Siegwart has some of the finest Wm. Turner mums seen here this season.

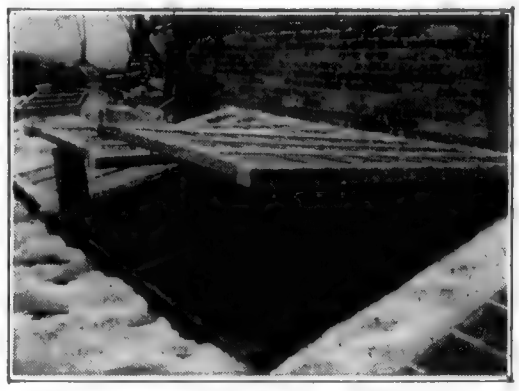
Chas. J. Bolgiano, of J. Bolgiano & Son, was operated on for appendicitis at the Union Protestant infirmary last week and at present is getting along as well as can be expected.

E. C. Milburn is shipping some good single violets to the Pennock-Meehan Co.

L. H. Klein, of Towson, is cutting some good Appleton mums.

H. J. Quick has a fine collection of pompon mums in over 100 different varieties and he thinks so well of this type he is dropping the other varieties entirely.

The Leo Niessen Co. reports a ready sale for good Beauties in spite of the large supply of mums.



The annual Maryland week exhibition opened at Fifth Regiment Armory November 17, with an address by President Graham. The exhibition of flowers and fruits surpassed anything formerly shown. A full account of the prize winners and exhibits will appear in the next issue.

Jesse King, of Mt. Airy, is sending in some good Yellow Eaton mums.

Light is Life to growing plants

But under Sunlight Double Glass Sash they are never darkened by mats or shutters.

Try a bit of winter gardening

Consider this

The old style single layer sash have but a single layer of glass which admits the sun, but cannot exclude the cold or retain the heat unless covered with mats and shutters. These extra covers cost twice as much as an extra layer of glass and they must be put on and off daily. It takes two men or a man and wife to lift the soggy mats and heavy shutters.

This is pure waste of labor and expense as well as light.

Now consider that the Sunlight Double Glass Sash have two layers of glass enclosing an air space ⅝ inches thick, through which the sun's rays pass, but not the cold from without or the stored warmth from within.

Put the Sash on your hot-bed or cold frame, and it is complete. All that remains to do is to prop up the sash on bright or warm days. A child can do this.

A small inexpensive greenhouse made of Sunlight Double Glass Sash

Which would you rather have?

The Sunlight Double Glass Sash of course. It will pay you to investigate these sash for you are losing money every day you are without them.

The Market.

The weather has been so warm that the demand for flowers has been stifled and were it not for the street men, the growers would have but little outlet. Chrysanthemums rule the market, but the price on these is low, except in the best grades, for which there is practically no demand. William Turner could not be moved at $2 per dozen, although of excellent quality. Sweet peas are good and in fair demand. Bouvardia was to be seen in all colors last week, but few sales were reported. Carnations have improved greatly in both quantity and quality. The best are bringing $2 per hundred. The market is flooded with rubrum lilies, but no one wants them. Violets continue scarce and are generally of poor quality. Paper Whites are more plentiful and are offered at $3 per hundred, but meet with little sale. The call for valley has been good and the stock is excellent. Among the newcomers of the week was mignonette.

Various Notes.

The Noyes funeral last week served to clean up the supply of cattleyas and made necessary a number of large purchases in other cities, also helping to clean up valley to some extent, and speeding up the sale of white roses.

Among the visitors last week were E. H. Flood, of Alco, Md.; J. J. Grullemans, Jr., of Lisse, Holland, and Joseph J. Goudy, George C. Watson and C. S. Ford, all of Philadelphia.

Gude Bros. Co. furnished an unusual decoration recently in the form of an old-fashioned country wedding, near Dickerson Station, in the Sugar Loaf mountains of Maryland. At the church the entire ceiling was masked with autumn foliage, and fir trees, evergreens and southern smilax were used in large quantities. The decorations of the house were similar to those of the church. At the rear a large room of canvas was lined with fir trees, autumn leaves and smilax. Cornstalks and wheat and rye straw played a prominent part in the decorations. The work was in charge of Will Smith and others sent down from Washington, while the whole was directly under the supervision of W. F. Gude. C. L. L.

Vital Framing Points

NOT even the most expert bridge building engineer of the country could tell by simply "looking a big iron bridge over," whether it would stand the load and strain it was built to. He would have to do some tall figuring and checking up of stress and strain diagrams before he could even begin to form an opinion.

Regardless of this fact, lots of the growers are buying big greenhouses of firms who employ no skilled greenhouse engineers who can mathematically and scientifically figure out the strength of a construction, and prove up, point by point, its sufficient strength.

In the August 29 issue of Florists' Exchange, we tell some things about this section above, that will be a decided surprise to most of you. Take time to look it up. If you don't take the Exchange, let us know and we will send you a proof of the ad. It would be too bad to miss it.

Boston, 5 and 6-in.	20c
Boston (larger size)	30c and 40c

My ferns are nice, shapely plants, with strong fronds, and are giving great satisfaction. As they lift with a ball of soil, they are ready for sale very soon after potting. Try a sample order, I am sure they will please you. 5% discount cash with order, otherwise references.

In today's mail (Oct. 16) a Rochester, N. Y., party writes in placing an order for 50 ferns: "One thing I like about your ferns is that you leave on the runners, which makes the plants look better when potted up." In the same mail a florist in Saugerties, N. Y., writes: "The ferns I bought of you last year were perfectly satisfactory. Hope you will be able to do as well this year."
A. A. GANNETT, GENEVA, N. Y.

PANSIES.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for 40 years, and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers to date. Some of many reports: "Your pansy plants last year were the best we ever had and blooms were very satisfactory in size and color."—L. Muller, New Orleans, La. "I inclose $10.00 for pansy plants. This is the 6th year I have used your plants and each year have found them satisfactory in size of flowers, colors and other respects."—M. J. McCabe, Washington, D. C. An immense stock of fine field-grown plants from seed sown in August in sandy soil, thinly, broadcast, so that the plants grow short and stocky, with extra good roots. Over 75 varieties, mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, 1000, $3.00; 500, $1.75; 5000, $14.00; 10,000, $27.00. Delivery by express in good condition guaranteed. Cash.
L. W. Goodell, Pansy Park, Dwight, Mass.

Reading, Pa.—Harry C. Huesman, manager for H. J. Huesman, is issuing a neatly printed booklet on "Flowers for Funerals."

Bridgeport, Conn.—Carl Reck, of the firm of John Reck & Son, is rejoicing in the arrival of an 8½-pound son, Carl Reck, Jr. November 6 is the date of his birth.

Rockford, Ill.—M. A. Tremulis, manager of the Rockford Floral Co., was married in the Greek church, Chicago, November 1, to Miss Olga Mantes, of Chicago. He and his bride returned the following day and are now at home at 1414 North Main street, in the residence recently purchased by Mr. Tremulis.

Beatrice, Neb.—Nearly 2,000 people visited the greenhouses of the Dole Floral Co. Sunday afternoon, November 8. Chrysanthemums, roses and carnations all made a fine showing and a 9-piece orchestra entertained the visitors. Blooms were given as souvenirs. George M. Johnson has been touring the western part of this state and the northern part of Kansas in his automobile in the interest of the company.

Wholesale Price List of Christmas Evergreens

—FROM—

F. B. WOOLEY

152 Dock Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Leading Wholesale Evergreen Dealer in Philadelphia

The success, satisfaction and consequent demand for Christmas Greens of my pack has been so pronounced since I entered the field in a jobbing way several years ago, that I concluded to publish this advertisement for the information and assistance of the Leading Florists and Dealers, and it is submitted herewith primarily with the hope, of course, of securing your future business. A trial order will convince you.

HOLLY

For several years I had been buying my holly from dealers or packers in Delaware and Maryland. People cut and pack holly just before Christmas and bring it to the station to sell, and in order to get a car load at any one station, I was often compelled to buy from sometimes a dozen different people. Some of them cut it in short sprigs and have good, bright holly, while others cut long branches, poor holly and very few berries. This was very unsatisfactory to me, so a few years ago I decided to buy the trees as they stood in the woods, cut and pack it myself, or at least have my own men do so, and in this manner I cut only what suits me, and grade it to suit my trade. I have secured for this season some of the finest swamp holly trees there are to be found in the State of Delaware. I cut sixteen (16) car loads last season and it was impossible to fill my late orders satisfactorily. However, I did the best I could, and only had one party return a few cases as unsatisfactory. I expect to cut at least twenty-five (25) car loads this season. The weather has been favorable and there is plenty of good holly, and it is well berried. Kindly let me have your orders early. I will have it cut and packed as usual, in regular size cases, 2x2x4, and I positively guarantee it as represented in every particular. My first car will arrive in Philadelphia on Tuesday, December 1st, and the price same as before, on all orders received during November, $3.00 per case F. O. B. Philadelphia. I cannot guarantee the price on orders received after December 1st.

I will continue to pack, as I have done in the past, my GILT-EDGE BRAND. This holly is specially selected, short stemmed, dark green, and full of berries. Guaranteed extra fancy; price, $4.00 per case.

HOLLY WREATHS

I have my wreaths made of the brightest dark green holly possible to secure. They are wrapped with wire on 10-inch hoops, each wreath having 4 or five clusters of bright red holly berries firmly fastened on them. I use nothing but the holly berries in trimming, as they do not turn black and fall off like the dog berries that several makers use because they are a little cheaper. My hoops are strong and well made, so as to stand handling. I make three grades, priced according to weight and quality, $10.00, $12.50 and $15.00 per hundred. Cases contain 100, 125, 150 wreaths. Large cases, 200 and 250; but we can pack you any quantity you may want from one dozen to one thousand.

We sometimes have BOXWOOD WREATHS made the same as holly wreaths, and sell them from $10.00 to $12.50 per hundred.

MISTLETOE

Our mistletoe mostly comes from North and South Carolina and lower part of Virginia, and is well berried and pretty, and sells according to quality. We ship in hampers, barrels and cases. Price in hampers, $1.00 to $1.50 each; in bbls., from $4.00 to $5.00; and in cases, weighing about 100 pounds, $10.00 to $15.00 each. I will do my best for you in selecting and shipping any of the above packages.

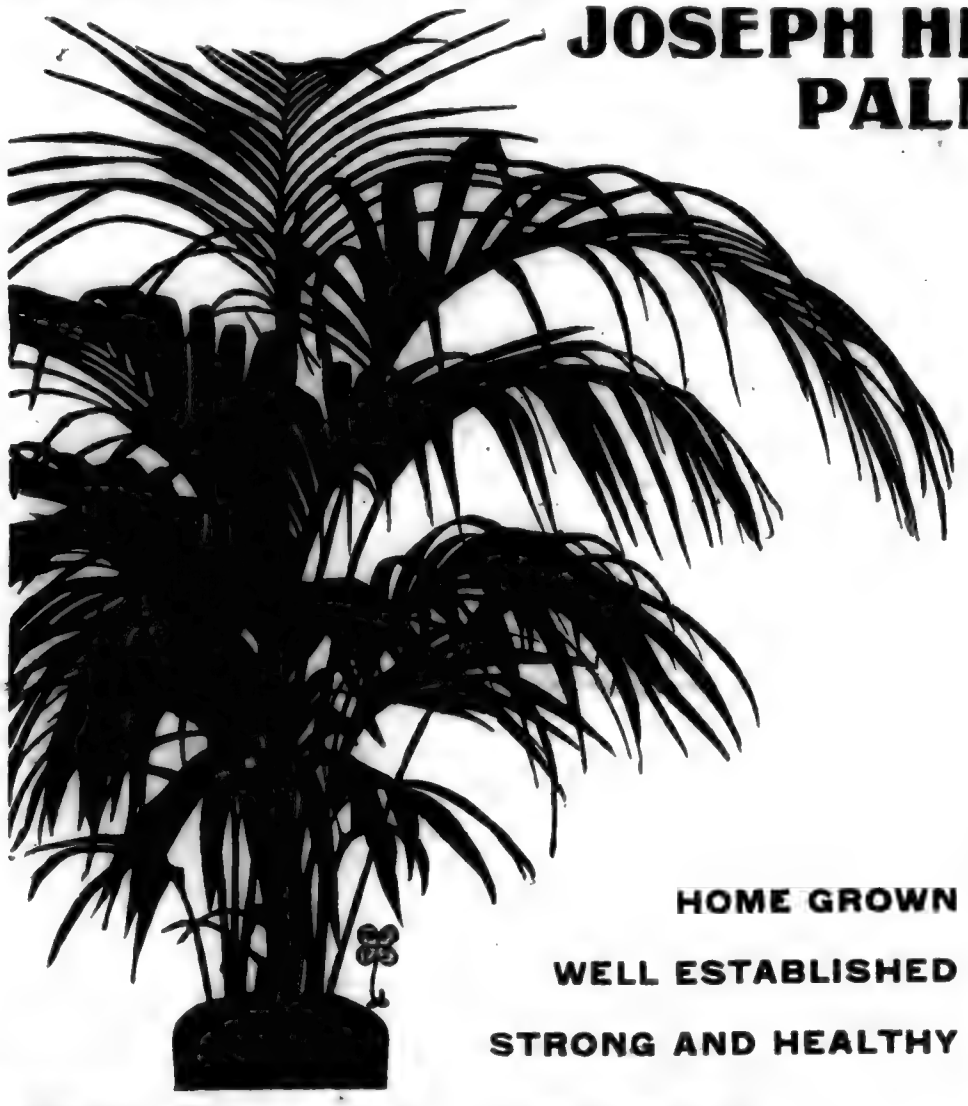
LYCOPODIUM

The ground pine or Lycopodium sells by the pound or in the wreathing of 10 and 25-yard rolls. The Loose, 12½c per pound, and the Wreathing according to weight and quality, 6c to 10c per yard.

LAUREL WREATHING

My Laurel Wreathing comes from the Jersey swamps. The very dark swamp laurel is used and hand-made on heavy roping in 50 and 100-yard lengths. Price, 3c and 3½c per yard.

TISSUE WREATHING



Paper festooning or wreathing in 10-yard rolls. Red, white and green colors, 10c per roll. Very nice and clean for inside decorating. Green color mostly used.

CHRISTMAS TREES

We use the Maine and Vermont Fine Balsam trees. We have them from 5 to 25 feet high and sell them from 50c to $3.00 each according to size and quality. We also have a small spruce or nursery table tree, 18 to 36 inches high, that sell from 25c to 40c each. Not less than 10 trees shipped to any one address.

SOUTHERN WILD SMILAX, $4.00 to $5.00 per case. NEEDLE PINES, according to size, from $8.00 to $12.00 per hundred. Also Palm leaves, Magnolia leaves, Galax leaves, Southern green and gray moss. Prices according to quantity and quality.

TERMS: All Christmas greens are sold on spot cash terms and your check must positively accompany your order. State the day you want it shipped and if by express or freight, and name route if possible. In reference to my responsibility ask Dun's or Bradstreet's, or write the Sixth National Bank or Mutual Trust Co., of our city. I have been in business on Dock street since 1891 and my reputation is beyond reproach, hence I ask you not to confound my goods with the shoddy stock that finds its way each season to the large cities on consignment. My goods are strictly first-class and I guarantee satisfaction.

Never have the Florists, Seedsmen and Nurserymen in America had greater cause than now for Thanksgiving

THE interests of florists, seedsmen and nurserymen are more than national—they are international. Even the man who sells only to the people of his immediate neighborhood is dependent, more or less, on the growers of bulbs in France and Holland, of azaleas in Belgium, of Manetti in England, or of flower seeds in Germany. Let us, then, not forget that today we in America are the world's most fortunate florists.

It is true, no doubt, that the last four months have been the most difficult in the business experience of many a florist, but the worst difficulties that have beset the least provident of American florists have been as nothing to the troubles that have been thrust upon the members of the trade with whom we deal in other lands; nor have they been more than an admonition. Besides, they are passed.

Flowers Have Become a Necessity.

The cataclysm in Europe appears to have affected the business of florists less than most other lines in America. It appears to have demonstrated once again the fallacy of the old cry that flowers are a luxury easily dispensed with—they are not. To those who have acquired the habit of buying, flowers have become a necessity. Ask any clothier. He will tell you his business this fall has suffered at least as much as yours. Railroad gross earnings in October were fifteen per cent below last year; bank clearings eighteen per cent. With war and unseasonable weather, as a class we have not suffered more than our neighbors, not so much as many of them.

And here is a thought for Thanksgiving: Clothing, food, fuel, these already are necessities to the whole people. Flowers are as yet essential to the happiness of only a comparative few. There is yet a wonderful field for the development of our business. We can go ahead.

All Business on the Up Grade.

But a more immediate reason for thanksgiving is found in the indications that business in America has rebounded from the depression caused by the shock of war. The necessary readjustments have been made and industry is on the up grade. The daily papers are full of reports of big business, some of them predicated on the wonderful crops in the west, where country florists have felt no depression whatever; some based on big orders for export, and many on the new banking law that became operative November 16, with the immediate effect of cutting interest rates and releasing great sums for new business, especially building. Also, and of much importance to our trade, there is the gradual reopening of the exchanges, especially the cotton markets. The sale of flowers, which has steadily improved since the arrival of belated frost, will quickly return to normal if general business does. Indeed, it seems quite likely the flower business will, on the next wave of general prosperity, ride higher than ever before.

We all have heard the story of the traveling man who was trying to explain the difference between satisfied and contented, who at last in desperation exclaimed, "Why, hang it all, while I sit talking here I am satisfied my wife is gallivanting with our boarder—satisfied, mind you, but not contented."

Florists Should Be Thankful.

So it is with florists. We may not be contented with conditions as they have been—few people would be—but we should be satisfied they are not permanent and thankful the up stretch has been reached. Above all, we should give thanks today we live and do business in America—land where the use of flowers is increasing so fast it takes the cataclysm of half the world to interrupt our progress even briefly.

The Review, doing business almost exclusively with florists, feels that it has more reason than ever to give thanks this year. The Review believes its customers are in better shape today than are the customers of its neighbors, the trade papers published in the interest of other lines. The Review believes its own business but reflects the situation with the trade at large—the great body of florists, not a group or section of them, for The Review draws its patronage from the four corners of our country.

Why The Review Gives Thanks.

This has been a season of decreasing circulation for all publications except the penny dailies—but The Review has been an exception to the rule. Its subscription receipts in August were the largest ever known for the month. It was the same in September. The gain in October was not quite so good, but nevertheless there was a gain. And November to date has run ahead. These have been mail subscriptions—which, as every advertiser should know, are the best kind. No solicitors are employed, nor has any extra effort been made by mail. The growth has been the natural result of printing a good paper and it has continued at a time when nearly all publications have been going backward.

In August The Review, in common with practically all publications, lost advertising. But September made it up and October broke all records for the month. Broke records, mind you, in a month that showed a shrinkage for almost every trade paper in America. It would never have been possible had not conditions in the trade been better than they were in most other lines.

There have been scarcely any failures among florists this fall, where the apparel trades have had a holocaust and where other lines have suffered keenly. It should teach the world to appreciate the substantial character of those engaged in the business of purveying to the needs of the better side of the people. And it should make florists thankful they are florists, for it seems assured that the future of the business is secure.

STORING DAHLIAS IN WINTER

Please inform me how to keep dahlia bulbs during the winter. I have several hundred stored under a bench in the boiler room. The bulbs have been there two weeks and I noticed that most of them are shriveling somewhat. Does this harm the bulbs? Would they keep better if placed in barrels or boxes and covered with soil? I have no room for them in my cellar. When is the best time to divide the bulbs, and how is this done? My location is central Alabama. H. G. C.

You must move your dahlias at once, or they will be completely ruined. When the tubers begin to shrivel, it is the beginning of the end. Dahlias need a cool, dry cellar, where no furnace heat is ever used; one which will keep potatoes will answer admirably for dahlias. Try to find room in your cellar for them. If you have no shelves to lay them on, try the plan of wrapping the tubers in sheets of newspapers and packing them in barrels. These barrels can be stood on top of one another and will not take up much room.

The tubers can be divided any time after the last of March. If you sell dormant roots, a month later will be sufficiently early in your climate. Leave one portion of tuber and an eye to each set. This is easily done by using a strong, sharp knife. If started plants are wanted, place the tubers in the greenhouse a month before you need them. C. W.

RETAIL STORE MANAGEMENT

WHAT THE LEADERS IN THE TRADE ARE DOING

NEW WINDOWS FROM OLD.

A suggestion for window decorators who are on the lookout for something a little different from the usual run of window displays may be obtained from the one by James G. Crozer, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., which is reproduced on this page. Mr. Crozer places a high estimate on the advertising value of window decorations, and not without good reason, for, he reports, a display composed of a violet bed, made up of the bunches, with a card reading, "We pick them while you wait," was the means of his selling 500 bunches in one day in a town of 40,000.

For this reason Mr. Crozer goes to some pains in the decorating of his window. He has increased the possibilities of variation by the simple expedient of buying "build-ups" from the window dressers of the department stores. After they have been used in the department stores he gets them for little money and adapts them for his uses. In order to secure further variation from the ordinary florist's display, the figure in the window shown herewith was obtained from one of the dry goods merchants of the town in return for the privilege of displaying his card in the window stating that the draping was done by the dry goods concern. In this case the figure was draped in yellow. On the stand beside it was a vase of Russell roses, below a few orchids, and on the floor two or three bunches of violets. For a background a few vases of chrysanthemums of the largest size were used. "I did not try to get a showing of every flower that we had in stock," says Mr. Crozer, "but rather kept away from placing too much in the window. I believe that as a rule florists make a mistake by trying to get too much of a variety of stock in their displays."

Not only was the window a drawing card in itself, but, in addition, the local papers, without solicitation, took occasion to make mention of the display, to the extent of what would have been about $10 worth of space, says Mr. Crozer, had he gone to the expense of purchasing it.

WHAT THE GROOM PROVIDES.

Will you kindly advise us what flowers the groom provides for a wedding? Does he always furnish the bridesmaids' flowers? We want to know just the proper thing in the matter of furnishing flowers for a wedding —what the groom furnishes and what is provided by the bride or her family. S. F. C.

It is the experience of the florists who cater to the "400" and others of the class which adheres most strictly to the social conventions that the bridegroom furnishes only the flowers for the bride; that is, the bride's bouquet. The bride's parents provide the church or home decorations and the flowers for the bridesmaids and maid of honor, although the bouquet for the maid of honor is sometimes provided by the bride herself. There are instances in which the groom has provided the flowers for the bridesmaids, but this is the exception rather than the rule. Social conventions, like most arbitrary rules, are as easily broken as observed, according to the exigencies of the case, but for the wedding which is conducted "according to Hoyle," the bridegroom purchases only his bride's bouquet.

TO CARRY THE CROOK.

A subscriber asks for an illustration of the correct way for a bridesmaid to carry a shepherd's crook. But, unfortunately, none such is available. If some other reader can supply the picture The Review will do the rest.

By the way, what is the correct way to carry a shepherd's crook? Many a retailer no doubt has been asked the question, and the answers have been various. One retailer was noted, one day, bringing a staff basket from the storeroom to show to a customer and he had it over his shoulder the way Pat carries his hod!

FROST ON SHOW WINDOWS.

The Review receives frequent requests for information how to prevent steam and frost from forming on the glass in store windows. If any reader knows some simple, practical means that can be employed by florists, please send it in for publication.

THE ART NOUVEAU.

The furniture and fixture men have gone clean daft on the "period" craze—we cannot buy a bed to sleep in, much less fit up a store, without having them load us up with a lot of talk about Louis Seize, the Renaissance, and a lot of other "punctuation" stuff. We don't know what they are talking about, but the funny part of it is they usually get away with it and if we don't sleep we work in the surroundings of Louis XIV or the Colonial period.

Odd how many Colonial Flower Shops have bloomed the last year or two—it's close to one a week—and most of them are right neat stores, too. Take the one shown in the accompanying illustration—it's Colonial in name and colonial in style, and it certainly looks all right. Everything is in keeping, from the corner posts on the icebox to the handmade rag rugs on the floor. Anybody entering such a store would expect to pay for art as well as flowers.

This Colonial Flower Shop was opened October 10, at the corner of Delaware avenue and Chippewa street, in Buffalo, N. Y. The proprietors are A. Kowaski and Miss Bellanca, which makes the tout ensemble sound like a triple alliance.

KNOBLE PREDICTS A BOOM.

The Cleveland Press is publishing a series of statements regarding business conditions and prospects by the retail merchants of the city. Second in the series was one from H. P. Knoble, retail florist—"High Pressure" Knoble they translate the initials in Cleveland. This is it:

"I predict that business conditions in 1915 will be better than ever before, for many reasons. On the rise of the tide of prosperity every business institution has a tendency to overproduce or overpurchase, until the surplus accumulation is so great that a continuation would ultimately spell utter ruin or bankruptcy. When a halt is called, we have what is generally known as hard times or business depressions. These lasting over a period sufficiently long to consume the surplus created, at the ebb of the period of depression business men realize that it is time to wake up, resume activities and be prepared for the orders that are bound to come, from the mere fact that everything has been consumed during this stage of inactivity.

"Adding to the normal demand, which will come from every source, there will be the influx of trade from the European countries, now busily engaged in deadly warfare. It must also be taken into consideration that many things heretofore imported will, on account of the present law of necessity, be manufactured in this country. These items collectively would represent an enormous industry individually.

"Citing only these two reasons, I presume to predict that, starting immediately, this country will enter upon an era of prosperity such as it has never known before. I cannot help but feel that these periods of depression and prosperity follow each other naturally, just as night follows day, rest follows labor, vegetation becomes dormant in winter and active in summer.

"Those who will take advantage of the many opportunities offered through the great medium, publicity, will surely reap their just reward."

CAROLINA CONCERN'S STORE.

That the florists south of Mason and Dixon's line are not behind their northern fellow tradesmen as regards the up-to-date appearance of their stores and those marks of enterprise that indicate the presence of the hustling business man is instanced by the view of the shop of Scholtz the Florist, Inc., of Charlotte, N. C., given on page 14. This store, at 306 North Tryon street, has all of the modern conveniences, and, under the guidance of Manager E. P. Scholtz, is doing a thriving business. The conservatory in the rear, shown at the left of the illustration, is a most useful adjunct for showing plants, a constant supply of which is on hand, from the greenhouses of Manager Scholtz's brother, W. T. Scholtz, proprietor of the Charlotte Floral Co. J. I. McCallum is secretary of the company, and F. W. Miller, a graduate of the famous establishment of Gude Bros. Co., at Washington, D. C., is artist and de-publications, lost advertising. But September made it up and October broke all records for the month. Broke records, mind you, in a month that showed a shrinkage for almost every trade paper in America. It would never have been possible had not conditions in the trade been better than they were in most other lines.

There have been scarcely any failures among florists this fall, where the apparel trades have had a holocaust and where other lines have suffered keenly. It should teach the world to appreciate the substantial character of those engaged in the business of purveying to the needs of the better side of the people. And it should make florists thankful they are florists, for it seems assured that the future of the business is secure.

STORING DAHLIAS IN WINTER

Please inform me how to keep dahlia bulbs during the winter. I have several hundred stored under a bench in the boiler room. The bulbs have been there two weeks and I noticed that most of them are shriveling somewhat. Does this harm the bulbs? Would they keep better it placed in barrels or boxes and covered with soil? I have no room for them in my cellar. When is the best time to divide the bulbs, and how is this done? My location is central Alabama. H. G. C.

You must move your dahlias at once, or they will be completely ruined. When the tubers begin to shrivel, it is the beginning of the end. Dahlias need a cool, dry cellar, where no furnace heat is ever used; one which will keep potatoes will answer admirably for dahlias. Try to find room in your cellar for them. If you have no shelves to lay them on, try the plan of wrapping the tubers in sheets of newspapers and packing them in barrels. These barrels can be stood on top of one another and will not take up much room.

The tubers can be divided any time after the last of March. If you sell dormant roots, a month later will be sufficiently early in your climate. Leave one portion of tuber and an eye to each set. This is easily done by using a strong, sharp knife. If started plants are wanted, place the tubers in the greenhouse a month before you need them. C. W.

RETAIL STORE MANAGEMENT

NEW WINDOWS FROM OLD.

A suggestion for window decorators who are on the lookout for something a little different from the usual run of window displays may be obtained from the one by James G. Crozer, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., which is reproduced on this page. Mr. Crozer places a high estimate on the advertising value of window decorations, and not without good reason, for, he reports, a display composed of a violet bed, made up of the bunches, with a card reading, "We pick them while you wait," was the means of his selling 500 bunches in one day in a town of 10,000.

For this reason Mr. Crozer goes to some pains in the decorating of his window. He has increased the possibilities of variation by the simple expedient of buying "build ups" from the window dressers of the department stores. After they have been used in the department stores he gets them for little money and adapts them for his uses. In order to secure further variation from the ordinary florist's display, the figure in the window shown herewith was obtained from one of the dry goods merchants of the town in return for the privilege of displaying his card in the window stating that the draping was done by the dry goods concern. In this case the figure was draped in yellow. On the stand beside it was a vase of Russell roses, below a few orchids, and on the floor two or three bunches of violets. For a background a few vases of chrysanthemums of the largest size were used. "I did not try to get a showing of every flower that we had in stock," says Mr. Crozer, "but rather kept away from placing too much in the window. I believe that as a rule florists make a mistake by trying to get too much of a variety of stock in their displays."

Not only was the window a drawing card in itself, but, in addition, the local papers, without solicitation, took occasion to make mention of the display, to the extent of what would have been about $10 worth of space, says Mr. Crozer, had he gone to the expense of purchasing it.

WHAT THE GROOM PROVIDES.

Will you kindly advise us what flowers the groom provides for a wedding? Does he always furnish the bridesmaids' flowers? We want to know just the proper thing in the matter of furnishing flowers for a wedding what the groom furnishes and what is provided by the bride or her family. S. F. C.

It is the experience of the florists who cater to the "400" and others of the class which adheres most strictly to the social conventions that the bridegroom furnishes only the flowers for the bride; that is, the bride's bouquet. The bride's parents provide the church or home decorations and the flowers for the bridesmaids and maid of honor, although the bouquet for the maid of honor is sometimes provided by the bride herself. There are instances in which the groom has provided the flowers for the bridesmaids, but this is the exception rather than the rule. Social conventions, like most arbitrary rules, are as easily broken as observed, according to the exigencies of the case, but for the wedding which is conducted "according to Hoyle," the bridegroom purchases only his bride's bouquet.

TO CARRY THE CROOK.

A subscriber asks for an illustration of the correct way for a bridesmaid to carry a shepherd's crook. But, unfortunately, none such is available. If some other reader can supply the picture The Review will do the rest.

By the way, what is the correct way to carry a shepherd's crook? Many a retailer no doubt has been asked the question, and the answers have been various. One retailer was noted, one day, bringing a staff basket from the

FROST ON SHOW WINDOWS.

The Review receives frequent requests for information how to prevent steam and frost from forming on the glass in store windows. If any reader knows some simple, practical means that can be employed by florists, please send it in for publication.

THE ART NOUVEAU.

The furniture and fixture men have gone clean daft on the "period" craze we cannot buy a bed to sleep in, much less fit up a store, without having them load us up with a lot of talk about Louis Seize, the Renaissance, and a lot of other "punctuation" stuff. We don't know what they are talking about, but the funny part of it is they usually get away with it and if we don't sleep we work in the surroundings of Louis XIV or the Colonial period.

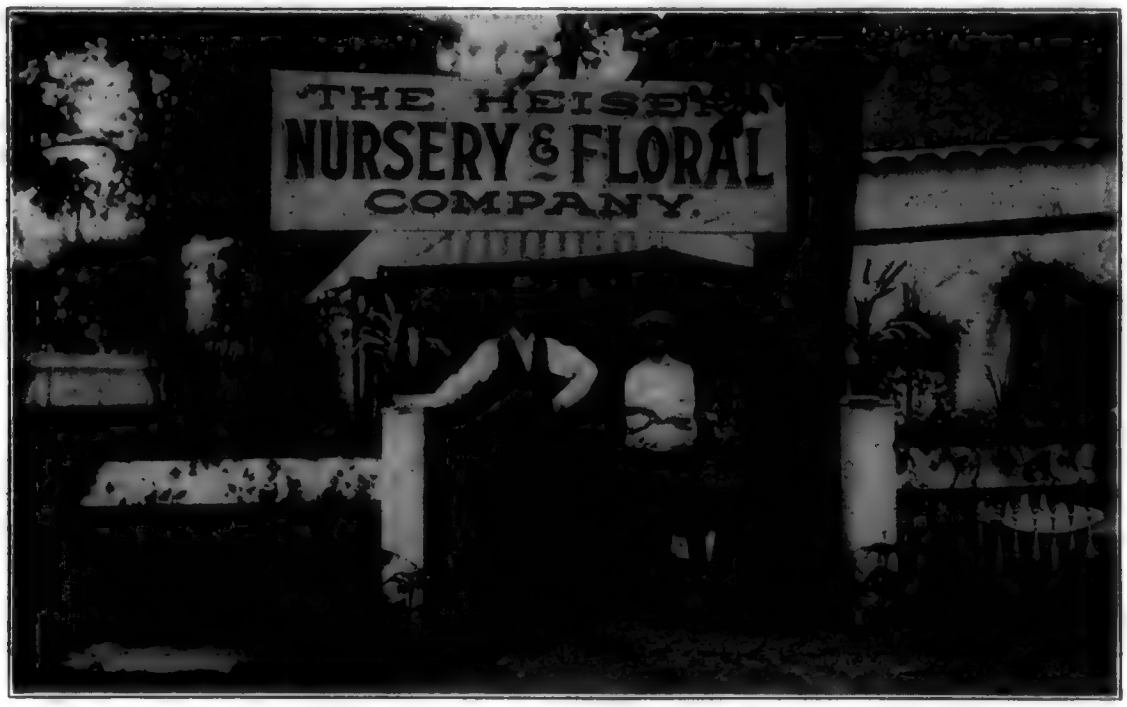
Odd how many Colonial Flower Shops have bloomed the last year or two—it's close to one a week—and most of them are right neat stores, too. Take the one shown in the accompanying illustration—it's Colonial in name and colonial in style, and it certainly looks all right. Everything is in keeping, from the corner posts on the icebox to the hand made rag rugs on the floor. Anybody entering such a store would expect to pay for art as well as flowers.

This Colonial Flower Shop was opened October 10, at the corner of Delaware avenue and Chippewa street, in Buffalo, N. Y. The proprietors are A. Kowaski and Miss Bellanca, which makes the tout ensemble sound like a triple alliance.

KNOBLE PREDICTS A BOOM.

The Cleveland Press is publishing a series of statements regarding business conditions and prospects by the retail merchants of the city. Second in the series was one from H. P. Knoble, retail florist. "High Pressure" Knoble they translate the initials in Cleveland. This is it:

"I predict that business conditions in 1915 will be better than ever before, for many reasons. On the rise of the tide of prosperity every business institution has a tendency to overproduce or overpurchase, until the surplus accumulation is so great that a continuation would ultimately spell utter ruin or bankruptcy. When a halt is called, we have what is generally known as hard times or business depressions. These lasting over a period sufficiently long to consume the surplus created, at the ebb of the period of depression business men realize that it is time to wake up, resume activities and be prepared for the orders that are bound to come, from the mere fact that everything has been consumed during this stage of inactivity.



"Adding to the normal demand, which will come from every source, there will be the influx of trade from the European countries, now busily engaged in deadly warfare. It must also be taken into consideration that many things heretofore imported will, on account of the present law of necessity, be manufactured in this country. These items collectively would represent an enormous industry individually.

"Citing only these two reasons, I presume to predict that, starting immediately, this country will enter upon an era of prosperity such as it has never known before. I cannot help but feel that these periods of depression and prosperity follow each other naturally, just as night follows day, rest follows labor, vegetation becomes dormant in winter and active in summer.

"Those who will take advantage of the many opportunities offered through the great medium, publicity, will surely reap their just reward."

HEISER OF HAMILTON.

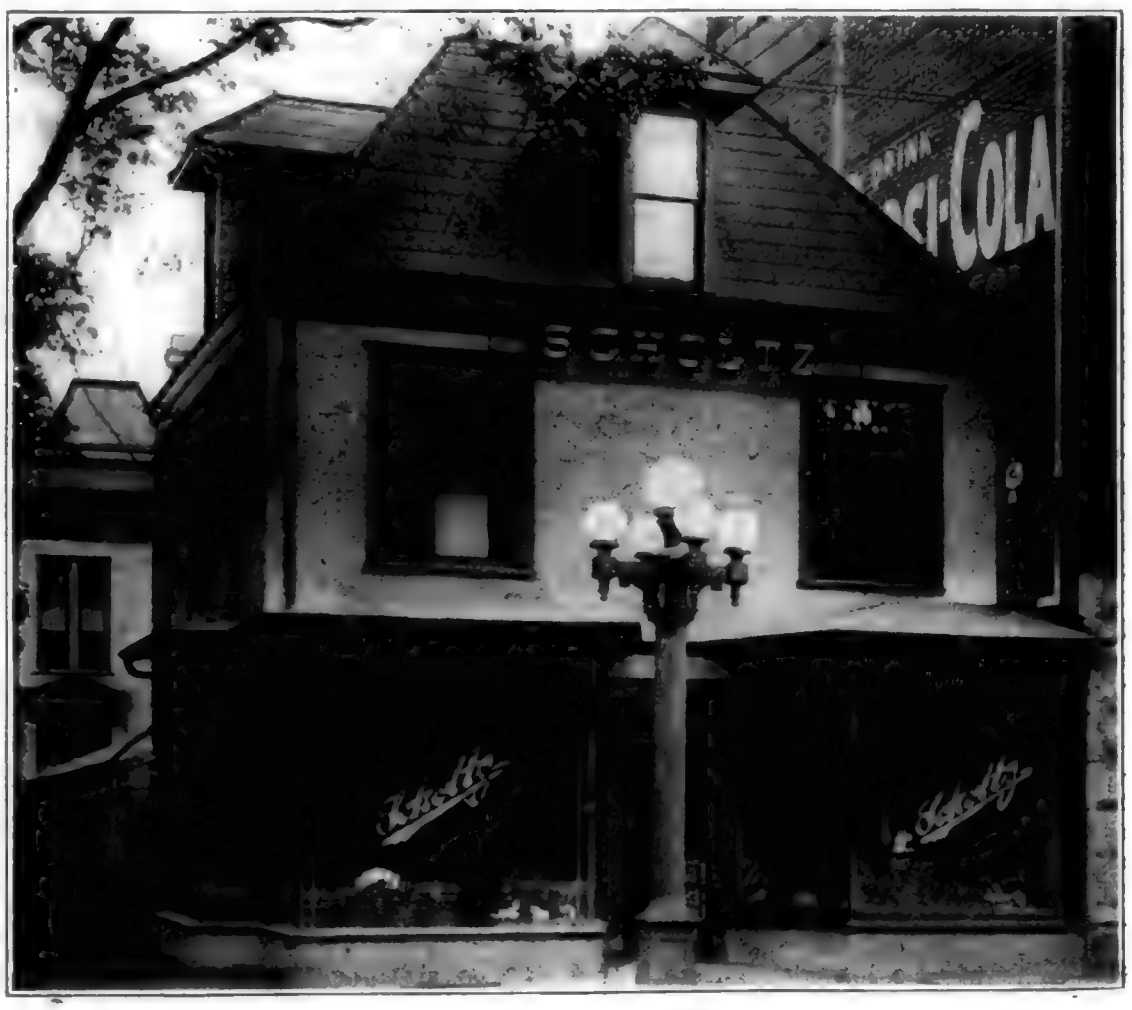
The accompanying illustration shows the display made at this year's Butler county fair, Hamilton, O., by the Heiser Nursery & Floral Co. It was this concern's first attempt at an exhibition, as the business was taken over only a year ago on the retirement of Theo. Bock, now deceased, long in the business at Hamilton. The display consisted mostly of potted plants, hanging baskets, porch boxes and bulbs for autumn planting. In bulbs something of a specialty has been made of daffodils, last season 30,000 being flowered for wholesale markets. Peony roots have been shipped in considerable quantity this month as a result of a classified advertisement in The Review. Three houses of Primula malacoides, about 10,000 plants, now are in preparation. The illustration shows Karl W. Heiser, head of the concern, and his son, 13 years old, who hopes soon to become his father's right-hand man.

PLANTING HARDY PERENNIALS.

Advantages of Fall Planting.

The month of November is an excellent time to transplant many hardy perennials. The ground in which these are to be planted should always be liberally manured and deeply plowed or spaded in advance. There are some perennials which should not be planted in the fall. These include varieties of more or less doubtful hardiness in the colder states, such as pompon chrysanthemums, kniphofias, Anemone Japonica, incarvilleas, Helianthus multiflorus plenus, Pyrethrum hybridum, Lobelia cardinalis and a few others, but phloxes of all kinds, delphiniums, hemerocallis, veronicas, physostegias, irises, peonies, aquilegias and many other varieties do vastly better if fall planted. Irises and peonies, of course, do better if planted in September, but stock planted now will be found much superior to that left over until spring.

There is a continuous growth in the hardy perennial industry. People are appreciating them more everywhere, and every wide-awake grower should be prepared to cater to this taste. It is a great advantage to do as much as possible of this work now, rather than defer everything until spring, when work of all kinds almost overwhelms us. Recommend fall planting for this kind of stock; the soil is in better condition than in the spring and, if the stock has to be bought, nurserymen can fill orders much more promptly now than later.



Perennials for Cutting.

Many florists are looking for a boiled down selection of hardy perennials that are useful for cutting. For the benefit of such florists this list is appended: Anemone Japonica alba, hardy asters, astilbes, campanulas, Achillea Ptarmica Perry's White, aquilegias, aconitums, boltonias, irises in all varieties, delphiniums, dictamnus, Lupinus polyphyllus; Clematis recta, single and double; Gypsophila paniculata, single and double; Chrysanthemum maximum or Shasta daisies, pompon chrysanthemums, Convallaria majalis, digitalis or foxglove, eupatoriums, Euphorbia corollata, Galium boreale, heleniums, helianthus, rudbeckias, kniphofias, phloxes, veronicas, thalictrums, sweet williams, spiræas, statices, Stokesia cyanea, peonies, pentstemons, Physostegia Virginica, lychnis, Lysimachia clethroides, Lathyrus latifolius White Pearl, coreopsis and pyrethrums.

The following among newer introductions will be found valuable: Thalictrum dipterocarpum; Chrysanthemum Autumn Glory, Rosy Gem and the newer forms of maximum; Clematis recta flore pleno, Gypsophila paniculata flore pleno, Phlox Arendsi, Geum coccineum Mrs. Bradshaw, Lupinus pollyphyllus Moerheimi; Astilbe, Arendsi hybrids, Davidii and grandis; Delphinium King of Delphiniums, Belladonna semiplena and Rev. E. Lascelles; heuchera hybrids; Phlox Elizabeth Campbell, Grappenkonigin, Frau A. Buchner and G. A. Strohlein; Kniphofia Brilliant and John Benary; Aster Feltham Blue, Peter's White, St. Egwin and Beauty of Colwall, and Iris interregna.

For Carpeting or Bordering.

For carpeting or bordering, these varieties will be found excellent: Viola cornuta alba and V. cornuta purpurea, which bloom from May to November; Dianthus cæsius or Cheddar Pink, Napoleon III, deltoides or Maiden Pink, and diadematus or Diadem Pink; Campanula Carpatica, blue and white; Armeria Laucheana, or Sea Pink; Ajuga reptans and A. reptans variegata; Phlox subulata, divaricata and amœna; Linum perenne; Iberis sempervirens or hardy candytuft; Funkia undulata variegata and F. aurea marginata; Alyssum saxatile compactum and Aster alpinus.

Store of Scholtz the Florist, Inc., at Charlotte, N. C.

Of Doubtful Hardiness.

The following perennials will be found of doubtful hardiness in the colder states and it is better to lift them and store them over winter in a cold cellar or frame: Helianthus multiflorus plenus, incarvilleas, rehmannias, kniphofias, Anemone Japonica, lavandulas, alstrœmerias, unless deeply planted on a warm slope; Campanula Medium and pyramidalis; Digitalis purpurea, better if carried over in coldframes unless the snowfall is considerable; damp rather than cold often kills them; montbretias; myosotis, always better treated as a biennial, and some of the primulas.

All perennials should be mulched, but not until the ground freezes. Plants naturally a little tender require a thicker coating than the more hardy ones, but all should be covered. Newly planted stock needs it most particularly. Leaves are the best covering. Next to these come meadow hay and straw. Light, strawy manure is also good. Decayed manure in itself answers well for any hardy and well established plants.

GARDENERS' CONVENTION.

The committee on arrangements of the convention of the National Association of Gardeners reports that the annual banquet of the association will be held in Horticultural hall, Philadelphia, Wednesday evening, December 9, following the annual meeting in the afternoon. Ladies and all friends of the members will be welcome at the banquet. Those intending to attend will please advise David Rust, Horticultural hall, Philadelphia, Pa., the number of tickets they desire to have reserved. All reservations must be made in advance of the dinner.

The committee also invites exhibits of novelties, specimen plants and cut flowers from both private and commercial growers. The association's certificate of merit will be awarded to meritorious exhibits of the newer varieties. Exhibits can be sent, express prepaid, to the National Association of Gardeners, care of David Rust, Horticultural hall, Broad and Locust streets, Philadelphia, to arrive Wednesday morning, December 9. M. C. Ebel, Sec'y.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

The executive committee of the American Rose Society held a meeting November 18, at the office of Traendly & Schenck, in New York. Treasurer May reported that the permanent investment of $3,000 for three guarantee mortgage certificates would be due January 15 and asked for information in regard to reinvestment. On motion of the secretary, it was directed that the money be reinvested in guaranteed mortgage certificates, the interest thereon being five per cent. This security is legal New York savings bank investment.

The matter of fixing the time and place for the spring show was carefully gone over and the various conditions of expense, etc., were taken into consideration. Letters were received from Baltimore and Chicago, bearing on the matter. President Pierson had visited Chicago and had a conference with some of the leading florists. It was moved that action be deferred until later. The matter of the rose garden committees as authorized at the meeting held in Boston was taken up, but action was deferred until next meeting.

Adjournment was to the second Monday in December.

THE MEN YOU MEET

HERMAN JUNGE.

DID you ever see a jollier looking German? Perhaps, but not many such, for Herman Junge is bubbling over with perennial good humor. He is the friend of every florist in Indianapolis, and of most of those in Indiana, while those from still greater distance who have occasion to visit the Hoosier capital always go away with pleasant recollections of Junge and his ever-present smile—you see it didn't even come off when he faced the camera, the most sobering influence known to modernity. Mr. Junge's partner in affairs commercial is a serious-minded gentleman named Sonnenschmidt. So, for business purposes, they call themselves the Smith & Young Co.

AMERICAN FLAG OF TULIPS.

I have a bed, 7x18 feet, in which I thought of having an American flag of tulips if it were possible. Can you tell me the names and number of the bulbs of each color needed for such a bed?

F. C. A.

For the six white stripes use White Hawk or White Pottebakker. These are not quite as fine varieties as White Joost van Vondel, but are less expensive. For the seven red stripes I would suggest scarlet Pottebakker. It is less expensive than either Belle Alliance or Vermilion Brilliant. For the blue ground Wouwerman would fill the bill the best. It is the nearest to blue we have among the early bedding tulips. For the stars use the same white as for the stripes. To properly plant a bed of the size mentioned you should use 600 white, 500 scarlet and 200 of Wouwerman. You will have to plant the bulbs to form the blue ground and stars closer than those which will make the stripes, in order to have the bed effective. C. W.

GOOD OUTDOOR SWEET PEAS.

Will you kindly state what are the best varieties of Spencer sweet peas for outdoor growing? I should like to sow them in November. Please name about four of the earliest sorts for commercial use. M. L. U. H.

You will find the following Spencer sweet peas fine for outdoor culture: White—Nora Unwin and Moneymaker; orange pink—Helen Lewis; cream pink—Mrs. Hugh Dickson; pink—Countess Spencer or Hercules; lavender—Frank Dolby or Florence Nightingale; mauve—Asta Ohn; rose—John Ingman. Select whichever colors you need from the foregoing. Usually pure white, pink and lavender are the best selling colors. C. W.

THE GLADIOLUS

GLADIOLI UNDER GLASS.

Will you please tell me how deep gladiolus bulbs should be planted for best results? Also, please tell me the best way to support the flower stalks. I refer, of course, to growing such varieties as America, etc., under glass.

G. R. N.

Plant the tubers four to five inches deep. If they are planted at this depth, the flower stalks will need no supports. In growing them outdoors, if you will plant them six inches deep, supports will not be needed. If you plant more shallow, the stems will be bent and blown over. C. W.

IRRIGATING GLADIOLUS FIELDS.

How seven acres of gladiolus fields, comprised in the Gardens of Avon, at Avon, Ia., a little station eight miles southeast of Des Moines, are irrigated by the overhead pipe system formed the subject of an article by W. J. Dennis in the November issue of Successful Farming. This establishment, as well as its owner, Dr. William Carpenter, of Des Moines, is well known to the trade. It is estimated that a million and a half bulbs will have been propagated and 600,000 blooms cut from the gardens by the end of this season.

The system of irrigation used consists of parallel lines of pipe mounted on posts six feet high. At intervals of three feet small nozzles are attached and the end of each pipe connects with a large feed pipe. Near the connection on each line a special union is provided, so that any one or any number of pipes can be used independently of the others, and so that the nozzles can be elevated to the angle desired, depending on the velocity of the wind. Water is supplied from points near by sunk twenty-six feet in the ground. The cost of operating the system for the seven acres is $2 per day.

TRACY BULB STOCK BURNED.

Fire broke out early Monday morning, November 23, in the barn of B. Hammond Tracy, the well known gladiolus specialist, of Wenham, Mass. After destroying the barn and contents, including four horses, several cows, wagons, harnesses, etc., the fire spread to the bulb houses, one of which had been completed only this fall. These, with contents, were completely destroyed. Mr. Tracy had over twenty-five acres of gladioli and has thus lost his entire stock, including all he had of many valuable seedlings, to say nothing of other new and choice varieties. The loss is difficult to estimate, but is many thousands of dollars. The sympathy of a host of friends goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Tracy in their loss, but all are sure they will soon make good again.

Many of the lady visitors to the Boston convention will remember their visit to the Wenham gladiolus fields, the outing in question being in charge of Mr. Tracy. His exhibits were to be found at most of the recent conventions and national shows. W. N. C.

REGISTRATION OF GLADIOLI.

Public notice is hereby given that the application of Munsell & Harvey, Ashtabula, O., for the registration of Hazel Harvey, and of B. Hammond Tracy, Wenham, Mass., for the variety, Maize, is approved by the committee on nomenclature of the American Gladiolus Society.

Hazel Harvey—Bloom medium large; tube curved, stout, long. Segments unequal, connivent; the upper horizontal and broad, the lower reflexed and narrower. Stamen filaments reddish. Anthers violet. Color carmine-red; throat amber-white, penciled carmine-purple. A good, compact bloom of good, clear color and good substance. Mid-season to medium late. Spike tall, erect and a free bloomer on both main stem and branches. A vigorous grower and well furnished with broad leaves. Corms medium large; "increases by division." Cormels prolific.

Maize—Bloom medium size; tube curved, stout, short. Segments nearly equal, connivent; upper horizontal, the lower nearly straight. Stamen filaments white. Anthers lavender. Color amber-yellow, with a well-defined, dull crimson blotch on the lower lip. Season early to mid-season. Spike medium tall, very erect and branched. Growth vigorous, with broad foliage. Corms medium size. Cormels large and prolific. This variety was discovered by Umpleby and introduced by Tracy.

A. C. Beal, Chairman.

NOTES OF THE AUTUMN SHOWS

QUALITY THE KEYNOTE OF THE SHOWS THIS YEAR

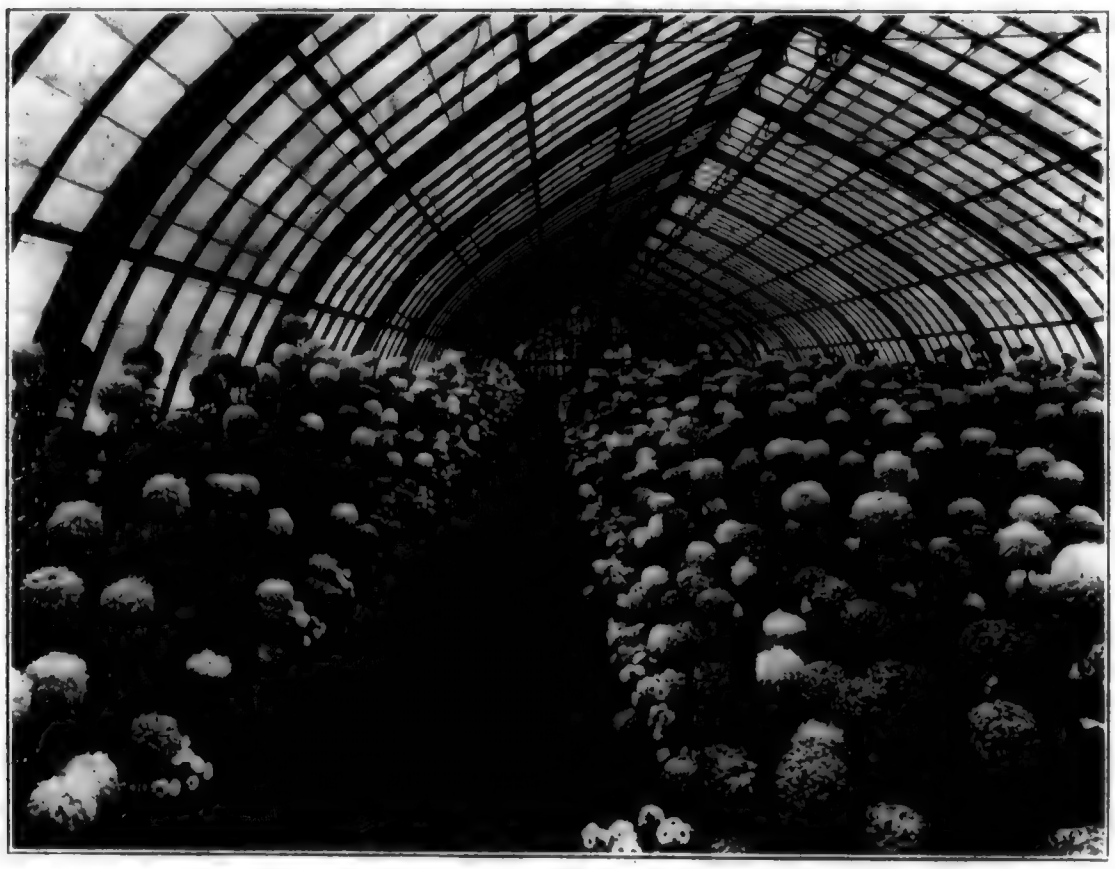
BALTIMORE.

Horticultural Society Show.

The annual exhibition of the Maryland Horticultural Society, held in the Fifth Regiment Armory November 17 to 21, was the largest and most successful ever held by this organization. The committee in charge was composed of: William Feast, chairman; Robt. Halliday, Geo. Morrison, T. H. Moss, J. W. Boone and Robt. L. Graham. They were well supported by the local trade and deserved great credit for the admirable arrangement of the exhibits and the show generally.

The main feature of the show was the enormous vase of mums which stood in the center of the 120-foot circle given over entirely to flowers and plants. It was designed and erected by Wm. Feast, and stood on a base thirty inches high. The vase itself was ten and a half feet high and contained nearly 350 mums, all of which were donated by members of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Baltimore. It was known as the club vase. Surrounding the vase at its base was a star-shaped bed of crotons arranged by the Baltimore park board.

All of the plant and cut flower exhibits were well arranged. Some fine specimen chrysanthemum plants were shown by Mack Richmond, gardener for Mrs. W. B. Cochran, who received eleven firsts out of twelve entries in miscellaneous classes. Jas. Hamilton was awarded a cultural certificate of merit for his group of standard mum plants.



In the cut mum classes, Chas. Siegwart's vase of twenty Wm. Turner was easily the superior of any among the commercial growers' entries. Gustave Lotze and M. J. Hannigan also had some good blooms on exhibition. In the private gardeners' classes, Geo. Morrison, gardener for Mrs. Henry Bowton Jacobs, took everything in sight.

The roses were shown on the second day of the show, and among them the vase of twenty-five double White Killarney shown by Stevenson Bros. was fine. A light pink sport of this variety was also shown by them. Lehr Bros. had a vase of Thora, the light pink sport of Maryland, on the table and it was much admired. In the red class, John McCormick carried off the blue ribbon with twenty-five blooms of Francis Scott Key against the Prince d'Arenberg of Stevenson Bros. The latter were awarded a cultural certificate of merit for a vase of Cecile Brunner.

The carnation exhibit on Thursday brought out some good competition. Chas. Siegwart carried off the honors, getting three firsts out of three entries. His new seedling, Mrs. Chas. Siegwart, showed up well against Enchantress, its parent, and was an easy winner in its class.

The exhibits of palms and ferns and foliage plants were well staged and some good effects were produced. Samuel Feast & Sons exhibited a bed of palms, colored dracænas and spiræas; the last-named attracted much attention. In opposition to this bed, a circle of ferns and single stem mums by Harry Ekas was much admired. The specimen ferns shown by Mack Richmond were well grown and deserved all the awards they received.

E. A. Seidewitz won first prize in all the design work classes. R. L. Graham had two tables decorated with Mrs. Aaron Ward and Killarney roses and also some well arranged miniature baskets, not for competition, which received their well deserved share of admiration. Harry J. Quick had over 110 different varieties of pompon mums in his collection, which easily won the blue ribbon in this class.

Prize-winners in addition to those noted above were as follows: Ed. Hermann, cyclamens; Henry Fischer, begonias, mums and ferns; W. J. Halliday, ferns; I. H. Moss, palms, evergreens, window boxes, cut mums and carnations; F. C. Bauer, palms, evergreens, window boxes, bush mums and snapdragons; J. G. Harrison & Sons, Berlin, evergreens; R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, pompons, and design of mums and foliage; J. M. Rider, carnations; M. Thau & Co., carnations and sweet peas; F. G. Burger and Mrs. Mary Johnston, retailers' work.

A number of out-of-town exhibits were received. A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, Conn., sent down a collection of single stem mums, pompons and roses. Wallace Pierson came down with the exhibit, but decamped early in the week and left R. T. Beers in charge. In the rose exhibit Francis Scott Key, Hadley and Ophelia were shown to advantage. In the mum exhibit Nakota, a massive incurved yellow in various shades, was much admired. Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., sent a box of seedling varieties, but they arrived in poor shape and could not be staged. J. Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., had an exhibit of camellias, Smithii ferns, Begonia Lorraine and B. Cincinnati, cyclamens and a brilliantly colored unnamed azalea of the Eggenbrecht color and habits.

There were a large number of out-of-town visitors during the week. Some of those seen were: S. S. Pennock and T. J. Meehan, of Philadelphia; J. H. Shaffer and Geo. H. Cooke, of Washington; Wallace Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn.; F. J. Le Clair, in charge of the J. Roehrs Co. booth, and a trade visitor in the interest of his firm.

The annual election of officers of the society was held Thursday, November 19, and resulted as follows: President, Col. A. W. Sisk, vice R. L. Graham; vice-president, I. H. Moss; secretary-treasurer, Prof. T. B. Symons; vice-president for Baltimore county, William Feast; vice-president for Baltimore city, J. W. Boone. A resolution of thanks was voted, prepared and presented to Wm. Feast, in recognition of his efforts on the show committee. W. F. E.

PHIPPS CONSERVATORY SHOW.

The accompanying illustrations show the exhibition of chrysanthemums which is the annual feature at Phipps conservatory, Schenley park, Pittsburgh, where John W. Jones, former president of the Pittsburgh Florists' and Gardeners' Club, is foreman. Pittsburgh has never had a big trade show, but that one no doubt would succeed in Pittsburgh, and be of much value to the florists, is indicated by the thousands upon thousands of people who visit Phipps conservatory each November when the chrysanthemum show is announced.

WINTER CARE OF CANNAS.

Will you give me some information as to how cannas should be stored in winter and when they should be started in the greenhouse for spring? Are they also grown from seed? If so, when should it be planted? Would a temperature the same as that required by gladiolus bulbs be about right?

M. R. C.

Canna roots can be stored on shelves in a dry, frost-proof cellar. A cellar which will keep gladioli and potatoes satisfactorily will also answer for cannas. They can also be kept under the benches of a greenhouse, where drip will not strike them. They should have boards placed below them and some dry soil about them. Drip will cause rot, or, if the temperature is high, will cause the plants to start into growth. A dry atmosphere suits them best.

Tubers should be divided in spring. Cut single-eye sets and lay them on a bench where they can get a nice bottom heat. Place some sphagnum moss below them and spray moderately until growth starts; then place singly in 3½-inch or 4-inch pots. The end of March will be sufficiently early to start your cannas.

Cannas are easily raised from seed. Soak in water some hours before sowing, as the integuments of the seed are extremely hard. Place the pots or pans in a brisk bottom heat and pot off singly when the seedlings are of sufficient size. Start the seeds any time in January or February. C. W.

Reading, Pa.—John Stanley Giles, son of John H. Giles, was married November 24 to Miss Anna Marguerite Kurtz, at the home of the bride's mother. The bridegroom is associated with his father in business at 220 South Seventeenth street. The couple will be at home in their new residence on Klein avenue after January 1, 1915.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Antirrhinums.

Antirrhinums make an excellent crop with which to follow your crops of chrysanthemums. Before planting them, however, be sure to give the beds a good coating of well decayed manure. If this is not available, a liberal dressing of pulverized sheep manure will answer quite well, with some fine bone added. Mix this thoroughly before planting. The plants can be set as closely as eight inches apart each way, but they will give much better results if given 10x12 inches. Unless there is a call for small spikes, it is better to rub off some of the surplus shoots, but many country florists can make profitable use of the small spikes for design work. Do not pinch back any shoots while they are soft, or they will break weakly. Always allow the flowers to open; then pinch back or cut back tolerably hard. Give the plants a night temperature of 45 to 48 degrees and air abundantly. Also, remember that they do not stand heavy fumigation. Hydrocyanic acid gas, in particular, injures the ends of the shoots quickly.

Paper Whites and Romans.

Paper Whites are easily forced and can easily be had in bloom at any time from now onward. It is better not to force them too hard, as the flowers then have more substance. Roman hyacinths should not be started until they have growths a couple of inches long. Then give them a warm, moist house, moving them into cooler quarters as the flowers open. As these two bulbous plants are less hardy than the Dutch bulbs, it is better, in case they are outdoors, to move them to a cold cellar or frame before the weather becomes too severe.

Poinsettias.

The bracts on poinsettias are now showing prominently. Some are of considerable size and will be well expanded for Thanksgiving, an early date for those flowers, and due in large measure to the unusually warm fall we have experienced. Now is the time when poinsettias need and must have a good heat. Let it be 60 to 65 degrees at night; then the bracts will open out larger than in a cooler house and, of course, in half the time. There is also less likelihood of loss of foliage occurring. Water carefully. A great part of the value of a poinsettia is lost if it has meager foliage, and those who can hold dark green leaves to near the surfaces of the pots are good growers.

Feed once in four or five days. Cow manure liquid, with some soot added, is excellent. Let the doses be moderate, however, or yellow leaves will result. Discontinue all feeding as the central portion of the bracts expands, and when they are well open gradually lower the temperature to 55 degrees at night. This will give the flowers better keeping qualities. Plants taken from a high to a low temperature are bound to wilt and lose leaves badly. Even temperature at night, careful watering and moderate feeding are main essentials to successful poinsettia culture.

Cyclamens.

The Christmas cyclamens will now need a fairly warm house; 55 degrees at night and a shelf well up to the light will be all right. More heat than this is not desirable, as it will give the plants a drawn appearance. Aim to get as many reds and salmons in flower as possible, as these are the popular holiday colors. Keep the whites and light pinks back until later in the winter. Good cyclamens always sell until Easter, sometimes even later. Such plants, of course, must be grown cool.

How are the young plants for next season progressing? If sown in August, they should now be of sufficient size to go into flats. Let them have a fairly warm house—55 to 58 degrees at night is about right—and keep close to the glass. When it comes to shifting the plants from flats, two plans are open—to pot into 3-inch or 3½-inch pots and shift into larger sizes as required, or place directly in the flowering pots from the flats. The latter plan is not much adopted and may be viewed with suspicion by many growers, but, provided the plants are given more careful watering, they will make even better plants than those potted along in the regulation way. Deep pans, usually called half pots, are better for cyclamens than ordinary pots.

Ericas.

Some plants of Erica melanthera, which were pot-grown through the summer instead of being planted out, are now nicely in flower and will prove serviceable at Thanksgiving. Such as are needed for Christmas should be placed in moderate heat. A temperature of 45 to 48 degrees at night will not start the plants growing as a higher temperature would, and yet will open up the flowers. The present is a good time to propagate this or any other erica. Short cuttings rubbed off with a heel and inserted in a bench suitable for carnations or chrysanthemums will do well. They take some time to root, but there is no trouble at all in propagating such sorts as melanthera, Mediterranea, Caffra densa, gracilis and hyemalis.

TO STRENGTHEN THE STEMS.

Can you tell me what to do with my carnations to stiffen the stems? The plants are quite healthy and are sending forth fine blossoms, but the stems are weak. I shall appreciate it if you can suggest a remedy. M. B. R.

You do not give enough data on which to formulate any definite opinion. The weak stems on your carnations may be due to one of the two causes here described. You will know which one is to blame or whether either one suits your case.

Your soil may be too light and too deficient in potash to produce strong stems. In that case, one or two light dressings of wood ashes or hydrated lime will correct the trouble. Use about a 3-inch potful of either to each row of plants across a 5-foot bench. Then again, you may have been running your carnation house too warm during the mild fall weather. Some growers are tempted to close down the ventilators on a mild night, to hold the heat in, and try to get through without firing whenever possible. That is a great mistake. Before the middle of November there are few nights, if any, on which the ventilators should be closed down tightly. It is much better for the carnations, and money well spent, to run steam in one or two pipes in each house and an inch or two of ventilation at the ridge. That sounds like extravagance to some, but it is real economy in that it produces quality and saves trouble. It helps especially to produce strong stems. A. F. J. B.

THE COMMON CARNATION RUST.

I am sending you under separate cover a carnation plant, the leaves of which are covered with a downy, fungus-like growth. The plant really died of stem-rot, but I should like to know what that is on the leaves. The downy part is shed off in handling the plant, but the effect of it is left on the leaves, in the form of scars or rough places. The color of the downy part is brown or maroon. H. F. K.

The trouble you complain of is the common carnation rust. The brown, powdery looking substance ejected from those eruptions contains the spores by which the disease is propagated. The cause is improper cultural conditions, such as a humid, stuffy atmosphere, too much syringing, too little ventilation, etc. The carnation loves a cool, bracing atmosphere, with little water on the foliage, and when such a condition is maintained, rust will seldom make its appearance. Pick off the diseased leaves. Paint a streak on one of the steam pipes with a mixture of half sulphur and half lime, made into a thick paint by adding water. Then follow the suggestions already given in regard to ventilating, etc. A. F. J. B.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS.

Chas. H. Kennerly, the seedsman of Palatka, Fla., has returned from Melbourne, Fla., whither he went to look over an estate of 4,000 acres owned by a New Yorker, and to give advice on planting.

At the annual chrysanthemum show at Lake City, Fla., November 4 and 5, there were ninety-two entries and twenty-three prizes. Miss Lilian Beyer was among the winners, receiving a prize in gold.

Schulze & Obermaier, Orange Park, Fla., carry one of the largest and most varied stocks of plants suitable to this climate, and report good sales.

Chas. A. Moss, Spartanburg, S. C., says it hurts to return good money, as he was obliged to do when his ad in The Review brought orders that more than cleaned out the stock. He turned down remittances from seven states. He is preparing some fine primulas and other stock for holiday sales and expects that they will all go. Chrysanthemums and roses are grown in limited numbers. Carnations are grown largely and they are good. Ernest Preston, the grower, tells me Enchantress is subject to stem-rot and they look for relief in Philadelphia. Matchless is expected to supersede other whites now being grown. The whole range has been overhauled this season. A new propagating house, 200 feet long, is being added, and plans have been made for a storage cellar and an office, 25x 42, which will give an imposing appearance to the entrance.

F. C. Woods, of the Cumberland Seed Co., Nashville, a veteran in the business, is of the opinion that wheat growing in the southern states will not be a big success, owing to the lack of nitrogen in the soil and the extreme heat.

McKay, Reece & Co., Nashville, will move January 1 to a more commodious store, at 148 Second avenue, north, where they will have every facility for carrying on their extensive seed business.

Chas. L. Baum, Knoxville, Tenn., expresses himself well pleased with the returns from his ad in The Review. Orders came from all parts of the country and cleaned up the stock. He is working up another block to dispose of through the same channel. Building operations are almost done for the season. A concrete boiler shed and garage has been added. The leading chrysanthemums are Chieftain, Ramapo, Wm. Turner, Chas. Razer and a yellow sport of Razer named Lena Baum. Philadelphia is in the lead in carnations, making vigorous growth and full of flower. Store business is active, many funerals and weddings calling for a variety of stock. Karl P. Baum looks for their usual busy Thanksgiving, with plenty of stock to fill all orders.

Chas. W. Crouch and wife expect to leave Knoxville to spend the winter in Florida. He has arranged for the operation of the establishment during their absence. The change and rest will benefit them both. They have been hard workers and successful.

Miss Marian Joy, Nashville, Tenn., was a prize-winner in the recent tomato contest, having received $108 from the sale of the product from one-tenth of an acre. The variety was Champion. Miss Joy is the daughter of Thomas Joy, and the third generation of Joy gardeners. W. M.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Trade has been fair since last writing, but not enough to brag about. The supply of stock for the last few weeks has been heavy, and it has been impossible to move it all. This week will see the mums pretty well cut out and with them out of the way it will no doubt be better all around.

Roses are coming in fine and it looks as though we would have good cuts of them later on. Carnations are more plentiful and next week they no doubt will be back to their standard, both in quality and demand. Beauties are fine, but the supply has not been quite as heavy as it was a few weeks ago. Sweet peas are fine and in fairly good supply. Valley has been a little scarce, with the demand light. Blooming plants are making their appearance.

Various Notes.

The Livingston Seed Co. reports several good days last week in the flower department.

The Munk Floral Co. has opened a branch store in the Brunson building.

The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. reports stock fine and that this week will about finish up the mums.

The Columbus Floral Co. reports plenty of stock, with business looking up a little. J. M.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

The Market.

The cold weather of last week was a record-breaker for November, the coldest in forty years. Business is not what it ought to be, but everybody can notice some improvement Thanksgiving is always a busy day and a number of weddings are slated. The football game between the Manual and High schools is an event that helps the local florists, and already a large number of orders are slated for chrysanthemums, yellow being the favorite for that day.

Various Notes.

F. Walker & Sons report that they are settled in their new quarters and that everything is ready for business. Mr. Walker has installed the new natural gas in his store and conservatory and likes it much better than the old system.

Robt. Miller, of the Kunzman Floral Co., says he is thankful for one thing this Thanksgiving, being glad he is alive after the series of misfortunes he has had in the way of sickness and accidents.

The local florists are congratulating Louis Kirch on his marriage to Miss Walker, which occurred November 18, at the home of the groom.

The next meeting of the Florists' Society will be December 2. R. J. S.

Reading, England.—Many in America will recall with pleasure meeting Leonard Sutton, the new mayor, when he visited the States in 1910 as one of a deputation to visit agricultural colleges. He is senior partner in the seed firm of Sutton & Sons.

Montaigne, Belgium.—When the German army passed through the Diest district a visit was paid to the greenhouses and nurseries of Michels Bros., one of the largest in Belgium, where 250 hands are employed. Considerable damage resulted, mostly from plundering, but the establishment still is in operation.

Nancy, France.—E. Lemoine, writing October 21, said: "The guns are roaring almost day and night, but thus far no Germans have penetrated to the nursery. Aviators have dropped bombs on the town, which is unfortified, and shells have whistled over our garden, but none fell there. Many near-by towns are in ruins."

Rotterdam, Holland.—Consignees in America will find that taking effect November 2 the Holland-America line has again advanced freight rates, the first advance being from thirty to fifty per cent. The latest rise is 50 cents per cbm. on goods of the first two classes, regular rate $3 per cbm.; $1 on goods beginning from class 3, regular rate $4 per cbm.; 5 to 10 cents per 100 pounds on weight rates. If payment is not made promptly on arrival of steamer further consignments to that addressee will be left on the dock.

Ghent, Belgium.—There has been much fighting within a few miles, but up to November 1 the nurseries here were safe. The fact that both Bruges and Ghent are full of German wounded may safeguard the trade interests to a certain extent.

Ollioules, France.—The great flower industry of the Riviera is prostrated by the war. Transportation to Paris, for the tons of flowers usually sent there in winter, can not be depended on and the market is poor for such stock as gets through in good shape.

Paris, France.—The Federation Nationale des Syndicats Horticoles de France suspended the publication of its organ, L'Horticole Francaise, on the approach of the German army, but will resume, says E. Turbat, secretary-general, "as soon as eventments will permit." Most of the trade publications on the continent have suspended.

Nancy, France.—V. Lemoine & Son had planned to bring out several new plants this year, but were prevented by the war, which has for months completely closed transportation, so that no sales or shipments have been possible since early August. Principal of the novelties, perhaps, is Begonia Nancy, winter-blooming, a seedling of B. Socotrana crossed with B. Baumannii. Lilac Mont Blanc, considered better than any older white variety; Philadelphus Girandole, double-flowered, and Hydrangea Eincelant, red flowered, also are awaiting the close of the war for distribution.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

The wintry weather which set in after the rainy Sunday, November 15, produced a brisk atmosphere in the market. After the moderate Indian summer weather, the temperature dropped to 24 degrees above zero. Then a snow storm and blizzard, November 19, brought the mercury down to 10 degrees above zero. Chrysanthemums and other flowers, which were arriving in such quantity as to flood the market, have been shortened up and the sales have increased, so that a fair proportion now exists between supply and demand. Although the chrysanthemums are past their flood tide, some good ones are arriving daily. The demand for these was increased substantially by the Purdue-Indiana football game at La Fayette, as great quantities of yellow mums were shipped to La Fayette for the Purdue rooters. Pompons are in shorter supply, but in good demand.

Roses are not nearly so plentiful, but are improving in quality, owing mainly to the cooler weather. Beauties are of good quality. Carnations are plentiful and have attained a good size, with long, stiff stems. Narcissi are in, as well as sweet peas and stevias. Snapdragons are larger and finer. Violets are scarce. The outlook for Thanksgiving is bright, on account of the prolonged cold spell and the abundance of stock in most lines. Had the cold spell delayed much longer, practically all the chrysanthemums would have been gone before the holiday. As it is, there are some fine varieties, such as Chadwick, Golden Wedding, Eaton and Bonnaffon, which will be on hand for the Thanksgiving business. Southern smilax is selling well, and orders are coming in for statice, ruscus and boxwood. Some fine potted single chrysanthemums were noted last week, as well as narcissus and cyclamen plants.

Various Notes.

The Flick Floral Co. furnished quantities of yellow chrysanthemums for the Purdue Alumni Association. The flowers were used for the decoration of the Purdue rooters at the football game.

Geo. W. Doswell & Son are featuring baskets of ruscus and boxwood in their show windows.

Some attractive pansy baskets and French baskets were noted in the Bradley Flower Shop last week.

B. Eschner, representing the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, was a visitor here last week. R. F.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Business conditions are steadily improving. Fine chrysanthemum blooms are arriving. There are many good varieties on the market, but the favorites are Bonnaffon, Patty, Eaton and Yellow Eaton, Chadwick and the Ivories. There is a good supply of orchids. American Beauties are fairly good, but do not arrive so heavily. Carnations at the time of writing are a little scarce in all colors. All kinds of roses are in good supply and are of fine quality.

There is plenty of valley on the market and it is fine. Violets are plentiful, but there does not appear to be any great demand for them. Sweet peas are coming in gradually. Paper Whites are not arriving fast. Pompons continue to arrive in good supply and are used extensively for decorations. Smilax, leucothoe leaves, ferns and galax are all quite plentiful. Boxwood has arrived. A large supply of good flowering plants is now on hand.

Various Notes.

Visitors last week were W. A. Stearns, of the Sefton Mfg. Co., Chicago, and a representative of the Climax Mfg. Co., Castorland, N. Y.

The chrysanthemum show at Convention hall November 20 and 21 was a great success. The entire show was loaned by Mrs. Wm. Kimball, who perhaps has the choicest collection for many miles around. Colin B. Ogston, head gardener, is to be highly congratulated on so excellent a display.

A pink window display was shown last week by the Rochester Floral Co. It comprised vases of pink mums and baskets of pink artemisias and roses, arranged artistically on the same shade of mats. Long streamers of ribbons were caught together at one point and added greatly to the effect.

John Dunbar received a carload of rare Chinese shrubs and plants, seeds of various kinds and plants of species of American hawthorn from Dr. Chas. Sargent, of the Arnold Arboretum, Boston, last week, and work has already commenced to get these planted in the various parks of the city.

F. Mossgraber recently finished building another greenhouse. Business has been far beyond his expectations. With the new house he hopes to come nearer meeting the demand for cut stock, having recently been obliged to purchase a good share of his stock elsewhere.

Paul Campus is doing a fairly brisk business with the aid of his brother James.

J. B. Keller Sons have been busy during the last week with wedding and funeral work. H. J. H.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

Last week seemed like old times, being in many ways the most normal week that we have had in a long time. The weather has been colder than normal; in fact, it broke all records for cold so early in November. However, there has been little damage from the frost. There was an abundance of social functions last week and the demand for flowers was the best for some time. There was also a heavy run in funeral work. This week brings the greatest flower-consuming function of the fall, the annual football game between Vanderbilt and Swanee Universities. During the last two or three seasons the florists have managed to sell the crowds mums in the college colors instead of the usual banners that we see at such games, and they are expecting to be able to clean up most of the stock they have on hand this season.

There has been a surplus of mums of all kinds here this fall, and other stock has suffered in sympathy. It is to be hoped there will be a cutting down in the quantity next year, as less stock well handled will bring more money. Violets and peas are still scarce, only one firm having any of either as yet. They are selling well and some of the mum space might have been more profitably used in this way.

Various Notes.

At McIntyre's place last week the writer saw the best lot of Richmond roses that have been seen here in a long time. They were not only large and perfect in color and form, but many of them were on 4-foot stems. The show room is kept full of pot mums at present.

Hillcrest School Farm has been putting wood ashes about all the trees in the orchard, using about a gallon right around the trunk. They say that the ashes are not only an excellent fertilizer for the trees, but that if unleached when put on, they will prevent borers in the trees. They also claim that ashes induce early fruiting in young orchards.

The Joy Floral Co. reports the best week of the season. They have an abundant cut of everything and are cleaning up pretty well. They are making better use of their windows this season than ever before. The window displays are worth walking a block to see any day and the crowd seems to be aware of this.

Geny Bros. have a house of extra good mums that they have been running cold during the last two weeks, so as to hold them back for Thanksgiving. They say that everything indicates as good business this Thanksgiving as there was last year.

Frank Cornell was busy last week getting a lot of pans of plants made up for his street wagons. He is using poinsettias for the center and asparagus around them. He says that they make excellent sellers for the holidays.

Haury & Sons have had their wagon on the street every day till it became too cold to sell from a wagon. They continue to have an excellent display in the store. F. B.

OBITUARY

D. Y. Mellis.

David Y. Mellis, 3421 Snyder avenue, Flatbush, N. Y., died from neuralgia of the heart, Friday, November 20, at the age of 60 years, his wife and three daughters surviving him. Funeral services were held at his late residence Tuesday evening, the house being literally filled with floral evidences of the universal esteem in which he was held by a multitude of friends.

Mr. Mellis had been ill a month, but was considered out of danger and recovering when the end came suddenly. His mother's death last summer at the age of 93 was a shock from which he never fully recovered. A short time ago he had visited her at the old home in Scotland.

Mr. Mellis was president of the Greater New York Florists' Association of Brooklyn and a member of several fraternal societies. He had been in the florists' business in Brooklyn for over a quarter of a century, his establishment occupying two blocks in Flatbush. He did an immense cemetery trade, his retail store being situated close to Holy Cross cemetery. Mrs. Mellis and his daughters will continue the business. Mr. Mellis was a man of splendid character and delightful personality, devoted to his family, enjoying legitimate sport with the zest of youth, and possessed of great physical strength and energy. His sudden passing is greatly regretted by all who knew him.

Andrew Glorius.

Andrew Glorius, aged 96, associated for many years with his brother, the late George Glorius, who was one of the pioneer florists of Washington, D. C., died last week at his home in Silver Springs, Md., near the District line. Mr. Glorius was a native of Germany and came to Washington before the Civil war.

Thomas G. Ward.

Thomas G. Ward, aged 81, a native of Somerset county, Md., a resident of Washington, D. C., for more than sixty-five years, and for a number of years florist at the White House, died at Washington last week. He had been ill four months and leaves a widow and several children.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

The weather is brisk and cold. We had our first snow storm November 18. Business is good with most florists, for there has been much wedding and funeral work, as well as some for receptions, etc. Chrysanthemums are being held back for Thanksgiving, so that there are few choice blooms on the market. Eaton and Chadwick are the best varieties in white and yellow. Golden Wedding is also good. Maude Dean is at its best. Red and bronze mums are not much in demand, although in pompons red, bronze, copper and burnt orange colors are favorites, together with the various shades of yellow. Roses are excellent. Carnations are improving in size and color. Mignonette, snapdragon, stevia and sweet peas are coming into the market in small quantities. Primroses, cyclamens, begonias and chrysanthemum plants are selling well at present.

Various Notes.

Jacob B. Wiese reports business good. He has a fine line of chrysanthemums, Lorraine begonias, cyclamens and primroses. His stock of Boston ferns is excellent. At present he is selling a great many cemetery wreaths and bunches to be used for the winter. Mr. Wiese is planning to go south to select about 100 cases of holly for holiday use.

The Wm. Scott Co. has finished cutting its crop of Bonnaffons. Chadwick and Maud Dean are now being cut. Business has been fair. The company has had its share of debutante work.

The volume of S. A. Anderson's business last week was large enough to press into service another delivery automobile, for there were a large number of weddings, dinner parties, receptions, etc.

Al. Vick, of Rochester, was in this city November 18. He was one of the witnesses in a lawsuit here. Incidentally, he was disposing of a fine lot of bouvardias, which were grown at Barnard, N. Y., near Rochester.

The Lenox Flower Shop has just received a shipment of fancy baskets and a fine lot of araucarias for the winter. Business has been fair, according to Mr. Alberts' reports.

One of our florists is beginning a poor practice, offering the use of palms free of charge at funerals throughout the city where there is a possibility of the family of the deceased investing in large floral pieces. We hope this practice will soon be discontinued, for it lowers the dignity of the florists' business and cheapens the florists' part in funerals.

Peter Hoffman, on the market, reports that business is picking up gradually. He is selling a great many wreaths for cemetery use at present.

Miss Susan Streit impersonated winter at an entertainment of the Sacred Heart last week. She looked quite wintry, except for the handsome corsage which she wore.

Jerry Brookins, of Orchard Park, has begun cutting his carnations. They are fairly good. His sweet peas continue to improve each week. E. C. A.

Athol, Mass.—Geo. W. Sutherland has rented a store on Main street, where he will shortly open a salesroom.

New Bedford, Mass.—M. Malonson & Son, in business at 259 Mt. Pleasant street, are going to retire from the florists' trade.

Lexington, Mass.—C. H. Lothrop had exceptional success with mums this season and, as he retails his stock at his greenhouses, got good prices. He finds business not at all disappointing.

Taunton, Mass.—Harold R. Hall has purchased the business of E. F. Rose, at 4 Main street. Mr. Hall is a native of Taunton, but has been away for about ten years. He has recently been connected with the Murray greenhouses, at Fairhaven.

Dwight, Mass.—Friends of L. W. Goodell, of Pansy Park, will be glad to learn that the operation which Mr. Goodell underwent several weeks ago for cataract on his right eye, was quite successful, and he is now able to see as well as ever.

Worcester, Mass.—The florists of the city made the show of the Worcester Horticultural Society a most successful one by means of their elaborate displays. Harry Randall had a remarkable basket, L. S. Midgley & Son an excellent chrysanthemum display, Wm. Estabrook a table of carnations of all shades, and Denholm & McKay Co. box trees, etc.

Manchester, Conn.—The Bon Ton Flower Store, which opened in the Johnson block Saturday, November 7, contributed to the local branch of the Red Cross Society as its share of the day's sales $50.18. The firm offered to give the society twenty-five per cent of the receipts, provided the society furnished the saleswomen.

Gardner, Mass.—A new greenhouse and a small building to be used as a salesroom are being completed at Fred W. Murdock's establishment, on Pine street.

West Acton, Mass.—The second new large greenhouse of Samuel F. Carlisle is about completed and half of it is already planted with radishes. The other half will be filled soon. The house is 40x178 feet.

Montpelier, Vt.—Mrs. Alice Wood Emslie and William Reid Emslie, both members of the firm of Emslie & Co., were married November 7. George Davidson Emslie, who was recently married, acted as best man. The couple have taken up their residence on the Barre road, near the firm's greenhouses.

Cambridge, Mass.—Roger T. Sullivan has opened a store at 181A Hampshire street. He has a wide acquaintance in this city, and his success is looked for. Matthew Farrell, designer for Mr. Sullivan, has been in the business for thirty years, in the employ of Boston and Cambridge florists.

Norway, Me.—The Maine Floral Supply Co. has done a rushing business since its opening November 1. Ernest Hayden and W. F. Estes form the management. Lillian Powers and Alma Shepard make up designs, etc. The concern deals in wholesale and retail floral designs and garden materials such as bedding plants, cut fir and ferns.

Brockton, Mass.—W. W. Hathaway has been much interested and active in the school and home garden movement that has made probably as great strides in this city as anywhere in the United States. He donated a silver cup as challenge prize to the school maintaining the best garden for three years and has acted as judge for the other contests; also as consultant and adviser.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

ABUNDANT as pompons have been this season, there will be still more of them another year. But varieties will be selected with greater care.

IF, instead of trying to take trade away from one another, florists will seek to create new buyers, it will be vastly more to their advantage.

IF business houses find those placards have shut off the war talk, they might replace them with some reading, "Don't talk 'bad business.' We're looking for good times."

THERE is little doubt the Manetti stocks will come along, many already being on the way, but their safe arrival is so important to many people that word of their being on the place will be a relief to more than one greenhouse manager.

PLENTY OF STATICE.

Statice, a German commodity, will not be scarce for Christmas, as many, with reason, feared it would be. It develops that statice is being exported from Germany both through Copenhagen and Rotterdam, and that jobbers in florists' supplies in the latter city have received considerable quantities from Germany that represent the customary purchases of England, France and other European countries, and which the Hollanders are seeking a market for. Freight and insurance make imports cost more than in normal seasons.

BILL, THE FLORISTS' FRIEND.

Of all the friends that I have met,
The one that's never failed me yet
Is Bill, and I don't think he will,
That good, old, faithful Dollar Bill.
—Southern Merchant.

DON'T GROWL.

A wise man once remarked, "Things are never so bad that they couldn't be worse." Yet here and there we meet men who are grumbling and complaining about business, men whose only tone is one of pessimism and whose sole topic is "hard times," who spread unrest and depression wherever they go and infect everyone they meet. In reality, however, "bad business" is more often mental depression than actual business depression.

In Chicago, in a little, inconspicuous shop on Michigan avenue, there is a florist who is totally blind. He has not left his store for over three years, and he probably does not expect to. He does all the work in the store and serves a fickle transient trade. He seems to care only for his flowers, which, though he can never see them, he handles and moves with a touch almost of veneration.

But the wonderful thing about this man is that in spite of his physical affliction and its tremendous handicap, he is an optimist. The other day he was asked how business was, and, in that little shop that few enter, he answered, smiling:

"Oh, I don't suppose I can complain. Things could be worse."

Moral: Don't grumble. There's always something to be thankful for.

THE GREENS SITUATION.

With the arrival of Thanksgiving, interest in Christmas greens begins to awaken. Apparently the situation today is as follows:

Bouquet green has declined in popularity with the recent high prices to the point where it is of less importance than in many years. The green that was picked early this season is of doubtful quality, due to weather conditions; the smaller quantity of late picked green is good. Each year it becomes necessary to go farther away to get good green. Jobbers are offering at all the way from 2 cents to 4¾ cents f. o .b. the woods and there seems to be no firm basis anywhere.

First-class, dark green, well-berried Delaware holly never again will be abundant. There always will be some good holly, but much more that is deficient in one quality or another. Most of the holly of the future will come from the south and one might almost say southern holly never is strictly first-class judged by the standards of the old days, although it frequently is better than some of the stock nowadays shipped from Delaware. Really good holly may be expected to be worth its price, and bring it. Some of the holly shippers recognize that while good holly gets scarcer every year, poor holly becomes more abundant—they are declining orders for bulk holly, but are offering to make up wreaths to any specifications.

Boxwood has come into prominence as a Christmas green, especially for florists' use. Bouquet green and holly are peddled everywhere, but boxwood still is a trade specialty, used for wreaths, balls, bells, etc. The supply is limited and the tendency is toward slightly higher prices per pound, especially for the best grade.

There is general confidence in a first-class Christmas trade, in spite of slow conditions during the autumn.

THE DEATH OF MISS CHANDLER.

Arthur Cowee, of Berlin, N. Y., sends The Review details of the accident that resulted in the death of Miss Bessie Chandler, who was well known to those of the trade who are regular attendants at S. A. F. conventions. For many years the Misses Bessie and Aleda Chandler, the latter being one of Mr. Cowee's regular force, have assisted him in staging and explaining his gladiolus exhibit at the convention. November 5 Miss Bessie Chandler was one of a party returning home to Cambridge, N. Y., after an auto ride, when a passenger train on the Delaware & Hudson struck the machine. One young woman was killed instantly. Miss Chandler lived four hours, and another of the party died next day. The two others in the car were seriously injured. The Chandler girls were nieces of Mrs. Jerome B. Rice, widow of the widely known seedsman. Mrs. George Coulter, one of those killed, was the only daughter of Cyrus Hatch, a traveling salesman for the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

November 23 the market snapped back to normal. The change in condition from one Monday to the next was one of the most remarkable in the history of a season full of unusual features. A week of midwinter weather followed weeks of Indian summer. With the check given roses and carnations, the chrysanthemum crops were finishing off earlier than usual, and in the closing days of last week a change began to be apparent, but it was not until November 23 that its full force was felt.

While conditions this week are far better than at any time heretofore this season, it should be carried in mind that the present situation is not abnormal; as a matter of fact, the situation this week would be almost exactly normal if it were not that the price on carnations still is too low. There has been a good advance, but carnations are not yet bringing as much money as they did last year. The probability is that there still are too many pompon mums, offered cheaply, which can be used in place of carnations.

The cold weather checked the rose crops and at the same time the dull skies took the color out of Killarney. It gives Killarney Brilliant the opportunity to show its real winter worth, for the color of most of the Killarneys is such that they are scarcely salable. Brilliant, on the other hand, still has good, rich color. Red roses are scarce. It is not possible to supply all the Milady and Richmond that are called for. Also, there is special demand for Bulgarie and Ophelia, which cannot be met. Russell is the best rose on the market, and the best seller. Shawyer, while not abundant, is popular. Neither Sunburst nor Ward are equal to the demand. Most of the roses are long in stem and short stock is difficult to procure. Beauties have shortened up with the rest and are again selling clean at good prices.

Chrysanthemums seldom are so near the end of their season at Thanksgiving. Some growers are completely cut out and most of them are cleaning up this week. There will be a few mums until Christmas, as usual, but they will not cut much figure after this week. The prices being realized this week are as good as usually prevail at this date; in fact, there is such a demand for good, clean, small stock that this grade is bringing excellent money. Of the fine, big late varieties there are enough so that prices have not advanced as sharply as they have on smaller grades. Pompons still are plentiful.

The market ascribes the sudden return of the brisk shipping demand to the fact that the mums through the country are pretty well finished off. If this is the case, there should be good shipping business right along.

Easter lilies are about the only item that is more abundant than heretofore. Violets are scarce and cattleyas, for the first time in weeks, are short of the demand. Some excellent bouvardia has arrived. Stevia is plentiful, and so is valley. There are more sweet peas than usually is the case at this time of year. All greens are abundant.

This week's issue goes to press on the day that the majority of the Thanksgiving orders are being shipped. It is too early to tell how the volume of business will compare with previous years, but it seems quite certain that the demand will equal the supply of first-class stock and there is a general feeling that normal business conditions may be expected to prevail, at least until after Christmas.

Club Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club was held at the Bismarck hotel November 19, nomination of officers being the special order of business and resulting as follows:

For president—W. J. Keimel, of Elmhurst.

For vice-president—James Morton.

For secretary—Guy W. French, of Morton Grove; T. E. Waters and Mike Fink.

For treasurer—Paul R. Klingsporn.

For trustee—C. L. Washburn, to succeed himself.

Various Notes.

The American Rose Society has not yet accepted the invitation to meet in Chicago next spring. At a meeting of the executive committee in New York last week it was decided to defer action on the time and place of meeting.

The sixth annual dancing party of the Gardeners' and Florists' Union, which is affiliated with the American, the Illinois and the Chicago federations of labor, was an excellent success. It was held November 21, at Wicker Park hall, 2046 West North avenue. Louis Heidtmann, 3610 North Richmond street, is secretary. The union label is the representation of a well filled fern dish.

That roses will not be so scarce in January as has been the case in recent years is the firm belief of John Zech, based on the fact that a majority of growers are not in the usual crop for Thanksgiving.

It is reported that the A. F. Amling Co., of Maywood, has placed an order with Poehlmann Bros. Co. for $2,500 worth of grafted rose plants for early delivery.

The employees of Kennicott Bros. Co. state that sales to November 20 were $500 ahead of the same days of the month last year, which everyone will agree is an excellent record.

C. A. Boyle, of Galien, Mich., who is shipping large quantities of excellent red winter berries to this market, seems to have the right idea. He uses nothing but corrugated fiberboard boxes of two sizes, one twice as large as the other. His label is on every box. With good stock and careful packing he has quickly gained the confidence of the buyers, which will be a valuable asset as long as the standard is maintained. Other shippers put red berries in all sorts of second-hand wood boxes, perhaps no two containing the same quantity or quality. With a standard established, it will be increasingly difficult to sell the shoebox shipments.

A. T. Pyfer says there will be a fine sale for rooted cuttings of Peerless Pink carnation after the new year, as he has yet to hear of a grower it has not done well with.

Winterson's Seed Store is sold out of field-grown carnation plants. "The little classified ad brought home the bacon," according to J. P. Degnan.

The A. L. Randall Co. received its first car of holly this week. Plans have been made for a large business in Christmas greens this season.

A. L. Vaughan comments on the disposition of shippers to skimp on the quantity of boxwood in order to meet competition in prices. He suggests that purchases be made by weight only.

A few months ago Fred Hunt took up his residence at Des Plaines, letting one of the men have the dwelling adjoining the greenhouses. The shipments, to Erne & Klingel, now come from Des Plaines instead of Park Ridge, as heretofore. Mr. Hunt is just cleaning up his mums. He will follow them with calendulas, lupines and the other "old-fashioned flowers" on which he specializes.

The mum benches at the Poehlmann range are rapidly being cleaned out and lilies are taking the place of the mums. Poehlmann Bros. Co. has devoted over 125,000 square feet to Christmas plants.

E. B. Washburn and Mrs. Washburn left November 22 for their home at Pasadena. They have visited relatives here since October 11.

Paul Klingsporn, of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, made a short trip to Kansas City last week on a personal matter.

E. C. Amling thinks conditions will be about normal after Thanksgiving.

He doesn't mean the trade will have no troubles, but that they will be only the usual ones, in place of the unprecedented combinations of circumstances that have prevailed for almost a year.

The Batavia Greenhouse Co. is throwing out a house of Beauties to get space for propagating. O. Johnson says there is a good demand for the discarded Beauty plants.

Fred Stollery says business is not so good but that it might be better, but that it is not so bad but that it might be a whole lot worse, which probably is a good description of the general situation.

The Wabash avenue entrance to the store of Weiland & Risch was closed last week, by the landlord's compliance with city building regulations. The firm was not inconvenienced, as a better entrance had been arranged on the Randolph street side, from the same stairway that affords access to the stores of Zech & Mann and the Batavia Greenhouse Co.

November 25 Peter Reinberg resigned as president of the school board. December 12 he will assume his duties as president of the county commissioners. His business affairs are so well organized that they bother him not at all, his only present concern being the office-seekers, for he has many important appointments to make.

Henry Wehrman, at Maywood, has a fine lot of late pompons that he figures should pay well.

This week W. H. Amling is cutting the last of 18,000 mums at Maywood. He will follow them with Zvolanek's Spencer sweet peas.

A. I. Simmons says that business shows a good increase since he obtained his better facilities on West Sixty-third street, but that the gain has not been in funeral work.

Mustaches have become the fashion with the forces of the E. Wienhoeber Co., but the boys deny it is a race.

Peter Reinberg is growing sweet peas at the farm range this season and made the first pick November 22.

Paul Swanson, who sold out his property on West Forty-seventh street, has again gone into the mushroom business, this time at 6530 Norwood Park avenue. He has finished two houses each 15x70 and picked about 200 pounds from them last week. Two more houses are under way. He uses wild spawn. As a rule mushroom growers have had poor success this season and prices have been quite fair for all first-class stock.

N. J. Wietor points to some good Carnation Philadelphia with the remark that it is giving good satisfaction as a shipper.

A visit to the store of Harry Rowe, on Wabash avenue, found W. H. Beaumont, formerly with O. J. Friedman, serving his old customers there. Mr. Beaumont is one of the oldtime florists in Chicago, having started in 1868. He is slowly recovering from an accident of several years ago, when a sign fell and crushed his leg.

practicability. H. T. Shawl, who is salesmanager and secretary of the corporation, has been in Chicago for two weeks and has called on several florists at times when not busy with his other duties, which are many. He says he finds the new box meets with instant approval and reports an eagerness to buy that is encouraging. He has returned to Marinette to arrange an extensive selling campaign.

Visitors.

Among the visitors in the market last week were:

David Geddis, on his way to and from Fort Wayne, Ind., stopping long enough to buy considerable stock for the flower section at Vandervoort's, the St. Louis department store, and to call on C. A. Samuelson, for whom he formerly worked.

H. Van Zonneveld, of Sassenheim, Holland, on his way to the Pacific coast.

I. M. Hoffman, of La Porte, Ind., buying stock for Thanksgiving.

Paul M. Palez, of Little Rock, who said that business is flat in Arkansas because of the low price of cotton, but who, nevertheless, had his usual roll of new money and ordered a lot of stock for Thanksgiving. He is running for a second term as alderman, subject to the Democratic primary December 8.

Miss H. B. Whitted, accompanied by George Taylor, her confidential man, from Minneapolis. They visited friends, bought stock, exhibited photographs and saw Minnesota defeat Chicago on the University football field, all in one day.

Albert V. Amet, of the Mountain View Nurseries, Santa Monica, Cal.

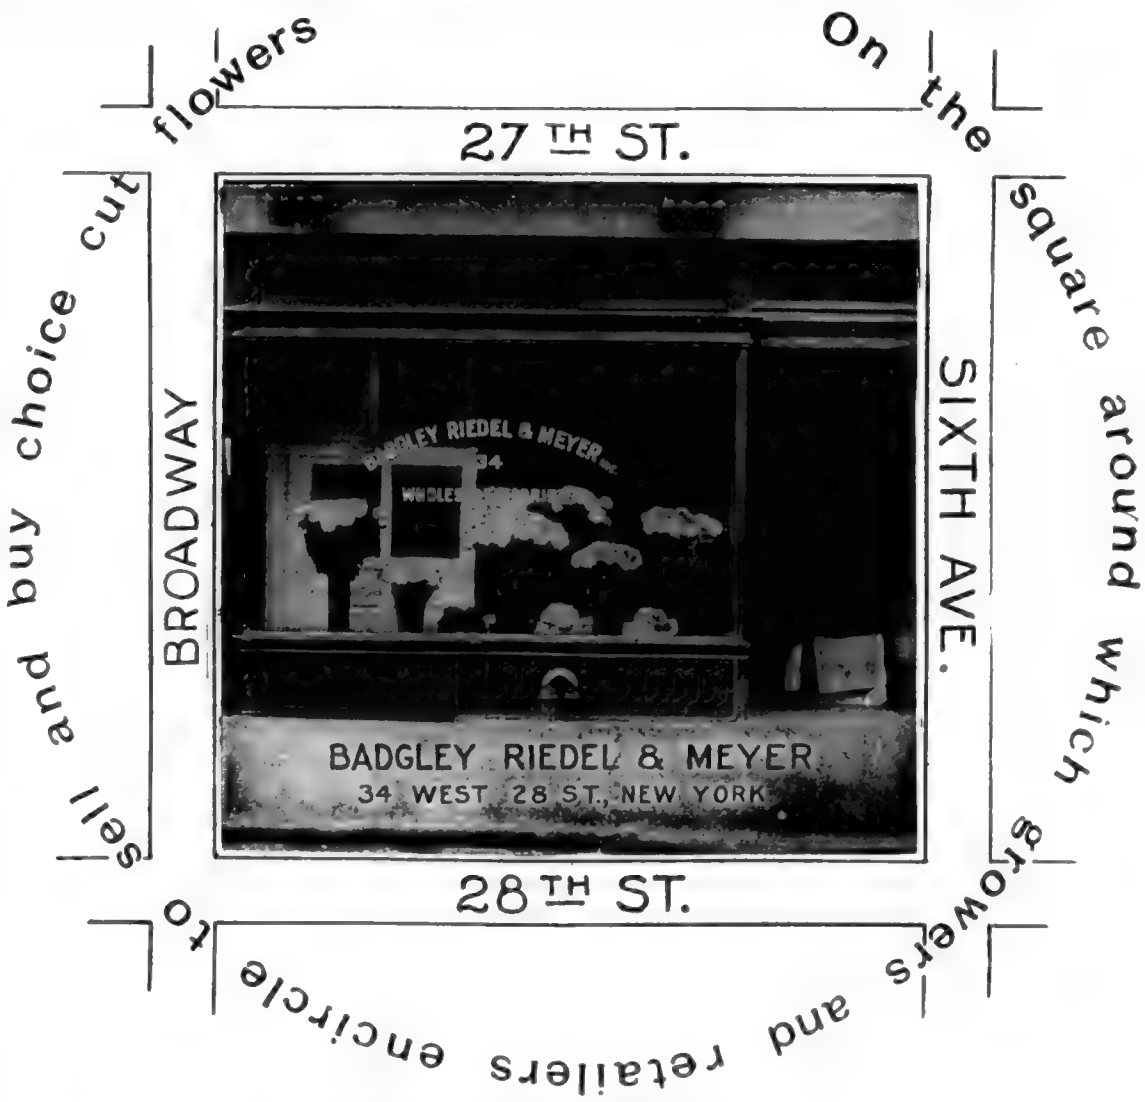
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The Market.

A scarcity of violets is noted in the market. Killarneys are of poor color. Killarney Brilliants are showing up well. A scarcity of mums is predicted here for Thanksgiving. The weather is clear and the temperature is a little below freezing.

The florists are taking a more pleasant outlook on business and are not so pessimistic now that the war scare has worn off. They are looking around at home and are surprised at the number of opportunities they have hitherto overlooked. Things are running smoothly in spite of the war and florists are getting along without many European things formerly thought indispensable.

Various Notes.



Perl Bros. had their opening last week. The shop is simply and artistically finished in white, which shows plants and flowers to their best advantage.

W. D. Desmond, of the L. S. Donaldson Co., our bowling captain, says we will slay St. Paul next week. Ernest Farley is still in the lead.

Mr. Evans is now with the L. S. Donaldson Co. flower department.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

The market last week was overcrowded with cut stock of all kinds—more so than at any previous time this fall. The weather was the coldest we have had for twenty-eight years in November; the thermometer registered 9½ degrees above zero. Chrysanthemums of the best grades are heavily in demand and there are not enough of them to meet the demand in all colors, but there is an overwhelming glut of the inferior grades. In most seasons there are not enough of the smaller grade of mums, but this year's oversupply was caused by the lack of water during last summer's drought. The cheap chrysanthemum sales do not hurt those who have mums of good quality, as they find a ready sale for their stock. Carnations also have been a glut on the market and last week they were on sale at the dry goods stores along with the chrysanthemums, at 2 cents apiece. Still, there are fewer carnations on the market than there were a year ago, as most of the growers in this vicinity have not come up to the average cut of October and November. Roses are plentiful, but not more than sufficient for the demand. Mrs. Russell is the leading rose here, bringing a better price than any other rose on the market. It seems to be just about what the public desires in color. There are plenty of Killarneys for the present demand, but a change is expected soon, as there will not be any more mums to make the market sluggish.

A good Thanksgiving business is expected and the chances are that mums will be rather scarce for that day, unless big shipments of them come in from out of town.

evening, November 16, with a large attendance. A new rule was adopted as a part of the by-laws, to the effect that all employees who join the club pay only $1 a year, instead of the former $2. Another important question that came up for discussion was the new tax law, taxing greenhouse buildings. Some of the greenhouse owners have reported to the assessor too high a valuation, without estimating exactly what their greenhouses are worth. A committee will be appointed to go to the county assessor's office to discuss the valuation of greenhouses according to the number of square feet of ground they cover; also the decrease of value for each additional year the greenhouses have stood, the material used and its depreciation.

Various Notes.

R. S. Brown & Son report business excellent, especially in funeral work, which has been good all this fall. Their mums are practically cleaned up. This firm is making big preparations for spring business. The out-of-town orders for small pot plants, as holiday stock for basket work, have been heavy. Mr. Brown has his greenhouses in excellent condition and the plants at both places look clean and healthy. His wholesale business has been heavy, especially the out-of-town orders.

Nelson Jarrett has a nice lot of young spring stock in his greenhouses. He reports a good business this fall, especially in 5-inch ferns.

Last week William Foith cut some of the best Yellow Eaton mums ever seen in this city, and they brought him a good price. He expected to finish cutting his mums by November 25. He is cutting a fine lot of sweet peas and roses. His carnations are a little backward, but will be in heavy crop for Christmas. Mr. Foith is feeling a great deal better, but he still limps a little. W. J. B.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The week of November 21 ended satisfactorily with the wholesalers, who say there was a marked activity among the local buyers and that stock cleaned up nicely. The cold weather which opened the week stimulated business, making the demand much larger than for some time. November 23 an unexpected shortage appeared. No doubt the growers are holding off until Wednesday for Thanksgiving sales. The shortage was in carnations, violets and mums, and Thanksgiving prices went into effect at once, the few extra fancy chrysanthemums that were offered running up to $3 per dozen. The mum season has seen its best days, but quite a few nice Chadwick, Bonnaffon, Eaton and Jerome Jones, both white and yellow, are coming in daily and form the bulk of the stock. There are also some good pompons and singles.

Roses are excellent and quite plentiful. Extra fancies are up in price, especially Hadley, Milady, Richmond and high grade stock in the Killarneys. Carnations will average $3 per hundred for the best stock and $2 per hundred for ordinary. These should be plentiful, although the week opened short. Sweet peas are coming along nicely. These, too, have advanced in price. The best valley brings $4 per hundred. Lilies, snapdragons, violets and Paper Whites share in the activity.

From what we hear from the leading retailers, Thanksgiving demand is sure to be brisk; that is, if the prices are reasonable, as the public is not going to stand for high prices this year.

run of funeral work kept them busy last week.

Charles Young, manager of the cut flower department of C. Young & Sons Co., reports that the staff will be busy this week, with several large weddings and parties. Bulb trade this season was splendid.

Geo. H. Angermueller has been opening large shipments of florists' supplies for the coming holidays. He reports a steady improvement in cut flower business since cool weather came.

Oliver K. Sanders, head of the retail store of Sanders Nurseries, on Clara avenue, says business has been excellent of late, the cold weather having steadied their trade in all lines.

John Bentzen says he is going to try his hand at organizing a bowling club among the florists and has the promise of ten in the trade to assist him.

The Brix Floral Co., in the north end, reports a satisfactory run of business of late. This store is one of the attractions along St. Louis avenue. The company imports quite a lot of supplies for its own use.

Visitors who called on the trade last week were Paul Berkowitz, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., and A. Zirkman, of M. Rice Co., both of Philadelphia. Also, Otto J. Hembreiker, of Hembreiker Bros., Lincoln, Ill.

The spring flower show committee, consisting of W. C. Smith, chairman; W. S. Wells, A. H. Hummert, George Pring and Al. Gumz, will meet next week and prepare their report to the Florists' Club.

The County Growers' Association will hold an important meeting Wednesday evening, December 2, at 8 p. m., at the Eleven Mile house. A review of the chrysanthemum season will be discussed. This will be important, as many of the members have devoted a great deal of time to growing chrysanthemums this season. Other important features regarding cut stock will be discussed and the members are all requested to attend.

Friday, November 27, there will be a reunion of the former pupils of the Missouri Botanical Garden. At 10 a. m., an automobile ride through the city; at 1:30 p. m., lunch at the old Henry Shaw residence; at 2 p. m., meeting in the graduate lecture room and address of welcome by Dr. Geo. T. response for the alumni by Prof. Arno Nehrling, of Amherst, Mass. At 7 p. m. all will attend the banquet at the University Club. Saturday, November 28, the entire day will be spent at the garden.

The Retail Florists' Association held its monthly meeting Monday evening, November 16, at the Washington hotel. The attendance, according to Secretary Geranios, was small and lack of interest is shown by the members. The association has done good work during its existence and deserves a better fate. Perhaps the organizers were a little too choice as to whom they would take in as members. It might pay to open the door and give every retailer in the city a chance to become a member. J. J. B.

The Market.

The half week ending November 21 marks a critical point in the market. The first really cold weather has cut down the supply of flowers. Business is improving and prices have become firmer, with advances here and there. There are strong reasons for believing that the heavy oversupply of the fall is past and that more evenly balanced conditions will prevail.

The close of business November 21 found the market in unusually good shape. There were few flowers left over and sacrifices had not been necessary to market the stock. Violets advanced to $1 and $1.25, with prospects of increased strength. Carnations went up to $3 for select, while short-stemmed colored roses were in demand at about $3 to $4. The trading was mainly confined to this grade; the better roses were less sought. Chrysanthemums changed little in price; there were too many of them; but they sold better than for some time past, which will make better average prices. Sweet peas are more plentiful and in better variety. The miscellaneous flowers are ready to replace the chrysanthemums when they leave, which will not be for a week or ten days yet.

A Live Topic.

The meeting of the Retail Florists' Association held November 19 developed another live topic for discussion, the marking of stock to insure uniformity of prices. While it is frankly admitted that this might not do in some cases, as for example a dainty debutante gift displayed in a fashionable shop, it is urged that such a plan would dispel the popular idea that florists' stock is expensive. It would also inspire confidence and prevent errors. While the plan will not commend itself to all retail florists, it has so much in its favor that those who employ untrained or numerous assistants will find it a great help. The prosperous stores during this war depression are often those which, taking advantage of conditions, have bought stock in quantity at low prices, and which have offered it at low prices publicly, that is by advertisements, signs and tags, thus letting people know that the stock is not expensive and by so doing attracting new buyers into the market. This broadening the field when production is heavy is believed to be the real solution of business depression.

Scene, P. M.'s.

Salesmen are rushing about. "Daddy" is industriously sweeping the floor. Enter John C. Gracey.

Gracey—"You are working hard, Daddy."

Daddy—"You work ten times as hard; your brain is working all the time."

Now where did Daddy get that?

Confidence.

The following extract from Edward Reid's price list for November 23 should be read with interest:

Business is based on confidence. Have you lost yours?

Dullness in business is more often caused by lack of confidence in the future than by actual existing conditions at the moment. It is true at the present time that the foreign war has had some direct effect, but if we will carefully study conditions we will find that about ninety per cent is imaginary. What is happening now? There is a greater demand for food products abroad than was ever before. We are and will export more than at any time in our history. Woolen mills, shoe manufacturers and others are already feeling the effect of foreign orders. With the crippling of many lines of business abroad, corresponding lines in this country must supply their necessities. Not only must our producers produce for our own great population, but also for the vast population of Europe as well. Everyone should make up his mind to prepare at once for the prosperity which is near at hand. What are you doing towards it?

Reck Reproduces Bowl.

Carl Reck, of John Reck & Son, Bridgeport, Conn., made a window display of unusual interest in honor of the Yale-Harvard football game. It was an exact reproduction in miniature of the wonderful Yale bowl where 70,000 persons are estimated to have witnessed the game November 21. Mr. Reck went over to New Haven to see the bowl before executing his plan of reproducing it in his firm's window. Reck's bowl was six feet long and three feet six inches wide. The gridiron field was of sheet moss, the seats and portals of tile. A team of eleven players in blue was opposed to a team of eleven players in crimson. The goal posts and side lines were exactly as they should be. A floral touch was added by bunches of violets adorning the portals in honor of Old Eli, while bunches of crimson chrysanthemums decorated the remaining half of the portals as a tribute to fair Harvard. The much talked of depression in this bowl playing field was faithfully reproduced.

I am indebted for the description of this ingenious piece of workmanship to Robert Q. Shoch, who saw the window just before the game and felt it deservedly scored one for Bridgeport.

John Reck is credited with that now famous utterance regarding boys working together: "When you have one boy, you have a boy; when you have two boys, you have half a boy; when you have three boys, you have no boy at all."

Various Notes.

A. L. Fortunes has a store devoted to ferns and galax at 1626 Ludlow street, where he proposes to distribute these greens to all who may desire them during the coming season.

M. H. Beckley, Palmer's Corner, Pa., has erected three greenhouses, one of them 300 feet long, for carnations and bulbs. Thomas Beattie, formerly at Strafford, Pa., is foreman in charge.

Robert Q. Shoch has returned from down east.

The many friends of Robert Kift will be pleased to hear that he is to remain at 1725 Chestnut street, to dispense sunshine and flowers to all.

John White, of Morton, Pa., is sending some perfectly beautiful White Wonder carnations to Edward Reid; his sweet peas also show culture.

Joseph G. Neidinger finds his original ideas in Christmas wreaths are rapidly gaining in favor.

Arthur Zirkman, of the M. Rice Co., is home from an excellent southwestern trip.

Mrs. L. H. Dundore Moore, of Lancaster, was with us a few days ago.

At the store of Bayersdorfer & Co., this week, one may see the smiling face of Martin Reukauf, sure sign of a good business trip.

The opening of the Ritz November 21 brought out some handsome decorations by J. J. Habermehl's Sons. Their flower shop opening was unavoidably postponed until November 26.

Robert A. Craig spent a few days in New York last week. His company's cyclamens are a pleasure to see.

The junior partner of the firm of William J. Baker smilingly reports a return of business activity.

James M. Thoirs, of Camden, N. J., has orders for two large ball decorations in January.

Alfred M. Campbell believes that conditions favor a return to normal prices.

Visitors to the Florex Gardens agree that the big house never looked better.

Automobile Tour.

A most pleasant trip was taken by the Lancaster County Florists' Club Thursday, November 19, when nearly forty of its members visited nine florists' establishments near Lancaster. The party met at Elmer J. Weaver's at 2:15 p. m., where ten automobiles were awaiting them. We first inspected Elmer J. Weaver's new house, 46x232, erected last summer, which is planted to carnations and as fine stock as one could wish to see. Those in another house of equal size were of the same quality. The varieties grown are Enchantress Supreme, Comfort, White Wonder, Matchless, Mrs. C. W. Ward and Pink Delight. Mr. Weaver has a bed of a new white carnation, not named as yet, which was admired by all. It has the clean, strong growing qualities of Matchless, but shows evidence of much greater freedom of bloom.

At Charles M. Weaver's, sweet peas are starting to bloom, his own selection of Blanche Ferry Spencer being planted extensively; also two other varieties of his own production, one a true lavender and the other a soft shade of pink. Houses of mignonette, calendulas and wallflowers are all in fine condition.

We then motored to Harry B. Weaver's, at Bird-in-Hand, Pa. His house, 42x200, planted to carnations, presented a fine sight, Gorgeous, Benora and Matchless being exceptionally well done. White Perfection and the Wards are planted extensively. He has started to cut from a house of fine tomatoes.

Our next stop was at Jacob H. Weaver's, Witmer, Pa., where we saw the Wards in fine order; also White Perfection, White Wonder and Comfort. A bed of seedling carnations were of much interest; a salmon pink and a good yellow looked like winners. A house of Bonnaffon mums were of good quality.

We then called at Elias Lefever's, where carnations are also grown. Pink Delight and Gloriosa were as fine as they grow. Mrs. Ward is the principal pink grown here. Bonnaffon mums and Spencer sweet peas looked well.

We next stopped at John R. Shreiner's, where chrysanthemums looked well; most of them had been already marketed. Sweet peas are following the mums.

A. W. Denlinger's, on Philadelphia pike, was our next stop. His two new King Construction Co. houses, as well as others, are planted to the standard varieties of carnations and look well.

A bed of fine heliotrope for cutting was noted. Bulbous stock and bedding plants are also grown.

At Enos Lefever's we saw carnations of high quality. Both the Wards, Gloriosa, White Perfection and others are grown. Some fine Primula malacoides in 5-inch pots were noted. Chrysanthemums Bonnaffon and Mrs. Brock, pink, were well grown.

The next call was on J. Wade Gayley, near Strasburg, who succeeded Parke Trout. His specialty is high grade carnations and his houses are looking fine.

In the evening, in the Chamber of Commerce, President B. F. Barr called the club to order at 7:30 p. m. The flower show committee reported a substantial balance, which has been placed as a certificate of deposit at four per cent interest, which will be the basis for our next flower show.

A. K. Rohrer read a paper, "Profitable Mums to Grow," which was freely discussed. The president appointed Elmer J. Weaver, Chas. B. Herr and Willis B. Girvin a banquet committee to arrange for our annual January banquet. D. T. Conner and T. J. Nolan spoke of the Reading flower show, which

The Market.

A change in the weather, which caused the killing off of all outdoor stock, resulted in shortening indoor production and stiffening prices. The advance has been slight, as the demand for stock has been limited. This has been an exceptionally good year for chrysanthemums and these were brought into the market in far greater quantities than could be disposed of locally. This condition was offset to quite an extent by the demands of the south, to which large shipments were made. There has been a good sale here for bronze chrysanthemums, but at low prices. Minnie Bailey and Timothy Eaton are among the new arrivals and these, with Bonnaffon, Enguehard and Turner, form the staples and sell at prices averaging about $12.50 per hundred. Violets are still scarce, although of good quality. Sweet peas are more plentiful and are selling well at $1 per hundred for the ordinary and $1.50 for the orchid-flowering varieties. Orchids are not plentiful, but are sufficient for all demands.

Various Notes.

Maggie Pooley, a gypsy, is being held under bonds of $2,000 to answer to a charge of robbery of two $100 bills from George A. Comley, florist, 1204 Wisconsin avenue, northwest. Mr. Comley testified that the woman came into his place of business and insisted upon telling his fortune, for which he paid 50 cents. After she was gone he discovered that the money had been stolen. Money described by him was subsequently found secreted within a loaf of bread which the woman was carrying.

Mrs. J. A. Phillips, who operates The Flower Store, at 2820 Fourteenth street, northwest, met with the sad loss of her mother, Mrs. Mary A. Machen, aged 73 years. The body was taken to Toledo, O., for burial.

The Market.

Trade has been fairly good this week. We have experienced quite a little winter weather, the temperature being lower than in any previous November in many years. Stock has been plentiful, but will probably shorten up a little on account of the cold weather. Chrysanthemums still are plentiful, but the smaller varieties, retailing at $2 and $2.50 per dozen, are becoming a little scarce. There has been quite a demand for pompons this year. Roses of all kinds are plentiful, as are carnations, which are unusually good for this time of the year. Sweet peas are making their appearance, but the supply is limited as yet. Easter lilies are not in heavy demand. Paper Whites, stevias and violets are available.

Various Notes.

The State Florists' Association will hold its next meeting at Richmond, December 4. The Indianapolis florists will travel via the Pennsylvania, leaving the Union station at 7:05 a. m. Tickets should be purchased to East Haven.

Baur & Steinkamp have been cutting the best carnations seen in this market this season. Their houses are looking

of PHOENIX NURSERY COMPANY

BY VIRTUE OF AN ORDER and decree of the Circuit Court of McLean County, Illinois, on the 5th day of November, A. D. 1914, I, John Y. Chisholm, Receiver of Phoenix Nursery Company, will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder, at 2 o'clock P. M., on at the east door of the Court House in Bloomington, Illinois, the Real Estate of the Phoenix Nursery Company, comprising a trifle over 65 acres, nearly all of which is located within the city limits of Normal, Illinois (a suburb of Bloomington and connected by street car).

SATURDAY, JANUARY 16, 1915,

This is one of the oldest and best-known nurseries in the United States, with a patronage in nearly every State and Territory in the Union.

There are located on these grounds: Greenhouses, with about 60,000 feet of glass, heated by steam; large Barns, Sheds and Cribs; also very large Packing House and two large frost-proof Cellars, besides Grafting and Propagation Houses, Office and other buildings.

A part of this property would make an ideal addition to Normal if not desired to use in connection with the Nursery. The Receiver will offer the property in Parcels and also as a Whole. The Receiver invites personal inspection of property prior to date of sale and will be pleased to answer any inquiries concerning same.

Address JOHN Y. CHISHOLM, Receiver

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Florists' Review,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:-

During the SIX MONTHS from March 4 to September 4 I have received from other Florists, by mail, telegraph or cable, orders to the amount of $513.25 as a result of my advertisement in the Retailers' department of The Review. With the allowance to senders the record for SIX MONTHS is:

Value of orders received----------	$513.25
Less 20% allowed senders--------	102.60
Net value of orders for SIX MONTHS--	410.65

It should be noted that this showing covers the DULL SUMMER MONTHS, when any addition to a Florists's business is decidedly welcome.

Retail Florists not advertising in The Review should profit by this letter.

Respectfully,

F. H. Weber

The Market.

Fine, snappy weather prevailed in New York as last week closed; 25 degrees was the temperature on Saturday. Good-bye to the outdoor flowers at last! The tide has turned and the general outlook is optimistic. The market from now on should absorb daily everything good that comes to it and at better prices than have of late prevailed.

It is still high tide with the chrysanthemums, and they are now at their best. There will be a splendid supply of them for Thanksgiving and plenty of late ones to use until Christmas, now four weeks away. The football game between Yale and Harvard on Saturday used a large number. Some fine stock in all the popular varieties is bringing from $4 per dozen up, but these top-notchers are not numerous. Some fine flowers are still offered at $2 per dozen and under. There is a great abundance of the smaller flowers in bunches and of the pompons. Some excellent plants in pots are yet to be had, at most reasonable prices.

Longiflorum lilies are firm at last week's quotations, with an upward tendency. Valley seldom sells above $2 per hundred. No signs yet of shortage. Violets had the usual rise for the Yale game, $1.25 being the quotation for selected stock. Some of the wholesalers claimed for the specials an even higher figure. Good prices are sure for Thanksgiving and may hold until Christmas. Gardenias have now risen to $3 per dozen for the best, and the improvement in quality is marked.

Carnations are higher, the fine stock touching $3 per hundred. There are plenty of them now in all kinds and grades. Orchids are stronger and advancing slowly. There will no longer be a surplus, and the number of varieties increases. Sweet peas and daisies are here in quantity, and lilac is the latest acquisition.

Roses are now perfect in quality. Prices are advancing. The lower grades are less in number and higher in value. The new varieties grow constantly in popularity. American Beauties are once more climbing.

lighted to hear of his rapid recovery. A letter received by Harry Bunyard last Friday was full of courage, and a telephone message from Overlook hospital on Saturday, from Mrs. Totty to Joseph Fenrich, gave every hope of continued improvement. Many of his New York friends are visiting him.

Harry Goldberg, for six years with A. T. Boddington, joined the force of the Knight & Struck Co. November 23.

At the store of E. J. Polykranas, 665 Columbus avenue, one of the oldest in upper New York, Mrs. Polykranas is now in sole charge, her husband having taken the management of the United Cut Flower Co. The windows of the store are decorated daily. Prizes are given to her artists for the most original effects, the public deciding. Her son is now her "right-hand man." Their automobile decoration at the tricentenary parade was by many considered as beautiful as any in the procession.

Malandre Bros. now have three stores in New York. In the Broadway store a brother of Chas. Schenck, the wholesale florist, is the head designer.

David Clarke's Sons have had a busy fall, with many weddings. Their windows are filled with the latest designs in basket decoration. Palms and ferns are renewed weekly from their own greenhouses.

At Warendorff's, decorated cork baskets of their own construction are the novelty for Thanksgiving.

H. H. Berger & Co. are busy on their new catalogue and are rushed with fall shipments, their kentia seeds, 250,000 of them, having just arrived.

Chas. F. Meyer is now visiting his western customers.

The Market.

The near approach of Thanksgiving always gives the market a somewhat improved tone, and this is, no doubt, responsible for such advances as have taken place within the last few days. There is no decided uplift. The demand, while a little better than it has been, lacks snap, and Thanksgiving prices seem likely to average lower than usual this season. Chrysanthemums continue in overwhelming supply and prices are somewhat discouraging. With many growers mums are unusually late this season, due probably to the warm fall, and quite a few will linger until Christmas. Bonnaffon continues easily the leader. Other sorts much in evidence are White Bonnaffon, Eaton, Yellow Eaton, Patty, Intensity and Roman Gold. Among pompons Mrs. Frank Beu sells unusually well; also Diana and Julie Lagravere. These and the singles are much in favor.

Roses are doing somewhat better, due in some measure to reduced supplies, but there is no particular Thanksgiving advance. Ophelia is popular everywhere. Richmond, Crimson Queen and Hadley are now selling well; so are Russell, Shawyer and Ward. The last named is of better color than Sunburst. Beauties show a slight advance. Carnations are off crop with many growers; being in shorter supply helps to improve the price. Single violets with the majority of growers are flowering sparsely. Doubles are little grown here and it looks like a light crop of violets here until the end of January. Some nice cosmos still comes in. Pink snapdragon is more plentiful. Yellow marguerites are of better quality and sell well. Gardenias and cattleyas are each in moderate demand.

There is a little more activity in pot plant trade. Cyclamens, Erica melanthera, Otaheite oranges, primulas, begonias, azaleas and poinsettias are all seen in addition to chrysanthemums.

Various Notes.

Neil E. Boyle, of Malden, in addition to roses, has a good selection of chrysanthemums. He is strong on pompons and finds Mrs. Frank Beu, Source d'Or and Julie Lagravere good sellers. He is one of the few growers still producing good Jerome Jones. There is no better late white mum than this on the market today.

S. J. Goddard still finds Gloriosa a profitable carnation and has superb flowers of it. Champion and Matchless are good with him, as are Pink Delight, Benora, White Wonder, White Perfection, Yellow Prince and Yellowstone.

The best snapdragon I have seen this season is that coming from Paul E. Richwagen, of Needham. The variety is Virginia and the color is a rich pink. Mr. Richwagen also has good Roman Gold mums.

McAlpine & McDonald are handling a full line of florists' supplies and find business good. I noticed fine Ward roses and Chrysanthemum Intensity and Yellow Eaton from S. J. Reuter.

William A. Riggs, of Auburndale, is sick in bed, suffering from neuralgia in the head. We all hope he may soon be around again.

Among the chrysanthemums which H. W. Vose has in fine shape for Thanksgiving are: Chieftain, Bonnaffon, Enguehard, Patty and Maceo. He is also cutting Paper Whites in quantity.

A. E. E. Koch, of Nobscot, had the first stevia in the market, November 21. He also is sending good bachelor's buttons and snapdragons. In carnations he still finds Victory good in his sandy soil.

R. E. Wadsworth & Co. grow all the best carnations and do them well, including Pocahontas, Champion, Matchless, Gorgeous, White Wonder and Benora. They are cutting a good lot of Spencer sweet peas, also mignonette, snapdragons, single and pompon mums.

mums now are Garza, Mrs. Frank Beu, Baby and Brutus. All are low, bushy and splendidly flowered, needing no stakes.

Penn's sent special messengers to New York November 20 with floral designs for the funeral of Foster Coates, of the Hearst newspapers. They are advertising heavily in all the leading Boston dailies for Thanksgiving and are optimistic as to the outcome. Henry Penn is surprised and pleased at the numerous answers he has received from retailers relative to advertising. Some letters the writer had the privilege of reading were lengthy, but contained considerable logic.

Henry J. Haas, formerly salesman for W. H. Elliott at the Coöperative Market, started November 23 to represent N. F. Comley, Del Cartwright and Elijah Cartwright at the same market.

Peter Fisher is sending fine flowers of Alice, Gorgeous, White Enchantress and Beacon to Geo. H. Noyes. W. D. Howard, of Milford, sends Mr. Noyes the finest Mrs. Ward carnations I have seen this season, also excellent Pink Delight, White Wonder, White Enchantress and a salmon sport from Winsor.

The last meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club for 1914 comes December 15. The annual election of officers invariably draws a large crowd and the additional attraction of a stereopticon lecture on greenhouse construction by W. R. Cobb should still further increase the attendance.

Edward Bingham, of Dedham, who is a specialist in single and double violets, states that singles are not flowering at all satisfactorily this season.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. finds Ophelia rose popular with everyone.

The W. W. Edgar Co. is marketing a fine lot of standard heliotropes for Thanksgiving. The Christmas stock never looked better.

Albert Roper has a new seedling similar in color to Pink Delight, but double the size, which looks like a winner. Grace, another light pink, is fine. Alice Coombs is doing particularly well. He has a small variegated variety with the strongest clove scent I have ever noticed in indoor carnations.

George W. Foster, of Wamesit, near Tewksbury, has a fine lot of carnations this season, including Rosette, Beacon, Champion, Pink Delight, White Wonder and Gloriosa.

McAlpine Bros., of Exeter, are having excellent success with Killarney Queen and Killarney Brilliant.

Frank P. Putnam, of Lowell, is noted as a producer of high grade carnations. His Gloriosa is exceptionally good. He still has a big cut of single, pompon and anemone-flowered mums.

The Lord & Burnham Co. has completed a new house, 800 feet in length, at Revere for Thomas Roland.

W. J. Patterson, of Wollaston, is bringing in Paper Whites in quantity, also the white pompon mum, Diana.

I am glad to report James Nicol, of Quincy, who has been sick in bed for some weeks, as convalescing nicely.

excellent clean-up in Dutch bulbs this season.

Several representatives of Dutch bulb firms are now canvassing in this section. Growers are disposed, however, to hold off a while, although prices are made tempting.

J. J. McHugh, of Arlington; G. P. Russell, of Woburn; J. T. Gale, of Tewksbury, and J. Shannon & Son, of Woburn, are all sending in fine single violets this season. Mr. Gale also grows doubles well.

D. F. Hutchinson & Son, of Lexington, are carnation specialists, growing about 30,000, but also do mums well. Their Razer and Bonnaffon are extra good. Alex Porter, of Woburn, also does Bonnaffon finely.

The Harvard-Yale football game did not help cut flower trade as much as usual this season, owing to the game being played at New Haven. Splendid crimson mums went begging at $1 per dozen, which should have sold for $3 and $4. W. N. C.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The Newport Horticultural Society at its meeting last week decided on July 8 and 9 as the dates for the joint exhibition of the American Sweet Pea Society, the Newport Horticultural Society and the Newport Garden Association and voted to hold the exhibition in Masonic hall, rather than at Easton's beach, as had been suggested. Alexander MacLellan was appointed general manager of the exhibition, which is expected to be one of the largest ever seen in this section of the country. An endeavor is being made to get the American Rose Society to join in the exhibition by arranging a summer show of outdoor-grown roses. The society voted to coöperate with the Newport Garden Association in a series of monthly exhibits which the latter proposes to hold next summer on its recently acquired grounds on Gibbs avenue. Arrangements have been made for a series of lectures during this winter under the joint auspices of the two societies, the first of which is to be given by J. Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., 1915.

PHILIPPE DE VILMORIN, of Vilmorin-Andrieux & Co., Paris, who was appointed interpreter with the Anglo-Indian army in France, recently was called to London to serve on the international commission of army supply.

ON the steamer Alexandra, from Copenhagen, which reached New York November 17, were 505 packages of seeds and roots. Twelve were consigned to J. M. Thorburn & Co. and the remainder to the Erie Railroad Co. On the same boat were 1,400 bags of sugar beet seed.

JACQUES HASSLACH, St. Remy de Provence, France, states that the French government has forbidden exporting seeds to the countries with which France is at war. This leaves French houses with considerable quantities of stock grown for German and Austrian customers which must be sold in England or America.

FORTY-FIVE bags of seed and 266 cases of bulbs and plants consigned to Boston seedsmen arrived at that port on the steamer Amsteldyk from Rotterdam November 11. The consignments were directed to Thos. J. Grey Co., Jos. Breck & Sons Co., T. D. Downing & Co., R. & J. Farquhar & Co. and Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co.

MRS. M. W. JOHANSEN, secretary of the Victor Johansen Seed Co., Los Angeles, Cal., is a Chicago visitor this week, on a business trip that will include New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Atlanta, New Orleans and St. Louis. Because of the war, she says, the seed trade is more deeply interested in California flower seeds than ever before.

A DEAL involving decided speculative advantages was consummated last week by the Bushnell-Pommer Seed Co., of St. Louis, when it acquired the northwest corner of Chestnut street and Jefferson avenue. The intersection of these two streets will be one of the most important points on the proposed central traffic parkways. The amount paid was not made public. This company two weeks ago purchased a corner at Main and Olive streets.

SEEDSMEN'S LEAGUE.

The annual meeting of the Wholesale Seedsmen's League was held at New York November 24. The following officers were reëlected:

President—F. W. Bruggerhof.

Vice-president—W. Atlee Burpee.

Secretary and treasurer—Burnet Landreth.

The meeting, at which an optimistic spirit prevailed, was followed by a din-

Special Exceptional Announcement

First-class Vegetable and Flower Seeds, Sweet Peas, Aster.

APPEAL TO THE TRADE:

The recent decree of the French government, forbidding all trading with the enemy, put our Provence seed growing people in an anxious situation. During many years I was growing, with the assistance of well chosen, clever and honest cultivators, big and numerous sorts of seeds for the enemy. These seeds are now lying here to be sold. I therefore beg to make appeal to the British seedsmen, both of England and colonies, to take a friendly, sympathetic and patriotic view of it by passing me your order.

An Egg for an Onion

An onion is a poor substitute for an egg and vice versa. But it is a better substitute than any flower you can substitute for an Easter Lily. Growers who do without Easter Lilies all through the year, will soon do without certain orders all through the year. The American public do not like to take substituted articles—you may sell them something else once—but when they want lilies next time, they will be sure to go where they can get them. And why should you not have lilies all the time? Nothing you can grow is so appropriate for many purposes as lilies, and nothing is more profitable if you handle them right. Why every florist does not have lilies all the time is beyond us, and you have no more excuse for not having them than a grocer has for being out of sugar. If you have no room, buy the cut flowers of reliable commission houses or growers, but have them—all the time. To those who can grow their own we recommend Horseshoe Brand bulbs—because we know they are better than the average brand and will give satisfactory results when properly handled. Write us. Prices reasonable.

ANOTHER DISCLAIMER CASE.

Need for the general use of the disclaimer, for self-protection as well as for the purpose of strengthening the trade custom, is shown by the frequent suits for damages brought against members of the seed trade. The conspicuous appearance of a statement of non-warranty on letter-heads, bills, packets, labels and tags, in addition to one of the front pages of the catalogue, will serve to impress it upon buyers of seeds. A placard placed in full view in the store will bring it to the notice of the casual customer. The appearance of the disclaimer on all of the printed matter of a seed company is practically necessary to insure its being brought to the attention of every buyer.

Another suit in which the disclaimer must be the defense has been brought in the Circuit court of Jefferson county, Kentuckey, against Wood, Stubbs & Co., of Louisville, Ky. Thomas Wallace, a newspaper man and the owner of a farm in Jefferson and Oldham counties, claims damages of $488.50 because he was given a garden variety of corn when he wanted field corn. Mr. Wallace says he is not an experienced farmer, and went to Wood, Stubbs & Co. last May and asked for seed for field corn. He purchased and paid for seed of Boone County White, which is the defendant's leading variety of field corn. The plaintiff charges that the corn was not Boone County White, but a garden variety, which produced a smaller crop than that which he would have obtained had the variety been Boone County White. His crop was worth, he states,

"British Empire" Flower Seed Collections versus "German" Collections

¶ German "Collections" of annual and biennial Flower Seeds give no special advantage, either in quality or price.

¶ We therefore ask the Trade to inquire for particulars of "British Empire" Flower Seeds—Collections of choicest, showy Flower Seeds, equal in every respect, if not superior to, those formerly offered as German.

¶ As we have made a specialty of Flower Seeds for many years, and can assure the trade of satisfaction in every respect, we ask our regular customers in the Seed Trade, and others, to send to us for prices and particulars of these Collections.

¶ Our latest prices of Choice Florists' Flower Seeds of the new crop are now being mailed to leading buyers on your side. If you have not received a copy, please ask for one.

BULB RECEIPTS ON DECLINE.

Another step in the gradual decrease in the receipts of bulbs from Holland is marked this week. The total each week falls a little behind that of the week previous, showing that the end of the shipments is not far off for this season. The receipts last week, which came on the Rotterdam steamers Marken, Mizar and Maartensdyk, arriving at New York November 14 and 15, together with a few consignments on the Zaandyk in addition to those reported last week, were as follows:

THE BULB SITUATION.

"The prospect for Dutch bulbs in 1915 is still much in doubt, depending largely on the course of the war." The speaker was H. Van Zonneveld, senior member of Van Zonneveld & Philippo, Sassenheim, Holland, who passed through Chicago November 20 on his way to the Pacific coast. Van Zonneveld & Philippo ordinarily send three travelers to America in the early winter, Mr. Van Zonneveld himself usually not coming until toward spring, but this season the Dutch army has exercised its claim to first call on the services of W. Langhout and the head of the firm has come over to cover the route. Mr. Langhout has worked for American seed houses as well as called on the western trade for the Dutch house and has many friends who will be interested in knowing he is serving as an officer in the army postoffice along the Holland frontier.

"The acreage planted this fall is about the same as last year," said Mr. Van Zonneveld, who did not leave Holland until planting was about finished. "The work was hastened and in many cases done by inexperienced hands, so that the 1915 crop probably will be as large as usual, but the quality probably will be variable. The de-

EMPTY SPACE!

The passing of mums gives every florist idle space. It also brings one of the best seasons in which to start a bench of snapdragons. If you have space we can supply the goods—fine, stocky, well branched plants of my famous SILVER PINK SEEDLINGS. They will give you more profit to the square foot than anything you can grow, and will furnish blossoms when you most need them. Price for immediate shipment, only $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Less than 100, 5c each.

Pure seed of same, $1.00 per pkt.; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00. It is not too early to begin sowing for spring sales of plants in blossom.

Remember, we grow snaps, and also offer plants of white at $4.00; of yellow at $5.00; and of our charming new one, Garnet Gem, $8.00.

Our stock is healthy and quality XX. Don't waste time and space growing cheap plants.

Gladioli Announcement

I have finished harvesting my crop of bulbs, and they are unusually fine. Many of them are nearly as thick as they are wide. This means great blooming strength, either for forcing or outside planting.

I can supply large orders of America and Mrs. Francis King, also 60 other varieties.

My new wholesale list will be ready about December 1. Write for it.

E. E. STEWART, Brooklyn, Mich.

mand undoubtedly will depend on the duration of the war; an early conclusion of peace will result in a fair demand, but a prolonged struggle will mean a smaller and smaller market outside America.

"In regard to the 1914 crop," continued Mr. Van Zonneveld, "the outcome has been remarkable. It was the largest and best crop ever harvested, but had it not been for the war there would have been a positive shortage of the standard varieties, Keizerskroon tulips and things like that. The surplus of hyacinths would not have developed had it been possible to ship orders to Russia."

The bulb situation in America is not so satisfactory as some would like to make it appear. The season is pretty near its close and considerable quantities of bulbs remain unsold. A well posted dealer estimates the unsold stock on hand in Chicago as having been worth $10,000 at import prices. In the eastern cities the situation is similar, the imports through the port of New York this year having to date been nearly 10,000 cases more than last year.

The Holland salesmen who are touring the country are this year having the toughest time of their lives. Some of them are trying to book orders for next season on the basis of ten per cent reduction from this year's prices. But they meet with little success. Others are booking orders open, subject to fixing prices when the market opens, say in April, but are meeting with little better success. Apparently the trade in America is not at present ready to buy, which seems like a good thing for the wholesale jobbers, who should have an unusually good run of business next fall if the advance orders to Holland are lighter than ordinary.

The Hollanders, too, are having trouble with collections. In the first place, money is tight and, in the second place, many buyers want to discuss prices on last crop much more than on the next one.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Marysville, Cal.—Mrs. Ida Hudspeth has opened a flower store at 114 B street. Mrs. Hudspeth was formerly secretary of the Loomis Carnation Co. As she has the only flower store in a city of several thousand inhabitants, it is no wonder that she reports a good business from the first day.

Oakland, Cal.—A Japanese garden is being laid out in Lakeside park according to plans perfected mainly by F. K. Domoto, of Domoto Bros. It is the result of the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, park board and Mr. Domoto, Mr. Domoto having contributed his time and knowledge toward this addition to the city's adornment.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Business has been far better this week, especially among the wholesalers, as out-of-town shipping is more than usually heavy for this season. Prices are better, and altogether there is a firmer tone. Horticulture is certainly holding its own here, for, in spite of some depression in other lines and a scarcity of money, both florists and nurserymen say that business is well up to the average for November. Chrysanthemums are still coming in, but they are past their best and the rush is over for another year. Carnations are excellent in every way, with good color, fine stems and an almost complete absence of splits. Roses are good, both from indoors and outside, and there is a large variety of outdoor herbaceous stock that meets with a fair demand.

Plants usually associated with Christmas, such as Begonia Gloire de Lorraine, cyclamens and others, are seen around the retail stores in increasing numbers and help to brighten things up. There is a good deal of small stock around this season, both evergreen and flowering, and retailers will probably take advantage of this to fix up good baskets for the holidays—a phase of the business that is usually somewhat neglected here.

Various Notes.

Progress is evidently the word at R. Fischer's place, at Santa Anita. Realizing, after his losses by frost two years ago, that there is danger in leaving choice freesias outside without protection, Mr. Fischer is gradually getting all his stock under glass. He has now twenty-four large houses devoted entirely to his choice hybrid freesias and the stock is in such elegant shape this year that the writer, for one, is anxiously looking forward to the flowering season, for a visit then will surely be worth while. Considerable stock of some of the novelties has already been worked up, but Mr. Fischer's selection is so rigid and careful that it is unlikely that any of them will be sent out before 1916. Most readers will remember, of course, that Mr. Fischer was the originator of the now well known Purity, but some of those he is working on will leave this at the post. It may be noted that it is decidedly a family affair with the Fischers, as Mrs. Fischer and their children are all taking a keen interest in the work.

I had not visited the establishment of Polder & Groen for a long time, until a recent Sunday, and must certainly congratulate this young but enterprising firm on the splendid progress made. Good soil, careful treatment and the knowledge of the right kind of stock to grow have been the foundation of success here. Hundreds of thousands of young carnations are already in the sand and many of them are well rooted. A new variety of white here is certainly a grand thing. It is to be sent out this year, under the name of H. W. Turner, Jr., and it seems to be a good keeper, free, pure white, and produced on long, stiff stems. Not only is it superb under glass, but—what is even more important in this section—it thrives well outside and in cloth houses. Space will not permit a mention of half the good things grown here, but the fine Boston and sword ferns in the lath houses, the conifers, English laurel and other nursery stock outside, and the thousands of splendid cool-grown carnations now ripe for shipment, demand a passing note. These young men, since coming here, have obtained the confidence of all with whom they have come in contact and great credit is due them both.

H. Reeve Darling and his wife started November 14 on an automobile trip to Imperial valley. Calling at the store, I found everyone busy with funeral work.

WE MUST HAVE REFERENCE IN THE CITY

& Morris Goldenson has undergone a thorough painting and cleaning. The windows are gay with Lorraine begonias, cyclamens and other seasonable stock.

When it takes two large Wells-Fargo wagons for one afternoon's shipping from one house, that is "going some." This is what occurred this week at the wholesale store of S. Murata & Co. The mums here are holding out well and the firm is specially strong on fine valley.

A party of ten, including K. Groen, Walter Garbett and wife, R. Overstreet and wife and all the staff at Darling's Flower Shop, spent an enjoyable Sunday in deep-sea fishing last week.

H. N. Gage started out this week on the kite-shaped track for San Bernardino and other cities. He says November business at the store is away ahead of last year.

Fred Sperry reports shipping business as improving right along at the establishment of the L. A. Floral Co. Mrs. Garrett, of Eagle Rock, now consigns her stock to him and is considering the growing of novelties exclusively for Mr. Sperry next season.

Tony Tassano, of Tassano Bros., Inc., has returned from a northern business trip. I saw the first holly of the season here and it looks fine; also some of the finest smilax I have ever seen in this market, presumably from their Glendale nursery.

A. V. Amet has started in business at Santa Monica, under the name of the Mountain View Nurseries. Mr. Amet is a young man with some knowledge of the business and more than a little energy, and all will wish him success in his venture.

TACOMA, WASH.

The Market.

The long hoped for frost having arrived, the florists are now looking for better business. Trade has been rather quiet. Stock is of excellent quality. Some fine mums are coming into this market. All varieties are about two weeks earlier than in former years.

Carnations are still in oversupply, but are cleaning up better than for several weeks past. Violets are improving in quality, the California stock being used exclusively in this city. Roses are selling well and are about equal to the demand.

Various Notes.

On a recent visit to A. A. Hinz's retail establishment I found things in excellent condition. This firm has had some good decorations of late, one of them being under way at that time.

The Hayden-Watson Co. held a chrysanthemum show at the store on C street last week. A large number of fine blooms of the best seasonable varieties were shown.

The Smith Floral Co. is showing some extra fine potted stock and reports business good. J. L. S.

of most varieties is plentiful. While the sale of chrysanthemums is none too brisk, most other flowers are moving well. Carnations are still in oversupply and the ridiculously low prices that have prevailed of late have a tendency to decrease their use. Roses are of fine quality and meet the popular demand. Quantities of Paper Whites are now offered, but the prices at which they are sold do not give much encouragement to the growers. Bulbs for outside planting have been selling better than usual this season and such sales are advantageous to the trade, as they relieve the congestion of forced flowers that usually comes in the spring.

Various Notes.

Chris. Jochimsen returned home November 16 from the Seattle General hospital after an operation.

The florists are having great bouts at the bowling alleys now. Ralph Richardson contends he is the champion at duck pins, but Buxton and Tomlin dispute his claims and the allies look like winning.

The heavy wind storm of November 12 caused some damage to most of the greenhouses, and repairs were in order last week. T. W.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

A few light frosts have helped the situation by hurting the outdoor flowers. Cooler weather has retarded the blooming of the carnations and mums, so that fairly normal conditions prevail. Some excellent mums are to be seen. Among the varieties most favored are Eaton and Yellow Eaton, W. H. Chadwick and Golden Chadwick, Maud Dean, Golden Eagle and Mrs. Jerome Jones. Among the pompons, Mrs. Frank Beu and Klondyke are most popular. The pompons seem still to be the favorites. Roses remain normal in supply, with a fair demand. The best now seen are Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, Richmond, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Milady, Ophelia and Killarney. Violets are not so plentiful and the California-grown stock predominates.

The demand for palms, ferns and decorative plants has slacked up a little and the trade in blooming plants has increased. Cyclamen, Primula obconica, potted mums and Lorraine and Cincinnati begonias are seen everywhere. Oregon rose stock is now being lifted at the nurseries.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Portland Floral Society was held November 17 and was well attended. The main discussion arose over the question of the part the club should take in preparing special and permanent exhibits of flowers on the streets and in the window boxes of business houses. The committee that had the matter in hand reported that it had interviewed the manager of this part of the rose festival and that he wanted definite information as to just what the club would do. The expressions of approval of the proposed plan showed that the members were ready to do something special to beautify the city and the committee can now make a favorable report to the rose festival managers.

It was reported that the present Oregon laws do not permit the removal of shrubs or plants, once set in the ground, for debt or nonpayment of bill. Neither can the property be held for the debt, so that the dealer is helpless if payment is refused for such stock. A committee was authorized to try to remedy this trouble through the legislature at its next session.

Various Notes.

Clarke Bros. have had excellent success with bouvardia.

Several growers and supply men would like to know the whereabouts of a Mr. Davis, who had a flower store in the Hardwood building and who left town just after Christmas last year.

Max Smith is showing the first Roman hyacinths, sweet peas and cut pansy blooms.

Mrs. Theo. Weddell is reported dangerously ill. Mr. Weddell is operating under lease the Martin Winch greenhouses at Gresham and has been bringing in some excellent Chadwick and Eaton mums and Herald carnations.

Rahn & Herbert Co. has a bench of ericas ready and has begun cutting Formosa lilies.

The Sunnyside Greenhouse has a bench of smilax ready to cut.

Some fine orchids are being shown by Martin & Forbes Co. S. W. W.

FERTILIZER FOR PLUMOSUS.

Will you kindly let me know what kind of fertilizer is the best for Asparagus plumosus and when is the best time to apply it? Also please tell me what is the best fertilizer for sweet peas. F. A. M.

Good stable manure, preferably a mixture of horse and cow manure, is the most satisfactory fertilizer for Asparagus plumosus, and a liberal quantity of this manure should be incorporated in the soil before planting. After the plants are established, two or three top-dressings of manure may be given at intervals during the season as the crop requires it.

The same fertilizer is satisfactory for sweet peas, and the crop will be improved by an occasional dressing of sheep manure after the sweet peas begin to flower. W. H. T.

PERENNIALS FOR CUTTING.

I am going to start a retail place and want to plant about one acre for cut flowers for funeral work and for sale in the market when flowers are scarce in the greenhouse, from May until frost in the fall. I should like to know what are the best varieties for this purpose and when to plant them. The soil is a clay loam with a sandy subsoil. The location is southern Ohio. E. H.

Hardy perennials, as a general rule, do much better if planted in the fall than in the spring. Of course there are a few exceptions. You will find that when you can plant in October or even early November, you will get far better results than by waiting until spring. If you are planting as much as an acre it would pay you to raise many of the varieties from seed. If these are started under glass in February, many would bloom the first year and all would do so the following year.

For spring and early summer these varieties are desirable: Doronicum Clusii, Myosotis sylvatica; digitalis, or

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE officers of the Naomi Nurseries, Inc., of Naomi, La., are: President, W. J. Formento; vice-president, Maurice M. Jones, and secretary-treasurer, George H. Penn.

A DONATION of 150 American white elms and 150 silver maples was made by J. M. Colmant, of the Colmant Nurseries, Birmingham, Ala., for the school children's use for Arbor day.

THE California Nursery Co., at Niles, Cal., has been operating since 1865, being one of the pioneer concerns on the coast. The present officers are: President, W. H. Landers; vice-president, A. C. Hammond; manager, W. V. Eberly.

THE Riverside Nurseries is the name of the concern started by John Arter, at Plainfield, Ill., on the banks of the Du Page river. Mr. Arter, who is manager of Electric park at Plainfield, has done landscape work in his town for several years.

NOT only does State Forester Barton intend enlarging the state nursery at Louisville, Ky., from which 1,000 trees will be sold at cost next spring, but he also contemplates establishing another nursery at the Kentucky Normal and Industrial Institute. State-grown free trees or trees sold "at cost" are becoming more numerous each year. State breeding farms for pedigreed poultry, to be distributed free, will doubtless come soon, and eventually state furniture factories.

A. A. N. HEADQUARTERS.

The Hotel Cadillac has been selected as the headquarters for the fortieth annual convention of the American Association of Nurserymen at Detroit, June 23 to 25, 1915, by the committee on arrangements, Thos. I. Ilgenfritz and Secretary John Hall. The accommodations for meetings, exhibits, committees and social gatherings, all of which are placed at the association's command by the management, are excellent.

Secretary Hall says he will keep members posted in regard to the progress made by the various committees in the convention preparations, in the hope that they will all become so enthusiastic that they will impart some of their warmth to the nurserymen who are at present out in the cold, so that they will join the association before the cold-storage doors shut them up beyond the possibility of thawing. Everybody's help is needed in order to make the 1915 convention go down in history as a phenomenal occasion.

Please cut out of my ad for Privet the 18 to 24-inch, as I am all sold out of that size. The Review certainly does bring the answers.
CHARLES L. SMITH,
Oct. 13, 1914. Pennsgrove, N. J.

PROVING PROPER CULTIVATION.

When a buyer of nursery stock, plants or seeds claims damages on account of alleged deficiency in quality, and the seller asserts that the stock, plants or seeds failed for want of proper soil, cultivation or care, it becomes an interesting problem how to determine this issue. As a guide in such case, the Oregon Supreme Court has held, in the case of Kitchin vs. Oregon Nursery Co., 130 Pacific Reporter 408, that testimony as to the character of the soil is not objectionable because reference is made therein to other stock thriving in similar soil; and that the issue of proper cultivation need not be settled by expert witnesses, testifying upon a scientific basis—that non-experts may testify to their observations, tending to show whether the failure of the stock was due to inherent defects or to the manner in which the stock was planted and cultivated. S.

IDAHO HORTICULTURAL ACT.

Upheld by Supreme Court.

In a decision lately handed down by the Idaho Supreme court in the case of State vs. Pioneer Nurseries Co., 143 Pacific Reporter 405, the validity of the horticultural act of Idaho was upheld. The most important provisions of the law may be summarized as follows:

It is made unlawful to conduct a business of importing and selling nursery stock within the state without first obtaining a certificate from the state board of horticultural inspection. Application for the certificate must be accompanied by a satisfactory bond, to secure compliance with the state laws.

A separate section makes provision for fumigation. It is also an offense to fail to destroy or disinfect infested stock. Section 13 reads:

"Any person * * * shipping fruit trees or trees of any kind, shrubs, vines, scions, cuttings or plants within the state shall affix to each package, bundle or parcel containing the same a distinct mark, stamp or label, showing the name of the shipper or grower, the locality where grown, and the variety of said trees, shrubs, vines, grafts, scions, cuttings, plants or buds." Violation of this section is made a misdemeanor.

Packages Improperly Labeled.

The case which was before the Idaho court involved a suit to recover on the statutory bond given by defendant, on the ground that defendant had failed to properly label packages of apple trees so as to show the true variety of the trees. The trial court held that the law was invalid on account of technical insufficiency of the title, but the Supreme court reversed this holding, and, in doing so, said:

"The conditions of that bond are clear and unequivocal. They require the dealer in fruit trees to faithfully demean himself as such and to 'fully comply with all the provisions' of said act, and the provisions of Section 13 of the act require the seller to mark each package with a stamp or label showing the name of the shipper or grower, the locality where grown, and the variety of the tree or shrub or vine. This was for the protection of the purchaser, as well as to give certain information to the horticultural inspectors. It was just as obligatory under the provisions of said act for the seller to mark the variety of the tree as it was to give the name of the grower and the locality where grown. The legislature no doubt considered it as important to protect the purchaser in obtaining the kind or variety of tree purchased as to protect him from the diseases and pests with which fruit trees are sometimes infected. A purchaser might be injured more by the failure of the seller to deliver him the kind of trees purchased than he would be by delivering him trees infected with insects or disease, since the insects or disease might be gotten rid of, while a seedling or some inferior kind of apple tree could not be easily changed to a standard variety." The Market.

The season of gluts appears to be nearly over. The quality of the stock during the fall, with the exception of carnations, has been far superior to that of former years, especially in roses and mums. The prices have remained on the same level for the last six weeks, owing to conditions that seem unprecedented, but it is a long lane that has no turning, and it does not appear that there will be much stock to give away for the next two or three months at least.

Beauties this year are exceptionally fine; this is a pleasant fact to record, in view of the serious disappointments that have followed one another in the crops of the last six years. The prices, however, remain at the midsummer standard, only $30, $20 and $15 being procurable for No. 1, 2 and 3 grades, respectively.

Despite the so-called bad times, payments are regular, and, according to reports, not more than two florists in the entire Dominion have been compelled to assemble their creditors in one of the most serious crises in the business history of the country.

Various Notes.

Last week we had the pleasure of a visit from Lieutenant-Governor J. S. Hendrie, who was accompanied by Mrs. Hendrie and Miss Hendrie. N. S. Dunlop; S. S. Bain, of Montreal; J. S. Simmons and P. Waters, of Toronto; W. Coombes, of Sudbury, and F. Wise, of Peterboro, were visitors during the week. W. G. P.

MATCHLESS

A Great Success

This remarkable new white carnation has made good every prediction that we made when we disseminated it last year.

Reports that come to us from all over the country are all to the effect that MATCHLESS, because of its vigorous constitution, freedom of growth, earliness and wonderful production, is the greatest advance obtained in carnations in many years.

Many of the growers commenced cutting high-class flowers as early as August 20th. One large grower up to November 1st had cut five flowers per plant and reports that his benches are now carrying a large crop of the highest quality of bloom.

Our own experience with MATCHLESS during the four years we have been growing it for the New York market, has proved to us that MATCHLESS is as productive as any existing variety and can be grown to perfection by the ordinary grower. These characteristics, together with the high quality of flower and the fact that MATCHLESS is non-bursting, making it possible to market 100% of the blooms, make MATCHLESS one of the most profitable varieties to grow.

Consensus of opinion is that MATCHLESS has taken its place as the leading white carnation in all respects.

Recognizing that there will be an enormous demand for MATCHLESS this year, we have devoted two houses entirely to stock plants and will be in position to fill every order that comes to us with cuttings of the highest quality.

Mrs. C. W. Ward

The Standard Dark Pink

Since we disseminated MRS. C. W. WARD in 1909, every year has added to its popularity and today it stands easily at the top of the list in its color. Its high quality of bloom and wonderful keeping qualities have become a byword with the trade.

Owing to the increasing demands made upon us for stock of this variety, with which we have often heretofore been unable to keep pace, we have planted more WARD than ever this year and have also improved our propagating facilities so that we are now in position to care for a largely increased trade.

The Market.

Business during the last two weeks has been exceptionally good. The largest number of funerals for a long time came in these two weeks, causing plenty of work for all the florists. Socials and weddings also have been numerous.

The rose supply has been large, and carnations are in fair supply. Mums are being well cleaned up and will not last much longer. Last week was the coldest for November we have ever had, the temperature dropping to 10 degrees the morning of November 20. The present week started off warmer, with prospects of nice weather and good business for Thanksgiving, with a good supply of stock.

Various Notes.

C. L. Niednagel is cutting some nice roses, especially Mrs. Chas. Russell, for which there is a good demand.

Julius Niednagel & Sons are having a good cut of Killarney and mums. The carnations here are in fine condition, with prospects of a big cut for Christmas. Their mums will not last much longer. A bench of old Ward roses which were run through the summer without a rest or any pruning are doing well. The wife of Mr. Chapman, the rose grower here, has been in Wisconsin on a visit for several weeks.

Karl Zeidler and two of his sons left November 17 with the hunters on their annual trip to Mississippi.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. reports an immense business the last two weeks, with plenty of stock of their own to meet the demand. The week before last was probably the best they ever had outside of the holidays. The rose grower, Frank Woelz, and the carnation man, John Tate, are producing the best blooms ever grown on this place.

J. C. Elspermann has been having a big run of funeral work. His mums are about gone. The carnations are in nice shape, with a good cut in sight.

Theodore Kuebler, of the Santa Rosa Fruit Farm, is still bringing in mums and he says the supply will last for two or three weeks yet.

Wm. Halbrooks is cutting a nice lot of carnations, for which he finds ready sale. The stock is in fine shape for crops to come.

Louis Fritsch is having an excellent trade. His carnations are coming along nicely.

Royston & Fenton expect to grow mostly Killarney and Mrs. Chas. Russell next year. Ivory does well with them, but the demand for it is not so good as for White Killarney. E. L. F.

Club Meeting.

The New Orleans Horticultural Society held its regular monthly meeting November 19, at the Association of Commerce building. President P. A. Chopin and Secretary C. R. Panter were at their respective places and a fair number of members were present. It was decided to hold a spring flower show during the latter part of March, 1915. The committee to take charge will be appointed by the president at the next meeting. Judging from the interest taken by the local florists, the show is bound to prove a success, the more so as the affair is intended to be a general advertisement of plants, cut flowers, etc. Admission will be either free of charge or for a nominal charge.

The following new committee on revision of by-laws, with instructions to bring in a definite report at the meeting in December, was appointed: Paul Abele, chairman; C. R. Panter and Richard Eichling.

Paul Abele, of Abele Bros., exhibited a nice collection of chrysanthemums, large, single and pompon. E. A. Farley brought fine flowers of Dr. Enguehard and Turner grown under glass, also an elegant mixed bunch of standard outdoor roses. Max Scheinuk showed good carnation plants in full bloom, grown in pots. R. E.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Florists' Club Reorganized.

As a result of the success of the recent flower show, the florists who engaged in its promotion have formed a permanent organization, to be known as the Syracuse Florists' Club. The officers are: President, Henry Youell; treasurer, T. J. Sullivan, and secretary, L. J. Mulhauser. The meetings are to be held every first and third Monday of the month. The next meeting will be held December 7 at Peter Kay's greenhouses, on Manlius street. Twenty members are already enrolled and it is expected that the membership roll will grow rapidly. One of the aims of the club will be an annual flower show; the affair this year proved such a success that a repetition is hoped for next year.

GERANIUMS

Vincent's Geraniums are propagated at White Marsh, Md., and grown everywhere

Tokyo, Japan, Oct. 23d, 1914.

R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co.,
White Marsh, Md.

Geraniums arrived in good condition to my great satisfaction, on the 20th instant. This time the leaves have died, but the white new shoots appeared.

Many thanks for your kindness that you selected the new and good varieties and gave me care in packing.

Yours truly, B. Masuda.

We have a million in 2 and 3-inch pots, ready for shipment; come and see them—good, standard varieties, such as S. A. Nutt, Alphonse Ricard, Beaute Poitevine, Mme. Recamier, Jean Oberle, and lots of other kinds, from 2-in. pots, at $2.00 per 100, $18.50 per 1000; from 3-in. pots, $3.00 per 100, $25.00 per 1000.

250 Novelties and New Varieties, and a fine assortment of single Geraniums, Ivy Geraniums, Scented Geraniums, are listed in our catalogue.

Maryland, the most prominent candidate for leadership, $1 00 per dozen, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

READY FOR IMMEDIATE SHIPMENT

Alternanthera, assorted; Alyssum, Dwarf Double and Giant; Fuchsias, in varieties; Swainsona, white and pink; Hardy English Ivy; Lemon Verbenas; Lantanas, assorted; Coleus; Petunias, Double Mixed, 2-inch, $2.00 per 100, $18.50 per 1000; 3-inch, $3.00 per 100, $25.00 per 1000; Dahlias, whole field clumps, $5.00 per 100 and up.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Chrysanthemums hold full sway in the local market, completely obscuring all other blooms. There is a large quantity and all are of good quality, although prices range slightly lower than usual. Violets are the next favorite, but are rather scarce and sell for 75 cents and $1 per hundred. Roses have stiffened slightly in price and carnations, plentiful and good, are bringing $1 to $1.50. Funeral work continues brisk and some social work adds to the general tone.

Various Notes.

Two judgments were entered in the Sixth District court last week against the Everett Forestry Co. They were $29.88 in favor of Leon Bruneau and $16.50 for Napoleon Jacque, both with costs.

The store of Elhanan J. Tucker, in the Littlefield building, Central Falls, was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars by fire early Wednesday morning, November 18.

The Arcade Market flower stand has been discontinued by the closing of the store. All the business is now being done at the firm's other stand, at Kresge's 5 and 10-cent store, Westminster street.

T. O'Connor had the decorations for three large weddings last week.

Among the new names added to the Providence Chamber of Commerce in its 3-day membership campaign last week were: Westminster Greenhouses, Inc., Providence Seed Co., Charles S. Macnair, Eugene Appleton, Providence Horticultural Co. and Timothy L. O'Connor.

Edward Brooke, of T. J. Johnston Co., has been confined to his home for the last week, suffering from a severe attack of the grip.

A fire in the basement adjoining the store occupied by Charles S. Macnair caused some damage by smoke at an early hour Saturday, November 21.

Thomas Dolan, with T. J. Johnston Co., is confined to his home by an attack of scarlet fever. W. H. M.

Norway, Me.—George Kenerson has installed a large steam boiler and new piping, and is now all ready for winter.

THE SLOPE OF THE RETURNS.

Will you kindly tell us how the return pipes of a hot water system should run in order to radiate the most heat? We have a Kroeschell boiler. The main flows, after leaving the boiler, run through the middle of the houses overhead and then drop to connect with returns underneath the benches. These return pipes are the subject of dispute. Our idea was that they should have a decided downward slant toward the boiler, and that is the way in which they are at present installed. A friend has told us, however, that the return pipes must run uphill in order to produce the best results. We have two houses, 25x90 and 25x130, each containing twelve 1¾-inch returns. A. W.

The return pipes for hot water, as well as for steam systems, should always run downhill. It is not necessary, however, that they be given much slope. The higher they can be kept above the boiler, the better, so far as the circulation is concerned. Therefore, whatever the height where the coils are connected with the flow pipes, the returns should be run with just enough slope so that the air will not pocket, and then should drop vertically to the boiler; that is better than to run the returns all of the way at a gradual slope to the level of the boiler.

IN NORTHWESTERN OREGON.

I am thinking of building a small greenhouse and am doubtful in regard to the heating of it. You will find enclosed a sketch that shows the proposed piping of the house. The house will be 29x60, six feet high to the eaves and twelve feet to the ridge, with one run of 16x24 glass in the sides and the rest boards. You will see by the sketch that I propose having two 2½-inch flows through the center of the house and across the end. The returns would consist of nine 2-inch pipes, two of them on each side and five through the rest of the house, one under each bench. All of the returns would come back to a 2½-inch pipe that would enter the boiler.

I thought that by piping in this way and having two flows instead of one, it would be easy, when desirable, to turn off half the heat, except one pipe, as you will note that there is one return more on one flow than on the other. Now, do you think this will be piping enough to heat the house to 60 degrees? I am located in northwestern Oregon, only about sixty miles from the Pacific coast, and the weather never becomes extremely cold here. F. W.

I am not sufficiently familiar with the winter climate in your part of Oregon to give a positive answer to the question. For such a greenhouse in the vicinity of Chicago, and in the north-central states in general, I would recommend

On An Even Basis

With the installation of the Morehead System on your steam lines the condensation is returned to the boiler—placed above ground—pure and hot. Thus you dispense with the antiquated "boiler-in-a-pit" method of steam line drainage.

Morehead
Back to Boiler SYSTEM

Furthermore you are assured of perfect circulation—constant, even temperature—a saving of time, fuel, labor and heat. These are things worth your careful consideration—they decide between heating economy or heating waste, good or poor stock.

Mr. H. W. Pierce says:
"Very satisfactory. Have saved me fully 25 per cent in fuel. Besides they save cost of handling ashes and require very little attention."

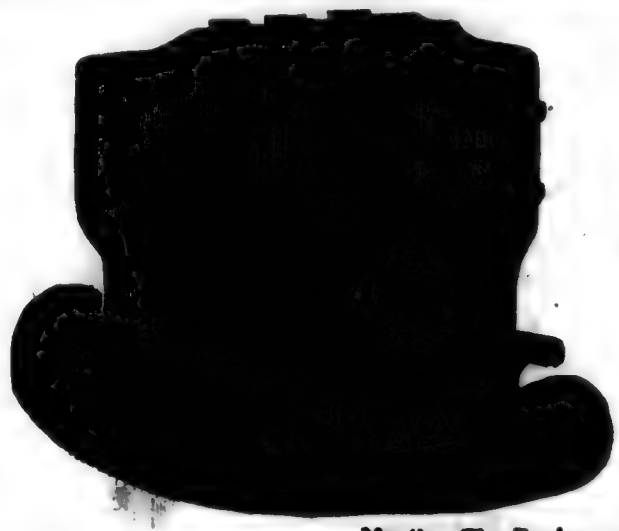
an increase of radiation amounting to about fifty per cent, bringing it up to three flows and at least twelve 2-inch returns. I know, of course, that a considerable reduction may be made for a greenhouse in your locality, but, though your proposed radiation would undoubtedly answer in ordinary winter weather, I think it would be safer to attach a generator for use in extremely cold weather. There should then be no difficulty in maintaining a temperature of 60 degrees, unless the mercury outside drops to 10 degrees above zero.



PIPING A PROPAGATING HOUSE.

Our propagating house is made of hotbed sashes and is 10x60 feet. We shall heat it by steam and we have placed in it one 1¼-inch feed pipe, which will supply eight 1-inch pipes, four on each side. The sides of the house are three feet high and are covered with boards, with rubber roofing paper on the outside. The east end has a glass front; the west end is attached to the boiler house. Do you think the house has sufficient piping to keep it at a temperature of 60 degrees in zero weather? The location is northern Ohio. Will a 1¼-inch pipe supply enough steam for eight flow pipes?

H. C. & S.

As I understand the letter, there is one 1¼-inch flow pipe running to the farther end of the house and eight 1-inch return pipes. This should be ample for a propagating house where 60 degrees is desired, and should furnish all the bottom heat needed. This statement is made with the understanding that the roof is fairly tight. Even with low pressure, I would expect good results if there were no more than six returns, although eight will be better.

The 1¼-inch flow pipe would be fully large enough for six returns. Although it is generally preferable to use a 1½-inch flow for eight returns, when there is a long overhead flow pipe and low pressure is used, in this case excess of radiation makes it unnecessary to put in a larger flow pipe.

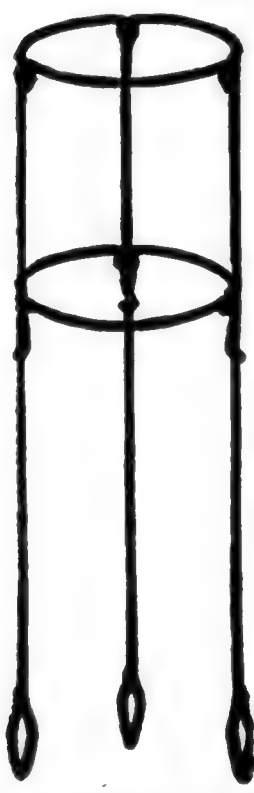
The Market.



Cold weather has been our portion for the last week. Business, although fair, is not so good as it was last week. This is, perhaps, due to the bad weather. Stock of all kinds is plentiful. Although chrysanthemums are getting a little short with some, there remain enough to take care of the Thanksgiving trade, which is expected to be good. Roses are growing better all the time and carnations are showing up fine and in large quantities, while stock of other kinds is plentiful and good.

Although not one of the largest holidays for the florists of this section, Thanksgiving is developing fast.

Various Notes.

The body of W. C. Loveday was found, November 20, in the Pigeon river, about four miles from Sevierville, Tenn. Mr. Loveday was a fern hunter and had been along the Pigeon river the day before hunting ferns for local florists. It is thought he made a misstep and fell into the river. Mr. Loveday was well known among the Knoxville florists, to whom he had sold ferns and other mountain greens for the last ten or fifteen years. It was his custom to come into the city and take orders and then go into the nearby mountains to fill them, being away for two or three weeks at a time. He was the first man to introduce hemlock, or mountain spruce, into the florists' business about twelve years ago. This is used as background for funeral sprays and at this time is being shipped to a number of florists in other cities for this purpose. All the florists sent flowers to his funeral.

Chas. L. Baum is cutting some fine orchids and carnations. Crouch's have been busy. A. H. Dailey's window is attractive. Addison J. McNutt is cutting a fine crop of sweet peas. Mrs. Rosa Hall Ryno has been busy with funeral work. R. E. M.

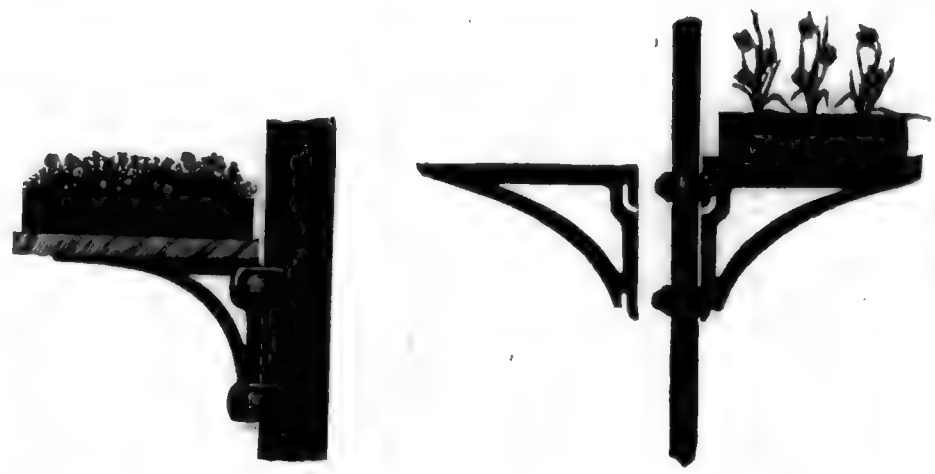
The Market.

We have had a few days of real winter weather, which has stimulated the trade to some extent. Stock in general has decreased in supply, but the quality has improved and conditions are somewhat better than they have been for some time. Roses are even better than heretofore and the quantity, while smaller than it has been, is sufficient to take care of all orders. Carnations are improving in quality and increasing in quantity, and are finding a ready market. Chrysanthemums are on the wane, although some fine ones are being disposed of every day. The long spell of extremely warm weather brought the mums in quickly; consequently they were soft and did not hold up as well as they should. On the whole, the mum crop has not been as satisfactory this year as it might have been.

Wisconsin-grown violets are scarce and are sold quickly each day. Some fine New York violets are being shipped in, but, as they do not keep so well, are selling only when the domestic stock is exhausted. Valley is still equal to the demand and is selling at $4 for first-class stock. Stevias are good this year and are moving readily at medium prices. Beauties are in good supply, and are longer-stemmed than usual. This stock always finds a market, although the prices are not what they should be.



Various Notes.

Philip Foley, of the Foley Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., Chicago, was in this city November 17. His firm has just completed what he considers one of the finest private greenhouses in Milwaukee. It is the property of Ferdinand Schlesinger, 477 Lafayette place, and is a welcome addition to the beauty of our city.

J. J. Karins, representing Henry A. Dreer, Inc., of Philadelphia, visited the trade here last week.

F. Choles, of Madison, Wis. was in this city November 18 and 19. He drove back to Madison in his car, and, as it was one of our first really cold days, nobody envied him his trip.

How to Keep Out of the Christmas Crowd

DOWN HERE in "little old New York," for weeks before Christmas the stores, in their advertising, ask their customers to "shop early and avoid the crowds."

So this early, if you will order an ample supply of these Adjustable Clamp, Plant Shelf Brackets, you will be all ready to overcome the before-Christmas crowding of your benches.

Don't fail to note that the same clamp for the column brackets will carry either one or two brackets.

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held November 11, with President Henry Gaut in the chair. Mrs. G. F. Baker was elected an honorary member and M. J. Cartrite an active member.

Judges for the monthly exhibits were: G. Ashworth, J. Adler and J. Macdonald. First prize for three white mums went to J. W. Everitt, as did that for three yellow. First prize for three pink was awarded to F. Honeyman. The thanks of the society were given J. W. Everitt for a bloom of Mrs. Gilbert Drabble and to A. Fournier for a vase of the new French varieties.

President Gaut's prizes for table decorations, open to assistant gardeners only, went in order to Robert Jones, assistant on the Percy Chubb estate; Chas. Parr, assistant on the John T. Pratt estate, and Arthur Cook, assistant on the H. L. Pratt estate. The tables were judged by S. Trepess, W. Robertson and A. McGregor.

Henry Gaut was awarded a certificate of merit for each of four vases of seedling chrysanthemums, and F. Honeyman a certificate of culture for a vase of Radiance roses. Prizes won at the fall show were presented. Mrs. W. D. Guthrie's offer of a silver cup to be offered as a prize for chrysanthemums at the next fall show was accepted. The John Scheepers prize for Darwin tulips next spring was divided into prizes of $12, $8 and $5 for the best collection of Darwin tulips, including six flowers each of not more than eighteen varieties; and prizes of $3 and $2 in each of five classes, each calling for a vase of distinct color, of twelve flowers. The secretary was instructed to write a letter of sympathy from the society to J. Austin Shaw, of New York city, on the recent death of his daughter. After the meeting a smoker was held.

Exhibits for the next meeting are to be a vase of twenty-five mixed carnations, one head of cauliflower and twenty-five Brussels sprouts. The meeting will be held at 2:30 p. m., and the election of officers will take place.

The Turning Part of The Skinner System Turning Union

THERE are at least four ways of turning a nozzle equipped irrigation pipe, to shift the distribution of the water as desired.

1. A Stillson wrench.
2. Clamp a piece of iron around it for a handle.
3. Bolt a piece on the turning union's side.
4. Do it as the Skinner System has always done, by simply using the tee fitting idea, in the line, and screwing a piece of pipe into the side opening, for a turning handle.

Surely, the last is the simplest, most practical way conceivable. We took the simple tee fitting of long proven merit as a basis, and then developed it into the present, highly efficient Turning Union, with its conical strainer, close fitting screw cap, closely seated brass nipple, and easily detachable parts.

It is easy to erect; easy to operate; easy to clean. Three very essential "easies."

The Union is a very vital part of an irrigation system. That's why we have recently taken so much time and space to tell you about it, and we have told you the story of how it grew from a simple idea and from a crude beginning, up to its present perfected form. In pioneering this development, as in all our other early work, we have secured patents to protect us against unfair imitators. The simple, practical construction which has made the Skinner System Union so successful can be secured only from this Company.

Special Offer

To prove to yourself beyond all doubt, that our System is the System to buy, and that it will do exactly what we say it will—order one of our Complete Portable Lines, and try it out. It consists of a 50-foot line of pipe, fully equipped with nozzles, turning union, roller bearing supports, and our new quick detachable coupling, on which patents are now pending. We will ship it to you for $11.75 f. o. b. Troy, Ohio.

If you send money with the order, we will do one of two things—either prepay the freight east of the Mississippi River, or send you two sets of nozzles, one for greenhouse and one for out of door use. State which you want us to do. If you haven't our Irrigation Bulletins, send for them.

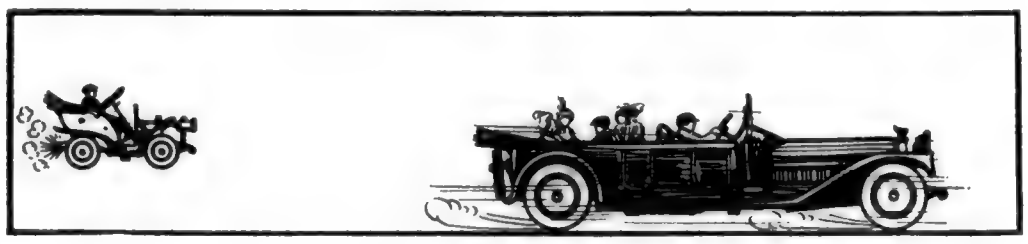
The "One-Lunger" Against a Six Cylinder

An Automobile Comparison with a Greenhouse Moral

SUPPOSE it were possible to pick out the six best separate concerns in the country, each making the best of each kind of greenhouse material; and then move their factories and entire working force and managers to either of our factory grounds, at Irvington, N. Y., or Des Plaines, Ill.



Suppose it were possible to bring such together under our well organized watchful management; a cypress mill; an iron foundry; a heating, fitting and boiler foundry; a ventilating factory; a paint and putty mill; and, lastly, a group of greenhouse construction and heating engineers and mechanical draughtsmen, the best the country afforded.

Suppose it were possible to do such a stupendous thing; wouldn't you at once recognize the tremendous advantages must be to do business with such a wonderful concern, who manufacture for themselves everything that goes into a greenhouse, excepting only the glass?

OF COURSE YOU WOULD!

You would at once see the money saving advantage of being able to buy all your material from the one highly responsible concern. You would also be keen to take advantage of putting the entire responsibility up to them for the entire house, instead of dividing it among six different scattered concerns all over the country.

All of which would be highly endorsing Lord & Burnham, for that's exactly what this concern is—a combination of six factories, mills and foundries and an engineering concern, all in the one factory under the one skillful management. Each one of these six separate "departments," as we call them, has its own separate manager or head. Any one of these departments is larger than any one single concern in the country. Each of the six departments works with and for every other department in producing the entire materials for your house.

It's just like a fine, big well oiled six cylinder automobile working smoothly, riding easily, and getting you there safely and surely in the shortest time and by the smoothest roads.

Wouldn't you rather ride in this six cylinder car of ours than in a "one lunger"?

My ferns are nice, shapely plants, with strong fronds, and are giving great satisfaction. As they lift with a ball of soil, they are ready for sale very soon after potting. Try a sample order, I am sure they will please you. 5% discount cash with order, otherwise references.

In today's mail (Oct. 16) a Rochester, N. Y., party writes in placing an order for 50 ferns: "One thing I like about your ferns is that you leave on the runners, which makes the plants look better when potted up." In the same mail a florist in Saugerties, N. Y., writes: "The ferns I bought of you last year were perfectly satisfactory. Hope you will be able to do as well this year."

PANSIES.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for 40 years, and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers to date. Some of many reports: "Your pansy plants last year were the best we ever had and blooms were very satisfactory in size and color."—L. Muller, New Orleans, La. "I inclose $10.00 for pansy plants. This is the 6th year I have used your plants and each year have found them satisfactory in size of flowers, colors and other respects."—M. J. McCabe, Washington, D. C. An immense stock of fine field-grown plants from seed sown in August in sandy soil, thinly, broadcast, so that the plants grow short and stocky, with extra good roots. Over 75 varieties, mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, 1000, $3.00; 500, $1.75; 5000, $14.00; 10,000, $27.00. Delivery by express in good condition guaranteed. Cash.
L. W. Goodell, Pansy Park, Dwight, Mass.

Schenectady, N. Y.—Julius Eger held his sixth annual chrysanthemum show November 20 to 22, at his store at 735 State street. The blooms were from the Sunnyside greenhouses, of which E. V. B. Felthousen is the proprietor.

Rochester, Pa.—H. L. Thompson has bought the store of H. C. Frew and added a number of improvements. Mr. Thompson was employed by B. F. Engle for the last four years and was formerly with the Livingston Seed Co., of Columbus, O. He reports business starting off quite well.

Scranton, Pa.—At the meeting of the Scranton Florists' Club held November 12 at the home of John Wade, at Carbondale, the following officers were elected: President, Leah McClintock; vice-president, Miss Anna Griffiths; secretary, T. B. McClintock; treasurer, Miss Gertrude Schultheis. William McDonald, of Moosic, gave an excellent talk on chrysanthemums.

Highest Award for our Bolted Pipe Frame

You know what this means. The S. A. F. & O. H. does not award certificates like this unless the article has merit. It proves that our Bolted Pipe Frame is new and that it is good.

It is now time you thought about that new house, and be sure you get the Bolted Pipe Frame. You can't afford to spend good money for the old style cast iron "clamp-on, slip-off" split fittings. Our Bolted Pipe Frame is made of steel and bolted right through the pipe.

It's a structural job and not a clamped-on and thrown-together building. You can't believe anybody until you get our details and see it for yourself. Once you take the time to investigate this wonderful new type, you won't have the other stuff at any price.

It costs no more than the old style. It's all galvanized. It's perfectly rigid. It's the strongest house you can build. It's the only safe pipe frame made. Stop taking chances—Safety First, with the Bolted Pipe Frame.

We Are Ready for Your Christmas Order

WRITE US ABOUT IT

¶ This is a sample of the kind of letters we get. Hardly a day but what we get similar ones, but this one shows what kind of stock we sent out for Thanksgiving:

SHREVEPORT, LA., Nov. 25.

South Park Floral Co., New Castle, Ind.

Gentlemen: Enclosed find my check to cover your invoice of Nov. 23. Shipment arrived here Nov. 25 in fine shape. Please enter my regular order for $ . . . . worth of roses to arrive here every Friday. It takes a little longer to get roses from you, but I would rather have your stock by far. I believe you have a "good stunt" in going after business the way you do in The Review. I am,

Very respectfully,

. . . . . .

PRICE LIST

Sunburst, Wards, White Killarney, Pink Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Richmond	4, 5, 6 cents
Hadley, Ophelia, Shawyer, Prince d'Arenberg	5, 6, 8 cents
American Beauty, 10 to 15-inch	8 cents

Another letter just received says: "Ever since I commenced with your roses some months ago, there is scarcely any loss. We can sell them all, and our customers express themselves as being particularly well pleased with our roses."

BETTER LINE UP NOW FOR CHRISTMAS—WRITE US ABOUT IT TODAY

A NEW ROSE

It comes from France. The name is Geo. Elgar—a little bit of a rose, dainty and sweet. Bright yellow, with buds similar in size to Cecile Brunner (Sweetheart).

For corsage work, for little baskets, etc., it is the greatest novelty of recent years.

Grows freely, produces an abundance of flowers all winter, free from mildew or disease of any kind.

Delivery of stock will commence in January at the following prices:

	Own Root	Grafted
100	$ 20.00	$ 30.00
500	95.00	140.00
1000	180.00	250.00
2500	400.00	550.00
5000	750.00	1000.00

Let us figure on your Grafted Roses for the coming season

You cannot afford to grow own-root ones, and you will need the novelty kinds.

Our first shipment of real English Manetti has arrived. With this early delivery we will be prepared to deliver commencing in March, so that you can build up fine big plants before planting time.

We have the following kinds: Ophelia, Prince d'Arenberg, Shawyer, Killarney Brilliant, Pink and White Killarney, Sunburst, Ward, Taft, Kaiserin, Scott Key, Richmond, Hadley, Cecile Brunner.

Just tell us—NOW—your probable wants and let us figure with you.
